The church warden's report showed a number of repairs and improvements made to the church property. The church and parish hall were reshingled and all the exterior woodwork repainted. A cement sidewalk was laid down between the church and the rectory. A handsome iron and wire fence was also erected btween the church and rectory.

Of two old driving sheds, one was taken down, and the other repaired and painted. The grounds at the rear of the church were cleared up and put in order, much of the latter being done by voluntary labour on the part of some of the men of the parish.

Reports.

The financial report showed an amount of $357.89 still owing on the repairs and improvements. It is quite likely that this amount will be cleared up by Easter.

The Mission account was not fully met, but by resolution of the vestry, a cheque is to be sent to the Synod office immediately to cover the amount of the shortage.

The Womans Guild presented a very satisfactory report. They handed over to the Wardens a sum of $700.00, and had the Rectory repapered and painted to the extent of $96.69. The secretary's report showed a year of many activities.

The Woman's Auxiliary reported a successful year, closing with a balance. The need of more interest in the missionary work of the church was emphasised, and a plea for more active members in the Auxiliary was stressed.

The Junior Auxiliary reported steady progress.

The A.Y.P.A. reported a membership of 70 paid-up members. This society has enjoyed one of the most prosperous years in its history, and the outlook for the future is very bright. There is a considerable balance to their credit in the treasury.

Other reports were from the Chancel Guild, choir, Poor Fund, by the Rector, and Synod by Mr. R. B. Rogers.

Appointments.

Mr. E. A. Peck was elected to the Board of the Nicholls Hospital.

Mrs. R. H. Parsons was appointed to serve on the Board of the Protestant Home: and Mr. Frank Adams on the Charity Board.

Mr. T. H. Adams was nominated by the Rector as one of the Wardens. The other Warden will be elected at the adjourned vestry meeting, to be held on Sunday, 3rd February, after the eleven o'clock service.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

IS THIS A WISE POLICY IN GOOD YEARS

INCOME $6,000

LIVING EXPENSES $6,000

SURPLUS ?

In times of plenty reserve some money to work for you during lean years, and it will not be necessary to lower your standard of living to fit a reduced income.

There is really no such thing as a regular income. Salaries go up or down, profits vary from season to season and professional men as well as farmers have good and bad years.

When increase of income comes, it is very easy to get careless in spending. A bit of luxury here, a little carelessness there, and soon the increase has melted away with nothing left to show a trace.

A better plan is to decide ahead on a certain portion of increases that is to be set aside for investment. If last year's income was $4,000 and this year's proves to be $6,000, take $1,500 of the increase for investment and use the other $500 for spending. That $1,500 wisely put to work will make a permanent increase in your income and boost your capital as well. Then, when a lean year comes, the income from investments will supplement the reduction in salary or profits, and the same standard of living can be maintained.

VEGETABLE CHOWDERS

Hot chowders are particularly good for winter luncheons. Vegetables are quite as satisfactory as fish for these dishes.

Many children who will not drink milk will like it if served hot in a vegetable chowders.

Potato Chowder

Four cups milk, 3 cups diced potatoes, 1 cup diced carrots, 2 slices onion, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon celery salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons minced parsley.

Put potatoes and carrots in kettle and pour over boiling water to barely cover. Cook five minutes. Add milk and cook, just below the boiling point for 20 minutes. Melt butter in a small pan with the slices of onion. Let stand over hot water for five minutes. Remove onion and stir in flour. Cook three minutes, stirring constantly, to cook the flour. Stir into milk and vegetable mixture, season with salt, pepper and parsley and let stand without boiling for three minutes longer.

Serve with toasted bread sticks.

Corn Chowder

One can of corn, 2 tablespoons diced salt pork, 1 small onion, 2 cups diced potatoes, 1 cup boiling water, 2 cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 6 large crackers.

Try out fat from salt pork and add onion cut in slices. Cook slowly for five minutes without leeting the fat brown. Strain fat into soup kettle. Parboil potatoes for five minutes and drain. Add to fat in kettle, pour over boiling water and cook 20 minutes. Add corn and milk, season with salt and pepper and gring to the boiling point. Add butter. Split crackers and soak in cold milk for five minutes. Remove from milk and put in soup tureen. Pour hot chowder over them and serve at once.

Mixed Vegetable Chowder

Two cups diced potatoes, 1 cup diced carrots, ½ cup diced turnips, ½ cup diced celery, 1 sweet green pepper, 1 onion, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 cups boiling water, 4 cups milk, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Remove seeds and white fiber from pepper and mince. Mince onion. Put all the vegetables in soup kettle, pour over boiling water, cover and simmer 20 minutes. Add milk and salt and bring to the boiling point. Melt butter, stir in flour and cook five minutes. Stir into milk and vegetable mixture and cook three minutes longer. Season with pepper and serve with large crackers prepared as in the preceding recipe or with croutons.

This Little World

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Experience is a sad eye-opener. You begin to wonder whether government ownership is an improvement on private monopoly. For instance, in England the telephone service is mainly governmental. And here is a sample of how it works:

Me—"Victoria 2786, please."

Four minutes elapse. Then:

Telephone girl—"The number has been discontinued."

I get information.

Me—"I wanted to talk to Lord Robert Cecil. His number is listed in the book as Victoria 2786, but exchange says this number has been discontinued. He has a new number?"

Information girl—"I will see."

Information girl—"What is Lord Cecil's address."

Me—"I, Princess Row, southwest."

Five minntes. Then:

Me, somewhat heatedly—"I told you seventeen minutes ago that this number was listed, but was discontinued. I wanted to learn whether he had been given a new number."

Information girl, sorrowfully—"That is the only number I know."

A newspaper in Rouen, France, the other day printed the following announcement:

"M. and Madame Gustave X, fraticides and insecticides, have the honor to announce the birth of a son."

In the past few weeks before Christmas doubtless many of your Christmas magazines have had beautiful pictures showing quaint groups of English men and boys singing the "Christmas waits."

Well, all that is pretty nearly a thing of the past, too. Here in London there wasn't any snow. And the persons who sang the waits weren't picturesque at all—simply grimy, sordid beggars.

And the manner in which they "sang" murdered the old tunes and made you want to flee to the cyclone cellar.

RADIO IS STILL SUBORDINATE TO LONG DISTANCES

By ISRAEL KLEIN.

Proof that long distance communication by means of radio is not yet considered seriously by important telephone authorities is presented by the laying of cables for long distance line communication in Europe.

An era of long distance communication is just beginning on that continent, reports C. H. Minor, commercial representative of a large electrical manufacturer, who has just arrived in this country. But this communication, Minor says, will be by wire. Radio isn't even considered.

"Engineers of the Governments of Europe are beginning to hold meetings to consider ways and means of establishing long distance lines," declares Minor. "Much progress has eben made in the last year. Efficient and easily available channels of spoken communication are to be realized."

Which shows that radio still is considered no factor so far as long distance communication is concerned.

Yet, only recently, David Sarnoff directed a long distance conversation between San Francisco and the Iwaki radio station in Japan. In doing so, he talked with the San Francisco operator from a radio station at Columbia, Mo., making the entire talk, with only one relay, over a distance of 7,000 miles.

Delivery of the question and answer by this method, covering a total of 14,000 miles, took only one minute and forty-five seconds. By direct communication, it would be a flash of a second.

Thus, while tests are being made with long distance radio communication, it is line conversation that is still being developed. Assured privacy of this kind is what makes this method still supreme.

When radio is assured of privacy, then will line communication lose its prestige.

Loud Speakers.

"A loud speaker with a magnetic balance and a horn about two feet long is capable of very good reproduction of even very low frequencies," reports a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. "Aluminum or micarta diaphragms," he goes on, "apparently give the best results, while a wood horn or a horn made of some 'dead' material like hard rubber is least likely to introduce a strange quality."

Wired Wireless.

Fans interested in wired wireless may be able to obtain a recent publication on this subject prepared under the direction of the chief signal officer and the Bureau of Standards. It is called "Introduction to Line Radio Communication," and can be gotten for 10 cents from the superintendent of documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

A microphone so sensitive that it can transmit the faintest sounds to the human ear is the invention of Dr. Phillips Thomas, research engineer of a large electrical concern. Dr. Thomas is shown here listening to the heartbeats of a moth through the new microphone.

TWINE TRAILS DEATH PATH.

Man Walks to Undertaker's and Dies, Leaving String Clue.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.— A premonition of death came to Donato Casapulo as he sat in his grocery in Brooklyn last night, and he feared that if he ventured into the windswept street to walk to the undertaker shop of Joseph de Uidicibus, two blocks away, the presence might overtake him. So he attached one end of a ball of twine to the doorknob of his shop and started for the funeral parlor.

He arrievd, leaving the trail of twine, staggered into a chair and died. His body was identified by the trail of twine.

CANADIAN AND BRITISH HOCKEY TEAMS VICTORS

Maple Leafs Smothered Swedes By 22 to 0 and England Defeated France 15 to 2 — Swedish Goaler Knocked Unconscious.

CHAMONIX, France, Jan. 29. — The hockey teams of Great Britain and Canada triumphed over the representatives of France and Sweden in the Olympic games to-day.

The Canadians added to their brilliant reputation by fairly smothering the Swedes, considered the strongest European team, winning by a score of 22 to 0. The English team defeated the Frenchmen, 15 to 2.

The women's fancy skating contest went to Mme. H. Szabo-Plank of Austria, with Miss Beatrix Loughran of New York, second. Mrs. Theresa Weld Blanchard of Boston, took fouruth honors, and Miss C. Eustice Smith of Canada, sixth.

Canada's victory over Sweden has made the Canadians big favourites for the Olympic hockey championship. The Swedes never had a chance in the face of the skill and speed, the like of which is said never to have been seen before in the old world.

Manager P. D. Mulqueen of the Canadians, said that his team in their present form equalled any sextette that ever took the ice either in Canada or the United States, in the history of the game.

Finland, 67½ points; Norway 49 1-2; United States 19; Austria, 10; Switzerland, 10; France, 7; Great Britain, 4; Czecho-Slovakia, 3; Sweden, 1; Canada, 1.

This gives a total of 172 points, 5th and 6th place points having been cancelled in the military ski-ing competition.

Swedes on the Defensive.

The Canadians opened with a bewildering attack against the Swedish goal and before the first period ended had found the net five times, and had driven the entire Swedish team to the mouth of its goal. During the remainder of the game, the Canadians kept the Swedes on the defensive.

The second period netted the Canucks seven goals and the final period saw another ten in the Swedish net.

Not once during the whole game was the Canadian goal threatened, and the defence players from the Dominion kept active only through frequent sallies toward the Swedish goal.

The Swedes were all fast skaters and the spectators agreed that despite the one-sided score they furnished the stiffest opposition shown by any European team since the hockey games began.

Several substitutes were placed in the Canadian lineup during the game to-day and players from Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg figured in the soring.

The victory to-day was the second decisive one to be gained by the Canadians since the opening of the hockey programme of the Olympic Winter Sports.

Swept Off their Feet.

The Canadian players swept the Swedes off their feet at the outset of to-day's game. Harry E. Watson, Toronto, scored the first goal, and before the first period had ended four other tallies had been chalked up to the credit of the Canadians. Reg. (Hooley) Smith, Toronto, netted the second goal, and A. J. McCaffery, Toronto, the third. The fourth and fifth goals in the first period were off the sticks of Watson and Harold McMunn of Winnipeg. The latter substituted for Smith at centre after twelve minutes of play.

Sweden throughout the first period played only two men on the forward line, bringing one wing player back on the defence. This kept four men continualy in front of their goal with the evident intent of keeping the score down the lowest possible. The Swedish players were constantly on the defensive during the first 20 minutes and the rushes attempted against the Canadian goal were easily smothered. The combination of Watson, Smith and McCaffery promptly got through the Scandinavian defence, Watson scoring after one minute of play. The Canadian defence was idle throughout the period excepting on offensive rushes toward the Swedish net.

In the second period the desperate effort of the Swedes to keep the score low failed again. The Canadians got going in real top form in this period and showed amazing speed. The Swedes, although fast skaters, appeared to be standing still bewildered, before the speed and tricky passing of the Canucks.

In this period, Ohlson, the Swedish goal keeper, stopped one of Munro's cannonball shots with the left side of his face. He was unconscious for three minutes, but after being revived pluckily resumed play.

Six goals were tallied by the players from the Dominion in this period. They scored in the following order: Munro Ramsay, McCaffery, Cyril Cyril (Sig) Slater, Montreal, Watson, Ramsay and McMunn.

Great Stick-Handling.

The playing of the Canadians which had been superb at the outset of the game improved right along and in the third period the spectators were treated to a dazzling exhibition of stick-handling, skating and combination play. The puck seldom got past mid-ice in Canadian territory.

The entire Swedish team backed up against the mouth of their own goal and made desperate efforts to stave off the attack of the Canadians. Through this jam the Canadians managed to squeeez the puck for ten more tallies. The Canadians who scored in this period were respectively. Watson, Watson, Ramsay Smith, Smith, Smith, Watson, Munro Munro, Ramsay.

Australian Tennis Veteran Comes Back.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. — Tennis followers to-day attached unusual significance to the victory of Norman E. Brookes, veteran racquet wizard, in the Australian doubles championship with James O. Anderson, star of Australia's Davis cup team for the past two years.

Brookes' triumph was seen as a convincing proof that he has made rapid strides in his comeback attempt and that he might once again be a potent factor in the Davis Cup, in which he was a dominating figure a decade and more ago.

Record Broken by Hamilton Runners

LAKEFIELD ITEMS OF SPORT EVENTS

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 30.—The Junior Hockey League will announce its schedule very shortly. A fourth team from the High School is preparing to enter and some fast playing is expected. The High School have not had a hockey team for a number of years and their return to hockey is welcome.

Ladies' Hockey.

The ladies' hockey team open their season on Thursday when they play Campbellford in Campbellford. The local team is particularly good this season.

A game, or probably several games, between the ladies' hockey team and the professional men's team is to be arranged for the near future. Two games were played last season and attracted large crowds. Rev. C. G. King, who was one of the wings for the men, is not in the village this year, but it is probable that Dr. Renwick will take his place.

OMEMEE, January 30. — The De Laval hockey team came up to Omemee on Friday evening with the expectation of a game with the locals, but the heavy snowfall soon put a damper on the game, as the puck became buried in the snow almost as soon as it reached the ice.

On Monday evening a junior team from Millbrook came up on the 6 p.m. train, which, unfortunately, was over an hour late. However, the locals won an easy victory over the visitors, the score being 13-2 in the hour played.

Yesterday's Schedule Finished at 2 O'clock This Morning on Watery Ice —Surface is Rough Today.

THE SECOND ROUND

Only strong armed men may hope to tally in the bonspiel which is continuing to-day with the contestants in the second round of the Morrow Cup competition and the Matthews-Blackwell Trophy. For the most part the wielders of the broom are content to stand back and leave the game to the men with the stones, as very little draw can be made on the soft ice.

The surface of both ices was good until late yesterday afternoon, when rough patches made themselves evident, and one or two of the ices this morning are in bad condition.

Only one team, however, has defaulted, the spirit prevailing that having come here for the 'spiel, the curlers are determined to curl. Eight-end games are being played to-day instead of the twelve ends of yesterday.

Champion Girl Athlete

By GEORGE BRITT.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—"The champion all-round girl athlete of the world," declares Tom Eck, famous track coach of the University of Chicago. And he is talking about a little, smiling, black-eyed high school girl who is not yet 16 years old.

She is Helen Filkey, daughter of a Chicago building contractor. Four world's records and three American records make up her imposing achievement to date. She was born March 18, 1908.

"She is the only person, girl or boy, who ever made a world's record or won an athletic championship at her age," says Eck, who is her trainer.

"This coming season, outdoor and indoor, ought to bring some great performances from her. She expects to break every record she now holds and to add a few more to her list."

Broke Two Records.

Helen's greatest single day was on Labor Day last fall at the A. A. U. national outdoor meet in Chicago, when she broke two records. She made 16 feet 6 3-8 inches in the broad jump, a world's record for girls, and made the 100-yard dash in 11.9 seconds, a new American record for girls.

Then, with only a 12-minute rest between events, she entered the 75-yard high hurdles and finished second in 11 3-5 seconds. In the running high jump she finished fourth, going 4 feet 8 inches.

"To show she was a better hurdler than the girl who defeated her," says Eck, "Helen ran a trial against time at another meet last fall. She went 75 yards over six hurdles in 10.6 seconds, breaking the record by one second.

Was Delicate Child.

"In an exhibition at Washington Park here she threw a two-pound discus 76 feet 3 inches and threw the girl's javelin 87 feet 9 inches, the latter being the best American throw, although it does not stand as a record. She also made 8 feet 11-2 inches in the standing broad jump without dumbbells.

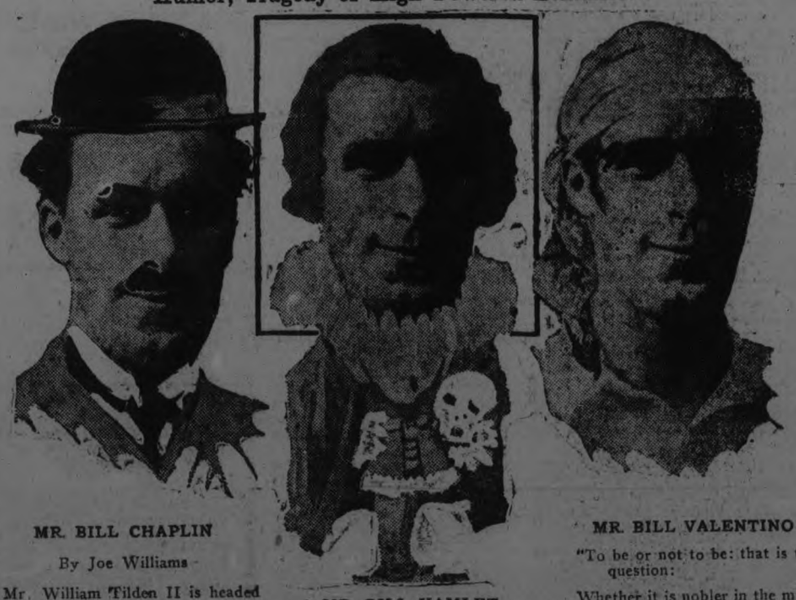
"At an earlier meet here, staged by the Illinois Athletic Club, she won the 50-yard dash, and in winning the 60-yard high hurdle race set a pace of 8 4-5 seconds, equalling the world's record. The same day she broke the world's 60yard low hurdle record in 8 2-5 seconds."

Helen Filkey was a delicate child until she was about 11 years old. Her mother took her to California for a year then, and she began her remarkable physical development by playing on the beach and taking athletic training. At 16 she looms up as the worll's greatest athlete.

HELEN FILKEY.

Mr. Tilden, Movie Actor

Will the National Tennis Champion, Soon to Inva de the Films, Go in For Humor, Tragedy or High-Powered Romance?



MR. BILL CHAPLIN

By Joe Williams

Mr. William Tilden II is headed for the movies. Whether the recent edict barring tennis players from writing pieces for the daily journals had anything to do with his decision is unknown.

All we know is that Bill, beg pardon, William Tilden II, is determined to star in the films. The tennis champion is not without experience or skill as an entertainer. Only recently he played with the famous Providence players in Booth Tarkington's "Clarence," portraying the name role.

MR. BILL HAMLET

A cloak of mystery has been thrown about Tilden's screen future.

Will he go in for humor of the light, delicate, exquisite type as practiced, say, by Mr. Charles Chaplin, of the junior-size mustache and the loose, free-hanging pantaloons?

Or will he lay siege to the romantic standing of Valentino, the mud-massage beauty?

Or will the loftier and more magnificent forms of tragedy prove to be the champions forte? A great Hamlet he would make—

MR. BILL VALENTINO

"To be or not to be: that is the question:

Whether it is nobler in the mind to suffer
The slings and arrows of an outraged fortune,
Or to take arms against a sea of troubles,
And by opposing end them? To die—

To die? Well, we dont wish to appear hard or unsympathetic, but if Mr. Tilden were to die or do something, it would at least break the monopoly which now exists in tennis, and then maybe Bill Johnston or one of the other boys might have a chance.

DEFEATED PRESTON.

STRATFORD, January 30 (Canadian Press). — Stratford Indians defeated Preston 6 to 1 in the Senior game played here last evening on soft ice. For speed, team play, and shooting, the Stratford team had the visitors decidedly outclassed.

Dutch Kelterborn, the Indians' left wing, got out of a sick bed to play, and in spite of the slushy ice, put up a brilliant exhibition.

CANADIANS ADD ONE MORE TO THEIR STRING

CHAMOIX, France Jan. 30.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Defeating Switzerland by 33 goals to 0 to-day Canada's Hockey representatives at Winter Sports of Olympic games brought their string of victories over European teams to three. Overseas Players have scored 85 goals, while their opponents have failed to find net on one occasion.

Having defeated all teams in this section although it is probable that British Sextette will give hem hard tussle for honor of playing Canadians.

ROUGH CONTEST AT SOO.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Jan .30.—(Canadian Press.)— The Soo Greyhounds defeated Iroquois Falls 7-4 last night on sofe ice in the roughest contest seen here this season. The Falls' defence carried high sticks all night, and the game got completely out of control in the final session. The Falls' team were no match for the Greyhounds, and resorted to dirty hockey. The Soo retaliated and the game became so rough that Referee Farlow lost complete track of the game.

LaFrance butt-ended Donnelly in front of the visitors' nets, and the latter threw down his stick and went into LaFrance with both fists, all players joining in the melee. Phillips knocked Dunfield down and the police separated the players.

There were thirteen penalties handed out, nine of which were to Iroquois Falls. Johnny Woodruff, right wing for the Soo, had an artery cut in his leg, and Cook had his nose badly smashed and his lip split.

WHITBY WENT TO PIECES

WHITBY, Ont. Jan. 30.—(Canadian Press)—After having best of play for 50 minutes, and leading by one goal in game here last night, Whitby intermediates went all to pieces and allowed Port Hope Ontarios to score three goals in five minutes, and then add another four minutes later, winning 4-1. For three quarters of the game it looked as if the Port Hope team, who are leading race in group 3, would be shoved off their perch, but their last minute rally allowed them to retain their position. Ice was choppy and prevented any real hockey.

GONE.

The hardest-hit industry is American ship-building. Our shipyards last year turned out 96 per cent less tonnage than in 1910 and 1920.

The national center of interest is in the interior of the country, away from the seaboard. That's why the headliner is "The Covered Wagon" instead of an ocean romance. Popular amusements mirror national tendencies and explain many things otherwise baffling.

HEADS GROUP

TORONTO, January 30 (Canadian Press). — Aura Lee again ascended to the top of Group No. 1 of the Senior O.H.A., by virtue of a 3 to 1 victory over Parkdale Canoe Club at the Arena last night.

The second period rally gave the Avenue Road team the verdict, as Parkdale had just as much say in the argument in the first and last sessions as the Red Shirts did.

The Canoeists made Bill Marsden's squad ght every minute of the game, and had it not been for a little overanxiety on the part of the paddlers, the result might have been different.

CHASED THE JINX.

KITCHENER, January 30 (Canadian Press). — The University of Toronto finally chased the jinx of being unable to win on Kitchener ice, which has existed since these teams have played hockey together, when the students won the Senior O.H.A. fixture here last night at the Auditorium in a decisive fashion, 5 to 1.

It was the first time that Varsity ever won a hockey game, junior or senior, on the Kitchener ice, but the visitors well deserved their victory, for they played splendid hockey under adverse conditions, while the Kitchener team turned in its worst effort of the year.

CANADIANS LOOK LIKE REAL GOODS

Defeated Switzerland This Morning in Easy Fashion

CHAMONIX, France, Jan. 30.—(United Press).—Canada's spectacular hockey team, which has been the sensation of the Olympic matches, continued its sweep over all opposition here this morning by defeating Switzerland 33 to 0.

England defeated Belgium 20 to 3 in another of the morning contests.

The Canadian team is considered by the most of the critics here as being sure of the championship. Nothing has ever been seen in Europe to compare with the dazzling speed and the brilliant execution of the Canadians.

Canada scored eight goals in first period, eleven in second and fourteen in third. Canadian wings, Watson and McCaffery were most prolific scorers, but every member of team with exception of Goalkeeper Cameron, dented Swiss net. Cameron, almost frozen from enforced idleness, took occasional trips down ice to get blood in circulation.

Savoie, Swiss goal keeper, was peppered with bullet like shots throughout game and on coming off ice stated that he would as soon face machine gun as hot shot from Watson or McCaffery.

CHAMONIX, Jan. 30. — Thorlief Haug, Norwegian ski-ing star, won the ski marathon race in the Olympic winter sports to-day.

PARKDALE TEAM HAS SOME STARS

Campbell, Jeffrey and Applegate with Senior Team.

The Parkdale Canoe Club team, which will play here on Friday night includes a number of well-known hockey players, and the Petes will have to show more than they did against St Mary's to earn the verdict.

Applegath, Scotty Campbell, Jeffrey, and Lount are all top notchers, and the Paddlers may be expected to work their heads off for a win, as they have not had much luck so far in the senior race this season.

The Petes will likely be called upon to play a second round O.H.A. game next week, and Friday's game will be of much assistance in putting the final edge on for the big test.

JUNIOR HOCKEY GAME IS OFF

The soft weather is responsible for the calling off of to-night's junior game between Lindsay and Peterborough scheduled for Brock Street Rink and the fixture has been postponed until next Tuesday.

The ice would not have been in too bad shape had it not been for the impossibility of filling in the "hacks" left by the curlers, who have been using the rink during the bonspiel.

SNOWSHOEING CLUB VISITED LAKEFIELD

The Snowshoeing and Ski-ing Club, the new sporting and social club formed this winter, has proven a very popular organization. Last night, one of the jolliest parties of the year was formed, with four sleighs, a large cab and a cutter pressed into service to accommodate the sixty-five young people who drove to Lakefield and danced for about an hour and a half in the big rotunda at the Lakefield House, where refreshments were served and the drive home commenced about one o'clock. The journey and return were made rather exciting by two or three spills that occurred on the way when the loads were deposited temporarily in the soft drifts, and the popular secretary-treasurer was dumped out bodily fom the cutter in which he made the trip.

President Kenneally and his staff make admirable hosts. The party was a success from start to finish, and everyone present seemed to thoroughly enjoy the outing and dance. Excellent music was provided by volunteer talent from Alex. Fortye, George Logan and Miss Dorothy Garden. Frank White was a busy Master of Ceremonies.

CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE.

City Hockey League enthusiasts are reminded of the organization meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday night at eight o'clock. Junior and Juvenile clubs will be welcomed.

THE MORROW TROPHY.

Playing in the Morrow Trophy competition continued to-day through the second round and this afternoon the third round was in progress.

The second round results were:

Morrow Trophy.

L. V. O'Connor, Lindsay	8
George Miller, Lakefield	5
T. E. Finlay, Norwood	5
R. Hicks, Peterborough	15
F. J. Smith, Campbellford	11
J. J. Moore, Keene	13
J. E. Anderson, Lindsay	Won
E. L. Bowes, Peterborough,	Default

A. E. Bottum, Bobcaygeon	6
P. J. Kelly, Campbellford	Default
F. Nugent, Lindsay	Won
D. Davidson, Peterborough	4
J. W. McDermid, Peterborough	8

This gives the visitors the right to compete for the Waddell trophy, and the first round took the ice immediately on conclusion of the qualification round.

In the Morrow cup series the schedule had reached the semi-finals at three o'clock, and in the Matthews-Blackwell trophy the semi-finals were also set down for to-day. The Bonspiel committee expects the finals in both competitions to be played to-night.

The Bonspiel committee was highly pleased with the progress in spite of the difficulties of arranging the draws so that the curlers would have equal turns at Charlotte street and Brock street rinks. The heavy ice also help up the play.

J. H. Renwick smilingly answers all questions, even when the skip, vice-skip, Second and lead appear at a few minutes interval to request the same information. His wisdom in pushing along the schedule last night and urging on to just one more effort the curlers who thought they had played enough, was proven by the condition of the ice this afternoon. It was still playable, but not so good as last night.

Instead of causing grouching, as the poor ice might reasonably have been expected to do, it seemed to have the opposite effect. With one or two exceptions, the rinks stood up like little men against the handicap, and smiled when their rocks stopped short or made little ripples through the occasional ponds.

NO ACTION TAKEN IN POLICE CASE

Many Minor Complaints Were Received by the Legal Committee.

Notice of action served some time ago on the City Council on behalf of the policemen to recover salaries unpaid, was received by the Legal committee last night. No action was taken.

A similar fate befell notice of a writ against the city on behalf of Sophie Cohen of Toronto, arising out of a seizure of coal by the city.

A task of drafting a resolution for presentation to the Legislature to give municipalities an opportunity to consider the estimates and expenditures of Suburban Road Commissions ,was given to the City Solicitor. This action followed the suggestion of Alderman Crowe.

Property owners on Park street, between Murray street and the C. N.R. tracks complained of damage to their properties by reason of a sidewalk that had been constructed. This brought a murmur of disapproval from Alderman Crowe, who had fathered the sidewalk on its stages through council, believing he was doing a good service.

No action was taken regarding the complaint of Mrs. John Gibson, who tripped and fell on the sidewalk, sustaining injuries. The sidewalk was alleged to be defective on account of it being raised up about an inch above the rest.

It was moved by Alderman Maher and seconded by Alderman Fife that a committee consisting of the Mayor, Alderman Crowe, Alderman Myers and City Solicitor Wearing draft a resolution in connection with the Suburban Road Commission.

Moved by Mayor J. J. Turner and seconded by Alderman Fife that an invitation be sent to President Beatty of the C.P.R. to visit the city of Peterborough in June, July or August, and June if possible.

An Old Boys' Re-union was also discussed, but it was felt by the majority of the committee that this was not an appropriate time to hold this.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

Famous Players-Lasky is the newest comer into the field of producing pictures which have their initial runs in the regular theatres devoted to touring dramatic attractions.

The accomplishment which prompted this great concern to make the departure is Paramount picture, "The Covered Wagon," taken from the story of the winning of the west by Emerson Hough, which had a sensational success as a serial in the Saturday Evening Post, and is now in its fifth or sixth edition in book form.

The author lived to see his greatest dream realized when this story was transferred from type to the screen and became a moving reality. The success of this transformation is credited to Jesse L. Lasky, who took the initiative in its planning and to James Cruze, the director, who actually had full charge of the work.

The complete production just as it is being given in New York, Chicago, Boston and Los Angeles, where it has had phenomenal runs, is booked for an engagement at the Grand Opera House, starting Wednesday, February 6, when it will be given with every attention to detail which has marked its earlier success down to the selected orchestra of 12 musicians who play the marvellous score that Hugo Reisenfeld has devised as the emotional messenger of the production.

"The Covered Wagon" is a story of love and adventure which develops in the wagon trains led by Captain Wingate and Young Will Banion that converged at Westport Landing, now Kansas City, Mo., in 1848, and started out over the Oregon trail two thousand miles ahead to found a new country on our western coast. Interwoven into the love tale of Banion and pretty Mollie Wingate, the daughter of the hardy old pioneer, with its appealing sense of Americanism is the life of those brave plainsmen and their women who made history and founded a new empire.

The hardships, the fortitude with which each new obstacle was met, the great Indian fights, the fording of rivers and the dogged onward trend of the great covered wagon train makes drama unlike anything you have ever seen upon the stage or screen. It is an inspiration and an entertainment at one and the same time. The characters are real and you move onward and onward into the impenetrable distances with the thrills of danger ahead just as if you were part of it all.

A great cast peoples the story with real human beings and memorable presentments of the men and women of those rugged days are given by Lois Wilson, J. Warren Kerrigan, Earnesy Torrence, Tully Marshall, Ethel Wales, Charles Ogle, Alan Hale, Johnnie Fox, Indians and plainsmen, not to mention the great wagon train of five hundred "prairie schooners."

AT THE ROYAL.

ROYAL CROWDED AGAIN LAST NIGHT

"Wandering Daughters" plus an excellent vaudeville bill again crowded the Royal last night. Evidently everyone in town likes a real jazz band and DeLeach and Corbin's Syncopators are the best of their kind to appear locally.

A complete change of vaudeville and pictures will be offered Thursday.

VAUDEVILLE NOVELTY AT ROYAL THURSDAY

"The boys with a thousand songs," is one way to describe Lester, Cook, and Burns, a harmony singing trio at the Royal, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. They will sing any song suggested by the audience. "Children of Dust," by the director of Humoresque, is the feature photoplay.

"CHILDREN OF DUST" IS EPIC OF SCREEN.

Archer, the old man beats a boy severely for stealing a flower for his mother, and is imprisoned. Upon his release the boy "adopts" Archer.

Then follows the enthralling story of the boy's later life; of his love for a wealthy girl, of his rival and Archer's part in his romance. Borzage has interwoven all of the pathos and human interest of "Humoresque," his previous great success, into this intense drama in a manner intriguing to the most blase theatregoer.

Pauline Garon, Johnny Walker, Lloyd Hughes and Bert Woodruff head the superb cast of all stars especially selected for this screen epic.

SOCCER NOTES

At a special meeting of the P. and D. F. A., held on Monday evening, with President Cooke in the chair, a letter was read from the secretary, W. G. Nicholls, intimating his resignation, with the Executive having no other alternative but to accept it. G. L. Howarth was elected secretary pro tem until next meeting.

The Peterboro delegate, Mr. Alex. Dick, to Ontario Football Association, gave an excellent report of the meeting held in Hamilton last Saturday, when the O. F. A. decided to remain solid with the D. F. A. Also Fred. Sutcliffe gave an account of his duties with the O. F. A. as a Councillor member.

On the recommendation of the Peterboro delegate, it was unanimously agreed to notify the O.F.A. that it was not necessary for Peterboro to have a delegate when they already had a councillor and considered it a waste of money.

At the next meeting on February 11 a permanent secretary will be appointed in place of W. G. Nicholls, retired.

UNDERTAKERS' BILL REDUCED BY COURT

Executor Claims Five Hundred Dollars Was Too High for Funeral

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 30. (Special.)—An echo of the piece de resistance of many vaudeville stars, about the high cost of "dying," was heard in the Surrogate Court of the County of Elgin to-day, when Judge Rose delivered judgment in the case of Charles A. Towers, a local undertaker, against the estate of Christina McAlpine, who died in this city last October.

Mr. Towers filed a claim of $650 for services at the funeral of the deceased, the bill including a $500 casket. The executor of the estate, Thomas H. McColl, refused to pay the claim in full on the grounds that such a bill was not justified by law, his objection being that it was an extravagant amount and out of keeping with what might be regarded as fitting for a woman in the station of life of the deceased. The executor expressed a willingness to pay $300 for funeral services and no more; and His Honor to-day in his judgment sustained that decision, stating that he considered this should be sufficient to give the deceased a burial in keeping with her station in life. He dismissed the claim without costs.

The deceased left an estate of about $37,000, and after all special legacies and debts are paid, there will be an amount varying from $21-000 to $23,000 left for the residuary legatees, four infants.

The executor's claims were that he did not order the funeral articles enumerated in the bill or employ the undertaker, but that they were ordered by Joseph McAlpine, a nephew of the deceased, and with the concurrency and approval of Margaret McCallum, a niece of the deceased, who was acting as her nurse and housekeeper.

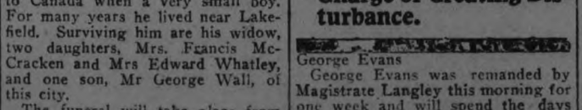
GEORGE EVANS ON A WEEK'S REMAND

Arrested Last Night on Charge of Creating Disturbance.



George Evans

George Evans was remanded by Magistrate Langley this morning for one week and will spend the days until next Wednesday on the hill.

Evans was arrested by a police constable in Devalls' livery barn on Water street between eleven and twelve o'clock last night on a charge of creating a disturbance. Evans refused at first to accompany the policeman or to go home, and declared he was looking for six months in jail, the police say.

Three vagrants also appeared this morning .They were James O'Brien, James Doyle and Arthur C .Rutherford, who were taken from a C.P. R. freight train by C.P.R. Constable John Evans. They accepted a week's board in the county jail rather than pay the $5 fine asked by the magistrtae.

Amy Weaver, of Campbellford, was found wandering on Reid street at 3 o'clock this morning, and was charged with vagrancy. She said she was looking for the home of friends and had been walking around since the arrival of the C.N.R. train at 8 o'clock. She was sent home to Campbelford on suspended sentence.

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Ma kets.

NEW YORK, January 30 (United Press). — United States Steel unexpectedly large net of $49,985,980 in the fourth quarter, the largest of any three months since the close of 1918, and the authorisation of a 50c extra dividend created the most buoyant stock market opening of recent months in the industrial list. Steel jumped practically 3 points on lumped transactions of 7,000 shares on which a price of 106 was fixed. Another 1,500 shares which turned over at 105 3-4 and the stock maintained tremendous activity at around this figure in the first few minutes.

Wild excitement reigned around the steel post, and it was six minutes before its opening was printed on the tape. American Can. advanced to a further record high at 120 1-4, and sharp rebounds took place in Davison Chemical, the Pan-Americans ,and other issues in which large short interests had been built up.

Steel monopolised the lion's share of the first hour transactions, making no further progress in upside, but maintaining a strong tone around 105 1-2.

The Independents followed, Bethlehem reaching a new righ ground for the year at 60, Republic 58 3-8, and Sloss Sheffield at 62 1-4.

Further consideration of the Steel Corporation's fourth quarter statement aroused gradually increasing enthusiasm. After payment of the dividends, including the 50c extra, Steel showed $17,139,000 surplus for

It is evident from this and the $13,041,000 charged off for depreciation and sinking funds that the directors would have been justified in declaring a much larger extra.

Steel for the fourth quarter pays $1.75 a share to the common holders and retains a surplus equal to $3.37 a share.

Another feature of the report is the charge off of $51,351,994 for depreciation and sinking funds for the entire year, equal to over $10.00 on the common. Depreciation and sinking fund charges last year exceeded the same item of 1922 by $8,760,000 and 1921 by $14,680,000.

United States Steel opened on the stock exchange at 106, sales 7,000 shares and at 105 3-4, 1,500 shares, representing an advance of 2 3-4 to 2 1-2 points in response to the extra dividend and good earnings.

LINDSAY MAN HAS NOT BEEN NOTIFIED

Instructions May Await His Return to Lindsay

Crown Attorney J. E. Anderson, of Lindsay, who is curling here with a Lindsay rink, knew nothing of the Attorney General's order for an inquest until informed by The Examiner. Instructions, he thinks, will await him on his return to Lindsay either to-night or to-morrow morning.

Not much can be gained by the inquiry, Mr. Anderson thinks, beyond ascertaining the cause of the delay in obtaining medical assistance. The only other comment he would make was "It is bosh."

KEPT CHECK ON UNION POLICE

Chief Says "Cockroach" Squad Organized to See Duties Carried Out.

MONTREAL, January 30.— The organization of a supplementary police squad, known in the ranks as the "cockroach squad" whose duty it was to patrol the city in automobiles to see that union police were on duty was a revelation made by Chief of Police Pierre Belanger during the court hearing here in the action of the police union to have city council ordinances unfavorable to them quashed.

This squad had to be brought into being the chief stated, to preserve discipline, as the men who were members of the union were often absent from duty and their superiors, who were also union men, would not report them. The union had adversely affected discipline, the chief thought.

The action is the outcome of police grievances, consequent upon the city's adoption of a negative stand against the union. The executive and council decided some months ago, following reports of arbitrators, not to recognize the union and took steps accordingly.

The secretary of the Union, Jos. Duguay, instituted civil proceedings against the city, in the form of an action to annual the administration's resolutions; to nullify orders given by the chief. He obtained a temporary injunction restraining the city from further executive orders against the union, and yesterday hearing of the combined actions was started.

Questioned by John A. Sullivan, K.C., acting for the union, the chief replied that the formation of the above squad had been found necessary and that the service had been improved by this means.

Tacks on Street

Someone, he would not say who, had apparently sought to make trouble for this squad, as tacks had been thrown in the street in front of the stations and the police cars had suffered thereby.

City Attorney G. St. Pierre, K.C. questioned Jos. Duguay at length wanting to know why he had been dismissed from the force. Witness stated that it was because he was a member of the union.

This was not right, the attorney said, and asked if the witness had not been dismissed because he had published and police matters without authorization.

Mr. Justice Coderre who is presiding at the hearing, sought to know from union officers what were their relations to the Trades and Labor Council. Asked by the court if the Council or Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, to which the union owed its charter, could order it out on strike, the witnesses stated that only after arbitraion, as required by he provincial law, and a three-quarters vote of the members themselves could such a strike be called.

Capt. Maranda, former member of the union, who has resigned from that body, testified that on the occasion of a local strike, he had to-send union police back to their stations because they would not do their duty.

The hearing was adjourned until Friday afternoon, at two o'clock, when examination of witnesses will be resumed.

SAYS DR. N. H. SUTTON ISSUED THE NOTICES

When J. F. Allin, with Dr. T. W. H. Young and Dr. N. H. Sutton, interviewed Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Provincial Officer of Health, yesterday in regard to the cutting of ice on the Otonabee river and the prohibition published over the signature of the Provincial Board of Health they were told plainly that they had appealed to the wrong place.

"The Provincial Board does not interfere in such cases," Dr. McCullough said.

Asked by Mr. Allin for an explanation, in view of this declaration, of the order published by the Provincial Board, Dr. McCullough said the notice as a mistake. Dr. Sutton, he said, issued the notice himself.

It was pointed out by the Provincial Health Officer that the act gives the Board of Health of the City the authority to examine the ice and issue a prohibition if necessary.

Asked regarding the matter this morning, Dr. Young said there may be some risk attached to using the ice, and it is not wise to use it for domestic purposes. The power of prohibiting the use of this ice is vested in the Board of Health, he said, indicating Dr. McCullough's statement, and no order has been issued by the local Board.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL SUBJECT OF A DEBATE

In St. Luke's Parish Hall last evening, a debate was waged between the A.Y.P.A. of St. George's Church and St. Luke's on the resolution: "That Government control of liquor would be better than the present system of prohibition." There was no decision, the judges being unable to decide on which side had the best arguments.

St. Luke's A.Y.P.A. had the affirmative side, taken by Gordon Maniece and Arthur Long. The negative was upheld by St. George's A.Y.P.A., represented by S. Fields and Miss Irene Howarth. Judges were Messrs. W. G. Howden and Mason and Miss E. Curtis. Stanley Curtis occupied the chair.

During the evening, a pleasant vocal selection was given by Miss Zoe Doyle, accompanied by Mrs. G. Wyatt.

Delayed Repentance.

A Wisconsin man, attending a revival, was pressed to repent. He wavered for a time, but finally arose and said:

"Friends, I want to repent and tell how bad I have been, but I dasn't do it when the grand jury is in session."

"The Lord will forgive," shouted the revivalist.

"Yes, but He ain't on that grand jury."

P. J. A. CARDIN OF SOREL REPLACES LAPOINTE IN MINISTRY OF MARINE

Change of Portfolios In Ottawa Cabinet Necessitates a By-Election In Richelieu County on the Appointment of Cardin—Both Ministers Have Been Sworn In.

NO OTHER CHANGES.

OTTAWA, Jan 31.—Two Cabinet changes were announced last night, namely: Hon. Ernest Lapointe Minister of Marine and Fisheries to become Minister of Justice.

P. J. A. Cardin, member for Richelieu, appointed Minister of Marine and Fisheries in succession to Mr. Lapointe.

The appointment of Mr. Lapointe fills the vacancy at the Department of Justice caused by the resignation of Sir Lomer Gouin. Since Sir Lomer resigned, Mr. Lapointe has been acting Minister of Justice and the likelihood of his taking over the portfolio has been indicated on a number of occasions. As Mr. Lapointe already holds a salaried position his new appointment will not entail a by-election.

Require By-election

Mr. Cardin, who now becomes Minister of Marine and Fisheries, is an accession to the Cabinet and his appointment will necessitate a by-election in Richelieu county. In the last general election Mr. Cardin carried Richelieu by a majority of 1,662 and in every contest from 1896 onwards the constituency has returned a Liberal member to the federal House.

Both Mr. Lapointe and Mr. Cardin were sworn in before the Governor-General at Rideau Hall.

The present appointments, it is understood, conclude present plans for Cabinet readjustment. There have been rumors from time to time of the likelihood that a maritime man would be appointed to the Department of Marine with a shuffling round of other portfolios. But this idea apparently has not been adopted

Sorel Solicitor

Hon. Mr. Cardin has represented Richelieu county in parliament since 1911. He was born in 1879 in Sorel Que., where he now resides. He studied law at Laval University and was admitted to the bar in 1908. He has been counsel for the city of Sorel for ten years as well as counsel for all the municipal councils in Richlieu county. He has been a member of the council of the bar of Montreal as representative of lawyers practicing outside that city. He has argued many cases in the Supreme Court of Canada, the Quebec Appeal Court, the Railway Commission and the Public Utilities Commission.

Election March 12

The federal by-election in Richelieu county, Quebec, made necessary by the appointment of the present member, Hon. P. J. A. Cardin to a cabinet post will take place on March 12, next. Nominations will close on February 27.

Mr. Cardin, who was today sworn in as Minister of Marine and Fisheries, has represented the constituency since 1911.

Not Considering Washington Post

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 31.—(By Canadian Press)—The Canadian Government is not at present considering the appointment of a Minister to Washington.

This was indicated in a statement made by Premier King last night, in reference to newspaper reports connecting the name of Sir Arthur Curris, president of McGill University, with the proposed post.

"During the present year," said the Premier, "the question of appointment of a representative to Washington has not been considered. The reports evidently refer to rumors that were current some time ago."

LIBERAL PARTY HELD A CAUCUS

Approved Principle of Gasoline Tax But Fears For Farmers--No Wine in Taverns.

QUEBEC Jan. 31. — (Canadian Press).—The results of the caucus of the Liberal party held until the early hours of this morning appear definitely to be that the government was endorsed in its decision not to permit the sale of wines in taverns, nor the sale of wines by licensed grocers. It will be for the government to decide whether the big hotels should be permitted to serve guests in their own rooms with wine and beer. The caucus favored the idea.

The caucus approved the principal of a gasoline tax, leaving it to the government to decide whether it should be one or two cents a gallon.

Rural members were anxious that the farmers should not be the sufferers. They are now exempt on their motor vehicles used for farming, but if the motor vehicle tax, as now exists, gradually disappears and gasoline tax is substituted for the whole amount the farmers would be hit. The Government reassured the caucus on this point.

RACIAL HATRED DOES NOT EXIST

Speaker Calls For More Unity or Canada Will Be Scrapped.

ST. JOHN'S N.B. Jan. 31—(Canadian Press).—"Canada will be scrapped if she fails in what she has to do as intermediary force between British Empire and United States" declared Rev. Dr. Robert Norwood, of Philadelphia, noted writer and lecturer, before Canadian Club here last night.

It was now high time he said for people to realize that old racial division no longer exists. here were but few in the world who could claim that they were of pure Irish, Scotch or Saxon blood, and distinguished trait to day was not breed by tongue

One reason, he continued, why Canada was not fulfilling its mission was because it was keeping alive spir it of feudalistic aristocracy. It was Canada's own fault that her genius among nations at present time was unknown and unendorsed. She had not recognized her own mission which was to save great soul of the Anglo-Celt.

MARX WELCOMES DAWES' EXPERTS

Promised Every Facility For Inquiry Into Germany's Resources — An Official Reception.

BERLIN, Jan. 31. —Chancellor Marx summoned Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes and the other members of the First Experts Committee investigating German resources to the Chancellery yesterday after noon to convey to them Germany's official welcome. There were present also Dr. Stresemann, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Dr. Hans Luther, Minister of Finance; Eduard Hamm, Minister of Economy, and other Cabinet members and Government executives.

The Chancellor assured General Dawes that he and his associates in the Government as well as the German Nationalists, whose opinions and aid th ecommittee might seek, were wholly at their service, and that every accommodation required to facilitate the inquiry would be available.

Responding for the committee, General Dawes declared that unification of the Allies was indispensible for accomplishing a solution of the European economic crisis and reparation problems and that such unity also presupposed the utmost spirit of cooperation on the part of Germany in the joint efforts to arrive at an adjustment of the post-war issues under consideration.

JAIL WINS "HER BOY" FROM MOTHER, 93.

Judge Turns Deaf Ear to Plea of Carpenter, 70, Who Stole a Phonograph.

NEW YORK, January 31. — Much as he wished it, George Doty, the seventy-year-old itinerant carpenter, who stole a phonograph in order to obtain jail comforts, cannot go back to his ninety-three-year-old mother at Branchville, N.J., until he has served a sentence on Welfare Island.

Doty asked County Judge Franklin Taylor in Brooklyn yesterday to let him go back to his mother, but the request was refused.

Judge Taylor sent him to the Municipal Lodging House until provision is made for his reception at Welfare Island. The wanderer seemed to be deeply disappointed.

Judge Taylor said Mrs. Lateer had all she could do to support herself on a small Government pension.

THINKS BOLT HIT DIXMUDE.

Investigators Say Lightning Was Probable Destroyer of Dirigible.

TOULON, France, January 31.—The report of the committee that investigated the destruction of the dirigible Dixmude reaches no definite conclusion, but accepts as most plausible the hypothesis that the ship was struck by lightning.

The investigation established the fact that, despite a heavy gale, the Dixmude appeared to be holding her normal course from the morning of 21st December, but that later she advised by wireless that she was hauling in her antenna as a precaution against lightning.

Nothing was heard from her after that message.

The committee, which has forwarded its report to the Ministry of Marine, is of the opinion that the aircraft was struck by a bolt at a height of five or six thousand feet.

LABOR PREMIER ASKS PATIENCE OF UNEMPLOYED

Until Departments Are In Running Order — MacDonald Interviewed By Deputation In Edinburgh—Report of Conference Not Issued.

SOME INACCURACIES.

LONDON, Jan. 31. — That the new government is not disposed to act hastily, even on such a problem as unemployment, is seen in a statement made yesterday by Ramsay MacDonald, the Premier to a deputation received in Edinburgh.

It was a private function and no report of the Premier's statement was issued, but according to a statement made by the Reverend Mr. Warwick, a member of the deputation, who afterwards addressed a committee of the unemployed, Mr. MacDonald said that any measures for relieving unemployment must depend on the financial arrangements which it would be possible to make. Therefore, the unemployed must be patient and wait until the various departments were in complete working order and able to handle the administration successfully.

Further, according to the Rev. Mr. Warwick, the Premier promised that he would put foward such subjects as recognition of Russia, credits at home and abroad, and housing and unemployment when Parliament resumed its sessions.

While it is accepted as an unquestioned fact that the Government will drop the plan for a big naval base at Singapore, authoritative denial was given last night to the rumor that the Government had actually taken the question of the naval base into consideration.

Report Inaccurate

EDINBURGH, Jan. 31.—Premier MacDonald's secretary, when his attention was called last evening to the statement of the Rev. Mr. Warwick concerning the Premier's utterances in Edinburgh, asserted that Mr. MacDonald's conversation was quite informal. He added that the version of it given by the Rev. Mr. Warwick was unauthorized and, in some respects, in accurate.

Gas Electric Car Still Undecided

LINDSAY, Jan. 31—In connection with the conference of railway officials in Lindsay relative to improved transportation facilities on this division of the C.N.R., it has been announced that no definite decisio was reached on the question of electrically operating certain branch lines, and especially the Lakefield, Peterboro and Madoc lines. The chief obstacle appeared to be the freight hauls on these lines, which, it was claimed, could not be satisfactorily handled by gas-electric power.

THE ESKIMO BUILDING MATERIAL VERY SCARCE

NOORVIK, Alaska, Jan. 31. — (Canadian Press)—An unprecedently mild winter, with a minimum precipitation here, has resulted in scarcity of building material. Eskimo newly-weds who contemplate setting up housekeeping have been forced to journey to Kowak where luckily there is a plentiful supply of snow for building "igloos." They exchange whale or walrus blubber for building material. Many sledge loads of snow have been brought here. This is the first winter on record when there has been a deficiency of snow for erecting warm, conical huts so popular and useful in below zero weather. Thus Noorvik's residential expansion has been retarded. Medium of exchange throughout Ekimo land however, fox pelts and blubber, remains stable and will not drop like the mark and the franc.

Husband Takes His Wife's Jail Term

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 31.—When Mrs. Amelia Kiry, 64 years old, was sentenced to serve a month in jail on a charge of selling liquor, her husband, Joseph, 58, volunteered to assume the penalty. He went to jail after trying to raise the fine of $100 imposed as an additional penalty.

This is said to be the first time here that a husband has taken upon himself the jail penalty for his wife's offense, though instances have not been wanting in which the court has afforded the husband the opportunity to do so.

MISSING WOMAN FOUND IN SNOW

KINGSTON, Jan 30— The body of Miss Ada Strachan, an elderly Kingston lady, who disappeared from her home a week ago yesterday in a blizzard, was found this afternoon by Henry McGrane, his brother Christopher and William McKendry as they were crossing the farm of James W. Bell, which is situated a short distance north of the city on the Perth Road.

The body was found beside a wire fence and was partly covered with snow, her cap was on the other side of the fence. It was about three quarters of a mile from where Miss Strachan got off a hand sleigh on which she was given a lift on the day of her disappearance. Miss Strachan had crossed two fences and a large open field. A reward of one hundred dollars for information regarding Miss Strachan's whereabouts was offered some days ago.

SCHOOL SYSTEM TO BE CHANGED

Premier Ferguson Condemns What He Termed the "Cramming Process."

HAMILTON, Jan. 31.—(Canadian Press).—Premier Ferguson told a large audience here last night that foremost among the duties of his Government is that of inviting capital to this Province and furthering industrial development. Nothing, he said, would so much tend to stabilize conditions and give steady employment to Ontario's citizens as an inflow of fresh capital and subsequent impetus industry would receive.

Another duty devolving on his Government and which, he asserted, would be carried out, was the shaping of Ontario's educational facilities in such a way as best to mould future citizens of this Province. Despite the probable objections of some educationists, these changes would be made, he said.

The Premier contended that Ontario had gone far enough in educating its best brains for the benefit of the United States, and that it should put a premium on its best brains by keeping them here at home. He intended to try and create a rural atmosphere around rural schools, instead of the present white-collar attitude.

He said he did not believe that the public funds are equally distributed. Those able to pay should defray the cost of educating their children and should be public-spirited enough to contribute toward those less fortunate.

He favored the substantial assistance, something in the nature of a flat rate, from the Government to all schools in districts where low assessments prevail.

Mr. Ferguson also gave a forecast of the changes in the school curricula. Some elementary subjects in the schools were necessary, but a great many of them could well be eliminated, he said.

He condemned what he termed the "cramming process" in schools.

GAME ON SOFT ICE.

PALMERSTON, Jan. 31.—(Canadian Press).—Jinx still stays with the local O. H. A. Intermediates. Chesley scored a 4-2 goal victory on very sticky ice here last night. Both teams worked hard. Lawrence, for Palmerston, was continually in the limelight.

ILLINOIS INSURGENTS SURGED AND STORMED AT MINERS' CONGRESS

The Anti-Administration Forces Vented Their Enmity Against the International President — "Shooter" Smith, Adherent of the Chairman, Stopped Attempted Raid on Platform.

Hour's Demonstration.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., January 31 (Canadian Press)—Defiance of International President John L. Lewis burst bounds in the United Mine Workers' convention late yesterday, and for one hour turned bedlam loose.

"Shout till you meet in hell," President Lewis thundered when the rioting reached the edge of his platform, "but the chair won't change his rule."

He had first ruled that anti-administration forces had failed to get sufficient votes to secure another roll call, on a proposition to change representation in the convention.

Insurgents fought for a return to the rule in effect before the 1922 convention, when it was charged representation was reduced because of the size of the anti-administration delegates from Illinois. They lost on division by 785 to 692, and then voted 558 for a roll call, 12 votes short of the required 30 per cent.

Insurgents Checked.

Insurgent delegates from Illinois were the leaders in the demonstration. Refused in a demand for a recount of those who had voted for a roll call, Joe Lynal, of Peoria, Ill., gained the front of the hall and yelled for a following and waved toward the right approach to the platform.

He ran into the most picturesque of the administration's supporters, whose reputation as "Shooter" Smith is in his name. "Not a one of you goes."

For an hour, President Lewis, at one time demanding, then appealing, tried without effect to restore order. Shrieks of "Give us justice' and "We want a square deal," filled the immense Tomlinson Hall to the echo, each time he called on Secretary Van Bittner of the Constitution Committee, to continue reading of his report.

Section Adopted.

Finally, ten minutes before adjournment, while stamping of feet and yells prevented hearing even at the edge of the platform, President Lewis advised Bittner to proceed, and one section of the constitution was adopted, of which only six delegates had knowledge.

One delegates was hurt in the fray, Alex. Piazze, of Local 3,137, Bedford, Pa., was knocked to the floor by a blow in the face while yelling for a "square deal." He declared he did not know the name of his assailant but could recognise him, and would "get him."

Jim Beach, president of the Taylorville, Ills., sub-district, a member of President Lewis' own local at Panama, Illinois, and William Harkness president of the Peoria sub-district, were leaders in the demand for a recount. Opposition to the chair's ruling centred about them, and it was for the fact that they were placed in the centre of the hall, surrounded on all sides by administration men, that no more serious demonstration resulted.

Yesterday's excitement followed the dullest period of the convention. the roll call on the proposition to take appointive powers from the International President, which was lost by a vote of 2,106 to 2,263, a scant margin of 157 votes. It gave the opposition confidence, although they had lost, and resulted in the evidence of a fighting spirit.

DOHERTY HEAD FARMER PARTY

Will Assist Ferguson to Give Province Good Government.

TORONTO, January 31 (Canadian Press). — The Hon. Manning Doherty issued a statement to the press yesterday afternoon announcing that he had decided to accept the leadership of the Farmers' Party in the Ontario Legislature, and setting forth his policy.

Mr. Doherty stated that he had been tendered the leadership of the Farmers' Party some time ago, but had declined it, though the matter had been under his advisement since.

When the leadership was again tendered to him a few days ago, he had promised to announce his decision in a few days.

In outlining his policy, Mr. Doherty said:

"The policy of the Party during the session will be to do everything in its power in so far as the minority party can, to assist in giving the Province good government. We will encourage Government to maintain a progressive and aggressive policy in regard to agriculture and its problems."

MAY MAKE CUT FIVE MILLION IN ESTIMATES

TO INCLUDE NAVY

LONDON, January 31. — United Press. — High officials here to-day declined to confirm or deny the reports that Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, had demanded a cut of five million pounds sterling in the estimates for the navy.

It is understood however that a movement is actually on foot to demand considerable reductions.

A member of the government stat that the abandonment of the emergency ship building programme and the postponement of the construction of the oil fuel depots would aid in complying with such demands.

He added that dropping the ship-building programme would undoubtedly cause immense disappointment in labor circles, but said that the work ors would be dealt with in another way.

TO REDUCE THE CIVIL SERVICE

As Part of German Plan to Go Back to Normal

BERLIN, Jan. 21. United Press.—The Economic League of German industry, comprising the largest industrialists, has voted to provide the members of the allied experts committee with any desired data in the course of its inquiry into the German financial situation.

"Only frankness can save us," says the League, which welcomed the coming of the experts.

Meantime it has adopted a programme calling for the payment of just taxes, for further attempts to reduce wages increase the working hours, and decrease the cost of living; also to make further decreases in the force of government employees, and to improve the ability of the League members to compete with manufacturers outside Germany.

The government has completed a new tax ordinance under which so-called "inflation profits" will be taxed. This is especially aimed at persons who wiped out mortgages with badly de-valuated money; also concerns which issued their own private money or had so-called "valuta credita" from the public treasuries.

Both sub committees of budgetary experts met this morning. That of committee number one conferred with Dr. Schacht, President of Reichsbank to obtain fuller details of currency situation. Second sub committee began study of replies of German Government to question which committee asked regarding budget.

Among the mass of official data which commission must examine is Reich's budget or 1924 which is drawn up in terms of gold marks. In this ordinary revenue from taxation is estimated at 5,124,000,000 gold marks while extraordinary revenue is estimated at 130,000,000 making total of 5,234,000,000.

A NUNGRATEFUL COP

LONDON, Jan. 31.—A West London traffic policeman was straightening out a rush-hour jam. A well-dressed woman sauntered out to where he stood. 'I'll 'old this arm up, Ducky, and you can 'old the other up yourself," she said. But the cop couldn't see it that way And the judge agreed that only a wee bit too much Scotch could have prompted such extraordinary kindness.

GIVES LIFE FOR KIDDIES

NOME, Alaska, Jan. 31.—Father Ruppert's little flock, scattered over hundreds of miles of ice-bound wastes, will never forget the lessons of love their kindly pastor taught them. He has given his life exemplifying them. Searchers found his body in the drifts along the Pilgrim River. Close by was his sled, laden with provisions and Christmas toys ofr the children at Hot Springs Orphanage.

PETERBORO HEALTH ASSOCIATION

The work of the Nurses' Supervision Committee has been exceptionally good during the past year. The monthly meetings have been well attended, we have increased our membership and have now twelve members, or rather had, for in the past few days we have lost one of our most interested and efficient members, a loss that will be felt very much by the other members of the Nurses' Supervision Committee. I refer to the death of Mrs. W. S. Merrell.

Mrs. G. H. Popham, one of the members, has left Peterboro, and her place has been taken by Mrs. C. H. Pennefather, who has become a member of our committee.

All the children who attended the Camp this summer were visited at their homes before Christmas and any cases which needed help have been reported to the proper societies. As an example; one child was found to have diseased tonsils. As the child was one of a family of eight, without the means to pay for proper treatment, the case was reported to the Well Babies' Clinic, who now have it in hand.

During the last year, we have been giving milk to twenty-four people, and in a number of these cases, eggs also. All these cases are visited by members of the Nurses' Supervision Committee and reported upon at the monthly meetings.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

MARY ARCHER,
Secretary of the Nurses' Supervision Committee.

The Summer camp

The sixth summer for the Children's Camp at Jackson Park opened on June 27th, 1923, and closed on August 25th.

Through the kindness of the Kiwanis Club, a new, well-equipped, well-ventilated kitchen was erected during May and the early part of June. Ald. Stocker superintended the building of the kitchen and did a great deal of work in connection with it. He also re-painted the rest room, the paint being provided by the Health Association.

Early in July, the ladies' committee of the Health Assocation entertained the doctors and their wives at afternoon tea at the camp, in order that they might see the buildings and become acquainted with the work being carried on.

There were 260 children taken care of at the camp during the nine weeks it was open. The average daily attendance was 54. The time for each child to be at the camp was governed by its physical condition. Some were there for only one week, most of them for three weeks and a number for eight weeks. The children were in charge of Miss Ann Long, who took great pains to enquire into the health of each child and also into its home life and tried in every way to improve the children, both physically and mentally. The little stream which flows through the park offered a splendid place for bathing and paddling and was a great source of pleasure to the children. Miss Long taught some of the older ones to swim.

The children are weighed every week and most of them gained in weight and they all seemed so much better and happier for their holiday in the open air.

Dr. Cameron very generously contributed his services in looking after the physical welfare of the children and visited the camp several times a week.

The members of the committee have from time to time acknowledged through the newspaper donations of ice-cream, fruit, etc., which were thoroughly enjoyed by the children.

During the Fall, the members of the committee called at the homes of the children to enquire for them and the general report was that they had improved and were much better for the holiday. The parents were very grateful for the kindness shown to their children.

C. E. HALL,
Convenor for the camp at Jackson Park.

President's Annual Report

To the Executive Committee and Members of Peterborough Health Association:

The duties involved on the part of this Association and its members during the year 1923 have not been less than usual and have been carried out with the usual care and exactness that work of this sort should always demand. The Health Association Nurse, Miss Peat, has been kept busy in all parts of the city, following through the cases that have been referred to her for attention, and it is a pleasure to record that those who have benefited by her ministrations have nothing but kindly words for her practice. It will be advisable to give consideration to the engagement of an additional nurse for part time, covering that portion of the year during which the roughest weather obtains and the most illness and misery is in evidence.

It seems the only consistent thing to do, when we renew our recommendation that the City of Peterboro so organize its Health Department, under the control of the Board of Health, that it may embrace all of the work now carried on by this Organization, as well as other societies that are striving to do the best they can within her financial limitations, and that compassed in the plan be the engagement of Public Health Nurses, sufficient in number to properly cover the requirements of the City. It may be said without hesitation that the health of the community is its greatest issue, and any increased cost of a reorganized Department of Health, would be a mere nothing as compared with the beneficence of the work to the City as a whole.

Great credit must be given to the Red Cross Advisory Board and motor dealers of the City for their continued co-operation with this Association in exhibiting at the annual Motor Show and thus providing the necessary funds in so great a measure to carry on the work.

The Red Cross Society very kindly provided the funds for payment of the nurse in charge of the Jackson Park Camp during the 9 weeks of its operation last Summer, and to the Officers and the Executive of that Association, the Peterborough Health Association acknowledges its gratitude.

The men of the Kiwanis Club gave further evidence of their continued interest in the work of this Association through the construction of a greatly needed kitchen, in conjunction with the dining-room which they erected the year before for the Association work. These men have shown by their personal interest and handy-work that they are living up to the letter of their slogan "We Build." The Peterborough Health Association sincerely thanks the Kiwanis Club for their participation in this work and trusts that it will be continued, as we know of no broader basis or outlet for their activities.

So much more can be done if only adequate funds are provided, that this Health Association invites the participation of the various Clubs and Societies of the City in whatever measure they may wish to contribute to the furtherance of the work.

The work for crippled children was carried on with two or three cases, but no special funds for crippled childrens' work having been received, further special efforts were discontinued for that reason. The Rotary Club is now organized to conduct the work among crippled children, and such cases are referred to the Health Association will, we believe, be carefully looked after by the members of the Rotary Club on their being notified by them.

The ladies of the Executive have given their time without stint, and it goes without saying that the work could not be carried on without their self-sacrifice. They organized and carried through a successful Tag Day in addition to their many other activities through the year, which materially assisted in the funding of the work during the past year. The house-to-house visitation and inquiring into cases of illness, their dietary and sanitary work and recommendations regarding conditions which they discover, are all elements of the greatest importance to the efficiency of the Health Association's functions. The participation of the ladies of the Executive in control of the Jackson Park Camp, makes this work possible. The edification to them is apparent, and it is readily observed that it is a labor that carries its own reward. Mr. Walter Stockers' position as general factotum about the Camp grounds, and the kindly police protection afforded by Mr. James Rose, the Park custodian go to round out the effort to give health and happiness to the kiddies. It will be a source of extreme gratification to all citizens that 260 little ones were accomodated at the Jackson Park Camp during the summer of 1923. Some of them were under care for nine weeks, others from two to three weeks, but 260 different children were given the benefits of this work in their behalf. The nurse in charge of the Camp, Miss Long, proved her fitness, and was a great favorite with the children under her charge.

It is a matter of great regret to all members of the Health Association that one of the most active members of the Executive, Mrs. W. S. Merrell, passed away at her home on Saturday, the 26th instant. Mrs Merrell was a most whole-souled, Christian lady, faithful in attendance at the meetings of the Association, wonderfully interested in the work among the children where she contributed by her presence and gifts of fruit and other delicacies to the restoration of health to the children. She will be greatly missed in the Association work and the Executive is aked to pass a resolution of condolence to be forwarded to her family.

The receipts from all sources for the year 1923 were $4161.09 with disbursements of about $3,400.00 up to the end of the year. This leaves a balance which will be utilized in the further extension of the work in a number of needful channels. The Treasurer's report will give the details of the financial standing of the Association. In this connection it may be here recorded that. Mr. George Campbell's removal to Ottawa deprived us of a splendid officer and a most co-operative one. We are, however, extremely fortunate in having in the return of Mr. C. H. Pennefather to the City, a happy continuance of the relations so well represented by Mr. Campbell. Mr. Pennefather's duties require quite a little attention to accounts and the payment of them, which is greatly appreciated. To our Secretary for his continued fathering of the job, we make obeisance.

It is my sincere wish that the year 1924 may be well provided for and in turn, give us all the incentive and interest in this work, that we may carry on.

W. R. BREYFOGLE,
President, Peterborough Health Association.

FORESTERS CALL OFF THEIR BALL

Condemnation of Modern Dancing Has Effect

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.— (Canadian Press.)— In deference to condemnation of modern dancing, expressed in a recent pastoral letter by Cardinal Begin of Quebec, the local branch of the Independent Order of Foresters has called off the ball intended to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of the Order, which has been fixed to be held here February sixth.

"We wish to show that the strongest mutual society in America does not want to be suspected of ignoring your recommendations and lack in respect towards authority," stated the letter of the secretary of the Order to Archbishop Gauthier, Apostolic Administrator of the Diocese of Montreal.

In his reply expressing his thanks Archbishop said: "Abuses which are being committed to-day at these public dances are so grave that all Christians feel the need to get together to have them disappear."

BUYS TURKEYS

MADRID, Jan. 30. — (United Press). — Count Romanones had riches to feed to the birds!

The result is that Count Romanones, who is an ex-premier of Spain, has bought several thousand turkeys in the hope of recovering three hundred pearls. His grandson fed these pearls to a flock of turkeys as they passed beneath his palace window on their way to the Christmas market.

His little grandson was sitting by the window. A flock of turkeys passed the palace. The little boy looked out and saw the owner scattering dried peas and lentils in front of them. He wanted to join the game. So he threw the pearls to the birds.

The night the count had the palace turned upside down. The child failed to understand.

But the next day the little boy again heard turkeys passing. He seized the onyx dish and asked for more of the "little round things" to feed the fowl. The mysterious disappearance of the jewels was explained.

The price of turkeys rose as a result of the count's efforts to get a corner on the market. He purchased thousands of them, had them Co-ed—Your new overcoat is rath- a hundred pearls were recovered.

GAS PRICES RISE AS USE INCREASES.

Fit Your Motor to the Back of a Sleigh and Give Her the Gas and Let Her Go.

By ISRAEL KLEIN.

It is the inevitable reaction to the reductions in prices that stirred the nation late last summer. It was expected throughout oil and automobile circles, because it had been understood that the revolt for lower fuel costs was too unusual to last long.

Prices were expected to rise again, although not to the peak of 1923.

The cause for this return to former prices is seen in reports of consumption of gasoline not only in the United States, but throughout the world. Besides producing for this country's automobiles, the oil fields of the United States have been sending out more and more of their product to other countries.

Heretofore production of gasoline has been keeping ahead of consumption here and abroad. An oversupply of one billion gallons of fuel was reported last year. But this oversupply is seen to dwindle into practically none at all, with the growing demand for fuel from more and more new motorists, and the increasing exportation of American gasoline, with no importation at all.

To offset this threatening increase of consumption over production, in gasoline, several efforts are being made toward economizing in the use of the fuel. The U. S. Bureau of Mines leads in this attempt.

According to experts, from 3 to 4 per cent. of the gasoline accumulated during the winter for summer supply is lost through evaporation. To prevent the loss of several hundred million gallons, the Bureau of Mines has been experimenting on various methods. One is the use of cooling systems in vapor tight tanks, to check dissipation of the gas.

In the process of evaporation, the first fractions to escape are the most volatile, leaving an inferior fuel in the storage tanks.

* * *

A perfect fuel mixture consists of about .07 of a pound of gasoline to a pound of dry air. Yet most motorists use nearly twice as much fuel as necessary, say fuel engineers. This is one of the greatest factors in the present wastage of gasoline, they add.

* * *

Substitutes for gasoline are so many and so frequent that there need be no fear of any marked rise in fuel prices. If gasoline ever rises to inaccessible heights, even alcohol might be substituted at a cheaper rate.

The latest substitute is one devised by naval experts. It is about 70 per cent. gasoline and 30 per cent denatured an' ydrous alcohol, making a mixture efficient especially for aircraft use. It may result not only in a better, but a cheaper, fuel than the present high-test gasoline used for air travel.

RADIO NEWS

You have probably been puzzled and confused by the different kinds of radio circuit being written and talked about. Without going into technical engineering details I will give a short explanation of the single circuit type.

The single circuit tuner was the first type to be used extensively. For a time it was pushed into the discard but has lately returned to popular favor and now is probably used more extensively than any other type. Briefly it consists of a single inductance for tuning, and the whole set, mechanically, is of one circuit. That means that you can trace the wiring from the aerial to the headphones without going across open spaces or breaks in the circuit other than batteries and condensers. Many of the manufactured receiving sets to-day are of the single circuit type.

The single circuit tuner makes use of a coil of inductance which has one end connected to the aerial and the other to the ground. This in ductance is varied by slide contacts, taps, or by a variable inductance such as a variometer, or a combination of these methods. The receiver is tuned to the wavelength of the incoming high frequnecy currents by varying this inductance.

The tuning of the continuous wave broadcasting stations is very sharp so that it is often difficult to tune the station in exactly by means of taps alone and a variable condenser is used in the antennea circuit. The addition of a variable condenser provides a means of continuous variation of the inductance and enables the receiver to tune to lower wavelengths.

The present popularity of the single circuit lies in the fact that it is easiest of the several circuits to tune. The adjustment of the primary inductance is the only thing necessary to change the tuning of the set, and this is usually accomplished by the use of a single control, the variometer dial or the antennea condenser dial.

No Wonder She Kicked.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR
Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odour, smoke, or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% kerosene (coil oil).

The inventor, F. S. Johnson, 246 Craig Street W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

The Strain of Housework

A WIFE'S first duty is the efficient management of her home. And what a task it is! Meals must be served on time—the children must be cared for—social duties must be performed—a thousand and one unexpected details keep cropping up, demanding immediate attention!

Only a strong, healthy body can stand up to the strain! Only if the system is supplied with adequate nourishment can the wife keep up to the mark from day to day.

"Ovaltine" is the ideal beverage for the busy housewife. It supplies her with the concentrated nourishment she needs, in a form that her system can assimilate easily and quickly, and without undue digestive effort.

"Ovaltine" is prepared from ripe barley malt, creamy milk and fresh eggs, and retains all the health-giving, body-building essentials of these natural, tonic foods. It is super-nourishment, palatable and easy to prepare. One cup contains more nutriment than three eggs, seven cups of cocoa or twelve cups of beef extract.

Make "Ovaltine" your daily beverage. Drink it at every meal, and before retiring. Taken between meals, too, whenever you feel tired and worn out, it will relieve all fatigue and give you new zest for your work. There's vitality and health in every cupful.

A TRIBUTE TO THE ENGINEERS.

The local branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada has been frequently of service to Peterborough by reason of the speakers it has brought here to discuss subjects of national importance so that local citizens are in a position to appreciate the wisdom of a suggestion from the Ottawa Citizen that the "Senate of Canada might become a useful institution if it could be reformed in some manner to give the country the benefit of the experience of such organizations as the Engineering Institute.

The annual meeting was held in Ottawa last week, and the proceedings in general and the address of D. W. MacLachlan on the St. Lawrence development proposals in particular so impressed our contemporary that editorially the Citizen paid the tribute to the institute puoted above.

The Examiner agrees with the Citizen not only in that opinion, but in the view that it would have been better for Canada if some of the existing national works in this country had been thoroughly discussed by men outside the political arena before the first votes were passed in the House, as was the St. Lawrence project during the Ottawa meeting of the engineers.

CLEANING THE CROSSINGS.

The Examiner has more than once felt it necessary to call the attention of the proper authorities to the fact that during every thaw the crossings, especially in the business section of the city, are in a disgraceful condition, but so far the complaints have not succeeded in securing action.

Yesterday the crossings downtown were ankle deep in slush and water, and it was almost impossible to cross anywhere without getting a pair of wet feet as a penalty.

There is no reason why such conditions should have to be endured.

The crossing could be cleared in a short time, and the citizens have a right to demand that action be taken during every soft spell to remove the slush and snow at street corners, particularly in the principal business blocks.

Business men are required to keep the pavement in front of their respective establishments free from slush and ice, and if they fail to do so their memory is jogged by a policeman.

The city itself is, however, the worst offender, and the conditions at street intersections are invariably the worst to be found anywhere.

The Examiner hopes that the Works Department will not be found delinquent in this respect when the next thaw arrives.

THE HEALTH ASSOCIATION.

The reports presented at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Health Association are eloquent testimony to a year of successful activity on behalf of the community.

Of especial interest was the report in regard to the summer camp at Jackson Park, which was a feature of the year's work.

When it is realized that during the nine weeks the Jackson Park camp was operated some 260 children of subnormal health were taken care of there, with an average daily attendance of 54, some idea of the importance of this branch of the association's activity will be obtained.

As to the benefits received by the children it is pleasing to note that practically every child showed a gain in weight, and that all "looked much better and happier for their holiday in the open air."

That can easily be credited as the sojourn among the pines of the beautiful park, with carefully selected food, facilities for rest and supervised play could not fail to be of material benefit to every child who visited the camp.

The association's nurse was kept very busy during the year, so much so indeed that the engaging of another nurse during the winter season is suggested as desirable.

The Health Association is one of the most useful of our community organizations. It has done splendid work in the past, and the words of the President, Mr. W. R Breyfogle, "So much more can be done if adequate funds are provided," should not pass unnoticed.

WHAT ONTARIO WANTS.

With a very large following to support him and master of the situation by reason of a big majority over all other parties, Premier G. H. Ferguson and his Cabinet are busily engaged in preparing for the session of the Legislature in February.

The new administration is in a position to give Ontario good government, because it is not handicapped by fears of a combination of the other groups against it.

It is strategically so well placed that there is nothing to deter Mr. Ferguson from initiating progressive legislation and taking a firm stand upon important issues.

That being so, Ontario's new Premier should realize that what the Province demands of him more than anything else at the present time, is an honest, sincere, determined effort to reduce expenditures and to substitute economy for extravagance in the administration of Ontario's affairs.

The Drury administration was criticized—and to a large extent justly so—during the election campaign for its extravagant handling of public business.

The present Premier led the attack, and no voice was heard more often in the chorus of condemnation than that of G. Howard Ferguson.

Now he has the reins of power in his hands, his following is so large as to leave him free from entanglements with other groups, and the way is open to him to give what the people of this Province desire.

The proceedings of the next session will be watched with more than usual interest, for all Ontario is waiting definite action towards a reduction in expenditure.

Mr. Ferguson's opportunity is before him. Will he

DARK CLOUDS IN INDIA.

The opening of the new session of the All-India Assembly turns British eyes for a moment from the perplexities of home problems and from gathering clouds abroad to India, where the crisis that has been swiftly developing threatens to reach an acute stage, says the Montreal Star.

Little more than a month ago elections were held for the All-India Assembly, which in some measure corresponds with our Federal Parliament and for the eight Provincial Councils, which bear a resemblance to our own Provincial Legislatures. The outstanding feature of all these elections was the success of the Swaraj Party, whose avowed aim is to use the councils for the purpose of forcing Britain to grant them complete autonomy. The Swaraj group has already given notice to the Government that its members intend to concentrate their energies on putting an end to the dual form of government, with its division into "transferred" and "reserved" departments, which is the much-discussed dyarchy of the Montagu Act, and to labor ceaselessly for the grant of absolute home rule to the provinces.

When they have won this victory they will aspire to a full dominion status for India as a whole. The Swarajists, or Home Rulers, are the followers of Mr. Ghandi, who some time ago abandoned non-co-operation as a political policy. Their success, however, at the December elections has led the successor of Ghandi, the scarcely less notorious C. R. Das, to re-polish this old weapon, and he has declared his intention of carrying on a policy of obstruction in all the eight Provincial Councils in the event of their demands being rejected.

ANOTHER GOOD PAPER GONE.

The number of daily papers in Ontario, as everywhere else, steadily decreases. The death of the Guelph Mercury, a paper with a long and honorable record, makes 13 deaths since 1919. There are now only 36 in the field. The Windsor Telegram and the Fort William Bulletin started a couple of years ago, but suspended after short and expensive careers. The Owen Sound Sun-Times, alone of the newcomers, is alive and well.

The casualties include the Fort William Bulletin, Guelph Mercury, Kitchener Telegraph, Lindsay Warder, Peterborough Review St. Catharines Journal, Stratford Beacon, Toronto News and Toronto World. At Chatham the News and the Planet were combined by Editor Taylor whose Sentinel-Review at Woodstock buried the opposition paper. The Woodstock paper, like all other dailies in Ontario but the Toronto and London papers, is now independent.

The end is not yet, says the Sault Ste. Marie Star. Only two cities in Ontario with less than 50,000 population have two daily papers, Kingston and Belleville, and newspaperdom looks for developments.

What is the reason of the high mortality? The exceedingly high cost of operating. In the newspaper game, the first cost is high, but the upkeep is what gets 'em. Probably no small city daily in Ontario is operating under $300 expenses a day, and few under $400 a day. From that up. Good judges look for an increase in operating costs that will squeeze all dailies out of business in cities of less than 40,000 in five years, unless fortunately situated and exceptionally well managed. This mounting cost has become menacing that the chain newspaper is almost bound to be the fashion shortly. It seems the only solution in sight for a problem that looks insoluble any other way.

It is the pace that kills.

MILO THE GREAT.

Milo, famous strong man of ancient times, developed his strength by a simple system. He got a young bull and carried it in his arms around a race course every day.

Each day the bull grew larger. And each day Milo's strength increased. When the bull was full grown, Milo still could carry it in his arms. Then he killed it with one blow of his fist.

Strength developed, Milo became a famous character.

Six times he was victorious over all comers, at wrestling, during the Olympic games which were held every four years.

* * * *

One of Milo's pet tricks was tying a heavy cord around his head, across his forehead. Then, compressing his lips and holding his breath, he'd so fill the veins of his head with blood that the expansion of the veins burst the cord.

Another trick was to extend his arm, with elbow close to his waist, thumb turned upward, fingers straight and close together.

Milo would have done well in China, where dentists pull teeth with their fingers, practicing first on pegs or nails driven into hardwood.

* * * *

Wolves got Milo eventually. Wandering in a forest, he found a fallen oak in which woodsmen had driven wedges, attempting to split it. Milo was so over-confident of his strength that he thrust his fingers in the crack and tried to pull the oak asunder.

The wedges slipped out. The split closed. Milo was held by his fingers trapped. Then came a pack of wolves.

From his death we learn the dangers of over-confidence, the perils of lack of caution. From his experience with the bull we learn that our powers increase as we face obstacles unfalteringly.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Canadian Olympic hockey team having scored 85 goals in three games, must have convinced Europe by this time that it has as much punch as the Canadian army.

Mayor Hiltz of Toronto declares that it is much better to give jobs than to provide doles for the unemployed. Great Britain's experience confirms the wisdom of His Worship's statement.

The Labour Party in the Ontario House consists of two members, but is going to have a leader n'everything.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald has discovered that he has "inherited a great mess." Probably the head of every new Government has had the same thing to say about the preceeding administration.

The Ottawa Journal complains that the Dominion Government is making a goat out of the Civil Service in answer to the universal demand for economy. But saving has to start somewhere, and the Civil Service offers a promising field.

Pastor Managed to Return to Peterboro Monday After Week's Detention --Band Holding Concert

CURVE LAKE RESERVE, Jan. 31.—Mr. Hawley the pastor here, who has been snow-stayed here for a week, managed to get back to Peterboro on Monday of this week.

Rev. Mr Farar, principal of the Indian Educational Institute at Brandon, Man., was here Thursday of last week on some special object in connection with his work.

The Mississauga band is having its annual tea and concert on the 7th February, and the event is expected to exceed all previous entertainments, as the young people are now practising every night for the occasion and a good program will be rendered by the home talent.

On account of the severe storms, the store keepers were unable to get to Peterboro or Lakefield last week, and the village people somewhat experienced a bread famine.

Miss Mary Knott who has been seriously sick is now recovering.

WIFE SHOOTS CRAPS WITH SAVINGS, HUSBAND CLAIMS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30. — C. C. Layman had worked hard and saved a few hundred dollars. Those savings were the pride of his life and so he felt badly and a bit resentful when he found them diminishing. He placed the blame on his wife Isabel.

"Didn't I see her with my own eyes," he testified in Judge Summerfield's Court, "down on her hands and knees shooting craps with another man, and shooting craps with my money, too. It made me kind of sore."

DOGS ARE A NUISANCE, PROFESSORS DECREE.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 30. — The weightiest brains of the University of Michigan concentrated upon one problem, campus dogs, for some time, and then referred the matter by resolution to Shirley W. Smith, secretary, now in California.

Dogs, the twelve deans who weighed the question, decided, have become a campus menace, and the absent secretary will confer a favor, they infer, if he abates the nuisance.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—Yesterday's fairly heavy offering naturaly had its influence on buyers, and salesmen concluded that all of Monday's rise of 25 to 50 cents a cwt. would be lost. Butcher's cows were the only ones in early demand, and these held reasonably steady. The exporters were taking good to choice cows up to 5¼ cents. About 200 were bought on Tuesday for export. For steers the range was 7 to 8½ cents a pound, but there was only one at the latter price. Eighteen bulls were bought from 4 to 5 cents, and shipping heifers 5¼ to 6 1-4 cents. A few steers were bought for overseas yesterday morning at 7½ cents, and some 1,200-lb. heifers, well finished, at 6½ cents.

Buyers of lambs dried up yesterday morning. Over 600 were carried over from Tuesday, and with the one buyer who had set the pace this week off the market trading was flat. Sheep are selling well, and a deck was sold by F. Dunn at $8 a cwt. Some heavy lambs sold yesterday morning at 13 and 13 1-4 cents.

Up till yesterday morning, over 10,000 hogs have come in this week, and there are still 4,000 waiting to be placed in the yards when space is available. The only tickets marked yesterday were at $8 a cwt. fed and watered. The price level seems to be a conundrum. Farmers in yesterday say $8 a cwt. is being paid to the farmers at country points. If this is the case somebody is losing money or the price here is out of line. The bid here is $7.25 f.o.b.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30. — Wheat displaced corn to-day in the matter of leadership towards higher prices.

There was a marked change of sentiment regarding wheat, and with offerings readily absorbed wheat prices advanced to the best figures in several weeks. Wheat closed unsettled at 3-8c to 1 1-8c and 1¼c net advance; May $1.10 3-8 to $1.10½ and July $1.08 7-8 to $1.09. Corn finished weak ½c to 7-8c net lower; oats unchanged at 3-8c up and provisions unchanged to 7c down.

Influenced to some degree by the prospects of financial relief for wheat producers in the northwest, wheat showed an upward tendency from the outset and the market at no time went under the previous day's close.

One of the largest traders on the bull side said that wheat had been showing wonderful resistance to selling pressure, and had scored a substantial advance since Jan. 10th, the traditional date for calendar speculators to take the bear side. He asserted that there was no burdensome supply in this country and that should anything adverse happen to the new crop, which was starting out with a considerable decrease in acreage the result would be a sharp upheaval in prices.

BERLIN, Jan. 31.—It's enough to make old Nero, relentless tyrant of ancient Rome, sit up in his grave. A man in prison here is accused of 40 murders. The principal witness for the prosecution, his 12-year-old stepson, says the prisoner was teaching him to follow in his footsteps.

Indigestion

The nerves continue to grow weaker and weaker because the digestive system is not supplying proper nourishment and the digestive system fails for lack of nerve force.

The nerves must be restored by some other means and this is where DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD comes to the rescue.

It revitalizes the wasted nerves and builds up the nervous energy which is essential to the healthful working of the digestive system.

You will notice that while the price of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has been increased to 60c. the box now contains 60 pills instead of 50 as formerly.

MEXICAN REBEL ARMY DEFEATED AND BROKEN UP

Federals Win a Decisive Victory in Three-Day Battle and Will Mop Up State of Vera Cruz — Hold Key to Port.

GERMAN UNIFORMS.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 30.—Following three days of fighting between Llano Grande and Esperanza on the southeastern battlefront the rebels have been decisively defeated and dispersed, according to advices to the War Department.

War Secretary Serrano predicted that the Federals could now proceed to Vera Cruz, the rebel stronghold without serious opposition.

To Move Slowly

Federal troops will move slowly as a general "cleanup" of the State of Vera Cruz is promised as they advance, Serrano announced:

"If necessary the Federals could reach Vera Cruz within less than a week. But the rebels have broken into guerrilla bands, taking refuge in the thickly wooded mountains south of Esperanza and it would require some time to round them up."

Owing to lack of arms and ammunition on the rebel side, it is believed that the revolutionary bands will be unable to reorganize. Only guerrilla warfare is anticipated on the southeastern front from now on.

Main Body Wiped Out

President Obregon, in his advising his officials throughout the Republic of the victory, said:

"Government forces commanded by General Eugenio Martinez wiped out the main body of rebels in the States of Vera Cruz and Caxaca in a series of battles from the line of Llano Grande and Canada Morelos to Esperanza.

"Federal forces now occupy all these points. They are key positions for the advance upon Vera Cruz."

STATISTICS OF VALUE ON FARM

Conference at Ottawa Decides on Campaign of Education to Spread Knowledge That Is Collected.

OTTAWA, Jan. 31. —(Canadian Press.)—The conference upon agricultural statistics which has been holding sessions, here, since Tuesday morning, decided yesterday to continue for the present collecting statistics on field crops and live stock through the schools except in Prince Edward Island and British Columbia, where this information is obtained through the mails.

The resolution in which this decision was set forth had a rider appended in which the conference put itself upon record as favoring collection through more permanent officials than the school teachers. It was admitted that the change must be gradual.

In another resolution the conference decided in favor of a campaign of education to impress agriculturists with the value of statistics. In this connection it was suggested that a representative of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics should visit meetings of farmers and explain the question.

In the case of Saskatchewan and British Columbia it was agreed that the system of having the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the provincial agricultural departments share the work of crop reporting during the growth should be continued. It was also decided to recommend this method to the other provinces.

A CONFEDERATION LIFE MEETING WAS HELD ON TUESDAY

The Fifty-Second Annual Meeting Was Held With Good Success.

The 52nd Annual Meeting of the Confederation Life Association was held in the Boardroom at the Head Office of the Association in Toronto on Tuesday, January 29th.

The Report presented by the General Manager Mr. C. S. Macdonald on behalf of the Directors was a particularly satisfactory one in every respect, showing that marked progress has been made during the year.

Mr. J. K. Macdonald, President of the Association, was present at the meeting and moved the adoption of the Report. The motion for the adoption of the Report was seconded by Col. Albert E. Gooderham.

It was reported that the total new issue of business for the year amounted to $31,778,949, and increase over the previous year of $5,090,610, a very handsome gain. The total insurance in force at the close of the year amounted to over $168,000,000.

From the point of view of surplus earned, the year was a most satisfactory one as over $1,200,000 was actually earned during the year and the surplus of the Company above all liabilities now amounts to $3,991,328.

The rate of interest earned on the net ledger assets, on the Dominion Government basis of computation was 6.14%. This is more than double the valuation rate of 3% used in computing the reserve under participating policies issued since 1900—a feature of great importance when consideration is being given to surplus earning power.

When it is realized that the results reported have been achieved with a considerably decreased expense ratio, it is a very strong indication that the Company is soundly and economically managed.

BAD ROADS DELAY DELIVERY OF MAIL

Roads Blocked in and Around Warsaw—News of Interest.

WARSAW, Jan. 30.—Friday's mail reached the village Friday evening, but was not delivered until Monday forenoon. Mail did not come to Warsaw either Saturday or Monday.

Michael McIvor came to Warsaw Saturday morning. No one else was over it that day. Reeve Hawthorne did not get home.

The Farmers' Club had salt to be unloaded on Saturday, but they had the car held over until Monday.

Hiram Anderson came home. Two other high school pupils spent the week end in Lakefield.

Lakefield R.R. 4 mail was not delivered Friday, Saturday or Monday

In Warsaw Village the thermometers registered -30 degrees in other locations thay were as low as -40 degrees Saturday night.

Charles Storms has cleared and plans to keep cleared a skating rink on the pond.

There is the prospect of hockey games and carnivals yet. He has kindly sent word to the school children they may use it at noon.

The ice harvest has commenced.

The funeral of the late Henry Dewart took place from his home to Warsaw Cemetery on Sunday afternoon. Drifting was so bad the roads could not be opened on Saturday, but Sunday morning the men turned out and the road was passable. The hearse could not get out. No women went. Rev. F. G. Weir conducted services at the house and cemetery. The pall-bearers were Messrs. George Taylor, George Brown, Uriah Payne, E. Sneider, John Darling and Bruce Douglas.

Presbyterians Meet.

The Presbyterians held their annual congregational meeting in the church, Rev. Mr. Atkinson in the chair. Reports of the different branches of the church were read and reported things in a good condition. The Ladies' Aid has been re-organized and Mrs. Munro gave a good report of the work done. The old Managers, viz., Messrs. David Taylor, David Rose, Alec Rose, T. H. Crowe, Thomas Russel, Melville Miller, Hilliard Clements, Harry Morgan and Dr. Munro, were re-elected. Mr. Alec Watts is Secretary-Treasurer.

The business meeting was a very pleasant one, and at its close a social half hour was spent.

Story of Vicious Horse.

Quite a large proportion of the Methodist Sunday School pupils managed to reach the Sunday School Sunday morning. After the regular session Mr. Gordon Payne took the quarterly temperance programme. He began by showing the picture of a vicious horse and explained that it was better to have the animal securely tied than to allow it to break away. It is better to have the possibility of ruin by drink securely fastened than to allow it to break loose. He went on to show how much better the country is since drink has been voted down. A few years ago many drunks were met on the road. Now none. The little ones will not remember what it looks like to see drunken men or women. Middle-aged ones do. He spoke of the amount expended on other things that were unnecessary. Unnecessary things are intemperance. True, there is a revenue from liquor selling, but that money could better be spent on the families; also, these drunken men and their families are directly or indirectly a great expense to the country.

There was good Sunday School and morning service attendance in the Presbyterian Church. Pastor Chorley phoned he would be unable to come from Indian River. Rev. Cox did not come from Lakefield. Therefore there was no evening service.

There was a good attendance of village people in the Methodist Church, but very few from the country.

WOMEN DEMAND EQUAL RIGHTS

Man Accused of Gigantic Conspiracy Against the Women of To-Day.

By HAROLD B. MATSON.

He is accused of a gigantic conspiracy against woman, forbidding her to enjoy the privileges that are his.

When the feminists, under the banner of the National Woman's Party, started their fight for equal rights they thought they could convince man with the logic of their claims. But in some 40 Legislatures last year the lawmakers displayed little sympathy for the plea against discriminatory laws, responding that those laws were protective.

So, proceeding on the premise that man is an unreasonable sort of cuss, the women are gathering evidence to prove their argument.

Laws Codified.

For this work of combing every State code and constitution for what the party calls "discriminatory legislation," and codifying all under that head, the party chose Miss Emma Wold, long connected with suffragist activities.

Miss Wold first decided to become an attorney, the better to understand the intricacies of law. She studied law nights, while her party duties kept her busy during the days. Now she is a member of the Supreme Court Bar in the District of Columbia.

Her search for discriminatory legislation has resulted in a mass of volumes upon volumes of such laws.

In various States, she found, fathers have complete control over their children, the earnings of a wife legally belong to the husband, women cannot serve on juries, divorce laws are partial to men, fathers can will away children from mothers, married women are classed with children and insane as unable to contract on their own responsibility, and the husband can collect money damages when his wife is injured. Other discriminations are cited.

Their Demand.

"We want equal rights," say the women. "We don't want to suffer handicaps placed upon us by law and custom. We don't want to be barred from any industry open to man.

"We know there are some things beyond our strength, but there need be no law about it."

So Congress is asked to adopt the Lucretia Mott constitutional amendment. It declares:

"Men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction."

That is all.

What Women Are Denied.

When opponents of the equal rights amendment assert that the so-called discriminatory legislation is actually protective legislation, the National Woman's Party produces volumes of evidences to show that American women are denied:

Equal control of their children.
Equal control of their property.
Equal control of their earnings.
Equal right to make contracts.
Equal citizenship rights.
Equal inheritance rights.
Equal control of national, State and local government.
Equal opportunities in schools and universities.
Equal opportunities in government service.
Equal opportunities in professions and industries.
Equal pay for equal work.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—If you call a taxi, you'd better wait for it You'll have to pay your fare anyway, even if the driver is late and you leave before he arrives at your door. So ruled a magistrate here the other day in granting a chauffeur damages for a "dead trip." The defendant, a woman, pleaded she had to leave before the car got to her home. The driver, on the other hand, said he had been delayed by a traffic jam. And this argument proved most convincing.

Some Families Are Never Ill

FORTUNATE are the children whose parents fully realize the seriousness of constipation. Hospital records prove that 75 per cent of all disease originates in bowel obstruction, or constipation. Young children cry because of it; school children are hampered in their studies; grown people are made 25 per cent less efficient; elderly people's blood pressure increases 28 per cent. Clara M. Smith, Big Valley, Alberta, recommends Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin for all, and especially for children and old folks; Mrs. Bettles, 8 Napanee St., Toronto, keeps it always in the house for family use.

YOUNG DAUGHTER MADE WELL

Mother Tells How Her Daughter Suffered and Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Vancouver, B. C.—"My daughter is a young girl who has been having severe pains and weak and dizzy feelings for some time and had lost her appetite. Through an older daughter who had heard of a woman who was taking it for the same trouble, we were told of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My daughter has been taking it for several months and is quite all right now. It has done all it was represented to do and we have told a number of friends about it. I am never without a bottle of it in the house, for I myself take it for that weak, tired, worn-out feeling which sometimes comes to us all. I find it is building me up and I strongly recommend it to women who are suffering as I and my daughter have."—Mrs. J. McDONALD, 2947 26th Ave. East, Vancouver, B.C.

From the age of twelve a girl needs all the care a thoughtful mother can give. Many a woman has suffered years of pain and misery—the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance of the mother who should have guided her during this time.

If she complains of headaches, pains in the back and lower limbs, or if you notice a slowness of thought, nervousness or irritability on the part of your daughter, make life easier for her.

HUGE DOPE RING MAY BE CLOSED.

Yasukichi Miyagawa, a Wealthy Jap and Dope Distributor, Has Been Caught At Last and Is Now in Prison.

(By MILTON BRONNER)

LONDON, Jan. 31.—Yasukichi Miyagawa—"poison king" who doped the world—has toppled from his throne.

Instead of converting heroin and cocaine into British golden guineas and Japanese yen, he will for the next three years do hard labor in a cold English prison. By that time he comes out, police officers of half a dozen great nations hope they'll have totally destroyed and swept away his amazing organization for illegal traffic.

Like a huge yellow spider, this crafty Jap sat in a luxurious suite of offices in the heart of London and watched the threads he had spun to Hamburg, Switzerland, Marseilles, Japan, China, India and even the western ports of the United States.

For months, even years, Miyagawa enjoyed immunity. Nobody suspected him of wrongdoing. He was just a jolly, prosperous Jap, interested in exporting German goods to the orient. He was well known in London's little Tokyo and many white men enjoyed his gracious hospitality.

Betrayed

Last March, however, a fatal thing happened unknown to him. A poor wretch was arrested charged with peddling "snow." A Scotland Yard man found the dope in a hollow heel of his right shoe. The arrested man went to jail, but not before he had given the detective some important documents. These pointed to the Jap.

From that time on Miyagawa was a watched man. Every letter sent to him was examined by the authorities. The documents were photographed and then sent on to "The Master," as he was known to his agents.

From these letters the police learned he got his illegal drug supplies in Germany and Switzerland. They also learned how the drugs were able to pass, despite the vigilance of French, German, British and Japanese police and customs authorities. Miyagawa sent boatloads of pianos, furniture and toys to the orient. Part of this stock was genuine. In others there were hollow receptacles where the drugs were concealed.

Big Business

As a result of the tip thus obtained, one load of furniture was examined on a boat in the British harbor of Hongkong, China. Big quantities of morphine and cocaine were found.

Acting on tips from Scotland Yard a bunch of his German agents were arrested. Then before he could take alarm, Miyagawa was nabbed.

When Miyagawa comes out of prison, he will be deported to Japan, where it is likely he will face further prosecutions.

Contest Will Giving Property to Church.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Jan. 30 —Relatives of the late James Holden former sheriff of Sunbury county have commenced a legal battle to upset his will under which he left his entire estate of $7,000 to the Roman Catholic Bishop of St. John, with the exception of $100 to Rev. Father Carleton and $100 to Rev. Father Hannigan, former pastors of the Catholic Church of Oromocto.

Mrs. Edith A. Merrithew and Alexandra G. M. Holden both of this city, nieces of the deceased, seek to upset the will on the ground that he deceased was of unsound mind and was subject to undue influence. It is estimated more than 300 different languages are spoken throughout the world.

MRS. O'BRIEN

YOUNG LADY GAINS 15 POUNDS

Miss O'Brien, of Peterborough, Finds Wonderful Relief From Digestive Disorders in Dreco, the Famous Herb and Root Remedy—Now Has Fine Appetite and Sleeps Soundly.

Mrs. D. O'Brien of 621 George street, Peterborough, tells how Dreco is helping her 20-year-old daughter regain her wonted health and spirits, by correcting digestive ailments that were making life a misery.

"For about a year my daughter, Marguerite, has been suffering from stomach trouble," says Mrs. O'Brien. "Gas would form on her stomach and she would have terrible bilious and dizzy spells. Her nerves were very bad and her whole left side would tremble. She had a very poor appetite and, in fact, was afraid to eat because of the suffering afterwards.

"She lost weight rapidly, and although I must have spent hundreds of dollars seeking relief for her, nothing did any good, and it was only when we discovered Dreco and decided to try it that improvement commenced.

"Three bottles of this grand medicine have done wonders for her. She no longer has any trouble with her stomach, has a fine appetite and sleeps soundly at nights. Dreco has built up her entire system and has gained fifteen pounds in weight since starting with it."

Dreco is a reliable tonic and corrective, made from the pure extracts of herbs, roots, bark and leaves. It contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs. Everybody needs just such a tonic to keep their system in proper shape.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterborough by Bond's Drug Store. Go there to-day and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Dreco Expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. "Come, come, children!" Mr. Dinwiddie was rubbing his hands at the end of the table covered with blue china and mounds of home-made cake. "Stop quarreling and sit down. Anywhere. No ceremony here."

Some of the guests were in their seats. The others fairly swooped into theirs, entirely regardless of anything so uneatable as neighbors. Mrs. Lansing, a tall, red-headed, raw-boned New England woman, had entered, bearing an enormous platter of fried trout, fresh from the lake. Larsing, burnt almost as dark as an Indian, followed with a plate of potatoes boiled in their jackets balanced on one hand, and a small mountain of Johnny cake on the other. He returned in a moment with two large platters of sliced ham and cold boiled beef, and the guests were left to wait on themselves.

The dinner was the gayest Mary had ever attended, for even the Sophisticates, however lively, preserved a certain formality in town; when she was present, at all events. Rollo Todd broke into periodical war whoops, to Mr. Dinwiddie's manifest delight. The others burst into song, while waiting for the traveling platters. Eva Darling got up twice and danced by herself, her pale bobbed head and little white face eerily suspended in the dark shadows of the great room. Other feet moved irresistibly under the table. Good stories multiplied, and they laughed uncontrollably at the worst of the jokes.

They drank little, for the supply was limited, but the altitude was four thousand feet and the thin light air went to their heads. They were New Yorkers suddenly snatched from the most feverish pitch of modern civilization, but no less primitive in soul than woodsmen who had never seen a city, and the men would have liked to put on war paint and run through the forest with tomahawks.

Todd, when the dinner was over, did seize a tomahawk from the wall, drape himself in an Indian blanket, and marched up and down the room roaring out terrific battle cries. Three minutes later, Minor and Bolton had followed his example, and marched solemnly behind him, brandishing heir weapons and making unearthly noises. Mary, from her chair by the hearth, watched them curiously. At first it was merely the exuberant spirits of their release and the unaccustomed altitude that inspired them, but their countenances grew more and more somber, their eyes wilder, their voices more war-like. They were no longer doing a stunt, they were atavistic. Their voices reverberated across the lake.

One by one the other men had joined them, until even Mr. Dinwiddie was in the procession marching with loud stamping feet round and round the big room. The cries became shorter, menacing, abrupt, imperative. The high lamps cast strange shadows on their lost faces. The voices grew hoarse, dropped to low growls, their faces changed from ferocity to a mouruful solemnity until they looked even more liks primal men than before; but they continued their marching and stamping until Gora, who, with the other women, had begun to fear that the rhythm would bring down the house, had the inspiration to insert a Caruso disk into the victrola; and as those immortal notes flung themselves imperiously across that wild scene, the primitive in the men dropped like a leaden plummet, and they threw themselves on the floor by the fire. But they smoked their pipes in silence. They had had something that no woman could give them nor share, and there was an ungallant wish in every manly heart that they had left the women at home.

Caruso was succeeded by Emma Eames, and the great lost diva by Farrar and Scotti. Then, the concert over, a yawning party stumbled upstairs to bed and not a sound was heard from them until the first bell rang at seven o'clock next morning.

XLVII.

"You forgot me last night."

"Yes, I did." Clavering smiled unrepentantly.

"You looked horribly primitive."

"No more so than I felt."

They were in a boat on the lake. The air was crisp and cold although the sun blazed overhead. Clavering was happy in a disreputable old sweater that he kept at the camp, and baggy old corduroy trousers tucked into leggins, but Mary wore an angora sweater and skirt of a vivid grass green and a soft sport hat of the same shade, the rim turned down over eyes that might never have looked upon life beyond these woods and mountains. Clavering was hatless and smoked his pipe lazily as he pulled with long slow strokes.

Other boats were on the lake, the women in bright sweaters and hats that looked like floating autumn leaves, and the lake was liquid amber. A breeze blew warm scents out of the woods. The water lily had opened to the sun and looked oddly artificial in their waxen beauty, at the feet of those anceint trees. Stealthy footsteps behind that wall of trees, or a sudden loud rustling, told of startled deer. The distant peak looked to be enamelled blue and white, and mountains were dark green under a blue mist, the higher spruce rising like Gothic spires.

Clavering smiled into her dancing eyes. "You look about fourteen," he said tenderly.

"I don't feel much more. I spent a month or two every year in these woods—let us play a game. Make believe that I am Mary Ogden and you have met me here for the first time and are deliberately setting out to woo me. Begin all over again. It—you, perhaps!—was what I always dreamed of up here. I used to row on the lake for hours by myself, or sit alone in the very depths of the woods. Do you think that famous imagination of yours could accomplish a purely personal feat? I haven't nearly as much but I'm quire sure I could. And then—after—we could just go on from here.

He looked at her in smiling sympathy. "Done. We met last night, Miss Ogden, and I went down at the first shot. I'm now out to win you or perish in the attempt. But before we get down to business I'll just inform you of a resolution I took a day or two ago. I shall get a license and the day we return marry you the morning you sail."

"Oh!" And then she realized in a blinding flash what she had fought out of her consciousness: that she had shrunk from the consummation of marriage, visualized a long period of intermittent but superficial love-making and delightful companionship, an exciting but incomplete idyl of mind and soul and senses. . . . Underneath always an undertone of repulsion and incurable ennui . . . the dark residuum of immedicable disillusion . . . that what she had really wanted was love with its final expression eliminated.

But she realized it only as a fact. . . . a psychological study of another . . . buried down there in an artificial civilization she had forgotten . . . in that past that belonged to Marie Zattiany . . . with which Mary Ogden had nothing to do . . . her mind at last was as young as her body, and this man had accomplished the miracle. The present and the future were his.

EFFICIENCY IMPAIRED

Why Many Men and Women Are Badly Handicapped.

When you are so run down in health that it impairs the efficiency of your work as well as your power to enjoy your leisure hours, or obtain rest, it is time you looked to the cause. If you do not, a serious breakdown is almost sure to result sooner or later. In nearly all cases this condition, which doctors usually describe as general debility, is due to poor blood—blood that is deficient in red corpuscles. When the blood is thin and weak your whole system suffers. You lose appetite, have no energy, your nerves trouble you and you feel restless.

What you need is help to build up your blood and you should begin at once to make your blood rich and red by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You will soon notice the difference in your health by a better appetite and increased vigor. The reason is that the new blood created by Dr. Willams' Pink Pills stimulates all the organs of the body to healthy activity, and soon the system gains nourishment and strength. If you are weak or out of sorts begin gaining new strength today by taking Dr. Williams Pink Pills.

The new sales tax will not increase the price of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as the company pays the tax. You can still obtain the pills through any medicine dealer at 50 cts. a box or by mail, post paid, at this price, frim The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—A very large part of the public mind in this Province, as elsewhere, is disturbed regarding the attack upon the authenticity of the Bible by numbers of "ministers of the gospel" and others. The critics, whether we call them higher or lower critics, take their final stand upon what they call their common-sense. Things have occurred or been exposed, they say, which show that the Bible is not the inspired Word of God, etc. But the point I am making now is that a certain body of people have finally decided that what does not conform to the requirements of their common-sense cannot secure their approval, and that even if God wrote a book Himself it would have to pass the test of their common-sense before they would acknowledge it. Will some clergyman who takes this stand, or any other approaching it, kindly state in The Examiner if I am right or wrong in expressing this views? People are interested and very deeply so, as one may easily suppose, in some settlement of the terms of the difference now agitating ministerial and other circles. "Let us know what the fight is about." They say and surely with reason.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

THE HEALTH LADDER
Article 2

Your health, both of mind and body, is the one great personal asset worth while. If you are as desirous of a gain in activity as you are in real capital and worldly goods, make every effort to increase or at least help your physical and mental strength

This can be done in nearly all cases, if every person who considers life worth living is really anxious to make the effort. The best efforts of modern medical research have clearly demonstrated that many maladies, if not the majority, from which a large part of the human race suffers is due to acute or chronic infection of the alimentary canal with poison-forming germs. The most sensible and natural course to pursue is to do all in your power to avoid this condition.

First of all, don't eat too much, rise from the table with an appetite and you will never sit down without one. Meat once a day is enough for anyone. The bacteria in all meats is not destroyed by ordinary cooking. These germs frequently cause putrefaction and other poison-forming processes.

Give your body a chance, don't inoculate yourself with destroying disease just because you eat anything you want. Run your body on schedule. Don't take food into your stomach while any part of a previous meal is undigested.

The liquid which you take or do not take into your body every day plays a most important part for good or bad. Two quarts of water should be your daily portion. A glassful on arising and one at retiring, the rest whenever you feel like it.

The practice of deep breathing aids and develops the lungs, where the blood is purified. Good blood you must have; the rest is easy. Practice deep breathing as often as possible, some part of every hour that you are awake. Always breathe through the nose.

Remember that metabolism (growth and bodily repair) are best carried out during restful sleep. Walking is the best exercise, but additional set-up drills of your own making can be used to advantage both morning and night.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Barton

A VERY WISE RIDDLE

The Wise-Man-From-Our-Town remarked—

"What's the next riddle? What's the next riddle?" called the Twins when the Riddle Lady came next day.

"I won't keep you waiting," smiled the Riddle Lady, looking around and nodding at everybody. "This one is so easy I'm almost ashamed to ask it. Anybody could guess it with his dunce-cap on:

"I'm not a flower,
I'm not a tree.
But full of leaves as a pound of tea.
I'm not a house,
I'm not a store,
But, pictures! Why I've a hundred or more.

"I'm not a king,
I'm not a queen,
But more pages have I than they've ever seen,
No voice have I
To greet your ears,

"I'm not the postman,
But all agree,
That a thousand letters I carry with me.
I'm not a country,
I'm not a state,
But my capitals come at a furious rate.

"I'm not a camel,
Or yet a snail,
But I've two bocks, tho' not a tail.
However, dears,
As friend to friend,
I must confess that I've an end.

"Now what is it?" asked the Riddle Lady.

"Why, you have said that it wasn't so many things, there's nothing left," said Simple Simon.

"I only said it wasn't a tree or a flower, or king, or queen, or the postman, or a country, or a camel or a snail," declared the Riddle Lady. "There are lots of things left to guess. 'Shoes and ships and sealing-wax and cabbages and kings.' No not kings but everything else."

"Maybe it's cabbages," said Simple Simon. "It's got leaves on."

"No, it isn't a cabbage!" said the Riddle Lady. "Nancy, can't you guess what it is? Or you, Nick?"

But before the Twins could say a word, the Wise-Man-From-Our-Town remarked, "I've been thinking and thinking and thinking. "Is it a quad-re-ped of any sort? Or a dir-i-gible? Or an e-pluribus-unum? Or an ad valorem? Or a post-meridian? Or an anno-domini?"

The Riddle Land people and Mother Goose people looked suddenly as though the sky had fallen on them.

"Is it as hard as that?" gasped the Fat Man. "Dunce cap nothing! I fear the Riddle Lady is making sport of us."

Nancy and Nick looked at each other and laughed. They knew that the Wise Man, like many wise people, was sometimes thought wiser than he really was.

"It's a book, isn't it?" said Nancy.

"Of course!" answered the Riddle Lady. "And here is one for you with a hundred pictures."

Rumanian Court Fines Youth When Girl Offers Sum to Charity

BUCHAREST, Jan 31. — The Court today sentenced a youth to pay 22,000 francs damages for kissing a girl in a compartment of a railway train, after she had agreed to donate the sum to a war orphan's fund. The Judge was about to throw the case out of court, after the plaintiff had admitted the man had kissed her only once, on the cheek, when she stamped her foot and said:

"Women must be protected in rail way trains. He must be an example. I will give any damages I receive to charity.

LETTER ON THE ICE SITUATION

The following letter from Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Chief Officer of the Provincial Board of Health, relative to the local ice cutting situation, explains itself.

January 29th, 1924

re: Ice Supplies—

Sir:—Mr. Bradburn M.P.P. introduced a deputation comprising the heath officer, Mr. Rush and Mr. Allen, a local ice producer, to me today when the matter of ice supplies for cooling purposes in Peterboro brought up.

I pointed out to the deputation that this was a matter for the local board of health, and that those wishing to deal in ice should make application to the local board stating the location from which the ice was procured, for a permit as provided under Sec. 99 of the Public Health Act. This being done, it will be the duty of the local board of health to satisfy itself

First—that the ice produced is satisfactory from a sanitary point of view whether used for cooling purposes or any other purpose.

Second—that exact information in respect to the quality of samples of ice should be secured from the local branch of the Board's public health laboratory.

Third—this being done the question of the issue of a permit should be determined by the local board.

It is the duty of the local board to see that if the ice is designed for cooling purposes only, strict steps should be taken to see that such ice is not used in contact with food, drink, etc.

It is further the duty of the local board to guard the public against disease in every way and responsiiblity will rest upon the board for any laxity in respect to the use of contaminated ice or any other measures for the protection of the public

I should be obliged if you would bring this letter to the attention of the local board so that they may take the proper steps adequately to deal with the matter.

Kindly let me hear from you what action is taken by the members of the board in this respect.

I am sending a copy of this communication to the local press in order that the public of Peterborough may know where the responsibility in this matter rests.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
DR. J. W. S. McCULLOUGH,
....Chief Officer of Health
S. R. Armstrong, Esq.,
Secretary, Local Board of Health,
Peterborough, Ontario.

The Dowser Who Flivvered!

MYSTERIOUSLY guided by the behavior of a willow wand, sometimes a "dowser" —the water wizard—tells where to dig a well which really yields water. Then much ado is made over the feat. But who ever hears similar noise about the dry holes, dug when the dowser flivvered?

Now and then, possibly, it just happens that people buy wisely without heed to advertisements. But the chances are against any one having such luck!

It does not "just happen" that advertised values are invariably genuine buying opportunities They must be, because they are openly offered to every one who reads about them.

CARE HOUSEHOLD PETS

RABBITS I.

Domestic rabbits have been bred in America for years and exhibited at pet stock shows. However, it is now well known that rabbit meat is as fine as that of poultry, and raising rabbits for home consumption is a proposition for turning to account time, space and material which are ordinarily wasted.

The cost of starting a rabbitry depends on its size and on the price of material. One can buy two good does and a buck of breeding age—enough to supply an average family with all the rabbit meat it would care to use—for anywhere from $1.50 to $10 each. Hutches may vary in cost from a few cents each—the price of an empty dry goods box—to several dollars, if expended for dressed lumber to be put together by a carpenter.

The first step in selecting stock is to decide on a breed. This is chiefly a matter of taste, although it may be influenced more or less by the market that is to be supplied. It is best to begin with one breed and to concentrate on developing that into stock that may be a source of pride and profit.

One buck and two or three does are enough to start with. Young animals are better than older ones, and the buck should come from a different source than the does. Before rabbits are accepted, they should be scrutinized to see that their ears are erect and free of canker, their eyes full and bright and their tails and feet sleek and shapely; and that they show no signs of snuffles, a discharge from the nostrils or paws soiled with mucus. If they have long, coarse claws, it is a sure indication of old age.

When rabbits are raised exclusively for meat, five or six litters are sometimes raised in a year from one mature doe, but such intensive breeding should not be continued for more than two years. The number of young in a litter varies greatly. Litters of 10 or 12 occur, but these are too large for a doe to raise. Only six or seven of the best of the young should be saved.

The age at which rabbits may be bred varies according to the length of time required for them to attain full size. Flemish giants are usually bred at nine or ten months of age, New Zealand reds at seven or eight months, and Belgian hares at six or seven months.

The period of gestation is about 30 days. A A few days before the young are expected the doe's hutch should be carefully cleaned and plenty of soft hay or straw placed in it. The doe will make her own nest. She should have extra feeds of warm mash to induce a good flow of milk. The young may be weaned when about six weeks old, after which they should be kept in one hutch until three or four months old, when the sexes should be separated.

DEATH OF SANDY LOCKINGTON A BLOW TO SPORT

First President of Central Ontario League Passes at Port Hope.

Port Hope has lost a good citizen and athletics in Eastern Ontario an enthusiastic worker and supporter in the death yesterday, after several months 'illness, of Mr. Sandy Lockington, editor of the Port Hope Guide. Especially in baseball circles will Mr. Lockington be missed. He was the first president of the Central Ontario League and had always taken a keen interest in the affairs of that organization, in whose deliberations his counsel was always appreciated and his judgment respected. For the past two years he was a member of the League's protest committee and here again his constant desire was for justice to prevail. He was one of the mainstays of sport in Port Hope, especially in baseball and hockey and the success of Port Hope's Dominion Day celebration each year was largely due to his efforts as secretary.

Mr. Lockington's trenchant comment in the columns of the Port Hope Guide on sports matters in this district were widely read and appreciated. He played no favourites and there was nothing parochial in his attitude towards sporting affairs. He hit hard sometimes, but he was nearly always right when he did so, and there never was any malice—and usually good humour—in his castigation of teams or towns or individuals.

Genial, kindly, tactful and courteous, Mr. Lockington had won a host of friends throughout Eastern Ontario, and there will be genuine grief everywhere at his passing. He was 42 years old and was born in Port Hope.

WOMEN'S BEAUTY BRING GOOD PAY

Stars of the Screen May Shine With Prominence and Popularity.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Stars of the screen may shine with prominence and popularity.

But there is a galaxy of stars behind the screen that outshines most of the favorites in financial return and importance.

One hundred thousand dollars a year for the services of Anita Loos, or $1,000 weekly to Jeannie Macpherson or Clara Beranger are examples of the rewards paid to some women writers in filmland. Yet there are women of even greater importance than these who, it is believed, get proportionately higher pay for their services.

Take June Mathis. She is editorial director of Goldwyn pictures, and no slouch on facial features, either. She is said to command the largest salary ever paid by a motion picture firm to a woman, with the exception of two or three leading stars.

Miss Mathis selects the stories for her company, watches their progress in the making, even directs the directors and gives the pictures their final touches before they are released.

Frances Marion is one of the few women directors in the game—certainly the only woman who has directed such stars as Mary Pickford and Norma Talmadge. She writes scenarios and prepares continuity, too.

Famous husband and wife combinations are Anita Loos, who produces scenarios and original scripts with her husband, John Emerson; Ouida Bergere, who prepares the continuity for her husband, George Fitzmaurice, and Josephine Lovett, wife of John S. Robertson, who supplies the continuity and consults with him in matters of costuming, decoration and selecting stories.

The "right-hand man" of Cecil De Mille is Jeannie Macpherson.

Clara Beranger and Rita Weiman are both brilliant writers who combine literary ability and human appeal in just the proportion to produce box office attractions.

Clair West, Ethel Chaffin and Sophie Wachner have achieved fame and wealth in the same field—costuming the stars and taking charge of the wardrobe problems of large producing companies.

Famous Wounded Dog Suffers Shellshock

By GENE COHN.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 30. — Shell shock, the malady that played such queer tricks upon the minds of men, has visited its curse upon the brain of a dog.

And that is why Lady, dog hero of the Great War, wanders somewhere about the New England coast section, her memory of master and home completely obliterated; only quadruped aphasia victim on record.

Or it may be that the bursting shells which worked an amazing transformation upon the life of a dog have caused her to meet death in a traffic crowded street.

Lady has been missing for some weeks from the home of her master, Captain Edwin J. McDonald of this city.

"Shell shock," says the captain in explaining Lady's absence.

"You see Lady went over with me and saw a lot of action, was wounded at St. Mihiel and got her honor stripe. But it was at Verdun that she was shell shocked. She hasn't been quite the same since. She was attached to the 54th Regiment, Coast Artillery ,over there."

Lady began to show signs of loss of memory within a short time of her return home. She would forget where she had buried a bone, for instance.

She began fast to forget the whistle of her friends, and bit by bit her memory of the location of her kennel slipped.

And her actions were anything but ladylike. She would hop on running boards of strange automobiles and go gallivanting about. But, until recently, Lady seemed to recover from the spells.

If it should happen that Lady still lives, scientists interested in dog psychology will have an interesting problem to cope with.

THAT ALL DEPENDS.

TOO GOOD TO SELL.

A matter-of-fact father of an embryo poet handed some of the lad's efforts to a distinguished author of verse, and asked for his opinion.

"Well, what's the answer?" queried the father after the author had glanced through the copy.

"Alas!" sighed the real poet, "those things are so good, I'm afraid you'll have to support Henry the rest of his life."—Writers' Monthly.

CONGREGATION OF ST. ANDREW'S MEET

Financial and Secretarial Reports Were Presented by Different Departments of the Church.

The annual meeting of the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held last evening, in the new Sunday School. There was a very good attendance at the meeting, which was presided over by Mr. G. A. Gillespie. Financial and secretarial reports were presented by the different departments of the church. Much satisfaction was evinced at the successful completion of the new Sunday School, which places St. Andrew's Church in the forefront of well-equipped local buildings. At the conclusion of the business session, dainty refreshments were served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the church.

DR. MACPHERSON ON INFANT MORTALITY

Gave a Good Address at an Open Meeting of the Well Babies' Clinic Tuesday Afternoon.

At the open meeting of the Well Babies' Clinic, held in the G.W.V.A. hall on Tuesday afternoon, Dr. A. W. Pherson gave an instructive address on 'Mortality Among Infants; Cause and Prevention.' Dr. McPherson based his discourse on the progress made by the city of New York in combating mortality among infants, since the inauguration of an aggressive health campaign in that city, with much attention given to Baby Welfare work, sanitary measures, and use of preventive serums. Diphtheria, declared the speaker, was the most dangerous of diseases among infants, with whooping cough and measles close seconds. In scarlet fever, much care was necessary for two or three weeks after the sickness had apparently disappeared, to prevent serious affections of the intestinal organs. Of causes of death in infants, gastro-intestinal disorders were the most frequent, and diseases of the respiratory tract.

The doctor emphasized the need of comfortable, cheerful surroundings and good food for expectant mothers, that their children might not be affected by adverse conditions before birth, and concluded his talk with advice for treatment in cases of bronchitis, measles and other minor disorders.

The meeting, which was well attended, the room being crowded to the doors, was presided over by the second vice-president, Mrs. A. Mowat. The new president for this year, Mrs. W. Galbraith, was present. At the conclusion of the address, tea was served by the King's Daughters, represented by Mrs. J. C. Smith and Mrs. B. B. Gillespie.

The work of the Well Babies' Clinic has had wonderful progress during the past year. The Board or Management is highly pleased with the successful period just ended. An interesting and useful effort in community service is represented by the Well Babies 'Clinic, and a feature pointed out by its officers is the fact that it does not tend to encourage expectation of free giving in those who attend, the only free thing dispensed at the Clinic being advice and instruction with regard to infantile health.

A PRESENTATION AT KNOX CHURCH

Brotherhood Class Honor Mr. G. W. Bartley as President of Class.

On Tuesday evening, January 29, members of Knox Church Brotherhood Class met at the home of Mr. G. W. Bartley, 217 Stewart Street, the esteemed president of the class, and presented him with an address and a beautiful mantel clock. The presentation was made by Mr. Ernest Benson, vice-president of the class. The address follows:

Mr. G. W. Bartley, President,
Knox Church Brotherhood Class.

Dear Sir and Brother,—For some time it has been the intention of members of the Brotherhood Class of Knox Church to recognize in some tangible way the important services you are rendering as their president. You have given of your time unsparingly so that the Class might continue to function, and to you more than to any other belongs the credit for whatever vitality and success the Class has had. Throughout the week your work, we know, makes severe demands on your energy, especially during the inclement winter weather, and yet instead of making the Sabbath a day of rest, as you with some justification might do, you make it one of service and are rarely missing from your place. As an expression of our appreciation and esteem, we ask you to accept this clock in the hope that as it ticks off the seconds it may long serve to remind you of many happy hours spent with the Brotherhood Class.

In conclusion we earnestly pray that God's richest blessing may rest on you and yours and that you may long be spared to occupy the office which you now so ably fill.

Signed on behalf of the Class,
E. Benson, Vice-President.
J. W. Buyers, Treasurer.
Herb. Anderson, Secretary.

Mr. Bartley, in his reply, spoke feelingly of his connection with the Class, and said that there was truth in the statement that he had given time and thought to the interests of the Class, but that on every occasion he had met with the wholehearted support of the Class, and so the success of the Class was not due to him alone. He thanked the members on behalf of his family and himself for their beautiful gift, and expressed the pleasure it had always been to him to have the Brotherhood meet in his home for a social re-union, and there had been many such meetings on which he looked back with pleasure.

An impromptu programme was given in connection with the presentation. Misses Taylor and Armstrong gave several instrumental numbers with violin and piano. Vocal solos were acceptably rendered by Miss Black and Messrs. H. J. McCannan, McDonald and Benson. Congratulatory addresses were given by Messrs. McCannan, J. F. Morrison, Waldie, Buyers, Benson, Jeffries and others. After refreshments a most enjoyable evening was brought to a close by singing a verse of "Blest be the tie that binds."

The programme was in charge of Mr. Malcolm Clark, teacher of the Class, and he saw to it that everyone did his part.

KIWANIS MUSICAL REVUE TONIGHT

Will Have Its First Appearance Tonight at the Grand Opera House.

The Kiwanis Revue, which has its first appearance to-night in its new dress, promises to be one of the most entertaining productions of the season. Under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, the entertainment which was given by the Club some time ago has been almost entirely changed. The first part is something entirely novel to Peterboro audiences, and is said to be extremely good, with plenty of pretty girls in a fetching chorus, music that is catchy and tuneful, and the colorful setting of old Hawaii as a background for the involved love affairs of romantic swains and sweethearts. Conductor M. B. Chenhall is working energetically to put on a snappy production.

"The Hermit of Hawaii," the new portion on the Revue's bill of fare, has the musical and comedy element emphasized. Joe Wearing as Mi Yi is the comedian par excellence, who entertains the audience in great style; Alec Dick has the part of Bosun Bill; and Verne Morphet is old Takapila. There is a trio of charming maidens, the Princess and her attendants, in Miss Ernestine McManus, Mrs. Walter Byers and Miss Jean Herbison. Dave Melton is the Prince, and Jack McKone also has a good part in 'The Hermit' presentation.

In "The Garden of the Shah," the second of the evening's offerings, Miss Mathilde Masson is the charming heroine, with a strong supporting cast. Verne Morphet injects a good deal of fun into the production in his well-done role as comedian.

There are some good seats still remaining for to-night and to-morrow night, when the second performance will be staged.

CAUSE OF DIXMUDE FATE DETERMINED

Landing Places Were Practically Non-Existant and the Season Was Bad

PARIS, Jan. 31.—(British United Press.)—Le Matin to-day publishes extracts from the report of the committee which investigated the causes of the Dixmude airship disaster, in which the Journal sees a veiled accusation against Minister of Marine Raiberti.

"The principal cause of the loss of the Dixmude," it quotes from the report, "was the utilization of a bad season. Landing places were practically non-existent and the meterological forecast was to the effect that the return was impossible. But considering the superior orders upon which the trial flights of the Dixmude were based, the committee is unable to pursue further its search for the parties responsible."

Has Your Husband Got Indigestion?

Nothing creates domestic discord quicker than an attack of indigestion, and nothing gets rid of indigestion quicker than Bisurated Magnesia. No man can be sweet tempered (good natured or even fair minded when his stomach is constantly sick, sour, gassy, and upset with after-eating distress. If your husband has stomach trouble neither scold nor pity him, but help him by seeing that he has a supply of Bisurated Magnesia (either powder or tablets) constantly at hand. A teaspoonful of powder or two tablets taken in a little water after meals will instantly neutralize the acids in his stomach that are causing his trouble and he can enjoy his meals with no fear of indigestion. Bisurated Magnesia is the special form of Magnesia used by thousands to neutralize stomach acidity and quickly overcome Indigestion —do not confuse with Milk, Carbonate, Block or Citrate of Magnesia. Insist on Bisurated. Its action is safe, prompt and sure and it can be obtained at small cost from any reliable drug store.

PITTSBURGH LEADS BRITAIN IN MURDERS

Pennsylvania Troopers' Chief Declares Slayings in County Exceed those in Whole Empire.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 31.—Major Lynn G. Adams, commander of the Pennsylvania State Troopers, speaking at a meeting of citizens here, declared that crime in the large cities was increasing to the point where a revolution was inevitable to determine the power of right. Within five years the speaker predicted, a clash between the underworld and the forces of society will decide the question for all time.

Major Adams charged that there were more murders in this county in one year than in the whole of the British Empire in the same time, and blamed conditions on the interference of politically inclined persons with the courts and failure of the people of the country to obey the Eighteenth Amendment. Until recently, he stated, such a thing as attempt to bribe a State Trooper virtually was unknown, but within the last three years, due to bootlegging thirty-five troopers have been dismissed for bribery and doing things that verge closely upon bribery.

COAL MINERS' EXECUTIVE MET IN LONDON TO-DAY

LONDON, Jan. 31. — United Press —The executive committee of the Coal Miners' Union met to-day to decide what action shall be taken taken regarding the recent overwhelming ballot by the men in favor of termination of the existing wages agreement.

It was indicated after the meeting that protracted negotiations will ensue with the mine owners before any serious threat of striking develops.

VENIZELOS HAS AGAIN RESIGNED

His Wife and a Heart Specialist Were Hurriedly Summoned From Paris Today.

ATHENS, Jan. 31. — (United Press).—The young wife of Eleutherios Venizelos, and a heart specialist, were hurriedly summoned from Paris to-day by telegraph. The official announcement was made that Venezilos has definitely resigned the Premiership. It was added he hopes to be sufficiently recovered to return to Paris by mid-February.

M. Cafantaris is considered the most likely successor to the Premiership. The Cabinet will not be changed for the present.

GIRLS IN TRAINING HELD RALLY MEET

Twenty-Two Groups Represented -- Address on Girls' Work.

A rally of all the Canadian Girls-in-Training groups in the city was held last evening at the Young Women's Christian Association rooms, under the auspices of the Religious Work Committee. There was an exceptionally good attendance at this meeting, one hundred and thirty-seven members of different groups being present, with leaders and teachers. C.G.I.T. work in the city has recently received a considerable impetus, with the result that the membership rolls are showing satisfactory increases, and many new groups have been formed this season. Twenty-two C.G.I.T. groups were represented last evening, with six groups from Knox Church, two from St. Paul's, two from St. Andrew's, five from George Street Church, one from Mark Street, one from Park Street Baptist Church, two from Murray Street, and one from the Y.W.C.A.

Each class met separately for class business and a devotional period, after which all assembled in the gymnasium and enjoyed a half-hour of drill and games, under the leadership of Miss C. F. Littlefield, the Y.W.C.A. physical director.

The groups then marched to the green-room and library. Each class gave its name in response to the roll call. The girls were welcomed by Mrs. T. Cruickshank, president of the Y.W.C.A., and by Miss Leta Brownscombe, the general secretary, both of whom wished every group much success. Mrs. M. C. Mackinnon, of Knox Church, then spoke briefly and interestingly to the girls on the aims and ideals of the C.G.I.T. programme. Just as success in study or in cooking depends on tuition and help from others, so the idea of groups and leadership is exemplified in C.G.I.T. work, and, as a cake cannot be made successfully without different ingredients, so a worth-while life must aim at all-round development of every faculty. Mrs. Mackinnon illustrated her address with a true story from life. A vote of thanks from her audience was tendered the speaker at the close of her talk.

Each class was then called in turn to describe one of their best C. G. I. T. meetings, and many good ideas were exchanged. The meeting closed with a C.G.I.T. song.

TO MAKE BUDGET CANADA BALANCE

OTTAWA, Jan. 31. —(Canadian Press).—Terms in which Federal Government has formally indicated its intention to discontinue agriculture subsidy to provinces will create much speculation whether an attempt will be made this year to make Federal budget balance. Intimation to provincial governments refers to "public demand that budget of Dominion of Canada be made to balance" thus the assumption is drawn that Government has this object in view. So far as can be judged from preliminary statistics at present available, the balance sheet to be presented to parliament at coming session will be considerable improvement on that presented last year. Figures for fiscal year to end of December show an improvement in revenue of about eight millions over corresponding period of previous year, ordinary expenditure is also down about a couple of millions. But better showing of Canadian National Railways will be principal factor in the improvement. Cabinet is now sitting almost daily revising estimates of expenditure for the coming fiscal year. Effort, it is intimated is being made to reduce expenditure as much as possible.

INTERESTING DEBATE AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

A very interesting debate was held at St. John's Parish Hall last evening between St. John's Lakefield, A.Y.P.A. and St. John's Peterborough A.Y.P.A., the subject being "Resolved that Travel is of more Educational Value than Reading."

Mr. Stenner and Mr. Robertshaw of Lakefield upheld the affirmative while Miss Florence Hutchinson and Mr. J. Stephenson of Peterborough were able defenders

All the speakers acquitted themselves in a very capable manner, and showed they had spent much time and thought in the preparation of their arguments.

Mr. O. A. Langley represented St. John's, Lakefield, as Judge. Mr. D. Lawrie represented St. John's, Peterborough and Mr. F. M. Dela Fosse acted as neutral judge.

The Fruit Treatment

One of the Wonder Discoveries of the Past Hundred Years

Greatest Advance in Medical Science is the Knowledge Gained of the Healing, Curative Value of Fruit Juices.

FRUIT is Nature's medicine. In the sweet juices of fresh fruits, Nature places some of her most valuable medicinal principles. Apple juice acts on the Kidneys. Orange juice is a skin tonic, that clears the complexion. The juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes tone up the liver, increase the flow of bile and correct constipation. But the fresh fruit juices contain only a small amount of the medicinal principle. By a wonderful process, discovered by an eminent physician, it is possible to extract these principles of the fruit juices, and so intensify them, that a small tablet will contain the healing properties of a very large quantity of expensive fruit. "Fruit-a-tives" are concentrated and intensified juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes, combined with tonics. "Fruit-a-tives" relieve constipation, biliousness, stomach trouble, kidney and bladder troubles, rheumatism, headaches, backache, eczema and other skin troubles, because they are a complete fruit treatment. 25c and 50c a box—at all dealers, or sent post-paid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, tOtawa, Ont.

Mrs. Martha De Wolfe, East Ship Harbour, N. S., says: "For years I was a dreadful sufferer from Constipation and Headaches. I tried 'Fruit-a-tives,' and I feel like a new person in every way."

Alexander Munro of Lorne, Ont., says: "For over three years I was confined to bed with Rheumatism. I tried nearly everything without receiving any benefit. Finally, I tried 'Fruit-a-tives'—half a box brought improvement, and continued treatment made me well. Now I can walk several miles and do chores around the place."

Mr. Jas. S. Delgaty, of Gilbert Plains, Man., says: "I had Nervous Prostration in its worst form. The doctors had no hope of my recovery. A friend induced me to take 'Fruit-a-tives.' After using this fruit treatment for three months, I was back to my normal health."

Mrs. M. J. Gorse, 3928 Union Street, Vancouver, B.C., says: "I suffered with all symptoms of Female Trouble, with chronic Constipation and constant Headache. Doctors advised an operation. Then I tried 'Fruit-a-tives,' and this fruit treatment has completely relieved me of all my misery and suffering."

ETERNAL VERITIES.

God is Love—The Law of Love.

Archdeacon Farrar in his preface to his "Messages of the Books," says: It has always been too much the tendency of Christians to construct their theology and support their spiritual life by means of isolated texts, but as he says, this is not fair or right in any sense of the word. Each book must be studied as a whole, and in relation to the age and condition under which it was written. How different our attitude both to God and Man if we were less ignorant scholars, and how different our outlook in life, our joy our hope, as viewed in the calm light as shed from God. But this is just a thought of mine thrown in, but I am going to give a view of F. W. Farrar's thoughts from the 1st Epistle of John. The first two chapters, as he says, are dominated by the melody that God is Light. Hence they who are in communion with God must of necessity be walking in the light of sins forgiven; in the light of holiness, loved and ever more and more to be attained.

The next great utterance is that God is Righteous, and the third great utterance that God is Love. This little word, as he says, has brought to the world more sweetness than all world can bring beside, and from it springs at once the clear truth for us to grasp, and the certain test to apply that every offence against the law of love is a sin; that every form of hatred, whether it be the serpent glance of malice, or the side-long look of envy, or the glare in a murderer's eye; whether it be the curs of the enemy, or the lie of the calumniator, or the slander of gossip, the detraction of the Pharisee, or the anathema of the inquisitor or the rivalries of the partisan, the animosities of the politician, or the jealousies of the religionists—all and every form of hatred is a positive proof that we are not of God and not of Christ, for sinlessness is the life of Christ, and sinlessness means obedience and love. God is Love.

When the Christ for us is Christ in us, we shall know the meaning of that truth. After this there is nothing essential to add. All is said; the last word of revelation has been spoken.

The Referee

MAYBE.

Of interesting things, there's never a shortage. A European physician claims he can tell the sex of a child several months before birth, by a new blood test. This seems no more implausible than the theory of the circulation of the blood when first advanced by Harvey.

A group of mystics, delving in psychic phenomena, claims it has word from the Other Side that a Blue Race is due to appear on earth to share things with the White, Yellow, Red, Black and Brown Races.

STOP.

Marshal Foch made the decision not to keep the Germans on the run and invade Berlin in 1918, according to Major Gen. Henry T. Allen, former commander of the American Army of Occupation. Pershing and other military heads left the decision to Foch.

Foch apparently thought the invasion of Berlin would make too much territory to police. It was one of the most important decisions in history. We wonder if Foch has regretted it.

FATAL.

Twenty-one thousand Americans will be killed by accidents this year while on industrial jobs, warns the National Industrial Conference Board. An additional 9,000 employers and self-employed people will be killed.

Whether or not your name will be included on this list may depend largely on your personal caution. Safety appliances help a lot. But constant personal caution is the best safety device. Be as careful, when working around danger, as when driving an auto past a schoolhouse.

AGILE.

Two out of every five American colleges are using "psychological tests" to rate the mentality of students, says Prof. R. W. Husband of Dartmouth.

The majority of these tests are foolishly based on the supposition that mental agility—fast thinking—is the greatest brain quality. As a matter of fact, the best brains move slowly, cautiously like an elephant testing the bridge ahead. Gigantic blunders like the World War are the result of fast thinking—snap judgment.

PROTEST.

A young man writes, protesting at the older generation's notion that the younger generation is "going to the dogs." He says truthfully that "40 cannot judge 20." And he adds the key of the whole situation: "If we do want to enjoy ourselves, it is because we know only too soon we will marry, and marriage nowadays has not much glamour about it. Jobs are too hard to get and keep, and there is not much money to be easily made."

You have noticed the tremendous number of young couples who find the pocketbook problem so acute that both husband and wife have to work. In a sense they are victims of men whose ambition, rather than to get a lot of money for themselves, is to prevent others from getting. and McMunn.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

FISH for oil. For its supply of oil the world depends upon fish and earthquakes, according to Professor J. N. Macfarlane, of the University of Pennsylvania. The humble "mossbunker," known wherever it is used for bluefish bait as menhaden, may furnish no mean percentage of the future oil supply. Professor Spencer Baird and Brown Goode, of Washington, and Professor Atwater, of Connecticut, also have brought out the rich oil content of many other fish, especially the fresh-water varieties. The river lamprey, salmon, herring, tunny, and others store oil in the flesh, it seems, while deeper sea fish like cod, dogfish and sharks store it in their livers, one shark thirty feet long yielding as much as thirty gallons of oil. Professor Baird has estimated that in one season the bluefish and other enemies devoured at least a quintillion (1,000,000,000,000,000,000) mossbunkers. If a mass like this were suddenly destroyed and heat and pressure applied, as might easily happen during a volcanic eruption, the oil in the fish would be extracted and under the proper geological conditions, covered with the volcanic detritus, would in time become petroleum.

The process of conversion of fish-oil into petroleum has been approximated at Harvard University, where fish-oil, with an addition of lime, was subjected to terrific heat. These experiments indicated, at least, that such a metamorphosis was possible.

If Professor Macfarlane's theory is correct, the world will not have to worry about the exhaustion of its petroleum supply. All that will be necessary will be the discovery of the other beds of oil-bearing shale which have been formed since the beginning of time.

Professor Macfarlane's study of fish and their relation to petroleum had extended over nearly half a century, beginning when he was an undergraduate and graduate student at the University of Edinburgh, where he won prizes for researches in this and similar fields. Scientists who have seen the result of Dr. Macfarlane's reasearches declare that he eliminates all doubt as to fish being the correct source of petroleum.

That a knowledge of this fact will enable man to locate with almost scientific accuracy new oil deposits.

That there is no danger of the exhaustion of the world's oil supply.

That the recognition of scientific principles regarding the origin and location of fish deposit beds will result in cheaper production of oil and hasten the development of its commercial value for motive power and heating purposes.

Professor Macfarlane traces the origin of petroleum deposits and similar volcanic disturbances, which in early times killed immense quantities of fish.

"Extensive zones of fish remains that form fish beds and like strata are observed across areas of the Northern Hemisphere," Dr. Macfarlane is quoted as saying. "These remains are coeval with, and as a result are in the same rocks with rich bituminous oil products. Such rocks or strata might be termed 'producer' rocks. By subsequent earth movements and resulting oil migrations this oil is often found in porous sandstone and like rocks. It is certain that vegetable remains did not enter into the production of crude petroleum or keregen, which is wholly of animal origin."

Scientists say that every new disturbance like the recent Japanese earthquake, particularly in regions adjoining the sea, results in the development of new deposits for the production of oil.

How this fish-oil shale may have been converted into petroleum by the addition of lime under terrific heat, is shown by experiments made at Harvard by Professors Warren and Storer. Professor Macfarlane thinks that this is also borne out by the fact that "through the successive geologic formations from the Silurian beds to those of recent days, oil-shales enclosing abundant fish-remains are met." He cites in order of age, West Russia, North Scotland, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, South America, California, Texas, Roumania and Baku oil-shales. These fish, although sometimes "weird" in structure, are, according to Professor Macfarlane, the ancestors of the fish of to-day and the process of oil manufacture is continuous.

Professor Macfarlane says that if these masses of oil-bearing shale "were to be suddenly destroyed, heated and the oil separated, it would furnish more petroleum than the world already has used, or could use for many years to come.

"Enormous schools of fishes," Professor Macfarlane is quoted as saying "have been destroyed again and again in a few hours during great volcanic explosions, by the vomiting out of millions of tons of molten debris, and by the shooting out of added millions of tons of impalpable volcanic dust. The last often has spread over many hundreds of square miles, and 'penetrated even into the interior of watches and of closely fitted boxes. At times the fish were immediately buried in the showered volcanic dust. Their oil soon spread out into that dust, which, quickly setting or hardening, started an oil-shale deposit. Not a scale, tooth, bone or spine was displaced, as they quickly became sealed up in some of these deposits.

"But more often the fishes floated as great shoals of dead carcases, then they soon parted with their oil to surrounding waters, and in two or three weeks at most the skeletons or other hard parts, washed together and sinking, helped to form a marl deposit."

An additional bit of evidence of the formation of oil-shale even in this day is cited in the results noted along the Schuylkill River by Professor Joseph Leidy, a noted palaeontologist. The oil escaping from the Philadelphia gas works spread along the surface of the water, but later settled, carried down by silt, which formed above it in layers. This could easily, in the process of time, form an oil-bearing shale. This important, but apparently trivial, observation gave science the key to the formation of oil-shales. The Anglo-Indian geologist Stuart, by experimenting with Burmese oils, has full verified Professor Leidy's views and further extended them.

X-Rays to Cure Whooping Cough

X-RAYS may prove of more value in the treatment of whooping cough than any other form of treatment, according to a report in the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal made by Drs. Henry I. Bowditch and Ralph D. Leonard. During experiments to find a cure for the complaint that has baffled all treatment, definite improvement was noted in most of twenty-six cases of active pertussis (whooping cough) treated with the X-ray, the subjects of which ranged in age from three-months to forty years, with disease stages from one to ten weeks. The physicians added that they could not give any rational explanation of the action through which the X-ray appeared to produce beneficial results. The report says:

"Many of these cases have not been observed sufficiently long to determine the final result. Nevertheless, it is evident to us that there resulted a definite improvement in these patients which cannot be explained by mere accident. We cannot at this time give any rational explanation of the action through which the X-ray appears to produce the beneficial results. It does not seem likely that it is due to any direct bactericidal property of the X-ray.

"Each patient received three or four applications of the X-ray at intervals of two or three days.

"We feel warranted in classifying a small percentage of these twenty-six cases under the heading of 'prompt cures.' By this we mean that after two or three applications of the X-ray, covering a period of six days, the spasms and whoops entirely disappeared and the patients were clinically well, except for, possibly, a very slight cough."

TUBERCULOSIS Found NOT to Be DUE to HEREDITY

By Paul Popenoe
(In the Journal of Heredity)

A GENERATION ago, it was almost universally supposed that tuberculosis was due to heredity. Then medical opinion was led astray, and for some years the genetic factors in the case were depreciated. During the last decade a number of careful studies have corrected this mistake, until it is now clear that the inheritance of lack of resistance is one of the principal causes of death from consumption.

While in the United States last year, Albert Govaerts, director of the Office Belge d'Eugenique, made a study of this subject at the Eugenics Record Office, Carnegie Institute of Washington, and his results have been published as Bulletin No. 23 of that office. He reviews in a sketchy and inadequate way some of the other studies of the subject, notes the important work of Sewall Wright and P. R. Lewis on guinea pigs, and then publishes his own contribution, which is an analysis of family histories taken from the archives of the Eugenics Record Office.

The analogy of the breeding experiments agrees very nicely with the conclusions that had previously been drawn as to the inheritance of resistance to tuberculosis in man. Tests made on more than 100 guinea pigs belonging to five closely inbred families show marked differences in susceptibility among the different families, and the rank of the various families in respect of resistance to tuberculosis bears no relation to their rank in respect of the various factors of general vigor. It is thus clear that independent hereditary factors are involved; moreover, in particular crosses the average of the progeny is consistently superior to either parental line, indicating that the latter are susceptible for different reasons, each being able to supply what the other lacks. In general, resistance is dominant over susceptibility, and there is equal transmission by sire and dam, and to sons and daughters.

When the various races of mankind are considered, a similar state of affairs is found. Negroes are notoriously susceptible to consumption; so are the American Indians, and in general, all the aboriginal peoples of the western hemisphere, who have been exposed to the disease only since 1492, and therefore have had not an opportunity to develop, through natural selection, a degree of immunity or resistance which is found among some of the peoples of the Old World, where the bacillus has been at work for thousands of years, in all probability. And among the races of the Old World, the differences are striking enough; Louis Dublin has pointed out that in the State of New York the death rate from tuberculosis among the Irish is some four times as high as that of the Russians or Italians, males being considered in each case.

The problem was long ago attacked statistically by Karl Pearson and associates, who showed in a number of fundamental papers that there is about as much resemblance between parent and offspring, in prevalence of tuberculosis, as there is in respect of any of the commonly accepted inherited traits such as eye color or stature. On the other hand, the resemblance between husband and wife, in regard to tuberculosis, was not great, despite their prolonged and intimate association. All the evidence indicated that heredity, rather than mere contact with an infected person, is the most important factor in determining the incidence of the disease. Raymond Pearl adds that "a tuberculous person, chosen at random in the working population of Baltimore, will have nearly six times as many blood relatives tuberculous as will a non-tuberculous person."

Supplementing these lines of investigation, whose extent and usefulness has here hardly been hinted at, Dr. Govaerts has made a more detailed analysis of 214 families, representing 5,629 individuals, in which occurred 185 tuberculous matings and 29 non-tuberculous matings. He calls "a tuberculous mating one in which the father or mother, one or both, are tuberculous or whose fraternity and ancestry are tuberculous. Non-tuberculous matings are matings in which no member of the family is tuberculous or belongs to a tuberculous stock."

The individuals are classified in two groups, "namely, close contact and non-close contact with tuberculous of the lungs. Close contact means a close contact with a case of tuberculous of the lungs during the whole or a part of life; non-close contact implies the opposite." If infection is more important than blood relationship, then most of the tuberculous individuals ought to be discovered to have had close contact, more or less prolonged, with some diseased person.

The opposite is the fact. The larger number of the tuberculous persons have not been in close contact with a "case."

On the other hand, when the material is classified according to the amount of tuberculosis in the ancestry, the frequency of the disease among the children is found to vary directly with its frequency among their forebears.

How Astronomers Make the Distinction Between Stars and Planets

CHANCE inquirers into the mysteries of space usually are puzzled by the distinction that is to be drawn between stars and planets. All celestial objects except the sun, moon and a few chance comets are apt to be grouped vaguely under the head of "stars" even to the "shooting stars."

The planets shine only by the reflected light from the sun around which they revolve, as does also the earth, which is one of the smaller planets. This light from the sun may be reflected from a rocky surface, as in the case of the moon, which is not a planet, to be sure, but a satellite of a planet—the earth—or it may be reflected by a cloudy atmosphere as in the case of Venus or from surface snow and clouds as in the case of Mars. The outer and larger planets Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune, being chiefly in a gaseous condition, reflect sunlight from the gaseous vapors that envelop their central molten or gaseous cores.

Stars, on the contrary, are suns composed of intensely hot incandescent vapors of many chemical elements emitting light and heat of their own. The heat of the stars is inappreciable to us simply because they are so far away.

In size the planets are conspicuously inferior to the sun and to the average star, though it is now known that there are some dwarf stars in existence that are as small as planets. The sharp distinction remains, however, that planets revolve around a central body that supplies them with the light and heat that they do not possess themselves, while the stars, however small they chance to be, shine by their own light and move through space as independent bodies.

Not only is the distinction between stars and planets one of physical condition and, generally speaking, size, explains an authority in Science and Invention, but it is also one of relative distances.

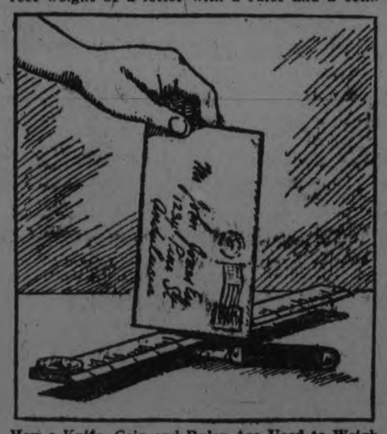
The planets are all comparatively close to the earth. All are companion satellites of the same sun. The nearest, Venus, comes at times within twenty-six million miles of us and the farthest, Neptune, within twenty-seven hundred million, but the very nearest of the stars is twenty-six trillion miles away. An inconceivable great abyss separates the sun and his planet family from the stars.

It is because they are so near that planets appear disk-like in the telescope, just as the sun and moon appear disk-like without the telescope. Even in the most powerful telescope in existence the stars appear as points of light simply because they are so distant.

Weighing Letters Without Scales

WHEN you have no postal scales at hand do you ever guess at the weight of a heavy letter and affix extra stamps to make sure the postage is fully prepaid? Maybe your guess is right, but more often it is not.

By a simple method described in Popular Science Monthly you can easily determine the correct weight of a letter with a ruler and a coin.



How a Knife, Coin and Ruler Are Used to Weigh a Letter.

Place a 25-cent piece on the 12-inch end of an ordinary foot ruler. Rest the ruler upon the sharp edge of a pocket knife at the six-inch mark. Now hold the letter to be weighed loosely between the thumb and finger, and balance it on the ruler at the 4¾-inch mark. One coin will counterbalance one ounce, the limit for two-cent postage. Two coins will counterbalance two ounces, and so on.

Lest you forget, you might make a circle at the end of your ruler and mark the two graduations to be used.

Where FEET Are USED as HANDS

MAN'S foot, as an essential part of his locomotive apparatus, sustains the weight of his body as he walks, its sole being well shaped for adaptation to the inequalities of the ground. In the attitudes of sitting and lying down the foot has an altogether accessory function, at least in the white race, the instances where it serves for grasping objects being quite exceptional.

According to the French investigator, Professor Lannelongue, a point of departure for functional transformation of the foot is found in its century-old adaptation to special usages. That it may better respond to its duties the Occidental foot is inclosed in a rigid and narrow shoe holding it mechanically in a form that prevents its functional development. In the Far East, on the contrary, the foot is sometimes naked, sometimes covered only by a forked stocking, enabling the introduction of a thong between the first and second toe (as in Japan), sometimes covered with a stocking in a shoe or a large cloth slipper (as in China).

Professor Lannelongue explains the functional modifications that the foot takes on according to the preceding circumstances in the two principal attitudes assumed by the human body in the walking state—the crouching and the vertical attitudes.

The crouching attitude is very frequent in India, Japan, Malaysia and even in China. It offers three distinct positions. In one, the most ordinary, the body sits on the heels, in the second it sits on the ground and in the third it sits on nothing and remains in the air.

In each of these attitudes the foot is employed differently. Take the case where the body sits on the ground. The lower limbs, generally much bent, are placed in front of the body, the knees form an angular protuberance and furnish a resting point for the arms. This is a favorite position with the Hindoos, who sometimes sleep in this attitude, and with the Malays and many negroes. This position approaches very closely that habitually taken by apes.

The authority quoted has seen at Tokio in a theatre box a young man of sixteen or seventeen years sitting with his feet grasping the railing as if they were hands, the youth using his right foot to scratch his left thigh and knee. This he did by giving a sidewise movement and a slight rotation to his great toe.

In a second form of squatting the trunk rests directly on the heels. This is the familiar attitude of the Japanese at meals and in general when at home. The foot acquires great suppleness and agility which enables it to endure these attitudes a long time. Furthermore, the great mobility of the toes, particularly that of the great toe, fits these organs to various functions, from those that merely balance the body to those that enable them to grasp objects within their reach.

Finally, there is the squatting attitude, wherein the body rests on nothing at all but is held in the air several inches above the heels. This is rarer than the other two types. It would appear to be a tiresome posture, although those who use it do not find it so. In relation to the independence and the mobility of the toes among Orientals, Professor Lannelongue points out that the big toe is separated from the others, being besides able to execute a slight rotatory movement, so that its upper side turns a little downward. The great toe thus becomes, like the thumb, an organ serving to grasp objects. Even the little toe may also move and rotate slightly. This has been noticed in women who manipulate the paddle on sampans.

A SILVER That RESISTS STAINS

A NEW stain-resisting silver has been introduced recently in Great Britain and, according to a British trade paper, it has alarmed many retail jewelers. They seem to fear that the demand for the new metal may render their stocks of silverware less salable.

The new silver is the result of experiments to discover a method of making silverware which cannot tarnish in ordinary use. The new material is said to be a brand of sterling silver which is described as an original and complex alloy. While not absolutely stainless, it resists tarnish to a remarkable extent and is said to show no fire marks at any stage of making up, according to the Scientific American. The new alloy is pointed to as probably a relief for the household staff from the periodical cleaning of the domestic silver. To maintain its brilliance, the only attention required is an occasional rubbing with a clean chamois leather or a soft cloth. Specimens so treated are reported to have a finish almost equal to new silver, which have undergone no other treatment over periods up to two years. The material is said to be proof against atmospheric oxidation and not affected by damp salt. There is no need for glass linings in salt cellars made of this material.

As supplied to the manufacturing trade, the metal is ductile and can be stamped, spun, raised, forged or drawn. The maintenance of its color and brilliancy over long periods depends upon the proper conditions of working and involves some slight variations from ordinary methods.

The new material is particularly recommended for spoons and forks, especially fancy patterns in which, when made of the ordinary silver-copper alloy, the presence of "fire" gives so much trouble. When melted under proper conditions silanca is said to make satisfactory castings, sound and free from pin holes, the details of the metal being more exactly reproduced than with ordinary silver.

The inventors have been hampered in their work by the necessity of producing an alloy which is entitled to carry the official hall mark denoting standard quality. The minimum proportion of silver to qualify for this mark is 92½ per cent, so that all the work has had to be concentrated upon the slight margin of 7½ per cent of alloying medium.

The new silver cannot be used as anodes in the electroplating bath. The cost at present is about 10 per cent higher than that of standard silver, but strong hopes are entertained that this figure will be lowered as experience in handling the alloy is gained.

Huge Water Lily Serves as a Raft

PERHAPS the most remarkable of the aquatic plants is the giant water-lily known to science as the "Victoria regia." It is a native of Guiana and Brazil. Large, spreading leaves seem to float on the water, though in reality their vast green surface is supported by a strong underwater framework of twisted tissues. The leaves, which are often six feet in diameter with a rim from three to eight inches high, can support considerable weight. As shown in the accompanying illustration one leaf can be used as a raft.

The Leaves of the Brazilian Water Lily Are Often Six Feet in Diameter and Have a Rim Three to Eight Inches High.

The plant bears immense white flowers, often measuring 18 inches across, which greatly resemble a huge daisy. They open in the evening. The seeds of the Victoria regia are edible. For this reason it is extensively cultivated in the Amazon Valley.

Busy Bee Not So Busy

EXPERIMENTS conducted at the bee station of the Department of Agriculture have given fairly definite proof that the "little busy bee" is not as busy as his press agents claim. The raptures of writers about the ceaseless toil and industry of the honey gatherers seem to have been founded on confusion and ignorance. According to Dr. E. Frank Phillips, chief of the bee station, the hustle and bustle about the hives is due to the great number of bees rather than to individual efforts.

By means of a very delicate apparatus and quick-drying paints of various colors, he has been able to check up fairly closely on the bee's activities. He says the individual bee will not make more than five or six trips into the fields a day. The length of these trips will vary from fifteen minutes up, depending on the bountifulness of the nectar they sought. After a bee returns to the hive and deposits his burden, he enters a cell and rests for about half an hour before making another trip. Therefore, the bee's work consumes about half of the hours of daylight, while the other half, as well as the night, is spent in rest.

The same investigation shows that some bees die within three weeks; others live to the ripe old age of three months.

BRITISH CURLERS ARE CHAMONIX CHAMPIONS

Defeated France, Whose Rinks Won Third Position—Canadians Pile Up Score on Swiss Hockey Team — Ski-er Unconscious in Deep Snow.

CHAMONIX, January 31 (Canadian Press). — Hockey, ski-ing, fancy skating, and curling occupied the attention of contestants in the Olympic winter sports yesterday.

The Canadian hockey team defeated Switzerland, 33 to 0. Britain defeated Belgium, 20 to 3; the United States won from France, 22 to 0.

Canada, by defeating the three nations opposed to her in the upper half of the hockey draw, has already earned the right to play against the winner in the lower half, in which the United States and England are tied for first place with three victories each. The tie will be broken to-day when these two teams meet for a decision.

Canada has given an impression of irresistible strength in all the hockey matches.

The United States team has done well, but in one period yesterday against France, faltered badly.

Manager Haddock read the riot act to the boys because he seemed to think they were content to fight for second place, which he told them was thoroughly un-American. They promised to show a peppy brand of hockey against Britain to-day.

Canada was again the centre of interest when the British sextette, including C. G. Carruthers and E. Carruthers, H. P. Pitblado and H. Sexton, all Canadians resident in England, demonstrated their superiority over Belgium.

The Ski Marathon.

A feature of yesterday's games was the ski Marathon race, in which 34 contested, representing eleven countries.

The United States ski-ers decided not to start because of lack of practice.

The Marathon was won by the Norwegian star, Thorlief Haug, who covered the 50 kilometers (31.05 miles) in 3 hours 44 minutes and 32 seconds, remarkable time in the great snow drifts in the mountains.

In this event four Norwegians finished in the first four places, while Sweden captured the fifth and sixth places.

In the fancy skating competition for men, the final choice lay between Grafstrom, of Sweden, and Boockl, of Austria, who were in the lead on Tuesday, when the set figures were contested.

Nathaniel W. Niles, of Boston, was awarded sixth place.

Curling Champions.

Great Britain defeated France in the curling competition, and won the Olympic championship.

Sweden was second, and France was third.

Norway, 71 1-2 points; Finland, 67 1-2; United States, 20; Sweden, 19; Britain, 16; Austria, 15; Switzerland, 14; France, 11; Czecho-Slovakia, 6; Canada, 1—total, 241.

Nine points have been cancelled by withdrawal of fifth and sixth places in the military competition, and fourth, fifth and sixth places in the curling competition.

Ski-er Was Lost.

Zinaja, the champion ski-er of Jugo-Slavia, started in the ski-ing Marathon at 8.30 yesterday morning, and at 5.30 last evening, when he had failed to return to the Stadium the officials sent searchers out to scour the mountains for him. They had hardly more than got out of call than Zinaja, exhausted and stumbling at every step, appeared on the edge of the town. He explained he had been taken with severe cramps ten miles from the goal, and slipped down a steep hill, fainted away, and lay buried in the snow unconscious for a long time, with only his head above the surface. The snow about his body prevented him from freezing to death. He regained consciousness about the middle of the afternoon, and then had taken some three hours and a half to negotiate the few miles back to town.

There was no means of reaching the searchers, and early last evening they were still out looking for the supposedly lost ski-er.

PORT HOPE DEFAULTED O.H.A. GAME TO OSHAWA

OSHAWA, January 31 (Special to The Examiner). — The Port Hope Junior O.H.A. game scheduled for here last night, was defaulted by the former.

This leaves Oshawa with only one more game to play—a postponed fixture of 3rd January with Bowmanville, which will have an important bearing on the group championship, as each team has only one defeat registered against it.

STILL IN RUNNING.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—(Canadian Press).—St. Mary's Juniors are still in the running for local group honors in the O. H. A. Junior series. Last night they defeated Toronto Canoe Club squad by a score of 5 to 1. The Saints showed their superiority at all stages of the game and at no time were they in danger of being beaten. They kept the puck in the Toronto territory for most of the sixty minutes, and when the Canoe Club did shoot, were so closely checked that their shots were ineffective.

HOCKEY

It is anticipated the play-off between Peterborough and winners of Oshawa or Belleville districts will take place Thursday next.

JACKSON TESTIFIES

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 30. — Joe Jackson, who is suing the Chicago Club of the American Club for $16,500 alleged to be due him because of breach of contract by that organization, occupied the stand during the session of the trial here to-day.

Jackson detailed the signing of the contract, which was for three years, and which, he said, he signed because he was advised by Harry Grabiner, Secretary of the Chicago American League Club, that he would be run out of organized baseball if he did not.

Jackson also testified that he was told by the secretary that there would be no ten-day clause in the contract.

Jackson also stated that being barred from organized baseball had cut his earning powers.

MISS COLLETT IN FINAL.

BELLAIR HEIGHTS, Fla., Jan. 30.—Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, defeated Mrs. G .H. Stetson of Huntingdon Valley to-day, six and and five, in the semi-finals of the womens' annual January golf tournament here.

Miss Collett's opponent in the final round to-morrow will be Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Merion Cricket, who defeated Mrs. George R. Morse of Rutland, Vt., 4 and 3.

WITH INDIANAPOLIS.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 30.—Otto (Dutch) Miller, former catcher with the Brooklyn National League baseball team, has signed to paly with the Indianapolis American Association team, Ownie Bush, manager of the local club, announced to day. Miller was with Brooklyn eleven years, but was unconditionally released last season.

U. S. GIRLS DEFEATED.

CHEETHAM, England, Jan. 30. —The West of England ladies' hockey team defeated the All-American girls' field hockey team now touring Great Britain, in a match here to-day by the score of 20 to 4.

CONTRACT TO BE FULFILLED

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, who beleieved he was free of all contract obligations after purchasing his release recently from Joe Jacobs his former manager, now finds that he is still obligated to fulfill conditions imposed under that agreement, including matches with Gene Tunney, Tom Gibbons and Ad. Stone.

McTigue, according to information revealed to-day, automatically bound himself to fulfill the old contract when he removed it from Jacobs' hands, despite the belief that it made a free agent.

McTigue, it was said, would carry his latest fistic dilemma to the State Athletic Commission for interpretation.

SOCCER NOTES

MILE SWIMMING RECORD.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Jan. 30.—Arne Berg, of Sweden, broke the world's record for one mile today, swimming the distance in 22 minutes, 34 seconds.

The previous world's records for the one mile swim have been, for open water, 23 minutes, 30 4-5 seconds, held by Frank Beaurepaire, of Australia, and for the tank, 22 minutes, 39 1-5 seconds, held by Norman Ross of Chicago.

NEW YORK RIVALS PAID PLENTY FOR THESE LADS

DEAN. COOMBS.

Two of the most sought after young ball players in the minors—Wayland Dean, a pitcher, and Earle Coombs, an outfielder—were recently added to the pay rolls of the rival New York clubs. Dean went to Mr. McGraw's Giants, while Coombs was grabbed off by Mr. Huggins' Yankees.

Dean was the best pitcher in the association last year. Coombs is said to be the best outfielder to come out of the south since the days of Joe Jackson. It is needless to add the New York clubs paid plenty for their newest acquisitions.

ZION WON HOCKEY GAME WITH ALERTS

Both Teams Showed Mid-Season Form—Score was 7 to 3.

Zion easily defeated the Alerts in a fast game of hockey on Tuesday night by the score of 7 to 3. Both teams showed mid-season form. Slattery, Garvey and Connors were the best for the winners while Shaughnessy and Clancy starred for the Alerts.

Zion—Goal, G. Burns; defence, Connors and M. Clancy; centre, H. Slattery; right wing, Ed. Garvey; left wing, F. Fitzgerald.

MILLBROOK HOCKEY.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 30.—Lack of a suitable rink has hindered the local hockey hockey enthusiasts from having the necessary practice the last few winters, either a thaw or snow storm spoiling the pond for the sport as often as a space has been cleared for the purpose. However a "scratch" team went to Omemee on Monday evening and enjoyed a game with the boys there, taking their defeat cheerfully, the score beng 6-2. Those going were: H. Lancashire, F. Russell, Ray Hutchison, L. Ingram, M. Williamson, and A. Miller.

AMATEUR CHAMP TEACHES HIS SON ART OF GOLF.

MAX MARSTON SHOWING MAX JR. HOW TO HOLD HIS STICK

Most of all the great golfers start young. Bobby Jones started when he was a mere child. Now he is the open champion of America. Arthur Havers hit his first golf ball at the age of 4. Now he is the open champion of the British empire. Max Marston, present holder of the American amateur championship, has probably been reading up on golf history At any rate, he has decided to start his young son, Max Jr., in as a golfer right away. This picture shows the champion instructing young Max in the art of club swinging.

BOWLING

EXAMINER INTERSHOP LEAGUE.

In the Examiner Intershop League last night at Solomon's Alleys, eight teams were in action.

All winning teams but one took three straight, the Linos taking three from the Proofers; the Directors taking three from the Casters; the Jobbers taking three from the Inters, and the Operators taking two from the Comps.

The Linos, the first half winners, were the big noise of the evening. In their second game the Linos set up a new record for a four-man team when they rolled the sensationally high score of 831 for the one game. This is a record for Solomon's Alleys, and probably is a record anywhere for a four man team, for it gives each player an average of 208. This is a really wonderful score, and it is as good a score as any five man team in the city rolls. The Linos besides shattering a record for a single game, rolled exceedingly brilliant in their other two games. They had three men bowl over 600 and their other man right on 500.

Some exceedingly high scores were set up by the bowlers on the different teams. There were five men over six hundred and eight more so close you could almost put them in that class. Some of the boys had only one and two pins separating them from 600. They were seventeen bowlers well over five hundred last night.

G. Long was high man for the evening with a grand total of 658 for his three games. H. McCauley was right on his heels with 639 for his three games, and he copped the high single of the evening, rolling a nice score of 252 for a single game.

Last night at Solomon's Alleys in the Rebekah Ladies League, the Greens took three straight from the Pinks.

Some lovely scores were rolled by the ladies, Miss Record having the high three games with 386. Huggins Will Give Coombs Real Chance.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30. — Earl Coombs, recently obtained by the New York Yankees from the Louisville Colonels for $50,000, will be used by Miller Huggins as an understudy for Everett Scott, according to a communication received from Huggins by Secretary Ed. Barrow to-day.

Huggins, who is now residing at St. Petersburg, Fla., believes that he has a real find in Coombs and intends to give him every chance to break into Major league company this year. Coombs, like George Sisler, is one of the few players to break into fast company straight from the college diamond.

Appoints Members of Boxing Commission.

ALBANY, N.Y., Jan. 30—Governor Smith late to-day announced the appointment of former Assemblyman James A. Farley of Stony Point, Rockland County, and the appointment of William Muldoon, of New York, as Commissioners of the State Athletic Commission. At the same time the announced the resignation of William J .McCormack as chairman of the Licensing Commission with no appointment as yet to fill the vacancy.

Farley will succeed Frank Dwyer, of Geneva, former member of the Commission, whose term, with that of Muldoon, expired January 1.

George E. Brower, of Brooklyn, will retain his membership on the Commission for another year. Selection of a chairman for the Commission, under its rules, lies in the hands of its members. The appointment of Farley now makes the Commission democratic, with Muldoon the only Republican member.

MORE INTEREST IN HOCKEY.

Popularity of Sport Increasing in Continental Europe.

The constantly increasing popularity of hockey in Continental Europe is indicated by the report in British newspapers of the formation of an International Hockey Federation, with Belgium, Switzerland, Austria, Hungary, Spain, France and Czecho-Slovakia as members.

E. P. Denny an Englishman, who opened a school near Paris, introduced the game on the Continent a few years ago, but it has had a rapid growth and it is expected that the contests in the Olympic Games will give the sport still greater impetus.

CANADIENS WIN FROM HAMILTON ON SOFT ICE

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.— (Canadian Press.)—Any doubt as to ability of Canadiens to overcome the handicaps under which they have been playing lately were set at rest last night when the local club downed Hamilton 5 to 2. The game was played on heavy ice, the mild weather resulting in the samllest crowd of two seasons attending, there being but 2,500 paid admissions. The victory brought the team back to even terms with the Tigers at the foot of the standing.

It was not a brilliant game, due largely to the heavy condition of the ice. The game was very clean.

OTTAWA SENATORS WON FROM ST. PATS

OTTAWA, January 31 (Canadian Press). — Toronto St. Patricks were completely outplayed and decisively outscored in last night's game here. It was only a question of time, even with the visitors leading 2 goals to 0 at the end of the first period.

This score was not a fair indication of the play, and when the locals got things going right in the second and third periods, they made life miserable for John Ross Roach, who with Noble bore the lion's share of the St. Pats' work.

The two goals secured by the green shirts in the opening session were the results of straggling offensives, the first started by Dye and the second by Noble himself.

St. Pats seemed disorganised, their combination rarely worked, individual rushes almost invariably ending at the Ottawa defence.

On the whole they made a sorry showing.

IROQUOIS FALLS LOST.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Jan. 31.—(Canadian Press).—In a remarkably fast game, considering the soft condition of the ice, Sault Ste. Marie last night defeated Iroquois Falls 7 to 2, thus taking both games of the series. Eighteen penalties, evenly divided, mostly for kicking the puck and slashing when the rubber was overskated, were issued. The Falls were outclassed, and in the third period the local played "under wraps."

LINDSAY CARRIED OFF THREE TROPHIES FROM PETERBORO BONSPIEL

Shut Out the District and Only Allowed the City to Win Consolation Cup — O'Connor Took Two Trophies.

ROSS DOBBIN WON

When Peterborough curlers stacked away their brooms to-day at the close of the bonspiel they had bidden adieu to the three principal trophies, the Morrow, Matthews-Blackwell and Waddell, and had only the consolation cup to show for a strenuous three days' battle under adverse conditions.

Peterborough teams were eliminated in the competition as follows:

In the semi-final of the Morrow trophy competition, when J. W. McDermid, sole survivor of twelve rinks entered, was defeated by L. O. Clifford, of Oshawa.

In the qaulification round of the Waddell trophy, when the aggregate points made by the district rinks were 46 higher than the city's score.

Three finals were played off last night and the fourth and last was started this morning at 8.30 on much better ice than favored the curlers yesterday.

The Morrow Trophy was taken by the Lindsay rink skipped by L. V. O'Connor, after a strenuous battle that lasted all day. O'Connor's rink played seven games yesterday and was due in the final for the Matthews-Blackwell trophy. This, however, was laid over until this morning and at the end of the fifth it appeared that the Lindsay rink would take home the bacon. The score at that point was—Keene 5, Lindsay 7.

R. B. Best's rink, skipped for the occasion by R. L. Dobbin, carried off the Peterborough trophy, defeating W. Aldous of Lindsay by 11 to 3. This rink played in four competitions and each member took his turn at skipping, Ross Dobbin, he himself admits, showing his superiority by skipping through to the only victory registered.

In the Morrow trophy competition the rink was skipped by R. P. Best and lost to W. C. George of Orillia in the first round by 11 to 6. J. H. Connal skipped in the Matthews cup preliminary, losing to P. J. Kelly of Campbellford 13 to 6. In the Waddell trophy competition the rink was skipped by H. F. Foote and lost to T. E. Finlay of Norwood by 5 to 3. Then in the consolation series Ross Dobbin took the helm and steered to victory. Ross was much elated.

Skip Dobbin Knows Where to Put Them.

The Waddell Trophy was battled for in the finals by two Lindsay rinks, skipped by Aldous and Nugent, the former winning in the early hours of the morning by 7 to 5. The score by ends:

Aldous ..... XIIXXIXXIIII—7
Nugent ..... IXXI2XXIXXXX—5

Matthews Cup Semi-Final.

There were several good plays in the semi-final game of the Matthews-Blackwell Trophy competition between S. T. Medd and L. V. O'Connor, both rinks making good, and sometimes all but impossible, shots. In the sixth end, with the front bottled up and only one chance to count, O'Connor took the chance and went to the button on a beautiful wick from far left. This was said by many spectators to be the most sensational shot of the tournament, O'Connor's stone touching at exactly the right angle and caroming ten feet to the circle.

In the ninth end, with Peterborough on the button, McAskill made a difficult port, struck out the Peterborough stone and laid his rock on the inner circle. This was an extra end, necessitated by a 6 to 6 tie, and McAskill's was probably the winning shot.

S. T. Medd opened up the guard with his first stone in the last end, but failed to make an almost impossible port, leaving O'Connor lying three. The count by ends:

Medd ..... IX122XXXX—6
O'Connor ..... X2XXX1123—9

Medd Missed a Port in the Final End

Lakefield entered a rink of colts in the bonspiel this season, which recalls the famous rink of that name which name from the northern village to the 'spiel in 1921. This rink was composed of men from 74 to 80 years of age and their play showed that the "boys of the old brigade" were players to be reckoned with. The original colts were R. C. Strickland, L. Payne, F. X. Fortier and J. W. Allen. Mr. Fortier, who was the youngest member of the rink, died two years ago. Messrs. Strickland and Allen are still curling and Mr. Payne has placed himself on the retired list.

Matthews Finals.

Having a train to catch in order to reach his home to-day, and having given up hope of winning the Matthews-Blackwell trophy, J. J. Moore, of Keene, conceded the final to L. V. O'Connor of Lindsay at the conclusion of the ninth when the score stood 15 to 5 against him. The Keene rink failed to count after the fourth end, a disheartening reversal of form after the high marks counted in the previous rounds.

Moore's rink reached the semi-finals in the Morrow trophy and was defeated there by the same rink that sent him down in the Matthews competition. Big scores marked the progress of the Keene rink throughout the two competitions until the Lindsay rink took the ice against it, 9 to 2, 15 to 2 and 12 to 0 being examples of the count in their favour.

L. V. O'Connor and his Lindsay three put two notches in their brooms and carried away the silverware in the two principal competitions and W. Aldous, with another Lindsay rink, had the Waddell trophy under his arm when he arrived among his proud townsfolk.

Bonspiel Notes.

In the Waddell trophy competition, J. W. Ridpath of Lakefield, went comfortably into the semi-finals without playing a game. Three opponents defaulted.

R. B. Best and Howson played an extra end in the semi-final in the consolation series.

L. O. Clifford, M.P. of Oshawa, who was defeated in the finals for the Morrow Trophy, came here five years ago and lifted the Matthews-Blackwell Trophy. He played the same personnel this year.

J. J. Moore of Keene, was defeated last year in the finals for the Morrow Cup and this year beaten in the finals for the Matthews-Blackwell Trophy.

A peculiar freak seen on one of the ices was a rolling stone. It was sent down wobbly, and met another rock just when it had the right angle, turned on its edge and rolled over the circles.

B. Everson of Lindsay, playing in the Waddell final, sent in a fast shot that made a hole in the rink side. He got the stone he went after.

There were eleven defaults in the first round of the play-off for the Waddell trophy. Half an inch of water on the tee is not encouraging and some of the visitors threatened to bring waders to Peterborough's next 'spiel.

Captains and Kings may rise and fall and curlers may come and go, but Angus McIntosh remains forever. He said last night his numerous duties used to include steering visitors to the top storey where a "wee drappie" put new heart into tired curlers. This year the best he could do was steer them toward the coffee urn.

GOOD ICE FOR FRIDAY'S GAME

Parkdale Bringing Strong Team to Meet Petes Here.

The drop in temperature has assured good ice for to-morrow's hockey game between Parkdale Seniors and the Petes and everything points to a real lively battle. With such stars as Cawkell, Jeffrey and Applegath on the line up the Parkdale crew are not to be under estimated but the Petes realizing that they played some very erratic hockey against St. Mary's last week are out to redeem themselves by beating the Paddlers. The game is called for 8.30 o'clock and is arousing much interest among the fans. The Petes practise to-night in final preparation for the game and should be in the pink of condition when they take the ice to-morrow night. It is expected that a Toronto referee will handle the bell.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Jan. 31.—At the morning service in the Methodist church on Sunday of which Rev. H. T. Lewis, whose funeral took place to Little Lake cemetery, Peterborough, last Friday, was a former pastor, the congregation sang the hymn "Servant of God Well Done" in commemoration of his ministry in Cobourg. The pastor, Rev. R. F. Stillman, in giving out this hymn, made suitable reference to Mr. Lewis' pastorate in Cobourg, and said the hymn sung was one that was sung also at a memorial service held for Mr. Lewis in Simcoe street Methodist church, Oshawa, of which he was also a former pastor.

Rev. Mr. Terryberry Here

Rev. Mr. Terryberry, representative of the Lord's Day Alliance, was in town on Sunday. He preached at the morning service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and at the evening service in the Methodist church. He explained what is being done throughout the Dominion in an effort to secure as far as possible a weekly day of rest and opportunity to worship God for every citizen of Canada.

Special Services

Rev. R. F. Stillman is conducting a fortnight's evangelistic services in the Methodist Sunday School Hall and last night's meeting was well attended. Last week he was assisted at one service by Rev. J. W. Baird, of Port Hope, who delivered an earnest message. Today Rev. W. J. H. Smyth, of Seabright, arrives in town and will remain for the rest of the week and assist Mr. Stillman. Mr. Smyth was in Cobourg and gave his services towards carrying forward the work of Bay of Quinte Winter School.

The Late Mrs. Ellen McCourt

The funeral took place at Belleville on Sunday of Mrs. Ellen McCourt, who was born at Foxboro sixty-two years ago. Mrs. McCourt is survived by five daughters and a son: Mrs. John Irvine and Mrs. Albert Bunton, of Belleville; Miss Kathleen, of California, and Misses Anna and Evelyn. The son, Mr. James McCourt, resides in Chicago. A sister, Mrs. Thomas Manning, lives at Demorestville.

Plaintiff Awarded .750

Judge Ward in the Surrogate Court here this week awarded Edward McMaster, of Trenton, $750 and costs, in his action against the executors of the estate of Isaiah Tweedle, of Brighton township. The plaintiff brought action for $1500, payment of a cheque given by Mr. Tweedle to Mr. McMaster a short time before the former's death. Deceased afterwards, it is alleged, stopped payment of the cheque and made a will bequeathing his property, including this money, to his wife and family.

Experimental Orchard

At a meeting held here on Friday prominent apple growers of these counties decided to send a deputation to Toronto to wait upon the Government in regard to having an experimental apple orchard established in this district, where the growing of different varieties of apples may be successfully tried out. It is desired to experiment with some new varieties with a view to coping more successfully with the British Columbia apple trade.

Trenton Man Injured

Harold Blackey of Trenton, it is stated, was quite painfully injured recently while engaged in his usual work at the McLaughlin-Buick factory at Flint, Mich. He was grinding a piston when it broke and fell, giving him a severe gash in the right hand. It was feared at first that amputation, owing to complications which developed, might be necessary, but he is now stated to be doing nicely and hopes to be able shortly to return to work.

Public School Board

At the inaugural meeting of the Cobourg Public School Board, Mr. Henry Field was appointed chairman. Following are the committees:

Finance—T. McKend and B. R. Heaslip.

Purchasing—M. C. Nichols and M. E. Hall.

Property—A. J. Gould and Harry Field.

A resolution of appreciation of Mr. M. C. Nichols' able services as chairman for the past few years was unanimously passed. Mr. Nichols made appropriate reply.

Canning Factory for Smithfield

The village of Smithfield in East Northumberland expects to have a canning factory in operation another season. It is expected that a new factory building, 40 by 140, of three stories, will be built close to the C. P. R. in that village, and will be in charge of a man of experience in the business. Sixty per cent of the capital it is stated, has been obtained in Montreal, and the company, it is further stated, will be known as the Smithfield Canning Co. This year the company will put up tomatoes but another year it is intended to include other lines of canned goods.

RAY KEATING MAY RETURN TO ORGANIZED BASEBALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Pitcher Ray Keating, who jumped the Los Angeles ball club in 1921 to play in the San Joaquin Valley "outlaw" circuit has received word from Judge Landis that if he "behaves" and plays semi-pro ball for a year he can get back into organized baseball.

Keating is playing with a local bush outfit and hopes to get back in the Coast circuit. He is still the property of the Angels.

Keating is the third twirler to apply to Judge Landis for reinstatement in the last few weeks. "Sailor" Stroud and "Dutch" Leonard being the others.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

"THE COVERED WAGON"

All the great American dramas of semi-historical origin seem to hit the times just at the right period and no fuller illustration of this can be shown than the phenominal success of "The Covered Wagon" which comes to the Grand for a special engagement starting Wednesday, February 6th.

This story is the picturization of the great Saturday Evening Post serial of the same title by Emerson Hough which is now in its sixth edition as a book and which was made for Famous Players-Lasky under the able direction of James Cruze.

Emerson Hough as everyone familiar with his works knows was one of the foremost writers of the west and he said just before his death that he had reached the height of his dreams when he witnessed the screen success of his greatest endeavor. The timeliness of his theme in this particular is that it made its appearance when the country was satiated with war alarms and the radicalism which came in the backwash of the war. Contrasted with that ill timed movement of aggression, the story of how these men and women of great courage and high resolution set forth upon their perilous trip of 2,000 miles across the uncharted plains and desert is inspiring. In the covered wagons drawn by oxen and reeling of an average of twelve miles a day they laughed and sang, and loved and suffered and fought to build what is now the great western heart of this greatest of all countries. Its appeal is the personal one of courage to do and hearts to serve that an unknown land might be opened up and the rich stream of wealth comes pouring forth each year in crops that reach to the ends of the world. There is romance and adventure in every move of the winding trains as they trek onward and onward toward the end of the trail and the golden west which was no mere rainbow or chimera but something that will live forever in our minds and hearts.

AT THE CAPITOL.

INTRIGUE OF NORTH FILL SMIX PICTURE WITH MANY THRILLS

The insidious planning of men for the downfall of others is found on the outpost of civilization as well as in its center. "North of Hudson Bay," the Tom Mix special production made by Wlliam Fox, which opens at the Capitol Theatre today contains full evidence of the truth of this statement.

In the picture, a prospector and his partner meet great fortune in striking a rich vein of gold. The prospector writes to his brother, an unwordly youth, to come to the north to partake of his good fortune. The prospector, envied for his luck, is murdered. His partner is accused, condemned, and sentenced to undertake The Journey of Death, a trip from which no criminal ever returns.

The happy youth is on his way north when he meets and falls in love with a young girl who finds that they have the same destination. The youth, before reaching his goal, protests and aids a criminal who is on The Journey of Death. For this aid he is condemned to accompany the prisoner on his Journey of Death.

It develops that the men are unjustly sentenced, that their judge was the real culprit. Drastic measures are taken by the latter to claim the mine of the man he murdered. He atempts to silence the murdered prospector's brother. Thrilling escapes from the far-reaching clutches of the gold-mad fiend make "North of Hudson Bay" one of the finest northern tales ever filmed, and certainly Mix has his finest role here.

AT THE ROYAL.

VAUDEVILLE NOVELTIES AT ROYAL TO-NIGHT.

'The boys with a thousand songs' is what the Palace Theatre in Detroit called "Lester Cook and Burns," a harmony singing trio at the Royal to-night and Friday and Saturday. Part of their offering is to sing any songs suggested by the audience. Shepherd and Ott offer a refined singing, talking, dancing, piano novelty entitled "The Love Lesson." Among the acts appearing at the Royal in the near future are "The Gaffney Girls," "Two Breezy Brunettes," Dave Evelloe, accrobatic dancing comedian; Stevens and Lawrence, speedy dancers with sparkling tunes; Lussiana La Tour, melody surprises; Gilmore and Fox, 'Hot Dog' Thompson, Barri Trio, harmony singers.

"CHILDREN OF DUST" IS PERFECT ENTERTAINMENT.

In "Children of Dust," the current offering at the Royal Theatre, Frank Borzage has come nearer to equalling his immortal picture, "Humoresque," than in any subject since that memorable screen classic.

"Children of Dust," with its living characters, is truly a page from the book of life. It is a human story of real people. The story is of Terwilliger and the lad's love for Helen Livermore, a wealthy girl. He has a rival, Harvey Raymond, another wealthy child. Old Archer, caretaker of a New York estate, plays an important part in the romance. While the story opens with several childhood incidents which have a vital bearing on the tale, most of the action takes place twelve years later. In the sacrifices for love, and in the romance, Borzage mirrors the very essence of life.

The picture throbs with action, comedy and the wistfulness of human incidents which make life worth while. Borzage has instilled into "Children of Dust," which is a First National picture, all of the pathos, humor and romance of "Humoresque" in greater measure. An evening of perfect entertainment is assured those who attend the Royal Theatre this week-end.

Johnny Walker is well cast as Terwilliger, while Pauline Garon and Lloyd Hughes live their respective parts as Helen Livermore and Harvey Raymond. Bert Woodruff is superb as Old Archer, and Frankie Lee, Josephine Adair and Newton Hall splendidly portray the leading characters as children.

AT THE REGENT.

RUSSELL PICTURE IS PACKED WITH ACTION.

A photoplay that carries its adventurous actors through scene after scene of thrilling adventures staged in out-of-doors that have seldom been more artistically reproduced on the screen, was shown last night at the Regent Theatre. It was a Fox production entitled "Good-by, Girls," and carried as its star, William Russell, the very ideal of a big, broad shouldered hero who fights for the safety of his lady-love, beautifully played by Carmel Myers, and the secret she was so anxious to keep.

The action of the play is sweepingly swift and vivid and never for a moment lags. There are scenes in the picture that make it difficult for you to keep from leaping to the aid of Vance McPhee, the big hero writer, and his brave but diminutive little friend.

The story is of an author who thinks himself beset with various aches and pains. His doctor told him to give up medicine and take a wife. He told the doctor that he was wrong. But the old physician knew better.

CANADA NOW TIED WITH THE STATES

Both American and Canadian Teams Have Won Three Games.

CHAMONIX, France, Jan. 31.—(United Press).—Showing improved form, the United States hockey team entered into a tie with Canada in the Olympic championship here this morning by defeating and eliminating the English team. The score was 11 to nil.

Both the Canadian and American teams have won three games and lost nine, while the English team has won two and lost one.

The improved form and spirit shown by the Americans may have been the result of the riot act which William Haddock, manager of the team, read to his athletes yesterday.

After they had faltered badly in the match against France, Haddock accused of being willing to accept second place in the championship and of paying too much attention to the word going around that the famed Canadians cannot be beaten.

FOR 15 YEARS WAS TROUBLED WITH ECZEMA

There is no other remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters that can possibly give such relief to all sufferers from eczema, salt rheum and all other diseases of the blood for the reason that this old and well tried remedy goes right to the seat of the trouble and completely and permanently drives these diseases out of the system by cleansing the blood and making it pure and rich.

Mr. F. W. H. Schultz, Pembroke, Ont., writes: "Having been troubled with eczema for fifteen years, during which time I tried everything I could think of, including doctors, but without getting anything to do me much good I finally decided to take Burdock Blood Bitters, and I was certainly surprised to find that two weeks after I had started to take it I was relieved of my trouble. That was nine months ago, and I have not had a sign of it since. I surely wish to thank you for this wonderful medicine and strongly recommend it to anyone suffering from the same trouble as I had."

NON JURY TRIAL FOR DIRECTORS

Appellate Court Rejects Attorney-General's Appeal--Order for Speedy Trial Stands.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—(Canadian Press.)— With three members opposed and two in favor of the appeal, the First Divisional Appellate Court at Osgoode Hall to-day handed down a judgment rejecting the appeal of the Attorney General of Ontario from the mandamus granted by Mr. Justice Middleton in which Senior County Judge Emerson Coatsworth was directed to grant a speedy trial in the County Judge's Criminal Court to ten directors and officials of the Home Bank of Canada.

The accused were arrested following the suspension of the Home Bank in August last on charges arising out of their management of the defunct institution. The upholding of Mr. Justice Middleton's mandamus order means a trial without a jury.

DEPUTATION URGES STABLE ASSESSMENT

TORONTO, Jan. 31. — Urging that the government take steps to amend the assessment act in order that more stabilized assessment might be available for the smaller industries, as is the case with the railways at the present time, and requesting that the government do all in its power to assist research work along industrial lines, a deputation of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Ontario Branch, had a private meeting with Premier Ferguson and members of his cabinet this morning. The deputation also suggested that the government undertake an immediate survey of business conditions in order that a plan might be worked out whereby business and unemployment conditions might be generally subjected to review.

Premier Ferguson assured the deputation that it was the intention of his government to do all in its power to bring about better conditions in industry and thereby assist in stabilizing the unemployment situation.

RADIO NEWS

Batteries for the plate supply of a radio set are made in two common sizes, the 22½ volt size and the 45 volt size. The 45 volt size is used a great deal on account of its form being convenient for the average set containing a detector and two stages of audio frequency amplification. The 45 volt units are more convenient when a high voltage is desired for the operation of a power amplifier.

When a single 45 volt battery is used on a set the general method is to place the positive 45 volt tap to the two amplifier tubes which are connected in parallel, the 18 or 19½ volt tap to the plate of the detector tube, and the negative to the whole three tubes. The negative end of the battery thus supplies current to all three tubes when this method is used and consequently this end becomes exhausted earlier than the positive end, which only furnishes current to the amplifier tubes. When part of the battery is exhausted in this manner the whole battery is usually discarded and it can be easily seen that this service is not economical.

To overcome this it is best to use convenient blocks of 22½ volt B batteries and interchange them at intervals so that the current consumption will be equally distributed among the whole battery. Use one 22½ volt battery for a month on the detector unit and then exchange its place with one of the amplifier batteries.

When B batteries are used but little so that the amount of current drawn from them is small, the shelf life becomes an important factor and has more effect on the life than does the hour capacity. This means that if your set is used but little, it will pay you to buy the smaller size of battery on account of the deterioration of the battery while lying idle being more than the discharge of the battery through the tubes. It is not necessary to disconnect the B batteries when the set is not in use as this will not increase the life of the battery appreciably.

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Jan 31. —(United Press).—Stocks were stimulated in the early dealings by the proposal to include in the tax reduction measure a provision for a cut of 25 per cent on all personal income taxes paid this year on 1923 income.

The Industrials were particularly favored. General Motors moved up fractionally to 15 1-4 while Dupont spurted more than two points to a new 1923 high at 134 3-4.

Strength in these issues reflected the expectation of important developments at the General Motors meeting in February.

Steel Common gained 3-8 to 105 7-8 and fractional advances took place in old line rail shares including Union Pacific, New York Central and Northern Pacific.

Leaving Davison Chemical out of consideration, no trace of the irregularities prevailing in Wednesday's late dealings were in evidence through the first hour.

The Motors continued to lead the Industrials under the stimulus of the extraordinary strength in General Motors which went to a new 1924 high at 15 3-5, an appreciation of over $20,000,000 in market statue over the previous sessions low. Its extensive General Motors holding caused Dupont to advance sharply, selling at 139 5-8, an eight point jump from Wednesday's low. Studebaker also rallied sharply at the expense of an over crowded short interest, re-bounding to 104 compared with a recent low of 99.

Bankers, brokers and traders operating on the Constructive side of the market hold that developments over the next three or four months will favor a continued upward movement. They base their conclusions on easy money, copper, oil and other mergers, expansion in operations of industrial companies, extra increase and stocks dividends progress of the plan for reduced taxation and the belief that European conditions will improve. It is held that the favorable Steel Corporation report for the fourth quarter of 1923 and an increase in Steels common dividend will go a long way toward attracting public trading in stocks.

THIS LITTLE WORLD

By HAROLD MATSON.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Somebody back in 1814, or thereabouts, told the builders of this city that "a straight line is one of duty, a curved line one of beauty," and they, being politicians, chose both.

Finding one's way in New York, San Francisco or Chicago is child's play compared to the maze strangers meet in Washington.

Between the curved lines of beauty, with the circles, bends and ovals, and the straight lines of duty, with the squares, trapezoids and triangles, it is a real adventure for a stranger to set out alone.

* * *

Radial streets, shooting in all directions from the capital give a map of the city the aspect of a boy's drawing of the sun, moon and stars. Intermittently, along each avenue, there is a circle, nearly as big as a football field. The street winds itself around these circles.

"Strategic city," Washington has been called. Revolutionists or enemies could never make a beeline advance on the capitol.

* * *

"If it looks as though you are going away from your destination you are on the right car."

Bound for the capitol building, one sees it on the right, then on the left, behind and ahead. One imagines the car gets there by waltzing its way along—a swing, a step, a complete turn and a glide.

* * *

Every car seems to reach the Union Station some place along its route. No matter where you are bound you are (reasonably) sure to suffer a minute or two delay while your car waits for another passenger at the station.

That's one consolation, for the stranger. When he is leaving town he can't help but find the station.

* * *

Streets are northwest, northeast, southwest and southeast. When one wants to go to any address—for instance, 21 First street southwest—there is only one way to do it, for a stranger. Get on a street car and watch the signs. He'll get around there somehow.

* * *

Conversation and oratory takes on circles. Visit Congress for that. Washingtonians even eat themselves into circles. Observe the corpulent figures, behind Government desks, describing millions of circles with their twirling thumbs.

And it is said, in the innermost circles, that there is a way of getting around certain legislation with resulting sensations of whirls and more circles!

TORONTO UNEMPLOYED CONFER WITH PREMIER

OTTAWA, Jan. 31. Canadian Press —Claims of unemployed ex-service men, of Toronto, who are disabled and not in receipt of a pension, were placed before Hon. H. S. Beland, Minister of Soldiers Civil Re-Establishment this morning, by a delegation from Toronto.

The delegation conferred with the Minister in private, but it was stated after the conference that a strong request for financial assistance was made. No decision as to whether or not the request of the delegates would be granted was made to-day, but two of the delegates remained in the city to discuss the matter with Beland and the Prime Minister to-morrow morning.

JAPANESE DIET HAD CLOSE CALL

TOKIO, Jan. 31.—(United Press.)—An attempt on the lives of 25 members of the Japanese Diet and leaders in political activities of the Empire was frustrated to-day.

Obstructions of heavy timbers and stones had been piled on the track ahead of a train on which they were returning to Tokio from a political meeting at Osaka. The engineer of the train was able to see the danger in time to apply the brakes and reduce the speed.

The train struck the obstruction however, and was derailed, but no one was injured.

Included among those whose lives were endangered was former Premier Takahashi, Kinukai, leader of the Nationalist party and Yoski, for years prominent in political and governmental affairs.

Twenty-two other members of Diet were on the train.

IN MEMORIAM

Deep in my heart lies a picture,
Of a loved one laid to rest,
In memory's frame I shall keep it,
Because she was of the best.

My lips cannot speak how I loved her,
My heart cannot tell what to say;
I have lost: Heaven has gained
One of the best the world contained.

UNANIMOUS FOR THE ANNULMENT OF OIL LEASES

Teapot Dome Oil Lands Leased Without Authority U. S. Senate Resolution Declared — Denby Meanwhile Standing Pat and Defiant.

Prepare to Prosecute.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(Canadian Press). — Adopting unanimously the Walsh resolution for the annulment of leases of naval oil reserves in Wyoming and California, the Senate yesterday plunged into a bitter fight over the Robinson resolution asking for the immediate resignation of Secretary of the Navy Denby, who signed the lease of the oil lands to Harry F. Sinclair and E. L. Doheny.

The Walsh resolution was carried as presented by the Senate without modification of language. It charges that the lease of the naval reserves by former Secretary of the Interior A. B. Fall was made without authority and contrary to law.

Meanwhile Secretary Denby continued to stand pat on his declaration that he would not resign.

Subpoena Doheny.

A new development in the situation yesterday was the issuing of a subpoena for E. L. Doheny, oil magnate, who is to appear before the Senate Investigating Committee today. The subpoena insuring Doheny's appearance was sent out after Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, had demanded that he be subjected to a searching examination "as to whether he advanced money to any other public official aside from Fall."

Under a resolution introduced into the House of Representatives, Harry F. Sinclair, now in France, would be requested to return here and explain to "Congress and the American public, the $25,000 loan to ex-Secretary Fall."

Fall's Condition.

Fall was yesterday confined to his sick room. A medical commission is expected to report today to the Senate as to whether his condition will permit of his being examined

President Coolidge was in conference yesterday with various officials and gave consideration to the quality of the counsel he has selected to prosecute the oil lease cases.

BRIAND RUMORS STIR POINCARE

French Premier Nervous and Bitter Against the Opposition—25,000 War Damages to Be Revised.

PARIS, Feb. 1—The Chamber of Deputies last evening reached a vote on the third article of the first of 85 amendments to Premier Poincare's tax economy projects. The Premier showed the effects of the dilatory tactics of the deputies in more than usual nervousness and bitterness in dealings with that section of the Chamber which is against the Government.

M. Poincare said the Government was aware that intrigue was going on in the lobbies, while confusing and destructive discussion was proceeding in the Chamber. Rumors of an intended attack by Andre Tardieu and M. Herrit, the latter, leader of the Radicals, in the Cabinet, with a view to bringing Aristide Briand back to power, were rife during the afternoon. Color seemingly was lent these reports by the intervention of M. Briand in the debate.

The former Premier was listened to with the greatest attention and cries from the Radical benches of "There is a statesman!" were mingled with applause as he sat down after having pronounced a few conciliatory words to bring the Chamber together on the adoption of a compromise measure of minor importance on the question of revision of the war damages schedule. The Chamber, however, adopted the compromise proposed by Premier Poincare.

The Chamber eventually voted an amendment by which all war damages amounting to more than a million francs shall be revised. The vote was 319 to 235.

M. Reibel, Minister of Liberated Regions, said there were about 25,000 such awards.

T. P. O'CONNOR MAY BE STAGE CENSOR.

Duties Included In the Position of Lord Chamberlain — Labor Man Mentioned.

LONDON, Jan. 31. —((Canadian Press Cable.) — According to the London Star the position of Lord Chamberlain, which includes the duties of censorship of stage plays will be offered to T. P. O'Connor, veteran nationalist member of the house of commons who spoke on the labor side during the recent election campaign, or to James Sexton, the Liverpool dock workers' leader and member of parliament for St. Helens.

Mr. O'Connor, some years ago, held the office of censor of movie films, a position voluntarily maintained by the cinema industry. Sexton's qualifications may be based on the fact that he some years ago wrote a play dealing with labor matters which received a decided if ephemereal success. The office of Lord Chamberlain has hitherto always been held by a peer.

WILL MAINTAIN PRESENT WAGE MINERS AGREE

Convention Decides to Fight Any Wage Reduction But Defer Demand For Shorter Work Day—Insurgents Call For 30-Hour Week.

Vote Overwhelming.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Forces of the United Mine Workers of America were pledged by the delegates in convention here yesterday to fight against any wage reduction, but elected at the same time to defer their demand for a shorter work day. The vote was overwhelming. Today the convention will vote on the proposal of the Scale Committee that they attempt to secure a wage contract for a term of four years.

Opposition to the proposal for a renewal of the contract was started by insurgents who demanded a six-hour day and five-day week, but they weakened before the united front of all district presidents of the union, and the three international officers who pleaded for unanimity that "the integrity of the union may be preserved."

Arguments Overthrown.

Oratory of President Frank Farrington of the Illinois District, chairman of the Scale committee, Vice-president Phillip Murray and Secretary William Green, beat down every argument of the insurgents. They represented that the union is not in condition to wage a fight for a shorter workday, that the public will not support such a demand, and that the operators would welcome it.

In the course of debate on recommendation by the Policy Committee which will be voted on to-day, it was explained that that committee will determine whether a strike in any situation affecting a district of the United Mine Workers is necessary, and should the necessity arise the committee will give any individual district or group of districts authority to close their own contract without waiting for the central competitive field as awhole to close a contract.

Protect Miners.

"Everything humanely possible will be done my your officers," International President John L. Lewis said, in making a preliminary statement, "to protect your interests." He told a delegate from Nova Scotia who interrupted him that no one could say what can be done in that district; that negotiations have been discontinued until next week.

Inquest Next Monday In J. Payne's Death.

LINDSAY, Jan. 31. — After a conference to-day with Provincial Officer Storey and with Coroner Dr. Clarke, Crown Attorney J. E. Anderson fixed the hour for holding the inquest in regard to the death of John Payne, the Barnardo Home boy, of Omemee, for Monday, Feb. 4, at 1 o'clock. It is expected that the inquest will be of short duration with few witnesses.

TWO DIFFERENT CLASSES IN UNITED STATES NOW

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(Canadian Press).—A foreign diplomat, according to an administration official yesterday, when asked by his Government about prohibition conditions in the United States, replied as follows: "The United States is divided into two classes. With reference to prohibition some have a little still and those who still have a little."

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Feb. 1. — (Canadian Press). — Mme. Helen Del Puente, said by her friends to have been in her youth a prima donna in grand opera, is dead here at the City Orphanage and Home for the Aged. Mme. Del Puente, despite her 70 years, had retained much of her beauty and volume and she delighted to sing arias for her friends. Opera people who came to Ogdensburg invariably visited Mme Del Puente.

EXPORTS GRAIN PEOPLE HUNGRY

Kameneff Tells Congress of Soviets That Exports Are Necessary — New Offensive on Private Capital.

MOSCOW, Feb. 1.—The Government's policy which M. Leo. Kameneff, spokesman for the Council of Commissars, outlined as an offensive against private capital and the worst form of what has been known as the new economic policy was adopted unanimously by the Federal Congress of Soviets here yesterday afternoon.

M. Kameneff's speech of Wednesday night, in which he dealt with various phases of the Government's external and internal policy was subjected to some criticism. One workman representative, Delegate Kerenitseff of Kharkov, declared the export policy to be a damaging one for the country, which needed the grain to feed the hungry and the oil and the wood to warm the populace while the importation of such luxuries as oranges was unnecessary.

M. Kameneff explained that exports were necessary to keep the vital industries alive.

"We are not moving away from the economic policies of Lenine," he declared. "On the contrary, we are passing over to an offensive policy against private capital and gainst the bad features of the new economic policy."

Vaccinate Students Or Quarantine Them.

LONDON, Jan. 31. — By order of Dr. W. S. Downham, London's medical officer of health, all students of the Central Collegiate Institute of this city, must submit to immediate vaccination or remain isolated in their homes for a period of two weeks.

This action was taken after it was discovered that a student had been confined to her home suffering from smallpox. Members of the teaching staff must also submit to vaccination.

AIR TRANSPORTATION SOON BE PROFITABLE

OTTAWA, Feb. 1. — (Canadian Press). — Within twenty years air transportation will be placed upon a sound commercial footing and will become a vital factor in providing facilities for commercial development.

This is the opinion of Col. W. G. Barker, V.C., who has just taken over the duties as Acting Director of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Col. Barker was careful to point out that this development would come in a lighter than air type of airship.

Manitoba Liquor Profits $516,000

WINNIPEG, Feb. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Profits made by the Manitoba Liquor Commission in the last three months of 1923 under the new system of Government sale amount to about $16,000, it became known here today.

Official announcement is expected shortly. It is pointed out that this figure will be above the average profit, as it included the Christmas and New Year's season, and also a general stocking up by those whose cellars had gone dry under prohibition. Half of the net profits go to the municipal treasury.

GETTING READY FOR HIS COMING-OUT PARTY

But Sunshine To-Morrow Will Break Up the Party.

If the sun shines tomorrow, winter will maintain its siege for another six weeks. Such is old legend which generations have handed down that if woodchuck or bear sees his shadow on Candlemas Day he will return to his cosy sleeping quarters for six weeks. Of course you say emphatically that this bit of weather lore has no basis in fact and experience, still you hope it may be true. A cloudy Candlemas is accepted as a promise, even if it prove false, of an early spring inspiring a hope to which we may cling even during February's bitter days. Winter may linger without regard to the popular trust in the appearance and decision of the groundhog, the bear and the other sleepers, but we are buoyed and comforted if the sun has been clouded. It prepares us for finer weather and in that mood we find finer weather even in this cold that may continue until March whose disposition and successive moods are supposed to be signified by its first day. If March comes in like a lion it will go out like a lamb. However, we still have the worst of February to struggle through and if our luck doesn't desert us as inconsistently as it did the curlers this leap year February may not be so fearsome as some of the Februaries in our memory even if the Ground Hog is snow-blinded on Saturday.

LIQUOR REFERENDUM IN SASKATCHEWAN COMING

REGINA, Sask., Feb. 1.—(By Canadian Press).—A liquor referendum will be taken in Saskatchewan at a date which the Legislature is to decide, it was stated in the speech from the throne presented at the opening of the provincial Assembly yesterday afternoon.

Mention was made of the petition asking for an immediate referendum to the people of the liquor question and counter representations request ing that the vote be delayed. "Legislation will be introduced," continued the speech, "which will furnish an opportunity for you to determine the most suitable time for a plebescite and all necessary matters relating thereto."

It was announced that the Government was determined to oppose the tax imposed by Manitoba on trading in grain futures. There will be legislation bearing on the problem of noxious weeds, on financial arrangements with the co-operative creameries, on agricultural co-operative associations, crop payments and various amendments to existing legislation.

BAR POKER CHIPS IN CHURCH COLLECTIONS.

CANNES, Feb. 1.—(United Press) —Christ Church here doesn't interfere with the gaiety of the Casino, but it does object to being tainted by anything associated with the gaming tables. It has warned worshippers, who also frequent the Casino, that whatever the practice down the road may be, they must place cash when the church plate is passed. An absent-minded member of the congregation put two white chips on the plate one Sunday.

Doctor Poisoned Hand With File

THE PAS, Man., Feb. 1.—(Canadian Press).—As a result of driving a rusty file, which he was using to open an oyster, into the palm of his hand, Dr. R. D. Grok, President of The Pas Dog Derby Association and a prominent local physician, was rushed by train last night to a Winnipeg hospital where he will undergo an operation for blood-poisoning.

INFANT DEATHS HIGHER IN JUNE

Increase of 12.5 Over June, 1922—Birth-Rate For the Month Less Than That of Previous Three Years.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—(Canadian Press).—A decrease in the birthrate and an increase in infant mortality during the month of June, 1923, is shown in the report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics just published for all Canada excepting Quebec, during that month. The birth-rate averaged in that month 23.3 per thousand, which is from two to four per thousand less than in the previous three years. The death-rate among infants under one year old was 69.9 per thousand, an increase of 12.5 over the previous year and 3.7 higher than June, 1921.

Maternal deaths due to childbirth were 5.5 per thousand living births.

The number of births registered in June, 1923, was 151 in Prince Edward Island, 961 in Nova Scotia, 942 in New Brunswick 5902 in Ontario, 1294 in Manitoba, 1,544 in Saskatchewan, 1,179 in Alberta and 809 in British Columbia a total of 12,782, not including Quebec.

The number of deaths registered was 4,907, a slight decrease compared with the previous June.

GERMAN BANKER MEETS EXPERTS

Recommends Immediate Organization of Proposed Gold Bank—Not Involved In Reparation Problem.

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—Discussion of the projected Bank of Emission was resumed by Expert Committee No. 1 yesterday, the president of the Reichsbank, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, being the first of the German officials to be heard.

The Reichsbank head, who is also the Federal Commissioner of Currency, is reported to be in favor of having the new gold bank organized at once, believing that neither its security nor functioning is in any way tied up with the ultimate solution at the reparation problem.

Divergent View.

While emphasizing the desirability of having the bank in operation at the earliest possible date, he differs with the experts in respect to the proposition of making the new institution a rigidly independent one as he recommends constituting it as an independent branch of the Reichsbank with the idea of eventually merging it with the Reichsbank when the new gold issue is firmly secured.

Dr. Schacht also advocates that the reserves be in bullion or foreign securities, immune from fluctuation.

Assume Burdens.

The League of German Industrialists is also clamoring for the gold bank, which it views as indispensable for the restoration of German economics. The issue was up for discussion at Wednesday's meeting of the League's Executive Committee at which several leaders frankly confessed that big business would have to assume the nation's tax burdens and assume them cheerfully.

Second Committee.

BERLIN, Feb. 1. — Chancellor Marx and his ministers last night formally received and welcomed the Second Committee of Experts. The Chancellor, in a brief speech, assured the committee of the determination of all the Government departments to do their utmost to facilitate the committee's arduous task.

Reginald McKenna, the British delegate, in replying, thanked the Chancellor for his assurance of assistance and expressed confidence in successful and speedy work.

The Second Committee held a sitting this afternoon, when two representatives of the Deutsche Bank, Herr Bergman and Dr. Wassermann, attended.

COMPANY BOOKS SHOW NO TRACE OF SLUSH MONEY

Former Accountant Says Grant to Ex-Premier Squires Was Absorbed in Records—Prominent Witness Too Far Away to Be Summoned.

Newfoundland Probe.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Feb. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Close scrutiny of banking methods and bookkeeping of the Dominion Iron & Steel Co., and the establishment by evidence that the accommodation of Sir Richard Squires to the extent of $46,000 had not been specifically recorded in the books by J. J. Miller, a accountant of the company, featured the hearing yesterday by the Royal Commission inquiring into activities of the late Squires' administration of Newfoundland.

J. J. Miller, formerly accountant of the Wabana Iron Mines, who is declared to have advanced to Sir Richard Squires $46,000 of the company's funds, admitted that he had not shown the amount on the books, and that although the records had been transferred to Sydney, N. S., the absorption of the $46,000 had not been carried out in such a manner as to be distinguishable by the Sydney bookkeepers without guidance from himself or somebody familiar with the entries.

A. Tasman, present accountant at Wabena, testified that such appropriation of funds was possible under the old system of bookkeeping, but that the system had been revised and such handling of funds would not now be possible. He said the amount in question was still charged against Miller on the books at Sydney, and that it never had been written off nor had any authority for its appropriation ever been issued by any official of the corporation.

Commissioner T Hollis Walker and Premier Warren discussed the question of absent witnesses who should be at the inquiry. One was D. H. McDougall, former vice-president of the British Empire Steel Corporation now in Vancouver. It was agreed that Mr. McDougall could hardly be brought here in time for the inquiry. Hector McInnes, K.C., of Halifax, had also been requested by wire to attend the hearing, but no response had been received. Another was Mr. Glennie, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia here, when the affairs now under investigation were in progress. His general manager at Toronto, where Mr. Glennie is now located, had been communicated with and had replied that Mr. Glennie was in ill-health following an attack of pneumonia, suffered while he was in Newfoundland, and asked that his evidence might be taken in Toronto. He feared the result of Mr. Glennie's health should he visit the colony at this time.

Adjourned to Monday.

Merton E. Lewis, counsel for Sir Richard Squires, asked that an adjournment be taken until Monday next, on the grounds that his client, who is to be placed on the stand next, had not time to study previous evidence and consult him. He declared that he had not had sufficient opportunity to consult with his client and as no objection to the adjournment was raised by the prosecution it was assented to by the Commissioner.

MAID'S ARREST REVEALS HOTEL ROBBER CLIQUE

Girl, Held in $50,000 Theft Here, Admits Man Aided Her to Steal $80,000 Jewels.

Out of the arrest of Miss Marie Golden, alias Edna Hall and five other aliases, maid at the Ambassador Hotel, on charges of jewel robberies, detectives working under Inspector Coughlin believe they will unearth a clique of clever hotel thieves whose loot may run into stupendous figures.

Miss Golden was arrested in her apartment, No. 1 Northern avenue, Washington Heights, Monday night. The arrest followed the theft of $50,000 in jewels from Mrs. Margaret C. Throop at the Hotel Ambassador in this city. The maid later confessed to participation in the theft of $80,000 in gems from a guest at the Ambassador Hotel, Atlantic City. Detectives were immediately sent to various cities on clues in other hotel robberies.

Maid Arraigned Here

Upon her own confession in the Atlantic City robbery, the victim of which was Morris Abrams, the hotel maid was arraigned in Yorkville Police Court yesterday and held without bail. With her in court was Mrs. Dora Goldipper, in whose apartment the maid lived. At the time of the descent upon the apartment of the detectives, Mrs. Goldipper is alleged to have had a revolver, and it was upon the technical charge of violating the Sullivan law that she was taken along.

Awaiting outcome of the investigation now under way, both women will be held by the police. In the meantime, detectives anticipate arrests of alleged confederates of Miss Golden in other cities where she had worked as a maid.

Left Trunk Open

Detectives Frazer and Arnold, of the East Fifty-first street station, who, with Captain Vaughan, of the Hotel Men's Association, have been working on the jewel robbery at the Hotel Ambassador here since Mrs. Throop's gems disappeared, Saturday, January 19. They have unearthed they say, an amazing tale of masquerading by Miss Golden.

The robbery at the Hotel Ambassador here was perpetrated, it is alleged, while Mrs. Throop was engaged in the reception room of her suite with her social secretary. The maid, going under the name of Miss Hall, had started to work that day.

Mrs. Throop had left a trunk open and inside it were her jewels in an ivory case. The maid disappeared from the room while Mrs. Throop was still engaged. The next day she found the case with its $50,000 jewels missing. But in a package that had been alongside the case was a string of beads, valued at $30,000, which were left intact.

Evidently the thief who had departed with the loot in the ivory case had thought the innocent looking package contained nothing worth while.

Later developments showed that Miss Hall had surreptitiously left the hotel soon after the robbery. In a room adjoining Mrs. Throop's suite they found her toque hat and maid's uniform. In their stead she donned a hat and coat belonging to another guest of the hotel.

Thus garbed, the maid, it is alleged, assuming an air of comfortagle assurance, hurried to the elevator and passed to the street through the hotel lobby under the eyes of house detectives.

And here is where a bit of the cleverest detective work ever done at Mulberry street domes into the tale. Inspector Coughlin's men needed clues. They had the hat and they had the signature of Miss Hall upon the hotel employes' registry. They started to work.

Traced by Hat

Lieutenant Frazer and Detective Arnold went to the manufacturer of the hat. Eventually they learned that a shop on West 125th street had sold a toque hat exactly like the one worn by Miss Hall. In their possession they had a circular issued by the Atlantic City police in 1921, after the Ambassador Hotel robbery there.

The shopkeeper on One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street at once recognized a photograph upon the circular—one of a woman in bathing pose, as Miss Hall. She had bought the hat from him and there was no mistaking in his mind that Miss Hall and the woman in bathing attire were the same.

The bathing girl was known, according to the Atlantic City police description, under the names of Helen Golden, Margaret Miller, May Sheen, Lillian Kelly, Annie Peterson and Helen Graham.

With this identity established, detectives obtained all the information they could get from Atlantic City as to the gem robbery there. Among other things, they secured a copy of a signature of Helen Golden from checks on file at the Ambassador. Comparison with the signature of Edna Hall, they say, convince them still further that Miss Golden and Miss Hall were identical.

The Atlantic City robbery, it developed, was achieved by Miss Golden through an accomplice, going under the name of Joseph Anderson To Miss Golden had been entrusted a set of keys that would fit every suite on the floor upon which the wealthy Mr. Abrams, victim of the robbery, had his rooms.

Bathing Season On

The bathing season was on. The maid, attired in her neatly-fitting bathing suit, went into the surf. She never reappeared at the hotel and it was supposed that she was drowned.

Instead of that tragic happening, it appears now that Miss Golden rambled along the beach until she met Anderson, her alleged confederate Quickly he drew her into an automobile and they went to Sea Isle, where they stopped at a hotel. Her accomplice showed her jewelry which he said was worth $80,000.

While she was donning street attire Anderson disappeared.

All of this narrative was substantiated by Miss Golden, the detectives say, when she was arrested Monday night. She had been the dupe, she declared, of Anderson, whom she called her sweetheart.

It was partly through the hat left at the Ambassador Hotel and partly through a money order that Miss Golden had forwarded to the Northern avenue apartment while she was at Atlantic City that the detectives finally traced her. The money order had been made out to Mrs. Goldipper.

When arrested, Miss Golden had in her hand the fragments of a telegram. The detectives patched it together. It read:

"Send on the stuff."

In her cell at Jefferson Market yesterday, Miss Golden, while insisting defiantly that she was not Edna Hall and that she knew nothing of the Throop robbery, unhesitatingly admitted complicity in the Atlantic City one.

CHANGE PROPOSED IN SCHOOL GRANT

Distribution Would Be From a Necessitous School Fund According to Fergnson's Plan

TORONTO, February 1 (Canadian Press). — The whole basis on which the Provincial Educational Act at present provides for apportioning grants to school sections is to be virtually swept away by legislation at the coming session of the Legislature.

In place of the present rigid system of grants in accordance with school standards and of differentiation between rural and urban areas, there is to be constituted a more flexible system of grant dispensed largely at the discretion of the Minister of Education.

The legislation bringing about the new system is at present being worked out by Premier Ferguson, and in its details it represents the instrument by which he intends to realise his already expressed intention of distributing educational aid with regard to the needs of individual districts, making the wealthy ones carry more fully their own burdens and assistin~ the poorer ones to bear theirs.

The plan which the Premier has evolved has two central features.

The first is that the grant to each school section throughout the Province will be a lump sum of an amount only moderate to be the same in every district.

The second is that, in consequence of this moderate statutory distribution, the greater part of each year's educational grant will remain in one central fund. This fund will be apportioned by the Hon. Mr. Ferguson to individual school districts upon any basis which he may see fit to adopt, whether it be that of the standard maintained, of pupils accommodated, or of general need.

This main fund will, in consequence, be analogous to a "Necessitous School Fund," which is at present maintained for Northern Ontario.

At the present time the Minister of Education can draw upon this fund as he sees fit, to assist needy schools.

LETTER CARRIERS SEEKING A RAISE.

WINDSOR, Feb. 1.—Letter carriers of Windsor, in conjunction with those of other centres in Canada, are exerting every effort to obtain for their branch of the civil service what they term a "fair,living wage."

The carriers are seeking an increase on a percentage basis, keeping pace with the increase in the cost of living and the abolition of the present bonus system.

At present the maximum wage for carriers is $1,260 per annum, with a bonus of $300. The minimum man, the beginner, gets an annual salary of $780, with the same bonus.

From 1914 to 1918 there was no increase in the carriers' wages. Then a strike was called.

"We all regretted it as much as the public and the government", Mr. Taylor told The Star.

A bonus of $350 was granted that year. The annual wage in 1918 was $936.

"The bonus, considering the increase in the cost of living from 1914 to 1918, was a drop in the bucket," Mr. Taylor declared.

Bonus Reduced.

A year ago a 25 percent reduction was made in the bonus. At the second last session of parliament, a threat to wipe out the bonus without providing a substitute, was made. Due to the strenuous opposition, led by the late Hon. W. C. Kennedy, federal member for Windsor, the threat did not materialize.

At present a committee is working on the problems and the carriers believe it their best policy to present their side of the case in a fair manner.

"We are particularly interested in the minimum man," Mr. Taylor and J. McKernan, secretary of the Windsor branch, stated.

Many of the newcomers were returned men, they said. But the fact remained, they added, that many of these returned men were married, and were trying to exist on the salary of $780 a year and the $300 bonus.

Higher In States.

"The letter carriers of the United States are at present waging a campaign to have their salaries increased from $1,800 to $2,200 a year," Mr. Taylor remarked by way of comparison with the Canadian situation.

"We will not ask for anything unreasonable," the provincial official said, "but we will ask what we consider is reasonable, a fair living wage, and increase on a percentage basis, using the government's own figures on the cost of living. And, being reasonable, we will expect to get justice.

"We are the lowest paid body of civil servants, and we have one of the most responsible jobs," he reminded.

BUTTONS USED

The use of buttons, preferably glass or pearl, as trimming for the separate blouse is a practice that appears to be growing.

WASHABLE SILKS

Striped, plaid and checked silks, washable, are used for the new blouses with mannish cut and pleated bosoms.

TRICORN HAT.

Modifications of the Venetian tricorn are being developed as the ideal hat to wear with the plain spring tailleur.

THE FUNERAL OF MILLBROOK MAN

Many Attend Funeral Service of Robert J. Doak

MILLBROOK, Feb. 1.—Grace Presbyterian Church was filled to capacity on Thursday afternoon for the funeral service of the late Mr. R. J. Doak, who passed away on Tuesday, following an extended illness. A private service was held at his late residence before the casket was removed to the church. Those who followed the remains as chief mourners were his two sons, Robert A. and Albert; his son-in-law, B. H. Price, of Orillia; two cousins, S. H. Hunter and J. D. Fair, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. G. Hetherington, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Armstrong, Miss E. Hunter, Mr. D. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Eakins.

Rev. G. I. Craw, of Springville, led in the opening prayer, and the hymns chosen, "Jesus, Lover of my Soul," "My hope is built on nothing less," and "Peace, Perfect Peace," were favorites of the deceased.

Rev. G. S. Gervan read for his Scripture lesson 1st Corinthians, 15th chapter, and also from Romans, the 12th chapter, both passages voicing the Christians' ultimate victory over death and his sure hope of a resurrection. Basing his remarks upon Proverbs 22, 1, "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favor rather than silver and gold," his pastor stressed the fact that the late Mr. Doak had left his sorrowing friends this priceless legacy. Our use of the word "farewell" is really a mistaken one as it is not "good-bye," but contains within itself the certain hope of meeting again.

The tendency to put riches first and a good name second exists today in a large degree, hence the text needs to be kept prominently before the young life of the country. A good name is not to be obtained on demand, but is the outcome of living in a way to command respect, and in this the deceased had left an inspiring example. Only things of eternal value, kindness, love, business integrity, and Christian service may be carried across the valley to the Home Yonder, where we shall find our loved ones, not changed, but glorified.

As a good citizen the late Mr. Doak's movement is seen in his life work on every side, not only in municipal affairs in which he had been prominent, but more especially in his church connections. He had taught in the Sunday school and always been interested in its activities ,had assisted in the praise service when choir leader, had been for many years a member of the Board of Managers, holding the position of chairman. He had brought enthusiasm and substantial assistance to the Forward Movement, helping in large degree to bring it to such a splendid conclusion as it had reached in the local church. When the new church was in course of erection he was chairman of the building committee and one of the leading spirits in carrying the undertaking successfully through. "And we cannot conclude the list because we were not able to read all that was in his heart—that record will only be made known when we reach the Eternal Home and the day of revealing has come.

The funeral was under Masonic auspices, and about fifty members of J. B. Hall Lodge, No. 145, of which deceased was a Past Master, were in attendance, G. A. Duncan being Director of Ceremonies, Worshipful Master W. G. Rowland and A. A. Smith, P.M., conducted the impressive ritual at the graveside. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. W. T. Wood, A. A. Smith, and H. Paterson representing the Masonic Order, and J. R. Eakins, H. R. Armstrong and H. W. Johnston, intimate friends of the deceased who officiated at his especial request.

The many beautiful floral tributes which rested upon the casket bore mute testimony to the affection and respect with which deceased was regarded by a large circle of relatives and friends.

As a further mark of respect to one who, in addition to many other offices, had worthily filled the Reeve's chair for three years, from 1914 to 1917, blinds were lowered in all the business places of the village while the funeral cortege passed through the main street on its way to the Presbyterian cemetery, where interment took place.

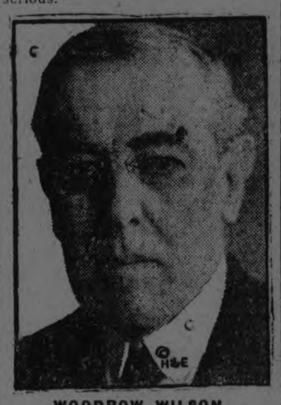
FORMER PRESIDENT SUFFERS RELAPSE

Woodrow Wilson is in a Serious Condition, Doctors Say.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 1.—(United Press).—Woodrow Wilson, ill for several days, is in a very serious condition. Rear-Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Wilson's personal physician, who spent the night with the former President, issued a bulletin this morning, stating that Mr. Wilson had suddenly taken a decided turn for the worse.

"I regard his condition is very serious," said Grayson.

"Mr. Wilson passed a restless night and had lost strength," Grayson said. "He has suddenly taken a decided turn for the worse, and I regard his condition as very serious."



WOODROW WILSON.

Admiral Grayson declined to add anything to his statement, further than to say that he had been up with Mr. Wilson during the entire night, and that he did not expect to leave his bedside to-day.

Dr. Sterlin Ruffin, who attended Mr. Wilson during his critical illness in the White House in 1919, was again called into consultation yesterday by Admiral Grayson. Dr. Ruffin was summoned again to Mr. Wilson's home this morning for another conference with Dr. Grayson.

RADIO WIDOW

And hers indeed is a sad plight—beside which static, short circuits and "cat howls" seems real pleasures.

That is if the allegations she sets forth in her divorce petition are true.

The first plaintiff in such a suit, in so far as the records reveal, is a pretty young Minneapolis woman, Mrs. Cora May White.

Everything was well in the White household until hubby bought his radio. But after that Gerald White paid far more attention to his receiving set than he did to her, his spouse charges.

"He swore violently when local station interefered with his tuning in on distant stations.

"Stayed up late with the loud speaker connected, so that she and her daughter were kept awake night after night and plunged into a nervous, irritated state seriously affecting their health.

Looks bad for poor hubby, unless the judge happens to be a radio fan himself. Then it ought to be easy sailing.

A TINY SEED DID IT

A little seed was accidentally dropped in a crack in this old boulder in the outskirts of Lansing, Mich., years ago. From it sprung a giant tree. In the process of its growth, it split the rock in two. But now the old tree is nothing but kindling wood. And the old stone is about to be removed from the location, too.

MEETING FAILED TO MATERIALIZE

Campbellford School Board Did Not Have a Quorum—Curling News.

(Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 1.—The final meeting of the old Board of Education, called for last night, failed to materialize for lack of a quorum, only half a dozen members showing up. The annual meeting, when the Board for 1924 will be organized, will be held next Wednesday evening. The retiring members are: J. A. Irwin, J. C. Birmingham, A. S. Free. The new members are: Dr. H. O. Richardson and John Hall, elected by the people; William Cock, appointed by the Seymour Council, and John Jeffs, by the Town Council. For the first time the Separte School Board has a representative, D. J. Lynch, who was appointed by the Town Council, has already served for 20 years on the Board. D. W. Douglas, chairman for the past two years, will not, it is understood, accept the position again, and a spirited contest is expected over the choice of his successor.

Curling News.

The members of the Curling Club held a special meeting last night and decided to hold an open bonspiel on February 12 and 13. There will be three cups put up in competition, two by the Campbellford club and the other a handsome trophy that has been donated by A. L. Riendeau. The usual number of prizes will be awarded in each contest. The following committee was appointed, with full power to arrange all the details of the bonspiel: S. J. Moore (chairman), A. J. Meyers, F. J. Smith, W. S. Wiggins and R. H. Cole.

In order to accommodate the large crowd of curlers expected, the club has secured the Skating Rink for the two days of the bonspiel. This will permit the playing of seven games at the same time, four at the Skating Rink and three on the club's own ice.

St. Andrew's Sunday School.

Superintendent J. A. Anderson presided at the annual meeting of the officers and teachers of St. Andrew's Sunday school last night, when reports were received of the work in the various departments during 1923.

The books of G. G. Stephens, the treasurer, showed a balance of $11.66. The number of books taken out of the library during the year was 689.

Mrs. T. Patrick reported 50 names on the cradle roll, an increase of 26 over the list in 1922. Mrs. William Hume submitted the missionary report and Mrs. John Storie, for the junior department, reported 18 meetings held during the year, with an average attendance of 14.

Rev. W. P. McIntosh, in moving a vote of thanks to the teachers and officers for their unselfish and efficient service during the year, made special reference to the splendid work of Mrs. Patrick, superintendent of the cradle roll, who is retiring this year. The motion was seconded by Mrs. Bell and was carried unanimously.

Mr. McIntosh suggested that a committee be appointed to select a superintendent and assistance for the current year and this course was adopted, the committee chosen consisting of the pastor, Mrs. William Hume, Miss Buchanan and J. A. Anderson. These will report their selections later. The other officers elected were:

Secretary —Harry M. Anderson, (re-elected.)

Church Attendance Secretary — John Haig.

Baptist Church Receipts.

The total revenue raised by the members of the Baptist church last year was $2,015.20. In addition to this the Women's Mission Circle raiser $78.58 and the Mission Band $15.00. This makes 1923 one of the best financial years in the history of the church.

A thank offering of nearly $150 was received at the annual meeting held recently. The new year was commenced with a substantial balance in the treasury.

WAS NEVER TEMPTED

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—The Rev. Dr. Carl D. Case returned to the witness stand yesterday and denied the charges of Mrs. Charlotte Leland that he had been too friendly with her.

The clergyman, named by Albert Leland in his divorce suit, testified that in all his years in the ministry he had never felt any temptation when emotional women came to him for sympathy or advice.

One alienist already has testified that, while Mrs. Leland has not the delusions Dr. Case charges, she is "intensely emotional."

Dr. Case offered his version of Mrs. Leland's methods. He described her as cringing, worshipful loving more deeply under rebuffs.

Dr. Case said Mrs. Leland kissed his hand. That disgusted him, he added, because he thought it too much of a "movie stunt."

ELIMINATING THE FRILLS.

The Ontario Government promises to make important changes in the Public School curricula, and although the exact details have not been disclosed enough has been announced to indicate a policy that will be popular with the public, even if it does not find favor with some of Ontario's educationists.

There has been plenty of tinkering with Ontario's school system, and a dozen or more different methods of teaching have been introduced from time to time without any perceptible result so far as improvement is concerned.

However, the proposed changes are promising.

The elimination of non-essential subjects and fads in favour of a concentration upon vitally important matters seems to be a step in the right direction.

It is complained that under the present system there are too many subjects, too much cramming, and not enough attention to the three R's.

A solid, sensible system with the frills eliminated seems to be what the Government has in mind.

It is to be hoped its efforts will be successful.

LETTER CARRIERS' WAGES.

The letter carriers throughout the Dominion are asking for a raise in wages, or, to be more exact, are urging that the bonus system be abandoned in favour of a straight salary on a proper footing.

The maximum pay for the carriers is $1,260 a year, with a bonus of $300 a year, while beginners start at $780 a year, with the same bonus.

There is not much satisfaction in the bonus system because the recipients do not know from year to year what they are to expect.

At one time the bonus was 25 per cent. greater than it is at present; two sessions ago it came near being wiped out altogether, and the carriers are justified in their contention that a permanent salary should be substituted.

As to what that salary should be there are varied opinions.

The letter carriers claim that they are the lowest paid body of civil servants.

There are plenty of other people who are of the opinion that a salary of nearly $1,600 a year is good pay—and there is no lack of men who would jump at the chance of getting a job on the letter carriers' staff.

At all events, however, the advisability of abolishing the bonus system in favour of a straight salary readily suggests itself.

THE INCOME TAX.

A movement has started in St. Thomas to do away with the municipal income tax, and is likely to find favour, because the majority of people feel that a Federal income tax is enough without a similar impost by the municipality.

The chief occupation of all spending bodies in Canada in recent years has been seeking to find new means of producing revenue.

The Federal Government has taxed incomes and business, Provincial Legislatures have clapped on amusement taxes, taxes on real estate transfers and have adopted other new devices for collecting money, and many cities have taken as many things out of the general rates and put them on as service charges or special frontage, and yet have maintained the general rate as high as ever.

It is high time the search for more revenue was ended, for more revenue simply means more expenditure, the whole thing working in a circle.

If the municipal income tax is to be done away with or reduced there is only one logical way in which it can be done, and that is by reducing expenditures until there is no longer any need for the revenue at present derived from the tax on incomes.

Stop spending and new revenues will not be needed.

Until that is done, however, doing away with the income tax would only mean the imposition of some other levy.

NO MONEY FOR THIS.

A big deputation from Toronto waited upon the Dominion Government last week and urged that in connection with the harbour improvements at Toronto a bridge be built connecting the Island and the city proper.

There is no doubt that such a bridge would be a splendid thing for Toronto people, but it is difficult to see why the money of Canadians in general should be used in an undertaking that is almost purely a local one so far as the Queen City is concerned.

A lot of things are needed more by Canada just now than a bridge connecting Toronto with its celebrated island and that should be the view of the Government in dealing with this question.

Probably many members of the deputation were men who have criticized the administration for not saving money and who have urged that national expenditures be cut down—yet they have no hesitation in using their influence to endeavour to secure from the Government a bridge that can very easily be done without and for which the rest of the people of this country have no right to be taxed.

The trouble is that Governments in Canada—and this applies to all of them—have been in the habit of spending money on such enterprises, local in their nature, but wrongfully grouped under the heading of "public works."

The London Advertiser is not far off the mark when it points out that "a good deal of expense has been for plans that were largely local in their purpose, and the only way in which they could be classed as public works was because the public provided the money.

Toronto should be told flatly that Canada has no money at present to be thrown away upon such unnecessary undertakings as the Island bridge.

THE UPRISING AGAINST TAXES.

After Governor Al Smith of New York advocated a cut of 25 per cent. in the State income tax, the Literary Digest telegraphed to the Governors of all the other States, asking for a summary of any recommendations they had recently made touching upon the question of taxation. The replies show a nation-wide movement against taxes that has significance for Canada.

Governor S. Silzer of New Jersey says that he is urging the State Legislature to reduce and "equalize" taxation. He declares that there is too much mandatory legislation providing for the appropriation of funds, too much reckless expenditure by public officials. He advocates co-ordination of small municipalities to reduce the cost of Government; and strict economy.

Governor Channing H. Cox of Massachusetts says the direct State debt has been reduced over fourteen million dollars in three years, and the net direct State debt reduced more than five million dollars.

"State expenses, exclusive of education, have been reduced by onefourth during this administration, making the net cost of taxpayers, for better service, forty thousand dollars per working day less than during the previous two years," wires Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania.

"Taxes must be lowered," declares Governor Percival P. Baxter of Maine, who wants taxes "reduced, not shifted." He says "the people themselves often are more responsible for high taxes than are public officials."

Taxes have been reduced in Missouri about 20 per cent. below what they were in 1920, reports Governor Arthur M. Hyde.

Reduction of tax burdens and readjustment of tax burdens to put the burden on the shoulders of the strong rather than on the shoulders of the weak have been recommended by Governor John J. Blaine of Wisconsin, his Secretary wires, in every speech on taxation and in every message to the Legislature.

Governor Alex. J. Groesbeck of Michigan wires that he "has reduced in the past three years the Michigan State tax from over twenty millions of dollars to sixteen millions of dollars, and hopes to have the tax rate for next year even lower than that of this year."

All units of Government were urged by Governor J. A. O. Preus of Minnesota in his last message to the Legislature, to make, "united and persistent efforts to hold expenses to the lowest possible point consistent with the efficient and progressive administration of State affairs."

"A tax-limit law and a material reduction in taxes" were recommended to the last session of the New Mexico Legislature by Governor J. F. Hinkle, who says that his recommendation "has been carried out to some extent, and a greater effort toward reduction will be made during the present year."

All this, as already said, has significance for Canada. Our neighbors, both in their Federal and State administrations, are endeavoring to make their country a cheaper place to live in; and unless Canada follows suit, unless we pare down our taxes and our living costs to something near the American scale the consequences will be serious.—Ottawa Journal.

INTERNATIONAL SOCIALISTS.

Ramsay MacDonald and certain colleagues in the Cabinet will be warmly commended for severing their connection with the Second Internationale and cancelling their membership in that body. They will crown a judicious act if they disassociate themselves and their party from the Hamburg Congress, to which delegates said to represent three millions of the Labor Party pledged their allegiance last May.

International Socialism has had many storms to encounter since the First Internationale was formed in London in 1864. From the beginnig it was dominated by the Marxian school an dit collapsed when Bakunin was ex-communicated from the party by Marx and sought to group the autonomists into a separate organization.

The practical experience of the next ten years showed the Socialists that it was much easier to talk of internationalism, universal peace and brotherhood than to realize these happy dreams. The British thought that their trade unions should be the basis of the new organization, while Karl Marx referred to them as "swine-hounds," who had no notion of political economy. The Second Internationale formed in 1882 was like a rudderless ship, for it had no officials, no executive committee, and the only link that made for permanence was a secretary who was called the "Letter Box," since his whole duty consisted of forwarding the letters from one branch to the other.

The rules of the Second Internationale remained in force for about ten years and they were years of peace and harmony. It was only in 1893, at the Zurich Conference, when the Germans sought to dominate the organization, that the peace was disturbed. This campaign to secure control lasted until 1914 and there would have been a split in the organization at the conference which was to have been held at Vienna that year if it had not been for the war.

Germany became practical masters of the Second Internationale during the war and they sought to stimulate it into a new activity during the struggle and thereafter. The British on the whole steadfastly refused to respond to these overtures, the British Social Democratic Federation bluntly refusing to have anything to do with it. The Labor Party, however, were ultimately inveigled into sending delegates to a conference at Berne in 1919, which is sardonically known among the best elements of Labor in England as the "German Whitewashing Conference." A more reputable congress was held the next year at Geneva, but Germany again controlled the situation and the British Social Democratic Federation still kept its hands clean and refused to take part in the discussions.

Then came the Hamburg Conference last May, at which the Labor Party, the Trade Union Congress, the Independent Labor Party, the Fabian Society and the Social Democratic Federation were all represented. There were twenty-one British delegates out of four hundred and thirty-one and they bound themselves to accept the decisions of the new conference on all international questions, regardless of the decisions of their own countries. The leaders are men of notorious Pan-German views.

If Mr. MacDonald withdraws the adhesion of his party to this Hamburg organization he will do well. Engels long ago boasted that the Internationale would always "gebosst" the English.

The new German controlled Internationale of Hamburg is not an organization to which a self-respecting British statesman can subscribe.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The ex-Kaiser can take lessons from the Canadian hockey team as to how to conquer Europe.

The monopolization of most of the prizes at the local bonspeil by the Lindsay curlers suggests that the nickname usually applied to Toronto is misplaced.

Hon. Manning Doherty has consented to lead the Farmer Party during the coming session. The party will probably have no reason to regret its choice.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—There were not many good to choice butchers for yesterday's selling and the top was around $6.75 a cwt. Good handyweights were $6.10 to $6.25.

A few baby beeves sold yesterday at $7.50 to $8.25 a cwt. Butchers cows are only coming in in small lots and these are keeping steady to firm, with good cows $4.50 to $5.50 and choice ones up to $5.50 a cwt. Although dealing was inactive yesterday morning commission men expected to clean up but are advising lighter shipments except in the finished butchers for next week.

Calves are easier at the week-end and choice calves sold yesterday morning at 13 cents. The strength of calves is largely due to the high prices ruling at Buffalo.

Lambs are down a full dollar a cwt. yesterday. Six hundred were left over on Wednesday and dealers were slow buyers yesterday morning. Few lambs are able to make more than 13 cents, and heavier lambs are 12½ cents. Some good butchers' sheep sold yesterday morning at 7½ cents a pound.

The avalanche of hogs which came in yesterday were taken at $7.25 a cwt. f.o.b., and this is the price over the week end. Hog buyers say the country has still a lot to sell.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Wheat and oats to-day reached new price records for the season. Sustained buying on the part of commission houses absorbed the future delivery offerings of both cereals. With wheat traders giving considerable attention to developments regarding financial relief for the northwest, wheat closed strong 7-8 to 1 1-4c. net higher. May $1.11 3-8 to $1.11 1-2 and July $1.10 to $1.10 1-8. Corn finished a shade lower to 1-2c. advance; oats 1-4 to 5-8c. up, and provisions unchanged to 17c. down.

In the wheat trade, it was September delivery which scored a new top record price. May and July were in new ground on the present upturn, the price of May being the highest since December 7, last. Buying of distant deliveries was encouraged both as a result of prospects of damage to winter wheat and because of talk of reduced spring wheat acreage. Some of the buying was said to be on foreign account. Bulls contended that the domestic visible supply will decrease sharply, and that receipts at terminals during the remainder of the season will be the lightest seen in many years.

A WARKWORTH CHURCH HAS A LONG HISTORY

Eighty-Four Years Since First Presbyterian Service Was Held in the Community.

WARKWORTH, Jan. 31.— On Sunday morning the congregation of the Presbyterian church were favored by an address from their pastor, Rev. G. S. Hammond, which dealt mostly with the history of the present church. Mr. Hammond chose for his text the first verse of the eighty-fourth Psalm—"How amiable are Thy tabernacles, O Lord of Hosts," and the opening remarks were based on Solomon's prayer at the dedication of the temple to show what a place of public worship was dedicated for.

Following this a short review of the work was gone into to show that on Jan. 21st, 1894, the present building was formally opened and dedicated. The morning and evening services were conducted by Rev. Prof. T. G. Smith, of Queen's University, while Rev. J. C. Wilson, pastor of the Methodist church here, had charge of the afternoon service.

It was also mentioned that the present day anniversary services hardly ever dealt with any historical review of the Church.

It is thirty years since the dedication of the present building, fifty-nine years on Jan. 8th, since Rev. Laing, of Cobourg, opened the first frame building; sixty-six years since the congregation was organized as a charge in the Presbytery of Cobourg, and eighty-four years since the first Presbyterian services were held in the community.

The following is an outline of the pastorates since then: 1840-1849, Rev. Wm. A. Reid, of Colborne and Grafton, preached in school houses and Baptist buildings; 1849-1858, Rev. John Smith, also of Colborne and Grafton, continued the work; 1858, congregations of Percy and Seymour were organized and a call given to Rev. Thomas Alexander, who served in the work until 1873. 1873-1898, Rev. Donald Sutherland, who served the longest pastorate; 1899-1902, Rev. Alexander Craw; 1902-1910, Rev. J. F. McFarlane, during whose pastorate the fiftieth anniversary from date of organization was celebrated and the services were conducted by Rev. R. E. Knowles, of Galt, Ont.; 1910-1915, Rev. W. D. McDonald; 1915-1916, Rev. E. Lloyd Morrow; 1917-1923, Rev. Russell McGillivray; 1923, Rev. G. S. Hammond. This gives ten pastorates in eighty-four years service or eight pastorates in sixty-six years of organized work.

The Warkworth congregation has been united with first Seymour from 1858-1864, second Campbellford from 1872-1884, and has had forty-six years as a self-supporting, single charge.

The church has seen the following changes in name: First from Percy to Warkworth; second, Free Kirk to Canada Presbyterian church in 1861, when the branches of the Free Kirk and the United Presbyterian churches united; third, Canada Presbyterian church to Presbyterian church of Canada in 1875, when the four Presbyterian churches in Canada united. In each case the session and congregation being unanimous in going into the union.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Jas. Ewing and Miss Jane Spiers (parents of Mr. P. S. Ewing) were the first couple married by Rev. Thos. Alexander, after the organization of the congregation in 1858, also that Mr. Henry Zuefelt and Miss Nancy Angus (who celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary January fifteenth) were the first couple married by Rev. Donald Sutherland. Also that the corner stone of the present building was laid on October 25th, 1893, by the Branch of the Loyal Orange Association of British America. In the stone are placed subscription list of those who contributed to the building fund, the lists of the following who were in office at that time—Elders, managers, S. S. officers, W.M.S., industrial circle, trustees and also that week's issue of the Warkworth Journal, the city dailies and the common coins of the realm.

The minister also gave a brief outline of the selection and ordination of the session as it effected our present membership, namely: Messrs. Samuel Black, David Gow, John Herriott, Jno. Dick, Robt. Walker, Henry Carlaw and Archibald Thompson. Pointing out that Mr. and Mrs. Herriott had withdrawn to Campbellford in 1908 and returned again in 1916. Congratulations were tendered Mr. Samuel Black, who was present at the service and the hearty thanks and appreciation of the congregation were expressed in return for his thirty-six years of faithful and efficient service as an elder.

Service was closed by a call to maintain the standards set by the dedication of the Temple by Solomon and the singing of Hymn 319—

"We love the venerable house
Our fathers built to God——"

KING'S WHARF

KING'S WHARF, Feb. 1.—Friday's storm was the worst of the winter, and the severe cold and high winds blocked all the roads, and on Saturday it was impossible to travel on the roads. A few from here who are drawing hay to Peterborough across the ice were obliged to stay over night in Ennismore Friday, the storm being so severe it was impossible to cross the ice. There were also a few in Lindsay who thought several times they would be unable to reach home, but reached there after a very hard pull through snow, some about six feet deep, and the blinding snow storm.

Mr. James Powers, who has been in the Ross Hospital in Lindsay for some time, has returned home.

Miss Margaret Herlihey of Rochester, N. Y., was called home last week owing to the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Neil Herlihey, who is much improved and will be around again in a few days.

Mr. Joseph O'Neill was the guest of his father, William O'Neill, Tuesday.

The people from here were unable to attend the annual meeting of the Municipal Telephone Wednesday last on account of the roads been blocked and the storm still blowing.

There are a number from here cutting wood; some to put in at the different schools, and others at the hall, Downeyville.

Miss Lillie Herlihey spent last Sunday the guest of her cousin, Miss Ruby Perdue.

Mr. Paul McGuire of Reaboro called on friends here Sunday and spent the day.

The two young children of Mrs. James Callahan of Vancouver are very ill at present with the measles at the home of her sister, Mrs. John O'Neill, here.

OLD BANQUETS AT LAKEFIELD ARE RECALLED

Business Men's Tribute to Fire Department a Reminder of Former Days--Not the Least Was the Dinner to the Cement Company's Directors.

TRAVEL DIFFICULT.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 31.—The village has returned to normal conditions after the storm which made Friday and Saturdays days for staying at home. The stages for Buckhorn and Apsley got off on Tuesday, but the roads in all directions were blocked till Monday afternoon and amusing stories were told of difficulties encountered by those adventurous spirits who made the attempt to get through. The Buckhorn road was badly drifted and a rumor drifted in of a drift twenty feet high but probably it was an exaggeration. The Smith road to Peterboro is very badly drifted and the river (Douro) road is by far the best according to those who have made the trip.

Banquets Recalled

The banquet tendered the Firemen last Monday night by the business men recalled to some of the old-timers other banquets in Lakefield's history. Aside from the banquets or suppers of lodges and the curling club and kindred organizations, Lakefield has never been noted for many banquets but a few stand out in history as worth recalling. On three occasions banquets were held in the basement of the Methodist church in which the Anglicans, Baptists, Methodists and Presbyterians united. In October, 1910 a grand banquet was given under the auspices of the Layman's Missionary Movement, at which the speakers were Dean (then Canon) Tucker of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, Ont., and Rev. R. P. Mackay, of Toronto. This banquet was remarkable for the very large attendance and the earnestness shown by the men who attended. Two years later the banquet was repeated with E. B. O'Flynn, K.C., of Belleville, and D. W. Rose, of Toronto, as speakers, but on this occasion the attendance was not nearly as large although very good. On January 30th, 1920, a monster men's banquet was held to introduce the Forward Movement campaign. The speakers were Rev. R. P. Mackay, D.D., Superintendent of Missions of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, of Toronto, Rev. A. J. Thomas, of Peterboro (now Montreal), and Mr. C. E. Sisson, of Peterboro. This was a very successful affair and a motion was made and carried unanimously to repeat it the next year, but no action was taken in the matter.

Two years ago Reeve J. C. Strickland (after being elected Warden of the County) gave a banquet to the members of the County Council and the Municipal Council and School Board.

When the Lakefield Portland Cement Co. located here about twenty-four years ago, the directors of the company were guests of the Municipality at a banquet which is still remembered by those who were present, being an occasion when Lakefield was getting a good stable industry which would outlive the lumbering, then on the decline. This Cement Company, of which the late J. M. Kilbourne, of Owen Sound, was at the head, afterwards joined the Cement Merger known as the Canada Cement Co.

When the veterans of the South African War (seven in number) re-unh turned to the village after that campaign, they were tendered a banquet in the old town hall which was served by John Craig, who at that time was proprietor of the Lakefield House. A committee of ladies assisted Mr. Craig and it was an event which was talked of for years.

These gatherings do a great deal of good as men get together and talk over matters of general interest and directly or indirectly the town is benefited.

One cannot help wondering just what the effect of a business women's banquet would be in Lakefield. It could be done and would be an event without precedent in the village as up to date the sterner sex have had a monopoly of feasts.

Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of Lakefield District L. O. L. No. 2, of the County of Peterboro, was held in the lodge room of L. O. L. No. 122, Beresford Lodge, on January 8th.

After the routine of business the election of officers took place and resulted as follows:

There are three lodges in the district, Lakefield, North Smith and Apsley.

In the account of the dedication of the chapel at "The Grove," the name of Pasquale Bianco was by a misprint given as Pascalo Bearer.

Miss Mollie Young, of Peterboro, was the week-end guest of Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Gibson.

Mr. Lees, Public School Inspector, visited the Lakefield school on Tuesday.

Extra Precautions By Customs Officers.

OTTAWA, Jan. 31. Canadian Press—Final plans for reducing rum running at border points have not been given out, pending the discussion of some minor points which have been engaging the attention of the Dominion Cabinet during the present week. It is unlikely that any formal announcement will be forthcoming in Ottawa this week, but in the meantime the Customs authorities throughout Canada have been asked to take added precautions against the possible violation of Canadian laws regarding the clearance of liquor for foreign countries, and at least one port has been closed as a port of clearance for such liquor.

INCREASED DEMAND FOR ALL STERLING

It Took a Jump of Nearly Six Cents in Demand Bills Yesterday's Local Foreign Exchange Market.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Heavy buying of sterling exchange by European speculators, together with an increased domestic demand, resulted in an extreme jump of nearly 6 cents in demand bills to $4.31¼, the highest quotation this year, in yesterday's local foreign exchange market.

European speculators, apparently acting on the theory that the Labor Government in Great Britain would result in disturbed business and economic conditions, had been heavy sellers of sterling in the past six weeks. The seemingly conservative legislative programme decided upon by the Labor party, combined with its expressions of friendship for France, undoubtedly disappointed the speculators, who had counted on an early introduction of a capital levy bill and a possible split with France on international questions. This led to short covering operations, which gained extra momentum when United States merchants came into the market for sterling bills.

FORD'S OFFER

AKRON, Ohio, Feb. 1.—Mayor Rybolt, city counsel and supporter of the city administration's plan for a five-cent street car fare in Akron or the ousting of the Northern Ohio Traction Company cars from the streets on February 1, were confident of a complete motorization of the city by Friday, when Henry Ford entered the fight on the city's side.

Ford telegraphed H. E. Firestone this afternoon that he would send 500 sedans to the city at once if they are needed and that the cars would be furnished free.

IF VENIZELOS RESIGNS TROUBLE IS EXPECTED

ATHENS, Feb. 1. — (Canadian Press).—Fear that a military dictatorship, headed by General Condylis, may follow the resignation of the Venizelos Government is expressed in anti-Venizelist circles. Republican newspapers report that the Royalist reservists are organizing.

Premier Venizelos insists upon resigning from his sick bed, but the members of the Cabinet are counselling postponement owing to their inability to agree upon a successor who can prevent the storm clouds from breaking.

MacDonald Considers Bombing of Natives.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—A possibility that the new government of Ramsay MacDonald may adopt a fresh policy as regards the employment of aerial bombing seems foreshadowed in an official communication issued from the Colonial Office to-day.

Alluding to recent newspaper comments on the bombing by aircraft of natives in the kingdom of Irak, the communication says:

"The whole question of the employment of aircraft in Irak in support of the civil authorities is being considered afresh by His Majesty's Government."

The greater portion of this movement was wheat, it was stated, but from now on the coarse grains would begin to come forward.

SUNDAY CLOHES ARE VANISHING.

People Were Not As Particular Years Ago About What They Wore On Week Days.

The Sunday suit of clothes is one of the institutions that are vanishing in our generation. Years ago—and not so many, at that—it was a rare man who didn't have his "Sunday best" stored away for use only on the Sabbath or special occasions such as going to a church social or "Flora dora."

The idea was to wear the new suit only "for good." It got into everyday use when the regular week-day suit fell to pieces.

People weren't as particular, in former days, about what they wore Monday to Saturday. At least, that was true of the men. Patches and mends were nothing to be ashamed of. They reflected the economy that was necessary in a period when money was so scarce that the residence of a man making $250 a month was pointed out as a Town Wonder to visitors being driven past in a phaeton.

There used to be a song in those times, "Every Day'll Be Sunday By-and-by." That goal has been reached, in the matter of men's clothes. Even the overall brigade is apt to wear the same suit week-day evenings as on Sundays.

* * *

The Sunday suit meant most to the boy in knee trousers, for with it the clothier "threw in" a pair of suspenders and a premium like a Brownie camera or a small alarm clock masquerading as a watch.

Since the Sunday suit was destined not to see week-day service for six months or more, father always bought it several sizes too big—a 16-year-old for a 12-year-old boy was the rule.

The glory of the new raiment was somewhat dimmed by the constant fear of ripping the seat of the trousers or making connections with grease spots.

We'd like to turn the clock back and get something that'd wear like one of the old-time Sunday suits. Yes, we'd even toil a couple of hours again with ma's iron, making trousers creases that would cut a dog in two. For we've lost, not only the Sunday suit, but a lot that went with it socially.

NIXON NOTHING TO DEFENCE MINISTER

Nixon Said Border Between Free State and Northern Ireland Was Lined With Artillery.

DUBLIN, Feb. 1. Canadian Press. —"Don't mind Nixon; he must have something on his conscience," said General Mulcahy, the Free State Minister of Defence, yesterday, when his attention was called to the statement made by District Inspector Nixon at the Orange Lodge at Belfast, that the border between the Free State and northern Ireland was manned by Free State artillery forces, with armoured cars and airplanes.

"We have no artillery or airplanes nearer to Nixon than Dublin and no armored cars nearer than Mullingar or Donegal."

This, he said, was true, despite the fact that Ulster had deliberately given sanctuary to prominent irregulars engaged in an attempt to destroy the Free State.

POWER DEVELOPMENT AGAIN TO THE FORE

Report That Canadian Government Has Despatched a Note to Washington.

WASHINGTON, Feb 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Although Secretary of State Hughes refused to confirm it, a persistent rumor was going the rounds of Congressional circles yesterday that the Dominion Government has sent a despatch to Washington in reply to the proposal of United States Government for negotiation of a treaty or convention between two countries which would provide for construction of the St. Lawrence Deep Waterways.

This reply it was said, expressed disinclination of Canadian Government to enter into any treaty negotiations at this time but suggested apointment by two governments of an engineering commission to check upon report already made by International Waterways Commission and to report upon the feasibility of work, its probable cost, and the economic benefits likely to arise therefrom both from the standpoint of navigation and power development.

THE WHOLE FAMILY WAS LAID UP WITH SEVERE COLDS

On the first appearance of a cough or cold our advice to you is to get rid of it before it has a chance to grow worse; gets settled on the lungs, and causes bronchitis, pneumonia, or other serious lung troubles.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will immediately relieve the cold or cough on its inception.

Mrs. David Ayres, Kearney, Ont., writes: "Our whole family was laid up with severe colds ,and we didn't seem to be able to get any relief from anything we used until, one day, a friend came in and told me we would be sure to get rid of our colds if we used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I decided to take her advice, and in no time our colds were all gone.

"Now, knowing the value of your remedy, we will always keep it on hand so as to have it in case of emergency."

ONTARIO LIBERALS TO KEEP THINGS ON MOVE

TORONTO, Feb. 1. Canadian Jress —The Liberal Members of the Ontario Legislature, who attended the pre-session caucus at the Parliament buildings yesterday, entirely disagree with the prophecies of a "tame" session.

Meeting with their new leader, W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., yesterday, their decision was to conduct a vigorous and virile discussion of provincial affairs with the government forces, and spare no criticism, where criticism is deemed justified.

Constituting official opposition of Legislature they accepted the maxim that live opposition in the House makes for good government, and they resolved to do their share toward the betterment.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

The most important part of a man's capital is his health and ability. But unless that man saves something for investment he makes no profit. A business that pays no profit is not a good business.

A man does not work merely to save money; there are higher values —wholesame living,service for others, education for his family and the like —but these very things can be more surely enjoyed if sound business principles insure a good money foundation. The wise man studies to attain a happy "middle ground" between parsimony and extravagance. One might question a business that netted a 75 per cent profit, just as one might question the standards of a man who saved 75 per cent of his income.

The successful man decides on a fair margin of profit for his income and then adjusts his standards of living to insure making this profit every year.

OFFICE BOYS ARE WELL TABULATED.

LONDON, Feb. 1 (Associated Press).—England is interested in, if not always impressed, by American efficiency, but there is nothing but sympathy and praise for the committee of American efficiency experts which has tackled the tough job of investigating the lives and habits of office boys.

That 12 percent of them read cheap novels, four percent sleep on their jobs, three percent collect stamps, 17 percent write their names scores of times daily, and seven percent practice typewriting on forbidden machines, is not questioned.

However, the Daily Express thinks the finding of the American experts that 35 percent of office boys are sufficiently clever in their actions to hide from their bosses what they are doing, is slightly wrong. The newspaper says this figure would have been put at 99 percent.

GREEK WOMEN WANT THE FULL SUFFRAGE

Political Crisis Flares Up Again in Greece.

ATHENS, Feb. 1—(United Press). —The Greek Women's Association appealed to-day to the National Assembly to grant women full suffrage, regardless of Venizelos' promise to grant municipal suffrage. Conflicting ambitions are rendering the settlement of the political crisis precipitated by the Premier's resignation most difficult. Venizelos recommended the formation of a Cabinet under M. Caffantaris.

Madame Venizelos, wife of the Greek Premier, who resigned because of ill-health, arrived in Rome to-day from Paris and hurried to Athens to the bedside of her husband.

THE WISE WOMAN

BRUSHING THE HAIR

By Helen Granville Butler

In a former article I spoke of the necessity for brushing the hair. Daily brushing, however, is not sufficient because enough time cannot be devoted to systematic brushing which is in itself a treatment.

Once a week at least, or twice if your hair a careful brushing. Be sure first that your brush and comb are absolutely clean. Now comb your hair out carefully in order to remove the tangles. Start at the ends and work up to the scalp as described before. When the hair is quite clear, part it down the middle. Then separate it into small sections. Take the brush firmly, not by the handle but well up on the back of the brush. Hold the first lock up away from the head and place the brush close to the scalp on the under side of the hair. Then brush out to the end with a strong even stroke. Repeat the same movement on the upper side of the hair. Do this three or four times, then twist the hair to keep it separate and lay it to one side.... Now move to another section of hair and treat it similarly, and so on all over the head until every hair has had the stimulation and cleansing that the scientific brushing gives. Brushing in this manner removes the dust from the hair itself and strengthens it by the pulling. Be careful not to use a jerky stroke as that instead of giving a healthy massage to the hair may pull it out altogether. Now allow the hair to hang loose for a few moments. Clear your brush of any dust or hair that may have accumulated in it. Then take the brush and with a light stroke bursh the hair down. This second brushing is primarily to spread the natural oil from the scalp down the length of the hair and give to the hair a natural gloss. It need not therefore be quite as vigorous. The even stroke must be maintained. Be careful not to bring the brush down on the scalp in such a way as to bruise it or harm the roots of the hair.

If your hair is very dry this brushing treatment will clean the hair and increase the gloss to such an extent that the water shampoo need not be quite so frequent. Some hair has very little natural oil, in which case a small amount of brilliantine is advisable. Put a little on the palm of the hand and rub it upon the brush for the final brushing. Only a little should be used as too much leaves the hair oily and causes dust to cling to it.

This brushing treatment is not to be used as a substitute for a shampoo, but used in connection with the shampooing described before will keep the hair in the best condition.

JAPAN HEADING TO GENERAL ELECTION

Dissolution of the Diet Makes Government Defeat Certain.

(By Moto Takata, United Press).

OSAKA, Feb. 1.—(By telephone from Tokio).—A general election in which the Government faces almost certain defeat was made necessary by yesterday's dissolution of the Diet. Further serious disturbances are feared by politicians at Tokio.

The dissolution of the Diet had been expected for to-morrow, when the three Opposition parties were to demand a vote of lack of confidence in Premier Kiyoura and his Ministry. But it came suddenly on Thursday afternoon.

The Government, fearing that the high tension would cause more serious disturbances. Scenes of violence and riot in the Lower House followed the speech of Hamada, Whip of the Kakushin Club, who indirectly accused the Government of responsibility for the three Opposition parties, were on their way to Tokio from Osaka Wednesday night after a huge anti-Government meeting.

The Speaker announced a recess and the Government decided on a dissolution on the ground that it was impossible to administer State affairs under present Parliamentary conditions.

PATAGONIA LAKES OPEN TO TOURISTS

One of World's Beauty Spots Will Soon Be Within Easy Reach.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 1 (Associated Press).—One of the world's beauty spots, Lake Nahuel Huapi in the Argentine Andes, soon will be opened to comfortable tourist travel. A body of deep blue water as large as Lake Champlain, it is surrounded by towering snow-capped mountains. It is close to the Chilean border, in the territory of Neuquen, which is a part of Patagonia. The country about, only partially explored, was long ago reserved by the government as a great national park.

A new state railroad is now within a hundred kilometers of Bariloche, the little port at the eastern end of the lake, and weekly tourist excursions are about to be inaugurated. Two hotels at Bariloche are being improved for tourist accommodation.

For rugged splendor, grandeur of distances, exquisite, ever changing coloring and glorious sunsets the panorama of Lake Nahuel Huapi, with its combination of mountain, sky and water, presents scenes of beauty which the Alps and the Canadian Rockies do not excel, in the opinion of persons who already have been there. The lake has numerous bays whose waters lap the sheer sides of the mountains, like those of Norwegian fjords, and here and there penetrate mysterious caves. Its islands are clothed with primeval forests, while in the distance can be seen among the Chilean peaks the smoke of volcanoes.

Theodore Roosevelt was among the venturesome tourists who have visited Lake Nahuel Huapi, and who exclaimed over its beauty. He predicted that Bariloche would some day be one of Argentina's great cities.

Nine women now sit in the Danish Parliament, three in the lower house and six in the upper.

A WORD TO THE WISE

Although a career in the arts and science looms for many a co-ed at the University of Washington, in Seattle, most of them still believe that "woman's place is in the home." And so they are taking advantage of the fact that it is leap year to spur the matrimonial tendencies of hesitant males. Miss Loie Howard is here shown pointing out a leap year bulletin posted on one of the university buildings.

Anniversaries CANADIAN

Feb. 1, 1849:—The Amnesty Bill, under which William Lyon Mackenzie, leader of the rebellion in Upper Canada in 1837, was enabled legally to return to Canada from the United States, whence he had fled after the defeat of his forces by the militia in the battle at Montgomery's Tavern, Toronto (then known as York), was assented to on this date by the Governor-General, then Lord Elgin. The famous rebel leader, before returning to Canada under the Amnesty Act, was imprisoned at Rochester, N. Y., for several months for having committed a breach of the neutrality laws of the United States.

William Lyon Mackenzie afterwards became a member of the Canadian Parliament, having been elected for Haldimand in 1851, and later was prominently associated with Hon. George Brown in the party then called "Radical" or "Clear Grit." Right Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, the present Prime Minister of Canada, is a grandson of the noted rebel.

OBJECT TO SUNDAY OLYMPICS

PARIS, Feb. 1.—(United Press). —Eric Leddell, Scottish sprinter, has advised the Olympic Games Committee that he cannot compete in the 100 metres event because it is scheduled to be held on Sunday and it is against his principles to race on the Sabbath. Many other athletes will, it is believed, be influenced the same way, and already there is agitation by a section of the press to change the Sunday dates.

NEPTUNE BEATS KING.

MADRID, Feb. 1. — (United Press).—Seasickness has a slave. He is Alfonso XIII., King of Spain. The King loves the sea and would rather walk the bridge of a ship than sit on the throne. But the royal ambitions and the royal stomach don't mix. This was painfully demonstrated on the recent voyage of the Spanish rulers to Italy. His Majesty was terribly sick most of the time.

CONDOR SEEN IN CALIFORNIA.

VISALIA, Cal., Feb. 1 (Associated Press).—For the first time in many years a condor, the giant bird that lives in the Andes mountains of South America but is almost extinct in North America, has been seen in the San Joaquin valley of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California. The bird, which has a wing spread of at least ten feet, arrived recently from "the great somewhere" to visit the Sequoia National Park, attracted, it is thought, by the carcass of a dead burro on which it was found feasting.

Condors are protected by law against hunters, and this one has the further protection of the national park. It has been the guest of the park for some days, though few persons have had a glimpse of it. Park officials hope it will remain.

DOMESTIC HEROINES IN OUR HOMES

Women who lead a domestic life seem to listen to every call of duty excepting the supreme one that tells them to guard their health. As long as they can drag themselves around women continue to work. Necessity to keep on their feet all day when over-tired, or sitting in cramped position day in and day out often brings on ailments from which women suffer tortures. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been strengthening women and overcoming such ailments. Sickness and pain vanish under its influence and thousands of women have been benefited by it.

NORTH AMERICAN LIFE DO BIG BUSINESS.

The business of the North American Life Assurance Company, whose head office is at Toronto, came ahead wonderfully during 1923 as is evidenced by the figures presented in the 43rd annual report of the company. The policies issued and revived during 1923 amounted to $20,237,711, showing an increase of $2,306,384 over last year, and making one of the most successful years in thec ompany's history. The total business in force now amounts to $115,055,491, which is another splendid increase over last year.

Some conception of the vast scope of the company's business may be found in the fact that during 1923 there was paid to policyholders and beneficiaries over $2,480,000. This amount included $497,706 paid as dividends to the company's policyholders, while, in contrast, it should be noted that only $6,000 was paid to the guarantors of the company as dividends. During his address to the policyholders at the recent annual meeting of the company, Mr. L. Goldman, president and managing director of the North American Life, made the important announcement that the same liberal scale of dividends is to be continued during 1924, which, he states, is another indication of the fact that in this company the interests of the policyholders are paramount.

The President also pointed, with just pride, to the splendid increase in the assets during the year, bringing the total amount of these to $25,394,128. Of these assets, $5,623,304 is represented by Dominion and Provincial Government bonds, while municipal debentures, bonds and stocks amount to $9,647,070. All these are security holdings of the very highest character.

After all its liabilities have been full provided for, the net surplus of the company amounts to $3,776,823.87, the largest figure in the company's history, establishing beyond a doubt the unexcelled financial position of the company, which has entitled it to be known everywhere as the life company, "Solid as the Continent."

PUBLIC IS BARRED FROM KAISER'S BOX.

Former Imperial Box in the Dom Is Kept Roped Off.

BERLIN, Feb. 1 (Associated Press).—Why is the former imperial box in the Dom kept roped off and not opened for the use of the public?

Berlin papers are asking this question very insistently. On New Year's Eve the ex-emperor's box in the Dom, or Berlin cathedral, which contains several hundred seats formerly used by the Hohenzollern court, was not thrown open in spite of the fact that hundreds of persons stood in the crowded cathedral and many elderly women fainted through fatigue while standing waiting for the New Year to be ushered in.

The imperial boxes in the state theatres and operas have been thrown open to the public and the Berlin Morgen Post and other newspapers urge that a church is the last place in the world in which there should be an attempt to perpetuate class distinctions. The Dom clergy are blamed for this reactionary attitude and are charged with an attempt to perpetuate the imperial idea.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S. HELD AFTERNOON TEA

Life Membership Presented to Mrs. B. McNeely.

The W.M.S. of St. Andrew's held a very successful afternoon tea at the home of Mrs. Kerr, 586 Gilmour street, on Thursday, Jan. 31. The ideal weather conditions brought out a large number of ladies, who thoroughly enjoyed the splendid programme porvided.

Miss Ina Allen's wonderful voice was heard to advantage in "I Hear You Calling Me" and "The Garden of Your Heart." A violin solo by Master George Barns, accompanied on the piano by Miss Ruth Barns, was a very pleasing feature. Miss Bertha Hill rendered "Vale" in beautiful voice, while Miss Irene Breckenridge gave two readings, proving her ability both in comic and classic.

A Life Membership Certificate was presented to Mrs. B. McNeely by the ladies in recognition of her faithful services to the W.M.S.

The president, Mrs. John, and Mrs. Kerr received the guests, Mrs. Rae and Mrs. Lees poured tea, while Mrs. Weddell and Mrs. Shirley were assisted by Mrs. Weir, Mrs. Allison and Mrs. Wm. Stevens in serving refreshments. The table of homemade cooking, conducted by Mrs. Jack Tremain and Mrs. G. J. Johnson, proved a very attractive corner. Daffodils were used in decorating the tables.

"WE BUILD" IS THE NEW SLOGAN MAYOR TURNER

At Noon To-day Peterboro's Chief Magistrate Went Over the Top as a New Member of the Peterboro Kiwanis Club

R. RITCHIE'S ADDRESS

At to-day's meeting of the Peterboro Kiwanis Club, Mayor J. J. Turner was introduced as a new member by J. A. McKone. In acknowledging Mr. McKone's words of welcome and his explanation of the ideals for which Kiwanis stood, Mayor Turner said he was convinced that Kiwanis stood four square with the world and was a worth-while organization to be associated with. The Mayor was given a rousing reception by the members. Messrs. John Smith and Robert Hendry contributed a duet and two solos that were much appreciated. The thanks of the club was extended to them by President John R. Marshall.

The booster to-day was Everett Taylor, and the lucky numbers were drawn by G. N. Gordon, John Chadwick and Ray Scott. Kiwanian Taylor gave an interesting account of the development of the retail coal business.

The speaker of the day was Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, whose able and well thought out address was listened with a good deal of interest.

MR. RYERSON RITCHIE

On occasion when I had the privilege of talking with you about Peterboro's development we have, almost invariably, thought of its physical and structural improvement, said Mr. Ritchie. It seemed to me that, since nature had so lavishly endowed this particular section and its founders had so wisely chosen its site, we ought to make it more attractive for ourselves and those who came after.

Peterborough already has a high reputation as an attractive and prosperous city. It will continue to improve and grow stronger in those elements and conditions of life that give the city its distinctive place in Canada. But neither Canada or Peterborough are growing as they ought to grow.

Some times we fail to realize that the improvement and attractiveness of the city are positive influences in promoting growth and prosperity.

A few years ago the eminent planner of cities, Mr. Thomas Adams, was our guest. After making a survey of the city and environs, he addressed us and promised a plan for the development of Peterborough that would make it one of the most beautiful and attractive of cities. Again and again, Mr. Adams voiced his keen interest in the adaptability of the city to a design that would be unique. But Mr. Adams was not held to his promise when, all at once, we decided to build the Ashburnham bridge.

It is said that the city lives in advance of the government of a nation like Canada. At all events cities are becoming the centre of culture as well as of business. They are social and educational hubs, the pivots of enterprise and action, of leadership and achievement.

Peterborough is a little empire within itself, subject only to such constitutional abilities and privileges as are conferred upon it by the federal and provincial governments.

The city is the result of natural and structural improvements, economic and industrial advantages, and composite energy and civic cohesiveness, and, of course, that applies to the nation.

Plan of Expansion

The conditions and influences that affect the country at large are invariably reflected on the city. The social and occupational life of Peterborough is symbolic of the state of affairs in the nation. The hindrances to growth and prosperity in the nation have like existence and effect in the city.

The advancement of the nation, as well as of the city, moves when it is pushed forward by massed intelligence and enterprise. In other words, if Peterborough and the nation are so organized as to have an intelligently devised plan of expansion, and a people who are ready for a strong pull together, there is certainty of growth and prosperity. Canada is the greatest land of opportunity in the world.

It may be helpful for us to examine briefly for a few of its stumbling blocks and problems in the way of growth and prosperity in nation and city. The reviews and forecasts of the new year, touching the fiscal and commercial affairs of the country, indicate that Canada's continuing prosperity urgently calls for:

Increase of population,
Development of resources,
Reduction of debt and taxation,
Governmental retrenchment, and
Unity and co-operation.

If we were summing up the elemental problems of our own city we could not find a better description or classification and they are set in the order of their importance.

1. Increase of population.

For more than a century the border line between Canada and the United States has been merely the demarcation of separated nationality; it has had little effect upon social relationship between the two peoples. The most friendly and intimate intercourse between the two commonwealths has existed, because of common ancestry, similarity of education, tastes and business methods.

One Hundred Years Ago

One hundred years ago the population of the American Union was a little larger than the present population of Canada. It has added a hundred million people, and Canada has kept up a constant migration there, until now there are as many Canadians resident in the United States as would equal half the entire population of Canada, i.e., more than four millions.

The problem of populating Canada, so as to ensure its greater material progress, is undoubtedly our basic national problem. Curiously enough the attention of the government has apparently been centered upon overseas immigration as a solution of the problem.

There is little, if any, official reference to the southern migration of our people. We are like the man who carries water with a hole in the bottom of his pail, and who persistently neglects to repair that hole. Nobody calls his attention to the leak and he himself ignores it. So large is this "hole" in Canada's "pail" that our growth of population is practically at a standstill. The Canadian exodus is alarming.

Discussing Canada's plight with a distinguished American sociologist, he remarked that, "Canada ought to be ashamed of herself, and, what's more," said he, "if she doesn't teach and cultivate native fidelity, she is likely to get the contempt of her staunchest friends, the American people. In the Amalgam of the American melting pot Anglo-Saxonism holds the mess together and ensures social and political safety. Canada is almost 100% Anglo-Saxon, and why, in the name of patriotism, she doesn't develop her own great resources of wealth and industry and keep her own people at home is beyond comprehension. It is the interest of the United States that Canada shall develop a superior civilization and become a greater and more powerful nation." And I once heard that venerated British Statesman, Viscount James Bryce, say much the same thing, but in diplomatic language.

It was no less a personage that former President Taft who intimated that, by means of a reciprocal tariff, Canada would become an "adjunct of the United States." Succeeding events have been significant and startling

Canada has been and is the greatest benefactor of the United States, for she has sent an ever-increasing number of men and women to that country who have been educated and trained for advanced citizenship there. They were prepared by us for quick assimilation by the Republic.

Crossed the Line

In the 30 years following the Civil War we sent about 930,000 Canadians to the United States, a decennial average of 310,000. In the last single decade ending with 1920, the aggregate had risen to nearly 750,000. In the four years since the close of the World War the loss aggregated 210,000. In one of the four years referred to our loss exceeded 90,000 persons.

The figures showing the exodus in 1923 will prove to be a serious shock to us. Unless this exodus is checked within the present decade we may lose to the United States a tenth of the entire population of the Dominion. In the short space of ten years we may lose as many Canadians as populate the cities of Toronto and Montreal.

What is happening throughout Canada is happening in Peterborough. We have been educating young men and women in our schools, college and universities; training them in mechanics, business and the professions; fitting them in character and ability for the higher places in occupational life, only to have them leave us to become a living and vigorous part of the progressive citizenship of the United States.

2. Development of resources.

Canada is indebted to our American friends for their share in the development of agriculture, forestry, mining and industry. We have been taught to believe that our greatest natural source of wealth is the settlement and cultivation of Canada's vast wheat belt. As a matter of fact, however, only 15 per cent. of our total area is available for profitable cultivation. The remaining 85 per cent. contains "mineral treasures of inconceivable value."

The "mining industry of Canada is the basic industry of progress as agriculture is of subsistence." It is authoritatively asserted that the revenues from freight carriage by our railways is already greater from mining than it is from agriculture.

American enterprise has done most for the development of mining in Canada. It has also been conspicuous in the timber and lumber industry, in the acquirement of valuable forest and pulpwood tracts.

American enterprise invaded our commercial markets and steadily increased its volume of sales to us. We not only gave them an ever-increasing number of our sons and daughters but we gave them more and more of our trade, until finally we held first place in volume of imports from the United States.

Furthermore, American enterprise has done most for our industrial development. In every important centre, as well as in Peterborough, they have built modern industrial plants. They have established hundreds of important industries in Canada because they believed the country would grow and prosper; thus their business would grow and prosper.

Besides, the Canadian market brings them better prices than they get in the United States and they have the advantage of special profits, under the preferential agreements within the British Empire, of sending orders received by the parent corporation, to their Canadian plants for execution.

In addition to the advantages of a location in Canada, American manufacturers have received subsidies, not usually available to native industries. Towns and cities have vied with each other in the effort to secure American manufacturers. They have given them valuable water-powers and choice sites of land, have voted them tax-exemption or a nominal fixed tax rate and conferred upon them many special favors.

To all interests and purposes we have subsidized the American manufacturer.

City Without Industries

What would Peterborough be today without the many great American industrial enterprises of which we are so proud? asked the speaker.

The net profits from investments by Americans in land, forests, mines and industry go of course to the United States, and the aggregate of the remittances must reach a colossal sum of money every year.

If it be inferred that native industry has not kept pace with American industry in Canada, the question naturally follows: Whither are we going?

There are a few Canadians who are in favor of this country going over, body and soul, to the United States. There are some who think the destiny of Canada will be independence. But the great majority of Canadians prefer that Canada shall aim to become the most promising and prosperous nation within the Britanic Commonwealth.

But we want the continuing confidence and good-will of our American friends. In order, however, to hold these elements of friendship we must lean less upon American enterprise, and work more seriously and purposefully for ourselves and our country.

The settlement and expansion of the great American commonwealth were not the result of borrowed energy or capital, nor of foreign foresight or enterprise. The spirit of the early pioneers and of modern achievement was "native to the soil."

The Canadian people are developing many great cities. The future of those cities and that of the country at large will depend upon the success of our native genius, industry and courage in creating wealth out of the wonderful natural riches of Canada.

3. Reduction of debt and taxation.

The national debt is not alone the problem of fiscal experts; it is our problem and it is becoming more and more difficult of solution. A few days ago the editor of one of Toronto's influential dailies said that: "Canada is so immense and so rich in natural resources and is at such an early state of development it is natural her people should feel her future to be assured. But blind confidence, that fails to protect the future from needless exactions, may betray the country into serious trouble. The national debt has increased more since the armistice than it increased during the war. It stood at 300 millions in 1914 and now reaches 2,400 millions. . . Canada has gone on her way, piling obligation upon obligation."

4. Governamental retrenchment.

This is the problem of the Premier and his ministers, of our own distinguished member of parliament, George N. Gordon, and his colleagues in the Commons.

5. Unity and co-operation.

That famous American "melting pot" has given and is still giving a lot of trouble and some people are in constant dread of it boiling over. But, it is well to recall, that there came over on the Mayflower a sturdy group of British men and women who believed less in the divine right of kings than in the diviner right of the people. Independent ideas and ideals were planted in the soil of New England and Virginia.

The heritage left by these planters is held a sacred thing, even by Americans of today. Often, in the history of the history of the Republic, when a crisis seemed imminent, it has emerged ever more confident that the Almighty favor was with its people. There was born the same spirit of sovereignty that has since gained for the British Empire her commanding place in the world. The old Empire knows the heart of the American people and has ever been a true and trusted friend. If we in Canada rise to our opportunities we will the better understand the idealism, ambition and enterprise of the true American spirit. The bonds of a lasting friendship with the Great Republic will be strengthened year by year by fealty to our own country, to our own institutions and to our place in the British Empire. Thus we shall give full effect to the spirit of unity and co-operation in the building of the nation, as well as of the city, said Mr. Ritchie, in conclusion.

SINKING STEAMER TOOK FIVE LIVES

PADUCAH, Ky., February 1 Canadian Press). — Two passengers and three negro deck hands were missing to-day as a result of the wreck of the river steamer Thomas C. Powell in the Ohio River at a point near Wilson's Light, eight miles from here last night.

Survivors of the wreck landed here by the towboat Marcia Richardson, told a graphic story of the wreck, and expressed the belief that those missing were trapped below by an inrush of water, or pinned by the shifting freight when the boat listed.

Shepherd Green, captain and pilot of the Powell, declared the boat struck a sunken obstruction while moving in mid-channel, and sank within three minutes.

As soon as he felt the blow, Captain Green turned the steamer and ran for a submerged bar.

The survivors found temporary refuge on the deck, and later some of them wer emoevd ashore in the boat's yawl.

DISCUSS TRADE WITH AUSTRALIA

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Senator Wilson of Australia and R. McKeokley, Controller of Australian customs are expected here next week to negotiate a trade agreement between Canada and Australia.

The agreement has been on tapis for som time. Hon. J. A. Robb, then Minister of Trade and Commerce, made special trip to Australia to negotiate. Canada offered her preferential tariff in exchange for the tariff which Australia gives to Great Britain, but Australia did not think the offer good enough.

Last session Canada offered an extra inducement. Provision was made for an additional preference to Australia on raisins and dried currants, but still an agreement was not concluded.

Canada would not grant a preference on dried fruits and currants unless all her other requests were agreed to and there the matter stood

FIRES TAKE TOLL OF TWO FAMILIES

UNIONVILLE, Mich., Feb. 1—(Canadian Press.)—A man, his wife and their two children were burned to death in their farm home five miles west of here early to-day when a five gallon can of kerosene being used to start the kitchen fire exploded.

The dead are: Edward Bowles 38, his wife who was partly paralyzed, a boy of five and a girl of two.

TRAPPED IN BED.

AKRON, Feb. 1. — (Canadian Press.)— Four persons, mother and three children, were burned to death and a fourth seriously injured to-day when fire destroyed their home in East Akron. The dead are: Mrs. Arthur Smith, 22, Anne 3, Kathleen 2, and Arthur, ten months old.

All were trapped in their beds when the house caught fire.

EIGHT MEN MISSING FROM STEAMER WRECK

ST. JOHN, Feb. 1.— (Canadian Press.)—The Peruvian setamer Perene, which left here early this morning for Havana, was in collision about 3.30 o'clock below Partridge island with the schooner Maid of Scotland bound here from New York with coal. The schooner was sunk. Eight men are missing from the schooner and several from the steamer may have been lost.

The Perena was built in 1905 in Kiel, and was commanded by Captain E. White. She was bound for Havana with a full cargo of potatoes. The Maid of Scotland was a three-masted schooner, owned by F. K. Warren, of Halifax, N.S. She was 371 tons register. Two survivors of the schooner crew said that she was abreast of the fairway body, three miles off Partridge Island, and the crew were mustered on deck, preparatory to bringing her to anchor, when the Perena bore down on them and crashed through her mizzen rigging. She sank a few minutes later.

It was dark at the time, but the weather was clear and the water was comparatively calm, with a fair breeze blowing. Two of the seamen of the schooner climbed up the rigging and succeeded in catching hold of the steamer, but Captain Haughn, Mate Robert Smith, Cook, a young Canadian and another seaman were left to their fate.

As the Perena backed away the captain and other men left on her deck were heard calling for help.

CANCELS OIL LEASES WITHOUT ANY DEBATE

WASHINGTON, February 1 (Canadian Press). — Without debate, the House to-day passed the Walsh resolution already approved by the Senate directing the President to bring about a cancellation of the Doheny and Sinclair Naval Oil Reserve leases.

Representative Longworth, the Republic leader, urging that there be no show of partisanship with the former President near death, asked that the debate be limited to thirty minutes.

Representative Howard, Democrat, Nebraska, suggested that the House proceed immediately to vote the suggestion that was accepted.

THE SPELL OF A SONG

By Brother Stanislaus, C.S.I.

"Call the next case," said the court.

"I'm glad it is the last case," remarked Precinct Detective Murphy. "I'm tired and I want to go home."

"Me too," answered Police Reporter Duff, "What is it?"

"Oh, nothin' much. Thomson that runs the big department store complained of a young fellow hanging around and I had to take him in, but I dont see anything wrong with him, and I am going to ask the Judge to let me take him out and get him a good job."

"Thomas Donovan," called the clerk.

A slim youth took the stand.

"I found this fellow hanging around the department stores, and as he couldn't give much of an account of himself, I took him in."

"What were you doing?" asked the Judge, who had been on the bench these many years, and still had a kindly heart.

"I was looking for work."

"What can you do?"

"I worked in a hardware store in the old country and—and sometimes I sing."

"Can you sing?"

The youth seemed to take the question for a command; suddenly a clear voice rang through the dingy court room:

She is a rich and rare land;
O she's a fresh and fair land;
She's a dear rare land—
This native land of mine.

The Judge looked out of the window and saw—a little cottage on the banks of a river, of a river that sings, but only in the language of youth. Twenty years were gone from him and he was walking down the old boreen with the fairest coleen the country ever knew.

The thrush sang in the meadow and the lark made answer to the song, but the voice of the loved one walking beside him put them all to shame.

She it was that was singing, and not the youth before him. 'Twas a dream he had that the shamrocks were growing on her grave these many years. How sweetly sounded her voice today as she sang:

Yours was the good heart, Mary,
That still kept hoping on
When the trust in God had left my soul
And my arms' young strength was gone.

Murphy had hands thrust deep in to his pockets, gazing out on the square. He saw not the clanging cars, nor did he hear the clamor of the city. He saw a crossroad and the young people gathering on a summer evening.

The old piper was coming down the road and the shout went out in greeting to him. Sure, they were all there, the boys he had grown up with; there was Long Pat singing: "Dance light, love, for my heart lies under your feet."

Police Reporter Duff was sharpening a pencil, and continued to sharpen the pencil because he heard his mother calling to him. "Come in Jimmie, aroon, 'tis time for your supper." He went into the little cottage and there was the peat fire burning and the father coming in from the fields.

Soon they's be sitting down to the evening meal, the soft south wind blowing through the open door—that door from which no beggar was ever turned away. "God forbid that anyone would want for bite or sup in this house," the father would often say.

After supper they would sit 'round the fire and the grandfather would tell the old tales, of the banshee, and the fairy shoemaker, and the mother would sing in Irish.

Then the evening rosary would be said and soon he'd be watching the stars till he went to sleep and listening to the tales they'd be telling him of faroff America and ambition's goal. It was but a dream that he left his home when but a boy. His mother would call him in the morning and the dream would be over.

And Donovan was finishing his song:

O she's a fresh and fair land,
O she's a true and rare land!
Yes, she's a rare and fair land—
This native land of mine.

The noise of clanging cars sounded through the room; the Judge looked up.

"What did you say your charge against this man was?"

"Who? Me?" said Murphy, waking up. "Sure I didn't charge anybody with a thing. I was goin' to take this young fellow to supper."

"You'll not," said his honor shortly. He is under the jurisdiction of the court and it's home he will go with me this night."

She looked up into his eyes, anxious but imperious, and answered softly: "Why not?"

"Exactly. I've no desire to take that long journey with you, but I'm not going to take any chances, either. . . . Ah! Here's an idea that beats the other hollow. When the party breaks up we'll go down to Huntersville with them, marry there, and return to camp. I don't see how your Dolomites could beat this for a honeymoon. Why in thunder should we trail all the way over to Europe to find seclusion when we must return in two or three months, anyhow? It's a scandalous waste. We can to to the Dolomites for our second honeymoon—we'll have one every year. And this is much more in the picture if you want to be Mary Ogden again. She never would have proposed anything so elaborate and unnecessary. Say yes, and don't be more than a minute about it."

Mary drew in her breath sharply. The plan made a violent and irresistible appeal. There would be no long interval for possible reversal, for contacts in which it might be difficult to hold fast to her new faith. But what excuse could she make to leave him later? . . . Later? Did Austria really exist? Did she care? Let the future take care of itself. Her horizon, a luminous band, encircled these mountains. . . . She smiled into his ardent eyes. "Very well. I'll write to Hortense today and tell her to send me up a trousseau of sorts. And now—you are to understand that you have not dared to propose to me yet and are suffering all the qualms of uncertainty, for I am a desperate flirt, and took a long walk in the woods this morning with Mr. Scores."

"Very well, Miss Ogden, I will now do my best to make a fool of myself, and as soon as we return to camp will telegraph to New York for a five-pound box of chocolates."

"Their footsteps made no sound on the mossy path."

"Hark! Hark! The Lark!" shouted Todd as he rowed past with Babette Gold. "Only there isn't a lark or any other bird in these woods that I've been able to discover."

He rowed into a little cove and they gazed into the dim green woods, but the maple leaves grew almost to the ground, and it was like peering through the tiny changing spaces of a moving curtain through which one glimpsed green columns flecked with gold.

He beached the boat, and they walked, single file, up a narrow runway made by the deer. Everywhere was that leafy whispering curtain. Between the rigid spruce and soft maples were fragrant balsams and ferns, and an occasional pine with its pale green spikes. They passed enormous boulders detached from the glaciers that had ground mountains in their embrace, but today things of mere beauty in their coats of pink and green and golden moss.

Their footsteps made no sound on the mossy path, and they came suddenly upon a deer and his doe drinking at a pool. But the antlered head was flung back instantly, the magnificent buck wheeled on his hind legs, gave a leap and went crashing through the forest snorting his protesting fury. The doe scampered after, her white-lined tail standing up perfectly straight.

They sat down on a log, dried and warmed by the sun in this open space, and talked for two hours. There was no need for careful avoidance of dangerous subjects. Clavering had come to these woods nearly every year since he had made the north his home, and she had forgotten nothing of her woodland ore. When one is "in the woods," as the great Adirondacks are familiarly called, one rarely talks of anything but their manifold offerings. It is easy enough to forget the world. They both had their long tramps, their rough campings-out, more or less exciting adventures. When a loud bell, hung in a frame outside the camp, summoned them to dinner, they walked out briskly. Once, as the trail widened, he touched her fingers tentatively. She let her own curl for a moment, then gave him a provocative glance over her shoulder and hurried on.

XLVIII.

Clavering, when making up his list with Mr. Dinwiddie (by courtesy), had, with the exception of Todd, who was always the life of any party, Gora, whom he always liked to have at hand, and Eva Darling, who was a favorite of "The Ambassador to the Court of the Sophisticates," as Todd had long since dubbed him, chosen his guests at random, taking whom he could get, careful merely to ask those who, so far as he knew, were on speaking terms.

But he hardly could have gathered together a more congenial and lively party, nor one more delighted to leave New York for the woods. Henry Minor, editor of one of the intellectual and faintly radical magazines, whose style was so involved in his efforts to be both "different" and achieve an unremitting glitter, that he had recently received a petition to issue a glossary, was as amiable as a puppy in the society of his friends and when in the woods talked in words of one syllable and discovered a mighty appetite. His wife, who had demonstrated her originality by calling herself Mrs. Minor, was what is known as a spiffing cook and a top-notch dresser. She had, in fact, the most charming assortment of sports clothes in the camp. Eva Darling, who danced for pastime and illustrated for what little bread she was permitted to eat at home, was a lively as a grasshopper and scarcely less devastating. Babette Gold wore her black hair in smooth bands on either side of the perfect oval of her face, and had the sad and yearning gaze of the unforgiven Magdalen, and she had written two novels dealing with the domesticities of the lower middle class, treating with a clinical wealth of detail the irritable monontoies of the nuptial couch and the artless intimacies of the nursery. She smoked incessantly, could walk ten miles at a stretch and was as passionless as a clam. Gerald Scores, who wore a short pointed beard and looked the complete artist, was one of the chief hopes of the intellectual drama cunningly commercialized; and as capable as Clavering of shutting up his genius in a water-tight compartment, and enjoying himself in the woods. He was mildly flirtatious, but looked upon emotional intensity in the personal life of the artist as a criminal waste of force. Halifax Bolton, who claimed to be the discoverer of the Younger Generation (in fiction) and was just twenty-eight himself, was a critic of formidable severity and the author of at least five claques. The intense concentration of writing routed his sense of humor, but he had as many droll stories in his repertoire as Todd. His wife, the famous "Alberta Jones," fierce Lucy Stoner, was the editor of "Woman's Magazines," and wrote short stories of impeccable style and indifferent content for the Century and the Dial.

They were all intimate friends and argued incessantly and amiably. And they were all devoted to Mr. Dinwiddie, whom they addressed as Excellence, without accent.

FAMOUS VEGETABLE SYRUP USED BY DOCTOR THACHER TO BE GIVEN AWAY FREE

BUILDS UP SYSTEM; INCREASES STRENGTH

DR. H. S. THACHER, A.B., Ph.G., M.D.
Celebrated American Physician who proved that symptoms such as those described in this article are often the results of a sluggish, torpid liver—and that relief in such cases comes quickly when the Liver is properly cleansed and toned. He also demonstrated that this relief can be gained from a vegetable syrup and without the treacherous use of dangerous or habit-forming drugs.

Announcement is made by leading druggists throughout this section that they have made arrangements with the Dr. Thacher laboratories whereby their customers may now obtain the vegetable syrup perfected by Dr. H. S. Thacher, celebrated American Physician. And, in order to demonstrate the superior merits of this syrup, druggists state that they will give away liberal trial size bottles so long as the limited supply for free distribution lasts.

Gives Quick Relief!

Dr. Thacher first came into public notice by reason of this frequent demonstrations that indigestion, gas on an acid stomach, constipation, colds that hang on and a general run-down, tired out feeling are often the result of a sluggish Liver—and that relief in such cases comes quickly when the liver is properly cleansed and toned and the system functions once more as Nature intended.

How Nature Helps.

There is a scientific reason for this quick relief!

When working as Nature intended the Liver does three things necessary to keep you feeling your best. First, it purifies your Blood, every drop of which filters through your liver every fifteen minutes. Second, your liver furnishes the essences essential to perfect digestion. Third, your liver supplies the secretions Nature furnishes to lubricate the intestines so that your bowels can move gently, thoroughly and regularly every day.

Why You Feel Badly.

Your liver cannot do these things when it becomes sluggish. Consequently you often wake up mornings feeling dull and tired. Perhaps your digestion is not as it used to be; gases may bloat you after meals and your heart may palpitate. Often you may become constipated, your blood gets in an unhealthy condition or you may become nervous and too "run-down" to throw off a cold. The minute your tongue becomes coated, or you feel any one of these symptoms, give your liver intelligent help so that you may quickly feel your best again.

Use Dr. Thacher's Syrup.

Science has now come to the aid of Nature in offering quick relief. Dr. Thacher perfected a tonic of vegetable ingredients, known for their corrective and health-giving properties. This vegetable preparation is now known as Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup. In numerous cases those who have used it report that it quickly corrected the various symptoms of a sluggish liver and builds up strength, vigor and energy. Many of them have gained speedy relief through its use, even after other preparations have failed.

How It Gives Relief.

Each ingredient has a definite work to perform. This is why Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup helps Nature to cleanse and tone the liver properly—to quickly improve digestion—to increase appetite, nourish and build up the system—to throw off stuffy colds—to soothe the tired and over-tired nerves—to gently correct constipation, strengthen your body and send pure, healthier blood coursing through your veins.

REDUCED WAGES PURCHASE MORE THAN 1920 PEAK

Besco President Issues Statement of Earnings and Rates of Pay in Cape Breton Mines — Workers Better Off in 1923 Than 1920.

WORK IS STEADY.

MONTREAL, Jan. 31. — "Our recent negotiations have been carried on in a very friendly spirit," said the concluding paragraph of a statement given out this evening by President R. M. Wolvin following the meeting yesterday and to-day of the Board of Directors of the British Empire Steel Corporation, at which the Cape Breton coal strike was considered.

The statement said in part:

"There is considerable misunderstanding as to the earnings of the mine employees of the corporation.

"Day paid men on the surface, $4.14 per day; $97.48 per month.

"Day-paid men underground, $4.54 per day; $102.74 per month.

"Miners and other workers paid on tonnage rates, $6.84 per day; $140.55 per month.

"Average all classes of mine workers, $5.23 per day; $115.00 per month.

Number of Days.

"The number of days worked by the collieries—which is the real measure of the opportunity for earnings by individuals—was during 1923, as follows:

"Glace Bay Mines, 225 working days.

"Sydney mines, 217 working days.

"Stellarton mines, 257 working days.

"Springhill mines, 265 working days.

"The number of possible working days during 1923 was reduced by the unauthorized and illegal strike during July, which not only laid the mines idle for a period exceeding three weeks during the busiest season of the year, but was the direct cause of loss of business.

No Strike Here.

"Day-paid surface workers, $1,145.88.

"Day-paid underground workers, $1,098.74.

"Average of all classes $1,262.90.

"In the United States, where higher rates of day wages are paid in the unionized districts, the annual earning are limited by the small number of working days during the year due to the state of over production in the coal trade of that country. During recent years the bituminous mines in the United States have not averaged more than 150 working days annually, and during 1923 many districts have not exceeded 90 working days. Very similar conditions prevail in Alberta.

Real Wages.

"'Real' wages are ascertained by dividing the index figure of wages actually received by the index figure of the cost of living (or the purchasing value of the dollar.)

"The following figures show the very marked advance in 'real' wages received by the mine workers of the corporation:

	Wags.	Cost of Living	'Real Wages.'
1914	100 p.c.	100 p.c.	100 p.c.

"The interesting fact is disclosed that the mine workers were better off financially in 1923 under a scale of wages reduced form the high level of wages of 1920, than was the case at that date."

DEADLOCK IN THE U. S. PRESIDENCY

BY HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—A deadlock in the 1924 presidential election, with the "balance of power" held by progressive third-party electors from the northwestern agricultural states, is the possibility being studied by advocates of a third-party movement, as the probable lineup of old-party cndidates and policies take shape.

Here is, in brief, the situation as it is viewed by third-party advocates:

Henry Ford's withdrawal as a possible independent candidate and his endorsement of Coolidge merely removed him as the outstanding individual around which independent political sentiment had begun to crystallize.

Ford's withdrawal in no way changed the dissatisfaction with existing political parties which is at the real root of the third-party movement.

This dissatisfaction already has expressed itself by the ousting of both old-party senators in Minnesota and the election of Farmer-Labor senators, by the seating of Non-partisan League senators from North Dakota and the shattering of party lines in Washington, Montana, Iowa and Nebraska in the elections of Senators Dill, Wheeler, Brookhart and Howell.

Delay Gives More Impetus

It is spreading, not subsiding, according to political advices here.

With little prospect for legislative accomplishment at this session which can allay this discontent, with conservative candidates and platforms seemingly assured for both old-time parties, the demand for a third party—even if only a party of protest, with no chance for the presidency—is increasing.

The situation in the present Congress is lending much heart to third-party backers. It gives visual proof that a third party need not necessarily be a majority party to exercise a guiding hand in legislation. If a new party can achieve for the next Congress a balance of power similar to that now held by the progressive groups in both House and Senate, much greater headway can be made under a strict two-party organization of Congress.

The Farmer-Labor party and the Non-partisan League offer centers from which such party organization may spread. Each is representative of the third-party craving. It is believed a following can be drawn sufficient to make the new party a real factor in the campaign.

Without conspicuous leadership, third-party sentiment has united more than half the voters in Minnesota and North Dakota, has attained second place in Idaho and Washington, a close third place in South Dakota, Montana, Nebraska and Oklahoma and substantial followings in Colorado, Texas, Kansas and Iowa.

In addition to these, should Senator LaFollette consent to becoming the standard-bearers to the new party, Wisconsin might be carried over into the third-party camp bodily.

Here's How Its Figured

The present lineup of states indicates the Democrats are sure of 12 states with an electoral vote of 139.

Eighteen states are in the doubtful list, controlling 193 votes. It is in these that dissatisfaction and unrest are most rampant and the soil most fallow for third-party seed.

In the division of these doubtful states a small group of third-party electors, representing perhaps not more than four or five states, might constitute the balance of power that could bar either of the old-party candidates from election. In that case the election would be thrown into Congress. The ultimate result doubtless would be election of the Republican candidate.

But the prestige accruing to the the third-party group able to accomplish even such a temporary deadlock would make it a factor to be reckoned with and give it a whole some footing for future growth.

This is the point of view from which the third-party plan is being approached. There will be no expectation of running away with the presidency, as the Bull-Moose party attempted in 1912. The man who heads the ticket must be contented with the chance to be the John C. Fremont of his party. Fremont, the first candidate of the Republican party in 1856, went down to defeat, but the footing gained in that campaign enabled the new party to become the dominant party in American affairs.

Guns are used to harpoon whales now, and there is little danger to whalers.

SAVE THE TROUBLE OF COFFEE MAKING—USE Washington's Coffee IT IS MADE JUST DISSOLVE AND DRINK IT. A GREAT CONVENIENCE AND OH, SO GOOD!

THIS LITTLE W RLD

BY DON RYAN

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—Our Lady of the Angeles, quiet, yellow, high-shouldered and dignified by the march of years, looks across the plaza whoch once was the center of the Pueblo of Los Angeles. Founded in 1784 by Father Junipero Serra, the mission of Our Lady is quiet the oldest thing in downtown Los Angeles today. With its paved court and garden in which palm trees show behind thick walls, it is the one remaining tranquility in the roaring cauldron of an expanding commercial city where everybody owns an automobile.

Workmen with steam machinery have been eating like voracious moths at the northeastern corner of the church enclosure. Are they going to tear down the mission?

No. The mision is to stand. Even the advancing commercialism of Los Angeles will not affront this sacred effigy of the past. But a corner of the garden must go—to make room for a new bank.

Out among the stables. The half-doors open like port-holes and from them protude the contemplative heads of horses—passengers watching from a liner at dock. A bleat from behind a stack of baled hay. Around the corner appears the dappled head of a goat, the long beard wagging as the animal chews.

Mascot? Something more. A companion for the horses. Old Race Horse Johnny will tell you. Old Race Horse Johnny, otherwise J. A. Gilreath of J. G. Irvin's Kentucky stables. A twisted smile behind a tobacco-stained mustache. Johnny is past his seventh year.

About the goat. The horse needs him. If the goat is taken away the horse will pine. Thats' where that expression started—about gettin' your goat. Somebody steals a race horses' goat and that horse will run no more.

At least some originality has been displayed by Eloise Clement, lecturer and actress, who recently obtained the conviction in court of Michael Dengen, radium chemist, who got too fresh with her. Mrs. Clement, who obtaned considerable notoriety because of the case, is not going into the movies. Instead she announces her intention of becoming a lawyer. She will specialize on prosecuting mashers

The sport of kings—but no gambling! With legions of policemen, sheriff's men and volunteers acting as detectives, Los Angeles may safely go to the races.

Brown and flat, girt by squat hills, stirred above by the passage of indifferent clouds and backed by the fantastic, weathering palace sets of the Goldwyn studio in the distance. This is the setting, while from the spidery grandstand rises the howl of 4000 throats.

MODEL KITCHENS BETTER FOR ALL.

Every Other Room in the House Has Received Its Quota.

By MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The kitchen is coming into its own.

Now that every other room in the house has received its quota of attention from the interior decorator, we are beginning to realize the possibilities of the kitchen.

Probably one of the most modern complete and beautiful kitchens in the country is in the "Ideal Home" in Newark, N. J., built by a department store at a cost of $80,000, to show the public just what a home can be.

Of course, few can be expected to duplicate such a home, but in this kitchen are several ideas which can easily be installed in the moderately priced home.

Wall Cabinets.

There's a wall cabinet, long and narrow, which offers accommodation for brooms, brushes, carpet sweeper and dustpan and keeps these necessary but unsightly objects out of the corner or the back stairway.

There is a berth for the ironing board. It may be let down on a folding standard which makes a firm foundation. A smaller compartment below is for the electric iron, with an electrical connection adjacent.

Handy at Sink.

At one side of the sink at a convenient height is a good-sized porcelain cabinet, built in the wall, offering concealment for the soap, washing powder, vegetable brushes and other equipment necessary at the sink.

Those who have washed dishes in a kitchen with one central light to illuminate the whole room will appreciate the wall light immediately over the sink.

Every inch of room available for closets and cupboards is used so that nothing need stand around and collect dust.

The British Postal Service last year handled about 5,600,000,000 letters. It also looked after approximately 788,000,000 telephone calls.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

A CROAKY RIDDLE

"Quiet now, please!" called out Humpty Dumpty pompously.

"Another riddle! Another riddle!" cried everybody in Riddle Land. "Here comes the Riddle Lady."

Nancy made a curtsy and Nick made a bow and everybody else did the same. Oh, but they did like the Riddle Lady—everybody did!

"Quiet now, please!" called out Humpty Dumpty pompously. "The Riddle Lady has a new riddle to guess."

So she began at once so as not to keep them waiting:

"Kerchug! Kerchug! In your little green sack
So neatly buttoned straight up your back,
With little black buttons like little black pills
O'er your little green tucker with little white frills.

"Chugalug! Chugalug! With your googily eyes,
Rolling 'round and 'round as you look for flies,
In your waterproof booties and stockings to match,
And a bib on your chin the crumbs to catch!

"Clumpalump! Clumpalump! Your tongue's a queer thing.
It goes like a fiddle with a very loose string.
Though it's not good for music, it's fine for a spoon,
To catch little skeeters you see, by the moon.

"Chugalorum! Chugalorum! You'd better watch out!
More googily eyes than yours are about.
And your nice little jumper and booties and sack
Won't keep Mister Owl from finding your track.

"So you'd better be shutting your beady black eyes,
And folding your spoon of a tongue, if you're wise,
And cuddle down cozily, safe in your bed,
With blankets of mud pulled up over your head."

"It's a frog!" called out Jill. "I know because there are a lot of them where Jack and I go for water. "But Mister Bull Frog doesn't wear a bib or booties. He wears a white satin waistcoat and green satin breeches!"

"Of course, he does!" nodded the Riddle Lady. "It's just the little frogs the riddle is about. But you get the prize just the same. It's a nice new bucket to keep in your new house that Jack built on Broom Street. But if I were you, I'd have a well and a pump so you won't have to carry the water so far. Then there won't be any danger of anybody falling down and breaking his crown."

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD G. ROBINSON

HYGIENE OF THE TEETH

Poor hygiene of the teeth is responsible for more disastrous consequences than we are usually pleased to admit. Mouth breathing, which is sure to follow obstruction of the nasal passages, is one of the earliest troubles to look after. This may be iorrected almost completely if taken on its first stages. The teeth will escape the deformity of being too large and as a result crowded forward and becoming prominent and unsightly.

Probably no deformity is more to be fought against than this protruding or overhanging jaw. It spoils the symmetry of one's face and causes a life-long defect, if not remedied in babyhood or early life.

Some families through several generations have teeth which are called soft or feeble. This condition seems to be the result of poor or deficient nutrition. The children of these undernourished parents require very careful attention to prevent the development of caries. These poorly developed teeth are often seen in the mouths of children suffering from scorbutic or rachitic disease and also in those suffering from congenital syphilis.

Do your best for your children's teeth. Give them a hygienic mouth, if you value their success in life. Remember that proper diet is important in teeth forming and development. It has been pointed out by leading dentists that the teeth that are the least called upon for proper mastication are often the worst in structure. Use the proper coarse foods and have strong, healthy teeth.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG Jan. 31—The annual vestry meeting of St. Peter's Anglican Church of which Rev. Canon F. J. Sawers, M.A., formerly of Peterborough, is the popular rector was held on Monday evening in St. Peters Parish Hall here and was well attended and a very great interest shown in the church's many activities, he whose spirit of the meeting was of an encouraging character. The report of the church wardens covered the usual items.

The receipts and expenditures for the year being about equal one or two items of account remain outstanding which about balanced by assets available.

The cemetery account showed an increase of the credit balance and the fund for perpetual care of lots has been largely added to by owners of lots.

The Sunday Schools and St. Andrew's Brotherhood reported substantial progress.

The Boy's work as carried on in the Tuxis Square and by the Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs had a prosperous year while the work of the drew's Charter, Zenana Circle of the King's Daughters and other organizations reported substantial progress.

The Rector Canon Sawers presided in his usual happy manner. He expressed gratitude and thankfulness for the cooperation of the various agencies of the parish and pointed out that the church had made gratifying progress.

The different societies which reported were the West End Sunday School, the East End Sunday School senior section and primary department, the Wolf Cubs, the Senior Tuxis Boys the St. Peter's Boy Scouts, Brotherhood of St. Andrew's Chapter, Yenana Circle of King's Daughters, Women's Auxiliary, The Parish Guild, St. Peter's W. A. the Mother's Union. A general summary of women's activities showed that very much successful work had been accomplished during the year.

Mrs McNaughtons Bequest

The late Mrs. David McNaughton who had been a member of the Zenana Circle of Kings Daughters since it inception, left a bequest of $200 to this Society to help carry on its work. Mrs. McNaughton who left a bequest of $200 to St. Peter's W.A. with the request that the oldest member be made a life member. After discussion it was decided to make six life members and this was done a short time ago.

..Brotherhood of St Andrew's Chapter

This chapter was instituted last May and is carrying on a laudable work. The Society seeks to locate newcomers to town and social evenings for men are regularly held in order that they may become better acquainted. A meeting is held twice a month to discuss matters in general pertaining to boys and men in the congregation.

Formerly Resided Here

Cobourg citizens learned with regret of the death in Peterborough on Sunday of Mr. John Jamieson, a former resident here. Mr. Jamieson left Cobourg a number of years ago. He was one of the oldest members of the I.O.O.F. being connected with Cobourg Lodge for the past thirty-nine years.

Several B O T A Fines

Following the visit of a couple of liquor inspectors to Cobourg several B. O. T. A. charges were laid through information handed by them to Inspector Goodrich. As a consequence one local citizen was fined $350 and costs, another $200 and costs both being on charges of selling. On a charge of purchasing a third citizen was fined $50 and costs.

In Death Not Divided

The funeral took place here yesterday of Mr. Henry Pengelly who died in Toronto the Sunday previous On Thursday of last week the remains of his wife were brought from Toronto for burial here. Husband and wife were not long in death divided. Both were former residents here. Mr. Pengelly was a former member of Cobourg Town Council. He was a retired navy man and married first Mrs. Polley and after her death several years ago, Mrs. Fice, widow of the late Thomas Fice of Cobourg. He has no near relatives. Three step-sons, W. J., Robert and Samuel Fice accompanied the remains here from Toronto.

SIX LIVES FOR ONE

Only Presidential Clemency Can Save Them.

NEW ORLEANS, February 1. — A life for a life.

So the law has held for time immemorial.

But here six men soon will go to their deaths on the gallows in expiation for a life they're accused of taking.

Twice the Courts decreed they must die. But still there was a ray of hope left—intervention by the nation's highest tribunal.

But now even it—the United States Supreme Court—has ruled they must die.

So Joe Bocchio, Italian poet and inventor, and five fellow-countrymen will be hanged for the murder of Dallas Calmes, restaurant proprietor, at Independence, La.

All were convicted on circumstantial evidence. All maintain:

They were not in Independence on the night Calmes was slain while attempting to rout bandits looting a bank near his lunchroom.

That there is a conspiracy on the part of the real murderers and their friends to shift the blame upon others' shoulders.

The case has aroused great interest throughout the South. Feeling here against the Italians, dating back to the riots of 1889, when 11 sons of Italy were lynched in a New Orleans park, has run unusually high.

There have been charges and counter-charges of attempted bribery, fear of jail delivery, talk of violence, rumours of militiamen being sent.

And there is an international angle, too. Bocchio and three of his companions still are Italian subjects.

Bocchio, just 24, has been working on an invention which he believes will be a blessing to humanity in this mechanical age.

But now that invention—a new type of electrical motor—must be finished by another.

He has given instructions to his counsel to turn over the drawings and data—upon which he has had to rely solely owing to prison rules forbidding him any tools—to his brother in Italy. The brother, he says, is chief electrician in the submarine division of the Italian Navy.

All, realising a presidential pardon is all that can save them now, have accepted their fate philosophically.

READING DOWN, THESE SIX SENTENCED TO HANG FOR ONE MURDER ARE: ANDREA LAMANTIA, NATALE DREAMORE, JOSEPH BOCCHIO, ROY LEONA, JOSEPH RINI, AND JOSEPH GIGLIO.

DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS, DRINK WATER

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, becomes sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor of Examiner:

Dear Sir,—It was rather amusing to read in Tuesday's Examiner, the effusion by Mr. J. H. McClellan, Ottawa, re the recent by elections and Mr. Meighen. Mr. McClellan objects to the statement being made by Mr. Meighen that the defeat of the King Government in the by-election in Halifax and Kent are straws which show the way the wind blows in regard to public opinion. Then he immediately contradicts this theory by mentioning the by elections held during the last year of the Meighen administration when the Conservative candidates were defeated. But did not the defeat of the Meighen Government follow immediately on the heels of these defeats in the by elections? And that is just what we expect will happen the King Government at the next election.

As to his remarks re Mr. Meighen, one is reminded of the slogan of the Liberals during the last Provincial campaign concerning Hon. Howard Ferguson. "Is this man to be Premier of Ontario?" And on the 2th day of June, by an overwhelming majority the people of this Province—Liberal as well as Conservative—answered "Yes.' '

And when the next Federal election takes place, the people of Canada will give the same answer to Mr. McClellan's question, "Do the people want Mr. Meighen and his colleagues back to rule this country?"

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, Jan. 31.—Some hope is now entertained for the recovery of Clifford Algea, son of Dr. Algea, Colborne, who was seriously injured, when his companion, William Melbourne Hodges was instantly killed on Monday when the truck in which they were riding was struck by the C. N. R. flier going east. The accident occurred just east of Colborne station. Dr. Brown, of Colborne, brought Clifford Algea to the hospital here. He received injuries to his head and a small fracture, it is stated, but no depression. His arm was also cut and injured and he is suffering from shock. Both boys were carried on the pilot of the engine for some little distance, it is stated.

William Melbourne Hodges, who was instantly killed, was the oldest son of his widowed mother, and sixteen years of age. His father, the late Frank Hodges, an overseas veteran, died two years ago leaving a family of six children. With Mrs. Hodges and her family very deep sympathy if felt.

Special Services

Last night at the evangelistic service held in the Methodist S. S. hall, Rev. W. J. H. Smyth, of Seabright, formerly of Omemee, who is assisting the pastor of the church, Rev. R. F. Stillman, gave a very earnest, impressive message which was listened to with much interest. His address showed deep thought and was marked by an appealing earnestness which it was felt by those who heard him, could not but be productive of much good.

Had Successful Year

The annual meeting of the Camborne Methodist church was held on Wednesday, the pastor, Rev. F. J. Horwood, formerly of Norham by the way, presiding. Satisfactory reports were rendered from all the different organizations. This church has raised during the year over $2,000.

Meeting of Ministers

Northumberland and Durham Central Ministerial Association met on afternoon during the week at the manse here, where they were enjoyably entertained at the close of the regular session by Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Bremner. The severity of the weather no doubt prevented some from attending, but there were present from outside the town, Rev. Mr. Moyer, Grafton; Rev. J. S. Ferguson, Rev. T. G. McKee, Baltimore.

Rev. J. N. Norton ably reviewed a recent book by John R. Mott entitled "Confronting Young Men with the Living Christ." His strong address was much appreciated.

ANNUAL MEETING DOMINION BANK.

Strong Liquid Position of Bank Indicated in Reports

The Directors of the Dominion Bank met the shareholders at the fifty-third annual meeting in Toronto on January 30th, with an excellent statement. In fact, in many particulars it is by far the strongest statement issued by the Bank in its fifty-three years of business.

Two of the most outstanding features are the large amount carried forward to Profit and Loss Account and the strong liquid position which the figures present.

It will be generally admitted that 1923 was by no means a favourable year in Canadian business and that many new and difficult problems had to be met. In view of these facts, the splendid statement reflects the capabilities of the Bank's management.

The profits for the year were $1,129,370—$4,000 better than in 1921, but some $40,000 less than in 1922. To this amount $758,163 brought forward from the previous year is added, giving a total of $1,887,533, distributed as follows: Dividends at the rate of 12% per annum and a bonus of 1%—$780,000; Dominion and Provincial Government taxes, $163,158; contributed to Officers' Pension Fund, $45,000; written off Bank Premises Account, $75,000; leaving a balance carried forward to Profit and Loss Account of $825,374. This is $67,000 more than was carried forward in 1922, and $110,000 more than in 1921, and constitutes the largest amount the Bank has carried forward to its Profit and Loss Account in any year of its history.

It is interesting to note the large increase in Governmental securities held by the bank which points to the policy of its management in maintaining a strong liquid position. Dominion, Provincial and Municipal securities a year ago were shown as $13,700,000, while in the present statement they are at $21,500,000.

While a strong liquid position has always been a notable feature in the Dominion Bank's annual statement, the bank has never been in as strong a position in this regard as today.

The liquid assets are shown as 68,800,000, or 63.7% of the bank's liabilities to the public, while its cash assets are $26,260,000, or practically 25%.

The bank's affairs have been audited on behalf of the shareholders by Messrs. G. T. Clarkson and E. J. Dilworth, of the firm of Clarkson, Gordon & Dilworth, Chartered Accountants, Toronto.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

A LUNCHEON DISH

Steamed timbale of chicken and sweetbreads and ham is well worth the effort for an unusual luncheon. The ingredients are not extravagant. The mold can be an ordinary round basin or a long brick-loaf cake pan.

Truffles may be found at any fancy grocer's or they can be omitted.

Timbale of Chicken

Breast of chicken, ¼ pound lean veal, ½ cup soft bread crumbs, 2 eggs, 1 pair sweetbreads, 2 tablespoons diced cooked lean ham, 6 mushroom caps, 3 truffles, 4 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, ½ cup table cream, ½ cup chicken stock, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1 cup whipping cream.

Scrape the pulp from the fibers of the chicken breast. Scrape the pulp from the veal fibers. Put these in a wooden chopping bowl and pound with a wooden potato masher until smooth. Add salt and paprika and bread crumbs and pound again until smooth. Add one egg and pound until smooth. Add the other egg and pound until thoroughly blended. Rub through a puree sieve and beat in whipping cream.

Butter the mold well and cover with parraffin paper. Butter the paper well. If truffles are used cut them in little rosettes and press into the butter, adding a few drops of melted butter to hold them in place. Set the prepared mold in a cold place to become firm.

Sweetbreads

Cook sweetbreads until tender after parboiling and blanching. Cut into quarter-inch cubes. Saute mushroom caps in butter and add cream to make moist. Mince trimmings of truffles.

Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add cream and chicken stock. When thick and smooth add prepared sweetbreads, diced ham, mushrooms and truffles. Set this mixture in a cold place to become firm.

Line the bottom and wides of the mold with the chicken mixture. Put the sweetbread mixture in the center of the mold and fill in at the sides with the chicken mixture. Cover with the chicken mixture, making the top smooth and even. The sweetbread mixture must be completely covered with at least half an inch of the chicken mixture. Place the mold on several folds of cloth in a pan deep enough to allow the water to surround the mold to about two-thirds of its height.

Add boiling water and let stand directly over the fire until the water boils again. Then cover the mold with buttered paper and place in the oven. Do not let the water boil. Bake, covered, until the mixture is firm to the touch. It will take about 40 minutes. Unmold and serve with cream sauce.

This recipe will fill a quart mold and serve 10 persons.

RAMSAY MacDONALD HAS AUDIENCE WITH AULAIRE

LONDON, Feb. 1.—British United Press.—Prime Minister MacDonald to-day granted an audience to Count De Sainte Aulaire, the French Ambassador.

It is understood that the Count waited upon the British Premier for the purpose of delivering M. Poincare's reply to Mr. MacDonald's recent letter.

According to the political writer Poinix, Premier Poincare will oppose the British proposition to refer the palatinate question to the League of Nations. The French Premier is not desirous of creating a precedent which would enable the league to take up also the Ruhr and Rhineland questions.

SERIOUS PROBLEMS BEFORE LABORITES

Naval Men Peeved Over Proposed Cut in Estimates.

LONDON, Feb. 1. (By Lloyd Allen, United Press Staff Correspondent.) — Premier Ramsay MacDonald and his Labor Cabinet, faced four serious problems to-day.

First, there was the conference over the boundary dispute between Ulster and the Irish Free State, with the former flatly refusing to nominate members over a proposed boundary commission.

Second, the alleged proposition to cut 5,000,000 pounds from the navy appropriations which has disturbed and angered a large and influential group of naval men.

Third, the workers weekly organ of the Clyde side left wing Laborites complained that the government was too docile in the hands of the permanent bureaucracy.

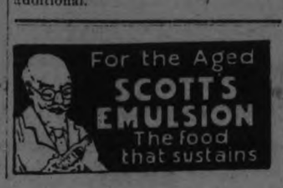
"The Labor minister does not know how to manage permanent officials. Treat 'em rough, is the only way—he is not fit for office," the weekly said.

Fourth, there was the situation in India where the Vice-Roy plainly told the Legislative Assembly that the present regime in India had the support of all parties in England—not the most palatable assertion to a large section of the Labor party here which is rather more Radical than MacDonald on matters of Indian reform.

Cheap Taxis Make Money In Argentina.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 1 (Associated Press).—An American taxicab concern which operates large fleets of taxicabs in New York and other cities, sent a dozen of its vehicles to Buenos Aires a few months ago, and has found the enterprise profitable despite the fact that taxi fares are far cheaper than in New York, and the price of gasoline is higher. The cars are reported to have made a net profit of 800 pesos each a month, or about $275 at current exchange rates. American visitors to Buenos Aires say taxi fares are so cheap here that the people use them more, hence the profits.

Buenos Aires taximeters, regulated by municipal ordinance and inspection are set at 50 centavos for the first, 1,200 meters and thereafter register 10 centavos for each additional 300 meters. This works out in American money and distances, at current exchange, to about 17 cents the first three-quarters of a mile and less than 4 cents for each fifth of a mile additional.



SCOFFLAWS REBUKED; UNITED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The first meeting of the Royal Order of Scofflaws held here was a staggering event.

A "Scofflaw," as may know, is a man who ignores the prohibition law. A man in Quincy, Mass., offered a prize for a name which would rebuke bootleg drinkers and Scofflaw won.

So the Royal Order of Scofflaws was immediately organized in New York, bootleg capital.

Rules and regulations follow:

The password is "Tombstone."

This is used in memory of last year's Scofflaws.

The grip is the corkscrew handshake. There was some talk of using a suitcase instead of a grip, but the man who suggested suitcase was thrown out. A corkscrew for the benefit of the young folks, is used to pull corks before cops pull the cork puller.

A Scofflaw will be known to his brothers during sober hours by a lapel button showing a bottle and a glass. A chain tied to these buttons keeps the thirsty owners from swallowing them.

Mountain Moonshiner Who Simply Wouldn't Be Moved

EL RENO, Okla., Feb. 1.—(United Press).—Somewhre in the hilly, wooded section of east Texas there is a moonshiner that can't be budged.

Cam Galt, appraiser for the Dallas Federal Land Bank, butted into the moonshiner's immobility while doing some work for a Dallas bank.

Driving up to the cabin in the back country Galt found a dirty urchin sitting on the porch.

"Where's your pa, son?" asked Galt.

"Huntin' squirrels," was the reply. "He'll be back soon."

"You are aware," said Galt, "that the loan company has foreclosed on this land some time ago and ordered you to vacate."

The grizzled owner admitted it.

"You have refused to obey orders and I am here to give you final orders to get off," added Galt.

"I ain't moved and what's more, I ain't figgerin' on movin.'"

Galt applied to the sheriff for advice. "Yes, sir," said the official, "the old man can be moved, but it would probably tak chalf a dozen men to do it and then somebody would probably get shot up. I'll tell you what you do. I am going out of office pretty soon, and don't care to see anyone killed. Talk to my successor about it. Maybe he can give you some encouragement."

Free State Army Is Dwindling Away Fast.

DUBLIN, Feb. 1 (Associated Press).—The reorganization of the Free State army, now in progress, is carrying with it material reductions in pay.

Privates have been cut from 24 shillings and 6 pence a week to 17 shillings and 6 pence, and a further reduction is contemplated. More than 25,000 men already have been demobilized, yet the army still numbers 29,000. Nine thousand more men are slated to go.

The number of high command officers probably will be considerably lessened, and as soldiers' barracks become available they possibly may be used to relieve the housing shortage.

STRANGE POWER KEEPS YOUTH IN SUBJECTION

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—United Press—Dr. Achilles was under arrest today, charged with hypnotising Kurt Frommann, son of Admiral Frommann, prominent anti-Bolshevik. The youth was kept absolutely in the doctors power for three months and sent out to beg, masquerading as blind. A theory is that Dr. Achilles, who is suspected of Bolshevism sought to obtain information from anti-Bolshevik sources by hypnotising the Admiral's son.

The plight of young Frommann was discovered by a scientist who re-hypnotisted him and caused a police investigation.

UNREST IN RUSSIA IS NOW INCREASING

HELSINGFORS, Feb. 1.—(United Press).—Unconfirmed dispatches from Moscow State that unrest in Russia has become intensified since the death of Nikolai Lenine and that several capitals report clashes between civilians and the military.

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE IS RIFE.

Authorities' Efforts to Stamp Out Disease Fail to Abate Epidemic.

LONDON, Feb. 1 (Associated Press—The disastrous epidemic of foot and mouth disease, which has been ravaging the farms of England and some parts of Scotland for several months past shows no signs of abating in spite of the stringent methods employed for its suppression by the Board of Agriculture.

The authorities' main effort to stamp out the disease has been by means of the slaughter of all animals on the farm where the outbreak has been discovered, the cremating of the affected carcases and prohibiting also the movement of cattle from a large area.

Of late there has been a fairly general demand among sections of the agricultural community that isolation of the infected animals should be tried as against the official policy of slaughtering. Under such a scheme of isolation whole areas would be placed practically within a ring fence, and agriculture within its boundaries would be almost at a standstill. The duration of isolation would depend upon the violence of the disease and other circumstances and to enforce the regulations huge staffs of officials would be required. Up to the present the county of Cheshire has been most seriously affected by the disease.

Savings Banks Show Australian Progress.

SYDNEY, Feb. 1 (Associated Press, —The savings banks of Australia show heavy deposits, according to recent figures. Something like 1,000,000 depositors in the Victoria State Savings Bank have $250,000,000 standing to their credit.

This institution has lent a substantial portion of its funds, $45,000,000 on the first of last June, to the trading banks of the state. The money carries 5 per cent. interest, and none of it is lent for a longer term than two years. The result is that payments come in steadily all the year round, only to go out again in loans in an equally steady flow. Such advances are utilized by the private banks to finance enterprise, and so are used for the general good.

American motion picture producers annually turn out more than 150,000 miles of film.

BRYAN DIVED OVERBOARD TO ESCAPE TINNED FISH

Japanese Government Present Canadian Trade Commissioner With Duplicate Watch and Pen He Lost

ARTHUR E. BRYAN, Canadian trade commissioner to Japan, after numerous and thrilling escapes from fire and flood in the recent disaster in that country, is now making an offical tour of Canada and is at present renewing his connections with export firms in Toronto.

It isn't such a long time ago, 1914 to be exact, that "Art" Bryan was a familiar figure in the halls and on the campus of the University, where he graduated with honors in the classroom and with fame on the football field.

A. E. Bryon

He is a Japanese Canadian or a Canadian Japanese whichever way one cares to interpret the phrase, having been born of Canadian parents in that country, but educated at Bishop Ridley and U. of T. Any Canadian who has ever visited the land of cherry blossoms knows Mr. Bryan, and many Canadian firms have established themselves in that market through his efforts. He speaks Japanese fluently, and that he is persona grata with the Japanese government is illustrated by the following adventure:

Two weeks before the earthquake Mr. Bryan was addressing in their native tongue the members of the lumbermen's association of Kobe. One of the items on the program was a tour of the harbor. While the voyage was in progress the factory which manufactures torpedoes for the navy undertook to test out a new projectile. Mr. Bryan was gazing pensively over the side admiring the panorama when he saw the "tinned fish" heading straight for the vessel. Without a moment's hesitation, he dived overboard and popped up just in time to see the missile strike the plates. Even though there was no charge in it, the impact was sufficient to put an unhealthy looking dint in the side of the tug at the point of impact.

The Japanese delegates were most solicitous—and even more so the government—for on learning that he had lost a pencil and that his wrist watch had been put out of commission, presented him with duplicates of these articles in gold. Curiously enough, these are Mr. Bryan's sole remaining possessions, as his house and office were razed and the suit of clothes he was wearing speedily succumbed to the rough usage it encountered in his salvage efforts.

Marry Lillian Russell And Be Widower Forever

Alexander Moore, Former American Ambassador to Spain, Will Lie Beside Her in Death

SEE Naples and die, said the admirer of a beautiful city.

Marry Lillian Russell and live — a widower for the rest of your days, says the husband of an even more beautiful woman. Mr. Alexander Moore, whom the late President Harding appointed minister to Spain, desires the world to know that this is his determination.

A. P. Moore

"To have been the husband of Lillian Russell," he says, "was a beautiful adventure." He would not achieve the ante-climax of marrying anyone else. "I may do many foolish things," he said, "but not that."

Such is the tribute paid after death to the woman who, in life, was reckoned the most fascinating actress on the American stage. The "permanent beauty," whose photograph once adorned the table of every American college boy, was adored by successive generations, and her admirers were always a host to choose from. She did not always choose wisely. Her marriage to Mr. Moore was her fourth venture. It proved to be the last and happiest of all.

"I loved her in life," says her husband, "and when death calls me I shall lie beside her."

MYSTERIOUS CONTENTS OF LE QUEUX'S LEATHER BAG

WILLIAM LE QUEUX, besides being a keen wireless expert and a famous author, is also a constant practical joker. He has "brought off" many amusing coups at country houses and elsewhere.

The other day, at the Hotel Normandy at Deauville, he handed in upon arrival a small leather attache case.

"Please put this into your safe and give me a receipt," he said to the reception-clerk.

The latter carefully wrote out a receipt, and then, opening the big door of the great safe, deposited the valuable attache case within.

Next morning Le Queux met in the vestibule of the hotel two French movie actresses who are making one of his films.

To them he said: "Do pardon me a moment," and, crossing to the hotel-clerk, produced the receipt and asked for his valuable case from the safe.

The clerk unlocked the great green doors and placed the attache case on the counter.

Le Queux—with the two movie stars watching, as well as the clerk greatly interested—unlocked the precious case.

All three held their breaths. But our "Master of Mystery" just took out a pair of hair-brushes, brushed his hair very deliberately, and, relocking the case, said in French: "Thank you! Will you please put this back? So good of you!"

Wild Man from Marine Corps Smokes Philadelphia Rats Into the Open

The navy has lent him for a year to the mayor of Philadelphia, and there he is conducting a minor war of his own, cleaning up a city that had become the talk of the continent.

Other people tried to "clean up" Philadelphia and failed. Governor Pinchot himself tried it without success. Mayor Moore tried it, and also failed. The machine broke him and his honest attempt. The ward and district leaders were too powerful. And bootlegging, gambling, dope peddling and kindred disgraces flourished.

Then came Mayor Kendrick—and the general, "this little hawk of a man."

He really isn't a magnificent spectacle—this Butler. He is about 5 feet 9. He might measure more were he to stand straight. Standing he gives the impression of a lance being poised for throwing and when he starts walking it is as though he were flying, head foremost, at a target. He is in motion whether standing or walking. You wouldn't be at all amazed were he to quit a sentence in the middle and turn a flip-flop before finishing.

He weighs about 156 pounds, but it is just that much sinew and nervous energy. He has reddish-brown hair, tinged with gray, and his eyes, set close together, are either blue or gray. But it is his strong beak of a nose and his powerful wrists and hands that impress you most. He is probably, an exceedingly able rough and tumble fighter; the sort of a walloping gentleman who would willingly take a punch at William Harrison Dempsey if he thought it would be of any help. He's probably the sort who would not enter a fight with any less unction because he knew that his chances of winning were minute.

Gen. Butler is known in the service as Duckboard Butler because of his work at Brest. He turned a quagmire into a decent military camp by covering the ground with duck board-walks. He made the place habitable after others had failed. His subsequent work as Provost Marshal indicated that he had the makings of a good policeman.

He took over the Philadelphia job much as he might lead marines into Haiti or Porto Rico or Cuba or the Philippines. His idea for getting something done was to crash into it. He called together his police captains and lieutenants.

"I told Butler that he'd have a free hand. He is the boss of the police. He is going to clean up the city. Talk to him."

Talking to Gen. Butler is one of the current impossibilities. He doesn't stand still long enough to be interviewed. He leaves his office on a dog trot.

Maj.-Gen. Smedley D. Butler

"Make it snappy," he barks, and you trot along with him asking questions.

The General has a rusty, crowing voice. He smokes more cigarettes than are good for anybody. He smokes nervously, inhaling deeply. His voice betrays his smoking habits.

By this time he has reached his motor car. He's off. No use trying to keep at his heels. Following him is precarious. You plunge into the traffic in his wake and inquire of patrolmen whether he has passed that way.

"Sure," sighs the patrolman, "he just went past as if the devil was chasing him. He's probably in Chicago by this time."

Philadelphia stands around of nights wondering where the General is going to bob up.

Take Wednesday night, for instance. His car stopped in front of the storyful Eleventh and Winter streets station house. His motor hadn't quite stopped when the General leaped to the pavement and dashed up the steps.

"Who's in charge? Who's in charge?" he croaks. "What's doing? How many arrests have you made? How many gambling joints and rum depots have you in this precinct? Who's in charge? Where's the lieutenant? Out on his district? Good. Who's in charge?"

A bulky sergeant says that he is.

"Good," cried the General. "Get busy. I'm your friend as long as you are mine. Clean them up. I'll see that the ward boss doesn't hurt you. You stick by me. What, no arrests tonight? What's wrong? This is one of the sore spots. Remember what I said about forty-eight hours. Clean up or out you go. There isn't any power higher than I am in this department. The mayor says that. Get busy. See you later."

And he has gone. With a leap and a roar the flying flivver is on its way down Broad street until the General, feeling in need of coffee, stops in front of a one-arm lunch room.

"Just a minute, Mulcahy. Stop a minute while I get a cup of coffee." Miraculously a crowd gathers in front of the lunch room. Others observe the commotion and join the mob. What has happened? Somebody hurt? Somebody drunk? Somebody arrested? No, Duckboard Butler is drinking coffee. The crowd blocks traffic. He has to fight his way to his car. A few cheer him. The majority are silent. A few make nasty remarks. The General pays no attention. A leap and he is seated beside the grinning Mulcahy and he's off again.

Down through Moonshine valley on South Second street. The place is deserted.

"The rats are in their holes," he observes.

"They've beat it while the beating's good," replies Mulcahy.

"They're going to stay away, too," says the General.

Out Point Breeze avenue into West Philadelphia. He is wearing brand new police uniform—a sort of cross between a navy and police uniform. There are two stars on his shoulders—a major-general of police.

"Where are all the cops?" he demands.

"These are long beats," says Mulcahy. "A cop has a lot of ground to cover. Here's one ahead of us."

"Stop. Let's talk to him."

The weary patrolman is startled by the swift appearance of the General. He becomes confused. He saluted with his left hand.

"How's things, officer?"

"Fine, sir."

"What do you mean, fine?"

"Everything quiet."

"See that it keeps quiet."

The General's off again.

And Philadelphia shakes its head. He may be all right, but others have tried it and failed. The others didn't put all this pep into it. They worked differently. They tried to work with the politicians. They never succeeded. Maybe this wild man from the marine corps can do it—maybe.

"Yeh," sneer some of the policeman, "this is all right, but he's here for a year only. How about next year? How about the next administration?. "The trouble is with the police," snorts the General. "They can stop all this if they get busy. They get $5 a day for working for the city. Well, let them earn their wages or get out. I'll find men to take their places. They ought to have more money. A man can't live on $5 a day. That's the reason some of them were grafting. I'm going to try to get them more money. In the meantime they've got to get busy. Hey, Mulcahy, step on it and let's try the Kensington district!"

And the General's on his way again.

Love and Lunacy

A MAN visiting an asylum saw a patient sitting on a rocking-horse.

"That's a bad case," said his guide. "He often sits on that horse for hours and we cannot get him to move. He was jilted by a girl."

Continuing his tour, the visitor arrived at a padded cell where a man was rushing about and banging his head against the cushions.

"Won't he hurt himself?" inquired the visitor.

"Oh, no," replied the guide; "these are pneumatic cushions."

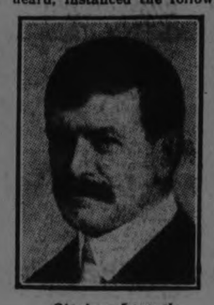
"What has brought him to this?"

"Oh, he married the girl who jilted the man you saw on the rocking-horse."—Tit-Bits.

Human Goose Taken In By Imaginary Mongoose

Inquisitive Gentleman Wanted to Know Too Much—Stephen Leacock's Favorite Story

THAT prince of yarn-pitchers, Mr. Stephen Leacock, on being asked what he considered to be the best story he had ever heard, instanced the following:



Stephen Leacock

An inquisitive gentleman, riding in a carriage in one of the London tube railways, noticed that a man opposite carried upon his knees a small black box of somewhat peculiar construction.

The inquisitive one eyed it furtively for a brief while, then, unable to restrain his curiosity, he leant forward and remarked:

"You seem to take great care of that box, sir. May I ask what it contains?"

"Certainly! It contains a mongoose," was the reply.

"Oh, indeed!" exclaimed the other, his curiosity still unsatisfied. "A mongoose! And pray what is that for?"

"Well, the fact is," explained the owner of the box, lowering his voice, "I have got a friend who has got delirium tremens, and he fancies he sees snakes. Now, the mongoose, you know, kills snakes, so I am taking it to him."

"Dear me!" cried the surprised recipient of this piece of information. "But—but"—here he thought hard for several seconds—"but surely you do not want a real mongoose to kill imaginary snakes?"

"Of course not," was the reply. "This is only an imaginary mongoose."

Hunter Knows All About Married Man and His Mate

Chief Justice of British Columbia Believes Nobody Can Irritate a Man Like His Wife

HON. GORDON HUNTER who has been chief justice of British Columbia for twenty-one years, has during that long period become an authority upon many things, including whiskey, spiritualism, and the ways of a married man with his mate. All this was made very clear during a recent trial for judicial separation, when a barber declared that all his matrimonial troubles were due to his wife having become too ardent a follower of Conan Doyle and Oliver Lodge.

The lady admitted attending two seances during the week, and one on Sundays, but the man tallied up two or three more. For seven years, he said, his home life had been regulated and ordained by departed spirits.

It was after hearing this that the chief justice delivered these excellent remarks:

"Spiritualism may be a very excellent thing, when pursued in moderation, like whiskey and many other things, but it may also be pursued altogether too unwisely, as has been done in this case."

The woman's demand for a decree was denied, even though she complained that her husband was addicted to swearing.

"I guess I can swear with the best of 'em," he acknowledged.

"I believe it," commented the chief justice. "And I also know there is nobody can irritate a man like a man's wife when she really sets out to do it."

PERPETUAL YOUTH A SECRET MRS. GLYN HAS LEARNED

great success in America with film plays, has gone back for a holiday to Europe, and she plans to stay for the next two months in London and Paris.

Mrs. Glyn is a woman of amazing talent, versatility, and energy. She looks younger than ever, and has certainly lost none of her vivacity and charm.

Women have done more than win the vote in these days. They have succeeded in outwitting Father Time. The years pass and, despite golf and physical exercises, men grow wrinkled and obese. They grow old in mind and manner even when they succeed in keeping their figures in control. Women remain almost unchanged. Sir Rider Haggard's "She" is a commonplace in the modern world. Perpetual youth is a secret that many women have learned, but few as completely as Mrs. Glyn.

IN THE SEAT OF JUDGMENT

MR. JUSTICE TALBOT, the new judge appointed to succeed Sir Charles Darling, is a learned man and an authority on ritual and licensing law. One of his uncles is the ex-bishop of Winchester, and he himself has been standing counsel to Oxford University and chancellor of Lincoln, Ely, Lichfield, Southwark and Winchester dioceses.

There are no "short cuts" for those who sit in judgment; Mr. Justice Talbot is sixty-two, and brings with him a ripe store of experience.

He tells a story of the late Commissioner Kerr, who was told by a prisoner that he had "found" a gold watch and chain on the pavement. The judge looked at the prisoner and then at the jury. "Gentlemen of the jury," he said, "I have walked over the pavements of London during the last forty years, and I've never found a gold watch and chain there yet. Consider your verdict!"

A CROYDON gentleman states that he distinctly remembers sitting on Gladstone's knee. We thought that Mrs. Asquith had copyrighted this sort of thing—The Passing Show.

BARRIE SAT SPHINX-LIKE, NEVER SPOKE TO GUEST

Whimsical Playwright Smoked Pipe and Read Books; Marshall Smoked Cigar and Read Papers

IT was a red letter day in the life of Capt. Marshall when he received an invitation to dine with the great Sir James Barrie. Marshall, says Harry Furniss, was a great admirer of Barrie and his extreme opposite in every respect except in one important item — they were both very successful. Marshall's pleasant, witty comedies had a great vogue; although bright and clever, they were chiefly of the hour.

Sir James Barrie

"Marshall told me with great glee of the invitation to spend the night and dine at Barrie's house," Furniss relates. "He called it 'a red letter day' and said, 'I am looking forward, my dear boy, to an intellectual treat.' And I remember how his handsome face glowed with anticipation.

"When next I met Marshall I inquired after the intellectual treat. His face fell. The evening had been far different to what he was led to expect from the discursive charm of his host's writings. Barrie sat on one side of the fireplace, Marshall sat on the other. Barrie smoked his pipe and read his book, and Marshall smoked his cigar and read his paper. Anxiously the visitor waited for the conversation to begin. Every second he darted an appealing glance at the sphinx-like figure opposite, every five minutes—and the precious time was flying—he expected him to lay down his book and open out in a strain of delightful reminiscence and anecdote. But the silence remained unbroken and the nervous tension got on Marshall's mind. When at last Barrie put the book, with calm deliberation, on his knee and moved his head as if to converse, Marshall almost sprang from his chair in his eagerness to lose no syllable from those lips. It was, however, a blind, a perfect snare and delusion. Barrie sighed. He lit his pipe, he lifted the book and read to bedtime. And Marshall collapsed in his chair—and did likewise."

BOTTOMLEY IN PRISON STILL LOVES HIS JOKE

Convulses Jail-Birds With Report of Hushed Conversation With Inmate of a Neighboring Cell

HORATIO BOTTOMLEY, one-time British M.P. and renowned editor of "John Bull," is doing his seven years' penal servitude in Maidstone Prison, England.

His hair is silver-grey, his back slightly bent, but his eyes are still clear and penetrating and his brain is as active as ever. By the irony of fate, one of his warders is a man who lost $1,000 in Bottomley's Victory Bond scheme.

When he arrived at Maidstone, Bottomley was sick in mind and body, but his iron constitution asserted itself and he now takes a certain amount of interest in his surroundings, and passes his time working in the prison printing shop.

Rising at 7 o'clock, Bottomley, after a much relished cup of cocoa, is taken to the exercise yard for his morning airing.

After this comes the usual prison breakfast, and then work in the printing shop. At noon he eats his carefully weighed dinner and has an hour's respite, which he invariably spends in reading or writing. In the afternoon there is more work to be done in the type-setting room, and after the evening meal, which is usually served about 5.30, Bottomley has completed the prison round.

Horatio Bottomley

Three or four times a week lectures, classes and entertainments are arranged, and at these Bottomley is always present.

Quite recently he himself gave a lecture to the prisoners on "My Reminiscences in Wormwood Scrubs" (the prison from which he had lately been removed). For three-quarters of an hour he entertained his audience with fact and anecdote. One of the best yarns he told and one which provoked roars of laughter from the convicts present, concerned a jail-bird with whom he had a hushed conversation.

"How long are you in for?" asked Bottomley.

"Five years."

"What for?"

"Tried to kill my missus."

"What! Only five years for that?"

"Yes, but I had good counsel—Marshall Hall."

"Marshall Hall is very expensive," replied Bottomley; "how could you afford him?"

"Oh!" replied the other, with a grin, "the missus paid all expenses."

LORD DEWAR'S WITTY

THERE are few wittier after-dinner speakers than Lord Dewar.

Recently, in proposing a toast, he began by inveighing against the indiscriminate use of "that horrible and meaningless word, 'gentlemen'," which, he said, ought only to be used when a candidate was seeking parliamentary honors.

"Even then," Lord Dewar continued, "it should be used with discrimination. When I represented in parliament one of the east end divisions I profusely used 'ladies and gentlemen' in a speech to my constituents and before the night was over they had my watch.

"Indeed, to be quite accurate, they had it twice—and it cost me a sovereign each time to get it back."

The Other Side to the Question

PROSAIC Young Man (after proposing): "But can you cook?"

Modern Girl: "Let us take these questions in their proper order; the matter of cooking is not the first thing to be considered."

"Then, what is first?"

"Can you provide things to be cooked?"—Answers.

Her Last Irish Bath, Lord Long Responsible

At Least, in Lady Newspaper Correspondent's Eyes—"Boots" Gave Showers With Watering Can

LORD LONG, one of the last territorial magnates of England, succeeded the late George Wyndham as chief secretary for Ireland. The chapter of Irish recollections in his "Memories," lately published, contains some amusing incidents.

A good story concerns one of the hotels that Lord Long had decided were to develop western Ireland as a holiday resort, but, instead, gave him an international situation that he found rather hard to explain.

"An elderly spinster lady had been deputed by one of the London newspapers to travel through the country and report upon its suitability for holiday tours. Accordingly, she set out and proceeded to travel from place to place, partly by train and partly by bicycle. It was very hot weather and the roads were very dusty, so that frequently she suffered a good deal of discomfort and was in a most uncomfortable condition when she reached the end of her journey.

"She arrived at a hotel of very imposing appearance, and asked if she could have tea, but that first of all she would like to have a bath; could she have one? To which reply was given by the manageress: 'Indeed, you can, ma'am, you can have any bath you like; we've sitting baths, lying baths, and shower baths.'

"So the lady determined to have a long bath, followed by a shower. For the latter, she was instructed to 'pull the shtring, and if the wather didn't come, to pull a second, and a third time very hard.'

"Having completed her ablutions in the long bath, she pulled the 'shtring' in accordance with instructions. Nothing happened, so she pulled again. Still no result! After repeating the effort several times, she was startled by hearing a voice from above saying in somewhat hoarse tones: 'I beg yer parrdon, ma'am, but if ye stood a little more to the westward, I'd hit ye better!" She looked up, and found to her horror and amazement that the 'boots' was ensconced above her, with a can of water, ready to pour over her when she was ready, and when he was sure he could hit her!"

LORD INCHCAPE recently quoted the following precepts from Balzac: "Don't beat the bush for others. Trust no one farther than you see him. Never say what you do, but always do what you say. Keep your hands to yourself, and the same with your purse. Sell your jewels for more than they cost you.

Coolidge and His Double

May Look Like Coolidge, But Has Different Ideas

ON the left is Frank Hendrick, the well-known New York lawyer, who is prominent not only for his criticism of the Bok peace plan but for his remarkable resemblance to President Coolidge shown on the right. Mr. Hendrick who submitted a "peace plan" in the famous contest is making charges that the jury which selected the winning plan on which the nation is now balloting was too predisposed, like the president, to favor the League of Nations and to throw out any other alternative that ignored the international assembly.

NOTHING ON AUSTRALIA

A GOOD story, told by the Australian premier, Mr. Bruce, is being told in London. It should be known that Australia is just larger than the United States. Not many people realize that.

An American, says Mr. Bruce, was boasting about the size of his country to a man from "down under."

"There's a ranch in my country," said the American, "so big that the owner got on his horse one Monday morning, and, having gone the round of the boundary fence, returned on the following Saturday night."

"Why, that's nothing," retorted the Australian. "In my country there are dairy farms where we send newly married couples out to milk the cows, and their kiddies bring in the milk."

ACTING ON IMPULSE

HAVING once upon a time been a schoolmaster, it is only in the nature of things that some of Mr. Jerome K. Jerome's funniest stories should concern themselves with schools and scholars.

One that he is fond of telling concerns a certain inspector who, visiting a provincial school, was much worried by the noise of the scholars in the next room. At last, unable to bear it any longer, he opened the door and burst upon the class.

Seeing one boy taller than the others talking a great deal, he caught him by the collar, carried him to his own room, and planted him in the chair, saying: "Now sit there and be quiet."

Ten minutes later a small head appeared round the door, and a meek little voice said: "Please, sir, you've got our teacher."

GODERICH FARMER GETS TWO MONTHS' JAIL TERM

J. Benson Cox Found Guilty of Assaulting Charles Bulpitt Who Committed Suicide —Will Appeal the Case

WHIPPED FREQUENTLY

(Special to the Examiner.)

GODERICH, Ont. Feb. 1. — Two months in Goderich county jail, was the sentence to-day imposed upon J. Bnnson Cox, a prosperous Colborne township farmer, found guilty of assaulting Charles Bulpitt, the 16 year old "Home" boy, who hanged himself in the barn on the Cox property on December 22nd.

Counsel for Cox gave notice of appeal. The case was heard by Magistrate A. S. Reid.

Crown Attorney Charles A. Seager, K.C., called Dr. A. S. Hunter, who conducted the inquest into the lad's death. Hunter described going to the Cox farm upon advice from Reeve Robertson and finding the body.

"Did Cox say anything?"

"Yes; he seemed very much disturbed when the boy could not be found when he returned from town, so he searched for him, expressing the fear that the boy must have injured himself while feeding the stock Upon arrival at the barn he told me he found the body of the young boy hanging by the neck from a beam."

"Anything else?"

"Yes; he told me the boy had several times expressed a dislike of the farm work, and wished an office position. I questioned him closely on the motives of the apparent suicide, and he said he had whipped the boy that morning. In a later conversation, I asked im if he whipped the boy every day. He replied not daily —but frequently. He said he whipped him on the hands."

Marks on Hands.

"Was anything produced with which the whipping was done?"

"No."

Cross examined by the defence counsel, the witness admitted Cox had not given the whipping as a possible reason of the suicide.

"Did you know anything of the whipping before going to the farm?"

"No."

"Did you ever hear of mistreatment?"

"No; except I knew that he had run away."

The coroner insisted the discussion on whipping was started by Cox and he had admitted striking the boy frequently, but gave no number.

"You examined the boy?"

"Yes."

"And found marks on the boys hands?" "Yes."

"What caused them?" "I don't know, it may have been many things, but I think it was from whipping.

Deputy Sheriff Thomas Gundry was called and corroborated the evidence of the coroner that Cox had mentioned, after meeting the officers, that the boy had been gone most of the day.

"Some one asked what could have happened the boy. Cox didn't know. But a moment later said: 'I know one thing. I thrashed him this morning.' As the coroner turned quickly and asked him how often he whipped him. Cox said he had to whip Bulpitt frequently for lying."

"Was any instrument produced?" "No, he said it was a hame strap, but I didn't get it."

Under cross examination the Deputy Sheriff insisted he had heard the accused admit thrashing the boy. "You swear you heard him say, 'I know one thing, I thrashed him this morning?' "Yes, I retract nothing."

The defence called Dr. A. H. Macklin, who examiuned the body after death. He said the marks on the hands may have been caused two or three days before death and they may have been caused by other than whipping.

Arguing at the conclusion of the case, R. C. Hays commenced an attack on the newspapers, eleven being represented in Court, saying they were "commercialising on the death of Charles Bulpitt and ruining the reputation of Benson Cox."

He was stopped abruptly by the Crown, who declared: "I have a good deal to say about that, but I don't want to say it."

Had Right to Whip.

Counsel ceased the attack, and confined himself to the law, pointing out that Co xhad authority to whip Bulpitt if the deceased was an apprentice. He said that Bulpitt had been placed on the farm to learn farming, despite his objection, and not to earn $75.00 a year.

"That boy was an apprentice in the employ of Cox, and it is alleged he received punishment. There is no evidence to show the punishment was severe," continued the defence.

"There has been no evidence that the boy was an apprentice either," remarked the Magistrate.

The question of apprenticeship again came up and the Magistrate asked the defence counsel if he wanted the case enlarged.

"I will oppose it," warned the Crown. "The case calls for no further delay."

"You have been charged with assaulting and beating Charles Bulpitt," said the Magistrate, addressing Cox. "The evidence is clear that this happened, and the evidence is also clear that you had no right to chastise this boy. Had he been an apprentice, you would have been justified in exercising reasonable punishment. If you have red blood in your veins, you have already been punished more than I could possibly mete out. The sentence of this Court is two months in Goderich Jail."

The City Hall Chamber in which the trial was held was filled with spectators long before the arrival of the accused who followed his counsel R. C. Hays Jr. into the room.

J. L. Killoran admitted that he held a "watching" brief but declined to say in whose interests, although it is understood that he represented Marchmont Home.

Government May Transfer Business of Costly Department to Defense Officers—Civil Service Reform.

OTTAWA, Ont. Feb. 1.—(Special to the Examiner) — While old timers here are somewhat skeptical Deputy Minister and Civil Service reform in connection with which the Deputy Ministe and Civil Service Commission Officials will confer with the government this afternoon, there is a fluttering in the service dovecots today and the results of the conference are looked forward to with considerable trepidation.

The Government is not prepared to assume responsibility for the increase in the civil service staffs, salaries and floor space during the past number of years. Increases, they claim are party due to war conditions, to the high cost of living, to the extravagance of the late administration and to the Civil Service Commission which today is responsible for practically all the hiring and firing done in the post, for promotions and for salaries granted.

The increase in the cost of the Commission alone is pointed to as proof of the claim. Nevertheless it is the intention of the government to reduce the cost of the service, generally, as much as possible and to conform expenditures to receipts.

Already steps have been taken with a view toward reducing costs in the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment and it is possible that the greater portion of the functions of this costly department may be transferred to the Department of Defence which at present is in some what somnolent state. It is further proposed that duplication of engineering and other services in the Department of Public Works, Railways and Canals and other departments may be amalgamated and duplication eliminated.

From the practical viewpoint the present propaganda for economy in the civil service may tend to strengthen the hands of the government in its desire to curtail the functions and powers of the Civil Service Commission under whose control the number of employes and the amount of salaries have so tremendously increased since 1918.

While it is in the power of the Government to decrease the number of employees it is not in its power really to increase their number and never has been since the Commission was appointed under the new act. In 1914 the number of employees in the commission was sixteen and the salary totalled $29,625. In 1923 the number of employees had increased to 127 and the salaries totalled $188,300.

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Ma kets.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 1. — (United Press.)—Further explanation for the stock market's current buoyancy came to light in the overnight news which set forth a rise in the reserve ratio of the nation's banking system to the highest level since the close of the war and an unprecedented volume of railway traffic for the season in car loading figures for the week ending January 19

This simultaneous improvement in the banking position and the business of the country caused another bullish demonstration throughout the list. Steel common went into new high ground since last spring at 107 7-8. Fresh forward moves started in various sections in the first hour, while the main body of stocks was buoyant around the best levels on the movement, with Steel common in new high ground on the movement at 107 1-4. Further substantial gains took place in independents like Gulf States which made a new 1924 high at 87, Republic at 58 1-8. Kelly Springfield was an exception, breaking to a new low at 27 3-4, in anticipation of a deficit close to $1,000,000 on the 1923 report. As a whole, however, the market was free from irregularities, demonstrating that the current advance was based on solid foundation. There was considerable talk about pools putting up stocks. This is no doubt true in certain issues, but the advance in nine out of ten stocks has been natural and due to general buying. The public is in the market to a greater fit than Wall street imagines. This is one reason why the professionals have found short selling unprofitable.

KIWANIS MUSICAL REVUE

(By Jeannette.)

The Kiwanis Revue, with a two-part programme of musical extravaganza, in "The Hermit of Hawaii," and "The Garden of the Shah," produced under the auspices of the Y. M.C.A., had its first presentation at the Grand Opera House last evening. Although the audience was extremely small in numbers, it was appreciative, and the cast went through a difficult double programme in a manner reflecting great credit on amateurs who lacked the support of a well-filled house. The ability of the director, M. B. Chenhall, was apparent in the manner in which the production was staged.

The first part of the entertainment is entirely new and entertaining. A Hawaiian setting, with a chorus of pretty maidens in the conventional "shredded wheat" skirts, flower-wreathed locks and bright leis about their necks, accompanies the story of the "Hermit of Hawaii," a mythical parsonage invented by the Prince of Hilo, Kanopoi, to act as the instigator of the Prince's own tyrannical decrees. When the imaginary gentleman decides to legislate concerning the love affairs of the princedom, matters become complicated. Several of the nobles are in love with the prince's daughter, but her two attendants have their own ideas about their future mates, and choose two of the Prince's suitors for themselves. The arrival of the dapper young Lieut., Paul C. Green, of the U.S. Navy, who falls in love with the Princess at sight, clears the air, and everything ends merrily as a wedding bell.

The light little farce abounds in pretty music, well sung by the various soloists, and has a strong supporting chorus of lovely maidens, with their attendant cavaliers, many in spotless white, suits that blend admirably with the South Sea islands setting. Miss Ernestine McManus makes an admirable Princess Kilani. Mrs. Walter Byers and Miss Jean Herbison are effective as her attendants, Toto and Tata. D. G. Melton is a convincing and lordly Prince Kanopoi. Harold Snelgrove and Jack McKone do good work in the roles of Hawaiian nobles, Napoopoo and Konobono. C. E. Clark is the young herro, Lieut. Paul C. Green, of the U. S. Navy, in snappy naval attire, with his tall companion, Bosun Bill, also of the navy, a memorable figure in "old salt" outfit of glistening oilskins, encircling fringe whiskers, and short pipe, played in characteristic style by Alex. Dick. E. Verne Morphet is the ancient greybeard, Takapili, the Oldest Inhabitant, with flowing grey beard and old, grey face, and Joe Wearing provides a large amount of the comic element in his part of Mi Yi, a Fisherman. Mr. Wearing gives his custmary vim and emphasis to the role of the flirtatious Mi Yi, and puts it over in fine style, in a fetching costume of khaki, with long black boots, a saucy fisherman's cap and a tiny black imperial. As a closing number he sings with zip and vigor his famous solo, "My Honolulu Lulu."

Some of the very pretty vocal numbers, in solo, duet and quartette that enliven a brief and entertaining section, include the well-known Aloha O (Farewell.... song by Hugh M. Niven; Verne Morphet's "Sing a Song of Centuries;" D. G. Metlon's solo, "I am the Prince," and a selection by Harold Snelgrove, "Sunny Monoa." The Princess, Miss Ernestine McManus, and her two attendants, Mrs. Walter Byers and Miss Jean Herbison, had a fetching trio, in "A Cat may look at a King," with a brief dance at its conclusion, and Miss McManus sang in beautiful, high, clear voice the pretty duet with Harold Snelgrove, "Oh, Listen to my Love."

The second portion of the programme reveals an entirely different and foreign production, "In the Gorden of the Shah," with a Persian setting and Oriental music, languorous and effective. The chorus in this section is one of the main attractions, a colorful, tuncful group of daintily-garbed Persian maidens, in loose trousers and tiny sandals, flowing head veils and glistening bangles. They have a lovely dance that brings to the fore two graceful, lithe solo dancers in the Misses Martha Kirn, and Edna Connor, whose work brings them plenty of applause. Miss Mathilde Masson is the Tohdah, the heroine of "The Garden of the Shah" in a satisfying costume of soft rose and blue, her pleasing personality and lovely artistic voice fitting in admirably with the general scheme of soft melodious charm.

"The Garden of the Shah" deals with the adventures of two mining engineers, voyaging to Persia, and becoming enamored by the charms of the daughter of the Shah and her attendant. They are accompanied by their colored servitor, Samuel, who is claimed as the love of a previous incarnation by Nowabeh, the nurse of the Shah's daughter, Zohdah. An impersonation almost professional is given the character of the colored Samuel Johnson Jackson by E. Verne Morphet, who gets plenty of laughs with his inimitable character ization of the harassed Sam, pursued by the indomitable Nowobeh, played by Mrs. Walter Byers in very cap able fashion. Miss Greta LeBarr makes a very dainty and attractive Lohlah, attendant of Zohdah, and the inamorota of Billy Cummings, played by A. M. Irvine. The role of the hero, Ted Harding, is taken by Hugh M. Niven, both male parts played in excellent character. Alex Dick is a gorgeous and efficient Shah, Permah, garbed in loose flowing, flowered trousers gold-colored coat and red sash with a red wig, orange and blue turban, and a troublesome black chin whisker. Somegraba, the Sheik, who aspires to the hand of Zohdah is played in haughty style by D. G. Melton, in white robe and vivid orange headgear. Imposing officials are the Chief of Police, Walter Byers, leading his spotlessly-garbed followers and Jack Marshall, Commander of the Guards, brilliantly-arrayed gentle men hearing wicked-looking scimitars their leaders engaged in constant wordy conflict, their stage life a succession of stiffly-stepping jaunts and low, rumbling choruses. The Three Wise Men, injected into the finale by their own volition, are a vivacious trio. Joe Wearing in a red Turkish jacket superimposed on a nifty golfing nether portion, Alex. Donnelly severe in Tartar hat, with dignified blue jacket and white trousers encased in black goloshes, and George Henderson, his roomy bright green bloomers and shapely white legs topped by a conventional portion of 'soup and fish' attire, combined with a straw hat.

One of the main characters in the cast, a presentation that received much merited applause and worked very hard on every appearance was Sam's attendant, "Spark Plug," a brown equine with a sorrowful-looking head and piebald feet. Messrs. Herry Huffman and Bob Mackey were said to be the moving spirits in the famous Barney Google characterization.

The musical numbers in "The Garden of Shah" are particularly melodious and pleasing. Miss Mathilda Masson sings in charming fashion the solo, "I am a Persian Rosebud." Mrs. Walter Byers' clear soprana is heard to advantage in "A Prophecy." Hugh M. Niven received much plause for his solo, "My Persian Rose," followed by the delightful duett with Miss Masson, in "Since Your Eyes have told me so," and Verne Morphet gives a very capable rendition of the "Tamin' ob de Shrew." "Chains of Love' is an exceptionally pretty duett, by Miss Greta LeBarr and A. M. Irvine, and one of the most charming numbers on a tuneful programme is the lovely song, "For You are Love," by Miss Masson, the refrain taken by Mrs. Buyers. "When Love Fills your heart" is a solo that receives much applause sung in excellent voice by Miss LeBarr. Verne Morphet and Mrs. Byers have a fine rendition of the humorous "What we were and What we are," D. G. Mel tons deep tones are heard to good adantage in "I am King of my Desert Throne," and the Three Wise Men have a typical song of their own. A charming and dainty quartette is the favorite "Kissing" number.

The Kiwanis Revue will be repeated this evening, and should have a full house for its second presentation.

CHAMONIX BOBSLEIGH CHUTE BREAKS BONES

Captain of British Crew Suffered Fracture of Both Legs and Frenchman's Arm Was Broken—Turns and Banks Dangerous.

CHAMONIX, France, February 1 (Canadian Press). — Finland yesterday again assumed the lead in the nip-and-tuck battle with Norway for first place among the nations competing in the Olympic winter sports, figure skating competition for couples.

First honours are certan to be taken by one of the two northern countries, and will be decided by the remaining ski events, at which both countries are the greatest exponents, with prospects favouring Norway.

No other country has a chance for first position.

In the hockey contests yesterday, the United States team, playing well within itself, defeated Great Britain, 11 to 0, thereby reaching the semi-finals.

The Canadians have already reached the semi-finals, and to-day the United States will play Sweden, the second team in the second half, and the Canadians will meet the British players.

On an estimate of the form displayed thus far, it would appear certain that Canada and the United States will fight it out for first honours.

Dangerous Slide.

The bob-sleigh chute has been voted the most difficult in the world to negotiate safely by a majority of the exponents of the sport gathered here for the competition, which will begin on Saturday. Accidents on the high-banked turns and sharp corners have already accounted for four entries out of the original twelve.

Belgium, France, Great Britain, Hungary, Italy and Switzerland will be represented in this event.

One crew each of the Italians, British, Belgians and French has already been put out of commission, of which Count De La Fregoliere, of France, and Brown captain of the British crew regarded as probable winners suffered broken bones.

Th French captain had an arm broken on Wednesday and the accident to the British crew, which happened during practice yesterday, resulted in the fracture of both of Browning's legs. The bob-sleigh at the time was travelling 50 miles an hour, and it leaped 60 feet into a snow bank.

Lack Eagle's Wings.

The United States ski team decided to try the Olympic ski take-off this afternoon, in spite of the expressed determination to await the actual competition.

The showing of the men was not particularly good. None of the men turned in 100 feet, while the Norwegians and Swedes were regularly jumping 130 to 140 feet.

SPEAKING OF SPAGHETTI CHAMPS—

Newest thing in championships is one-way spaghetti-eating tournaments .....This will be of interest to people on hunger strikes who wish to stay that way.

Any time a guy tells you he is all wrapped up in his wife's cooking put him down as one of those birds who eat spaghetti on a loose and fluent scale.

Old-time spaghetti fans still insist that One Gulp Garibaldi was king of 'em all; One Gulp flourished back in bare-knuckle days, when forks were seen but not heard, and no holds were barred. One Gulp was merciless to point of savagery; he was never content with winning decision on points, but kept right after foe until he had scored complete knockout. One Gulp trained on petrified rubber bands and extra dry cotton and was always in the pink. The spaghetti ring lost a real champion when One Gulp retired undefeated, if not unbloated, at the juicy old age of 72.

To be a spaghetti devouring champion you need not have any appetite to speak of, and if it is a spaghetti appetite you shouldn't speak of it.

Spaghetti is nothing more than a roll of Italian dough that has been taken down to the corner grocery shop and made over into small change.

Tony, the chef, tells us it takes real technique to eat spaghetti.... We did not have to be told that it takes a real nerve.

Spaghetti nibbling is brutal sport ....Kansas City man who at 58,000 miles of the stuff in winning title had to have all his tonsils repaved.

One nice thing about spaghetti champs is that they never complain about losing close decision at the plate.

Tex Rickard says he will stage an international spaghetti gobbling joust in Madison Square Garden and we hope he isn't stringing us.

Colonel Byran protests that man didn't descend from monkey, and perhaps he's right ....You never hear of a monkey trying to win spaghetti world series.

INDOOR HURDLES RECORD

NEW YORK, Jan. 31. — Establishment of a new world's indoor record of 6 3-5 seconds for the 50 yard high hurdles by Karl Anderson, of the Illinois Athletic Club, in capturing this event at the Millrose track and field carnival last night, in Madison Square Garden, was announced to-day by A.A.U., after a check up of performances.

MISS COLLETT WINS.

BELLE AIR HEIGHTS, Fla., Jan. 31. — Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., defeated Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd to-day, in the final of the women's annual January golf tournament by one up on the 19th hole. The two players are former United States national champions.

Miss collett went around in 76, against a 77 for her opponent.

MRS. MALLORY IS ELIGIBLE

May Play Tennis As the Representative of Norway In Olympic Games If She Wishes.

NEW YORK, February 1 (Canadian Press). — Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, seven times United States national women's tennis champion, who has been barred from competing for the United States in the Olympics, is eligible to represent Norway, her native land, if she desires to do so.

This question, a subject of uncertainty for several weeks, was settled definitely yesterday in an invitation extended to Mrs. Mallory to compete for Norway.

The invitation, sent by the president of th Norwegian Lawn Tennis Association, informed Mrs. Mallory that the French Olympic authorities had given official assurances that she is fully qualified to represent her native country, though now a United States citizen by marriage.

The former title-holder, however, declined to say whether she would accept or not.

Comiskey Unaware of 'Crookedness' In Series

MILWAUKEE ,Wis., February 1 (Canadian Press). — Charles A. Comiskey, president of the Chicago American League Club, which is being sued for $18,500 by Joe Jackson, former White Sox outfielder, testified for the defence in the trial of the suit here yesterday.

Mr. Comiskey said he did not know anything "crooked" had been done by his players during the 1919 world's series, and detailed his first knowledge of the alleged throwing of games.

The witness said Jackson played good ball in the games he had witnessed. When asked if Jackson was dishonest in the series, Mr. Comiskey replied: "He said he was."

BRITISH STAR WINS BATTLE

HARRY MASON.

Showing a neat defense and flashes of fine offensive ability, Harry Mason, champion lightweight of England, made an impressive start against Harry Kid) Brown of New York in a recent battle, winning on points. Brown is considered a tough trial horse, if not a top notcher, and Mason did well against him.

NORTHERNERS LOST TO CAMPBELLFORD LADIES

Good Fast Game Resulted in a Score of 8 to 4—Campbellford Has Good Team.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 1.—Defeating Lakefield ladies here last night, 8 goals to 4, Campbellford ladies' hockey team started on their climb to the top of the ladded in the O.L.H.A. championship series, and, judging by their performance last night, they will take some beating before they are eliminated. They have improved a lot since last winter and play more as a team. Their passing was good, and every one held her position well. In this way they carried the play right to the Lakefield goal and gave Miss Batten a very busy evening.

That ladies' hockey is popular is evidenced by the large crowd present, being nearly as large as the capacity house that saw "Ottawa Alerts" defeat the local girls last winter. Judging from the display of vocal noise they thoroughly enjoyed the pastime.

There were numerous accidental spills, giving the noise artists a chance to display their wares, and they made use of every opportunity, at the same time being very fair, cheering just as long and loud when a local player took a toboggan slide as if it was a Lakefield girl, and being equally enthusiastic when Lakefield scored a goal.

Both teams cut out a fast pace, and the puck travelled from end to end, the Campbellford forwards getting in closer before shooting. In a scrimmage around the Lakefield net, Miss Irwin batted the puck into the net for the first score. Campbellford wings were going into the corners for the puck and passing out in front for shots, and Lakefield was making the mistake of shooting out from their own corners to a waiting local girl, and Miss Batten was called upon to make many saves, and finally failed to see one of Miss Blue's waist high drives until it was in the net.

A moment later Miss Batten made two sensational saves from Grace Blue and Verna Shore. Campbellford 2, Lakefield 0.

Second Period.

Campbellford kept up the bombardment from the start of the second and Miss Batten was lucky to save a goal on Grace Blue's shot. She stopped the puck, but it fell at her feet and rolled around almost into the net.

Grace Blue got the next on a pass out from the corner by Miss Shore. Miss Mary McKenzie carried the puck from the Lakefield end and went right in close for Lakefield's first score. The crowd gave her a great hand. Grace Blue came right back with Miss Wood and made it 4 to 1. She also got the fifth goal when she went from centre alone and landed one waist high.

Mary McKenzie went down a couple of itmes alone but landed in the corner both times. Grace Blue got No. 6 on a pass from Helen Wood and No. 7 on another lone rush from centre. Mary McKenzie was through again, but shot wide. Miss Ferris was the first victim of the referee's eye when she tripped M. McKenzie on her next rush down the ice. She was serving time when the period ended.

Third Period.

The Lakefield manager must have delivered a lecture to his players during the intermission, for they came out and played their best hockey of the night, outscoring the locals 3 to 1. Miss Northey getting two and Miss M. McKenzie one, while Grace Blue bagged another for the local girls. Miss Northey was the fastest skater on the ice, but evidently her skates were too fast for her stick and she generally lost the puck before she was in a position to shoot. Miss M. McKenzie was the most effective Lakefield player, but was closely watched by the local girls. The rest were pretty good, but did not play together like the locals.

Miss Blue was the star of the locals and her shooting was a revelation. She was ably assisted by Miss Irwin and Miss Shore. They passed the puck to the one having the best shot.

If Campbellford wins the return game in Lakefield they will be district champions and ready for the finals.

MUSKEGON, Mich., Jan. 31.—Jack Renault, Canada's aspiring pugilist for heavyweight honors, has been matched with Andre Anderson, a Minnesota heavyweight, for a ten-round bout here on February 11th.

The visitors travelled by a special train.

They finished the first period with the score 1-0 in their favor, Brown shooting a long one from centre. Havelock came through with four in a row in the second, while Tweed failed to count. Hagerman refereed. Doug. Brennan scored three goals, Glen Wright two and Pollock one for Havelock, and Brown got both Tweed's goals.

TEAMS PLAYED OVERTIME.

TORONTO, Feb. 1.— (Canadian Press.) — Aura Lee and Parkdale battled thirty minutes' overtime to a 1 to 1 tie in last nights' Junior O. H. A. fixture before one of the smallest crowds of the season. It was the first game played at the Arena this season to go ninety minutes. Aura Lee were credited with their only goal in the first period. Barthelmea, Parkdale defence player, knocked the puck into his own net after 19 minutes and thirty seconds of play. Scotty McPherson accounted for Parkdale's score on a shot from the side early in the second period. The Paddlers had a splendid chance to go to the front at the start of the third period when Shrimp Morris and Walkem were in the penalty box at the same time, but they failed to take advantage of their opportunity.

GOOD FAST GAME.

STRATFORD, Feb. 1.— (Canadian Press.)— In a peppery game with both teams giving all they had from gong to gong, Stratford Midgets defeated Kitchener 4 to 2 here last night in the first of the play-off series for group honors.

The game was played on rough and rather sugary ice, which meant much individual work. The shining star of the evening was Pigeon, the Midgets' centre, who scored two tallies and was on top of everything all night. Hayes and McCully scored the other two tallies for Stratford, while Zeigler and Gross were the goal getters for the Green Shirts.

PRESTON GIRLS WON.

GALT, Feb. 1.—(Canadian Press.) —Galt witnessed its first game of league hockey in Ontario Ladies' Association, and even if the home team were beaten 1-0 by the Hurlbut girls of Preston, the large crowd of fans was enthused by the stellar exhibition put up by the girls, who worked harder than many of the boy teams. It was a close, hard ... test and the brand of hockey displayed was good considering ... sheet of ice.

COAT OF WHITEWASH.

WHITBY, Feb. 1.— Ginger Edgars' Bowmanville Intermediates applied a liberal coat of whitewash to Whitby veterans here last night, shutting out the county town outfit by 8 to 0. This defeat makes the cellar position in the group sure for Whitby. There was no score in the first period, but Bowmanville got four in the second and four in the last.

Billy Evans Says

Baseball averages do not always prove a player's real worth, neither do they give an acurate line on his possibilities. Only recently Manager McGraw of the New York Giants released Pitcher John Scott. No doubt the famed leader of the Giants figured Scott was through, yet the National League averages show that Scott ranked third among the pitchers or that organizations with 16 victories and seven defeats.

If a major league manager knew some minor league pitcher who could be banked upon to win 15 or more games for him, said manager would be willing to pay a fancy price for the bush league star.

Yet here we have the leader of the Giants releasing a veteran pitcher with 16 victories to his credit for the 1923 campaign. The story of John Scott is known to every baseball fan. Briefly it is as follows: Sold by Boston to Cincinnati, he was given his unconditional release when his arm went bad on him. Later in the year he reported to McGraw, asked for a chance, was signed and helped the Giants win the pennant in 1922.

The high spot in Scott's career was when he pitched a shutout game against the Yankees in the world series of 1922. It was a hero stunt by a pitcher classed as a "down-and-outer."

Fate plays a leading role in baseball. The smiles of Dame Fortune mean much. During the 1923 series I reported the event. My seat in the press box at the Polo Grounds was directly back of the catcher, an excellent position to look over the stuff the pitchers were serving. While Scott was mowing down the Yankees with regularity I marveled at his success because his speed was far from dazzling, and to many of the Yankees he was pitching just where they liked to hit 'em. The fact remains, however, that Scott made the Yankees look like suckers and received due credit for his fine pitching.

What a form reversal took place in the 1923 series between the same clubs relative to the pitching of Scott. The hero of 1922 was twice batted out of the box.

From the position of umpire in the 1923 series I wondered at Scott's inability to deceive the Yankees. He seemed to have much better speed than in the game in which he scored a shutout. Likewise he worked on his batters in good style, yet he had difficulty getting a ball past the Yankee batters. Fate played kindly with him in 1922 and frowned on him last year. Scott was just as good a pitcher as the year previous but met with no success against the Yankees.

Averages fail to tell the true story. John Scott's career is a striking example. The winner of 16 games a rather high mark for a pitcher in these days of the lively ball, gest him nothing more than a trip to the minors.

CITY BILLIARD LEAGUE.

The present standing of the teams in the above league, which is attracting more interest every year, is as follows:

	Plyd.	Won	Lost
Vets Football (A)	24	22	2
S. O. E.	24	16	8
Caledonians	24	15	9
Civil Service	24	12	12
G.W.V.A. (A)	24	11	13
A. O. F.	28	11	17
S. O. S.	24	10	14
C. P. R.	24	8	16
G.W.V.A. (B)	20	6	14
Vets Football (B)	24	6	18

The Football (A) team, unless they break down, cannot be beaten in the first half of the schedule.

The second half of the schedule will commence on Feb. 26, and by running three games each week on the S.O.E. and G.W.V.A. tables the final games will be finished on April 16. Anyone interested in billiards is invited to either hall to watch the games, as some fine billiards is being played by all teams, and it is not poor play that is the cause of Football (B) team being at the bottom of the league.

The velocity of a golf ball as it leaves the driver of a good player is about 200 feet a second or 135 miles an hour.

"FRENZIED FINANCE"

BY BILLY EVANS.

Who started "frenzied finance" in baseball, relative to the purchase of minor league stars?

Fifteen years back, if some "bush league' 'phenom sought by a half dozen major league clubs brought $7500 it was regarded as a fabulous price to have paid for an untried recruit.

Those days, however, are over, for at present there is no limit to what a big league will pay for a player of promise.

When Eddie Collins was sold by Connie Mack to the Chicago Cubs the price was reported as $50,000. This is probably what it was, certainly no more.

The other day the wires carried a story that the Boston Red Sox had purchased Infielder Dudley Lee from the Tulsa, (Okla.) club of the Western League for $50,000.

Fancy Price For Rookie.

Lee Fohl, manager of the Browns, tells me that someone slightly padded the figures in the Lee case, the exact amount being closer to $25,000 than $50,000. Even at that, here is a club paying at least half as much for a youngster as did the Chicago club for Collins, then rated the best second sacker in the game.

When John McGraw paid the Indianapolis club of the American Association $11,000 for Rube Marquard it was heralded as one of the sporting sensations of the year. It was used as first page news.

Yet, to my way of thinking, the sale started "frenzied finance" in baseball with relation to buying minor league stars, was the deal that Barney Dreyfus of the Pittsburg club made for the famous St. Paul (Minn.) battery, O'Toole and Kelly.

Remarkable pitching by O'Toole, who was a spitballer, caused practically every major league club to bid for him. Dreyfus finally secured O'Toole and his catcher, Billy Kelly, for the sum of $22,500, a figure heretofore unheard of in baseball. For weeks the magnitude of the transaction was the main topic of conversation on the sport pages of the country.

Check Proves Big Sale

In certain quarters the sale price was regarded as mere "bunk." The St. Paul club finally produced the canceled check as proof. Said check was reproduced in as many papers as the photographs of O'Toole.

O'Toole prved more or less of a fizzle. The possessor of a deceptive spitball, he lacked control, and when the major leagues waited him out his effectiveness was greatly minimized. He is classed in the light of a failure.

It is said that O'Toole's failure caused Barney Dreyfus to put a ban on all spitballers, and that his scouts were instructed to pass up any pitcher who depended on the spitter for success. No more trick pitchers for Barney.

Today $22,500 is a piker figure for a minor league star.

JAP STAR IS MAT CAPTAIN

KATSUTOSHI NAITO.

One of the best college wrestlers in the country to-day is Katsutoshi Naito, a Japanese, as you may have surmised. The Honorable Mr. Naito is not only the star of the Penn State wrestling squad, but Captain as well. He wrestles in the 135-pound class and Coach Dave Detar expects him to win the national collegiate title this year. Naito will get his first chance against Syracuse early in February.

GOOD ICE FOR TONIGHT'S GAME

Paddlers Are Bringing Strong Line-up to Meet Petes.

Everything is set for to-night's game at Brock Street Rink between Parkdale Senior O.H.A. team and the Petes, and the fans are assured of a good battle all the way.

The Paddlers are bringing down a strong line-up, and the Petes, profiting by last week's experience, are prepared for a tough fight, and will be in the game from the start.

Only two subs. will be used as in a league fixture, as it has been shown that a flock of subs. prevent any team work being developed.

The game will start at 8.30 o'clock sharp.

GAME POSTPONED.

In the Girls' City Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. the Normal and Y.W.C.A. game scheduled to be played to-night has been postponed. The other games will be played as stated.

Warren Kerrigan and Lois Wilson in "The Covered Wagon," at the Grand, February 6, 7, 8, 9.

DOG CATCHER LYING DOWN ON HIS JOB SAYS CITIZEN

Dear Sir,—Would your spair me a piece in your paper for a little nessay piece, perviding the dogs on Park st. south don't tair it out of my hands before I get it to yaw. If the dog catcher was doing his duty in North Monaghan working men would be able to sleep at night. But where there are ten and twelve dogs barking around your bed room window at nights there is no posible chance of getting much sleep and every time yow go up Park st there are all ways a bunch of dogs to jump up on yow and tair your coat or plaster your cloths with snow or dirt. There is not much use of paying a dog catcher for nothing and the dogs having it all there own way, as rate payers have it all to pay for and got no results for it. Hoping he will get buisy if only for to let us sleep and oblig.

CANADA REACHES OLYMPIC FINALS

CHAMONIX, Feb. 1. Canadian Press. — Canada and the United States will meet Sunday in deciding game for the world's hockey championship. The Canadian team was the first to reach the final by defeating Great Britain 19 to 2 in the first game to-day. The United States later in the day defeated Sweden by 20 to 0.

The play of the Canadians to-day caused some wild shouting from the bleachers. The spectators apparently were under the impression that the Canadians did not wish to administer too severe a beating to the mother country.

To the experts, however, the Canadians appeared to be in their usual strong and aggressive form and to improve as the game went on. They scored more goals in the third period than in the first.

The first goal scored against the Canadians was the result of some careless play by Collett who was in goal. The second, however, was clearly earned.

AT THE CAPITOL

"North of Hudson Bay," with Tom Mix in the stellar role, is one of the ever-popular types of productions that picture the battle of man with the elemental forces of nature and the evil forces of his own human kind. The hero is as good as ever in his presentation of the character of Michael Dane, an untried youth who goes to the savage Northland to share in his brother's good fortune, to find him murdered and to be confronted with a series of misfortunes.

Peter DoDne strikes gold in the Arctic fields, and sends for his young brother Michael. Before the latter arrives, the brother is murdered by a gold-mad factor, under peculiar circumstances, and the blame for the crime fastened on the shoulders of the big Scotsman, Mackenzie, who is sent at once on the Journey of Death, doomed to walk and starve until he drops, guarded by Indians, who watch that no succour be afforded the convicted man. In giving help to the victim, Dane is sentence to the same punishment, to get him out of the way of the man who covets his gold mine.

In the scenes which ensue, Dane and his fellow-victim have some harrowing experiences, that include suffering from deadly blizzards, encounters with wolves, and a thrilling ride down boiling rapids.

For sustained exciting atmosphere and a generous use of startling situations, "North of Hudson Bay" is a typical and entertaining Tom Mix production.

The comedy is a juvenile mix-up, with the merry bunch of juniors doing some hilarious and comical stunts.

AT THE ROYAL

MORE GOOD VAUDEVILLE AT ROYAL

Three boys who claim to know over one thousand songs and who endeavor to sing any popular number suggested by anyone in the audience is one of the unusual attractions now playing the Royal. Lester, Cook and Burns better known as the Request Boys are a fine harmony singing organization and the audience last night enjoyed them immensely and incidently, that same audience made the boys earn their money last night as they sang song after song by request. Shepherd and Ott have a pleasing little novelty of the singing, dancing, piano, type of act and their pleasing personalities and songs and step dancing won them much applause. "Children of Dust" will be enjoyed by every discriminating patron. It is a slice of real life by the director of Humoresque.

"CHILDREN OF DUST" TERMED MASTERPIECE

Reflecting life as it really is, "Children of Dust," which is at the Royal Theatre this week, is a masterpiece. It is a production of which Frank Borzage, its director, may well be proud. Not since "Humoresque," which this brilliant man also created has there been a picture so true to life and devoid of artificially.

To sit through the incidents in Terwilliger's romance with Helen is to live his life as he lived it, with all its sunshine and sorrows. In a way typical only of Borzage, the story is told of Terwilliger's sacrifice for the girl he loves of his rival. To tell the plot is to take away half of the pleasure one derives in living Terwilliger's adventures. Unusual in theme, it is handled in an absorbing ly interesting manner — in marked contrast to the ordinary run of pictures with their sham and "hokum." It is an epic of real people.

Heights of dramatic emotion heretofore unreached are attained by Johnny Walker, Pauline Garon and Lloyd Hughes, all of whom are perfectly cast. Bert Woodruff adds new laurels to his fame as a character actor in his role as Old Archer Frankie Lee, Josephine Adair and Newton Hall do admirable work in portraying the principals as children All in all an evening of absorbing clean entertainment is in store for patrons of the Royal Theatre this week end.

AT THE GRAND

A motion picture based on important historical events of the settling of the west interwoven with a love story of the younger pioneers is to be offered at the Grand, commencing Feb. 6th, in "The Covered Wagon," the movie epic made from the late Emerson Hough's novel of the same title.

The subject recalls some of the most romantic events in American history, particularly the progress of the prairie schooners from Missouri River points westward to occupying of Oregon and other regions on the extreme frontier back in 1848. Their path was the vague, obscure and as yet almost unknown Oregon Trail. 2,000 ft. of it, stretching away to the northwest through eastern Kansas mid Nebraska, Wyoming, the northern edge of Utah, Idaho, the southwest corner of Washington, and Oregon. 'Twas little more than nearly obliterated trackage and debris of two score seasons of occasional hardy explorers, trappers, traders and scouts. Two prior covered wagon expeditions had tried it, but had come to untimely deaths.

Dating back to early in the last century when the Government officers, Lewis and Clark, first pushed across the prairies and over the Rockies, it was made a bit more definite by the celebrated journey of the Congregationalist missionary Whitman, who reached Walla Walla one hundred years ago last summer and founded there a Christian settlement and college among the barbarous Indians. This, and the Astoria settlement on Oregon coast, definitely located the Pacific northwest as initially occupied by citizens of the United States, gave point to Secretary Daniel Webster's arguments with Lord Ashburton, and finally won from great Britain recognition of American political rights in that quarter of the world. But as is well known, possession being nine points of the law, Oregon and Washington had to be possessed as well as ruled. The political title alone would not have amounted to much more practically than a few centuries before the celebration division of eastern and western hemispheres of the world by Spain and Portugal—excellent theory but vague practice.

"The Covered Wagon" book and play deal with the real conquest of the trail by the great prairie schooner Trek of American history, an incursion into unknown lands fully comparable to the Aryan migrations into Europe or the Goth and Saxon conquests of the western half of the wide Roman realm.

It was the custom to start at a number of Missouri River points and converge at Grand Island, where after crossing the Platte, the united caravan journeyed northwestward. Some started from Council Bluffs, others from St. Joseph, but the particular band with which the story deals outfitted at Westport landing (now Kansas City) made its way to the site of the present Leavenworth, and proceeded across the bountifully fertile valleys and timber ranges of eastern Kansas and southeastern Nebraska to the common valley in point.

The chief dangers of the plains were Indian attack or the Indian setting of prairie fires, menacing the whole caravan and its possessions. These were safely avoided or conquered, and the swollen rivers were crossed without loss of life.

Farther on, as the trail proceede into the more desert regions and into the sterile Rockies, intolerable climatic conditions, privations and sufferings, especially starvation and thirst, offered terrible obstacles. Many lost heart and turned back, only to be scalped by Indians hanging on the flanks for stragglers. Death, marriage and birth proceeded apace in the itinerant city. A welcome station stop was Fort Bridger in Wyoming, where the gallant scout, Jim Bridger, welcomed the travelling parties in a buffalo hunt, had the double aim of sport and replenishing the larder.

The Trail looped along and into the northern edge of Utah. Here came word borne of Kit Carson scout that gold particles had been found in panning the streams of central California. Half the expedition fell away and bore due west, lured by the bright hope of gold despite Captain Wingate's urgings not to abandon plough and furrow aim wherewith they had started out to create golden wheatfields in the northwest.

The faithful half of the pioneer prairie schooner families trekked through Idaho, taking a line considerably to the south of Boise and crossing over into Oregon close to the boundary between that territory and the future State of Washington. They arrived in driving snow and blizzard. Nevertheless brave old Jesse Wingate stuck the plough through the snow into the soil and turned the first sod of Oregon earth, which was eagerly divided among the covered wagon families as souvenirs of the reaching of their quest.

Followed the rapid filing of free lands, the building of shacks, the getting ready for spring and the planting of the seed that the settlers had brought with them. Within a comparatively short time Oregon was admitted to the Union as a free soil state. Though all the pioneers had been sure that railroads would never penetrate the wilds they had traversed, soon after the Civil War the bright lines of steel grew and grew and extended apace until they stretched from the Missouri River to San Francisco and from Ogden, Utah up to Portland, Oregon, following roughly the California-Oregon pioneer traile.

This brief sketch would convey misunderstanding if the reader gathered that "The Covered Wagon" production was an historical chronicle. It is really a love and adventure story, but it follows the Oregon Trail most faithfully.

BRITAIN RESUMES DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA

SOVIET GOVERNMENT IS RECOGNIZED BY LONDON REPRESENTATIVE SENT

Premier MacDonald Despatched Diplomatic Document to Moscow Inviting the Appointment of Ambassador and Negotiation of New Treaty — Has Commissioned Charge D'Affaires to the Bolshevik Capital—Hopes For Form of Parliamentary Government Following Lenine's Death.

WOULD DEVELOP TRADE

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The Government of Soviets has been accorded recognition by Great Britain and according to the text of a note given out at the Foreign Office last night, embodying the Government's communication to the Soviets, diplomatic relations, after a six-year suspension, are to be resumed.

The recognition is unconditional and leaves all questions of treaties, debts, claims and other obligations to be settled later by agreement between the two governments. Russia is invited to send representatives to England to negotiate a new treaty settling all outstanding questions.

Hasty Action

By a large body of opinion opposed to unconditional recognition of Russia, Premier MacDonald is accused of precipitancy. These observers point out that, although in office only a little over a week he is trying to settle the thorniest foreign problem without even waiting for the reassembling of parliament. But, it is added that he is sure of parliamentary approval in these matters because the Liberal Party itself has advocated recognition or Russia. It is understood that the Soviet Government has already indicated to the British Government its readiness to appoint a mixed commission to arrange the treaty suggested in the recognition communication.

One motive pointed to for Mr. MacDonald's prompt action is belief that British recognition, especially under the present uncertain conditions arising from the death of Lenine, might have the effect of hastening the time when some form of parliamentary institutions might be developed in Russia. The Premier's main object, however, is said to be the development of trade between the two countries as a means of remedying unemployment.

Text of Note.

The text of the note extending recognition, as delivered to the Soviet Government in Moscow by Robert M. Hodgson, who becomes British Charge D'Affaires pending the appointment of an ambasador, was given out as follows:

"I have the honor, by direction of my Government, to inform Your Excellency that they recognize the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics as de jure rulers of those territories of the old Russian Empire which acknowledge their authority.

"In order, however, to create the normal conditions of complete friendly relations and full commercial intercourse, it will be necessary to conclude definite practical agreements on a variety of matters, some of which have no direct connection with the question of recognition and some of which, on the other hand, are intimately bound up with the fact of recognition.

Renews Treaties.

"In the latter category may be cited the question of existing treaties. His Majesty's Government are advised that recognition of the Soviet Government of Russia will, according to the accepted principles of international law, automatically bring into force all the treaties concluded between the two countries previous to the Russian revolution, except where these have been denounced or have otherwise juridically lapsed. It is obviously to the advantage of both countries that the position as regards these treaties should be regularized simultaneously with recognition.

"Technical unconnected with recognition, but clearly of utmost importance are the problems of settlement of the existing claims by the Government and nationals of one party against the other, and the restoration of Russia's credit.

"It is also manifest that genuinely friendly relations.

cannot be said to be completely established so long as either party has reason to suspect the other of carrying on propaganda against its interests and directed to overthrow its institutions.

"In these circumstances, His Majesty's Government invite the Russian Government to send to London at the earliest possible date, representatives armed with full powers to discuss these matters and draw the preliminary basis of a complete treaty to settle all the questions outstanding between the two countries.

"Meantime I have been given the status of Charge D'Affaires, pending the appointment of an ambassador, and am to state that His Majesty's Government will be glad similarly to receive a Russian Charge representing the Governor of the Union at the Court of St. James."

Have Reduced Cost of Civil Service

OTTAWA, Feb. 2.—Misleading figures are being published by a Canadian publication in a series of articles on the expenditure on the Canadian Civil Service, Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister, asserted last night, in the course of a discussion of the Government's policy on Civil Service reform.

The Premier said that the articles did not publish all the facts, and thereby conveyed the impression that the increases in personnel and cost of Civil Servants had occurred only during the present regime. For instance a comparison in figures showed an enormous increase in the last ten years. The article did not, however, Mr. King pointed out, mention that there had been an actual decrease of $3,000,000 in expenditure on Civil Service since the present Government took office, or between 1920-21 and 1922-23.

The Prime Minister felt that such comparisons should be made clear at this time when Civil Service re-organization was on the tapis.

WEST LAUNCHES NON-POLITICAL ECONOMY DRIVE

Prairie Boards of Trade Expand Their Original Objective--Not Intended As Attack On Any Government--Would Arouse People.

A NATIONAL NEED.

REGINA, Feb. 2. — Plans for launching a nation-wide non-partisan campaign for economy were agreed by representatives of ten boards of trade in the prairie provinces who met in the city hall, Regina, yesterday. Called under the auspices of the Winnipeg board of trade with the announced intention of seeking relief from the taxation burden, the conference decided on devoting its energies toward economy rather than entering into the larger field of taxation.

Emphasis marked all the speakers 'remarks that the campaign was to be a non-political one and not intended as an attack on either the Federal Government or any of the Provincial Governments.

It was suggested by one delegate that the campaign be concentrated on the federal budget while another criticized the use of what he termed the so-called War Taxes to meet the railway deficits.

Police Duplication.

Various phases of Governmental expenditure where duplication is said to have increased the cost were quoted. W. D. McIntyre, Moose Jaw, cited the police system of Saskatchewan as an instance, declaring that the province maintained the R. C.M.P., the Provincial Police, Municipal Police and Liquor Act Enforcement Officers.

A. J. Reynolds, Prince Albert, stated that shelving of projects now being urged by various boards throughout the Dominion would be necessary if the campaign was to be a success. The Pacific coast at present is urging, he added, lower freight rates, the Middle West, the Hudson's Bay Railway and the eastern boards the Great Waterways scheme.

Public meetings at which speakers could bring forth and stress the seriousness of the need for economy, should be sponsored by the boards all over the country, it was also suggested.

MEXICAN FAMILY FOLLOW FIGHTERS

The Mexican warrior takes his wife and children with him when he goes out to fight—even when he makes part of the trip hrough a foreign country. This picture, snapped at Juarez, Mexico, shows some of the families accompanying the soldiers in their box-car ride across Arizona, New Mexico and part of Texas. President Obregon will use the men to strengthen his eastern forces in the fight against rebels.

UNITED STATES AMBASSADOR IS PILGRIM GUEST

Frank B. Kellogg Was Tendered Banquet In London—Premier MacDonald Emphasized the Good Relations Between America and Britain.

WANT NO ALLIANCE.

LONDON, Feb. 2—The Pilgrims Society last night tendered a banquet in honor of Frank B. Kellogg, the new United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James.

Among the speakers were Ramsay MacDonald, the Prime Minister and Sir Esme Howard, the newly appointed British Amabssador to the United States, and Mr. Kellogg.

Mr. Kellogg dwelt upon the friendly relations between Great Brit ain and the United States, the situation in Europe, the limitation of armaments, and the settlement of jus ticiable disputes by arbitration or some judicial tribunal.

Sir Esme Howard declared that he would endeavor as Ambassador in Washington to maintain and increase the friendship of the two English-speaking peoples.

Alluded to Wilson

Mr. MacDonald, after referring to the "generosity" of the Pilgrims not only in inviting him to be their guest, but in giving him the honor of offering a toast to the new United States Ambassador, alluded to the "sad news about Ex-President Wilson."

"This is a moment," said the Premier, "when partisanship and party allegiance sink into insignificance. But I can assure His Excellency, the United States Ambassador, that the whole English nation to-night is standing with held breath, waiting further news from the ex-president."

Then, inviting the diners to drink the health of the Ambassador, MacDonald continued:

"Tere are some ambassadors who are going to give me trouble. There are others whose visits to the Foreign Office always will fill my heart with joy, because they will have nothing whatever to ay to me. My honorable friend, His Excellency I am glad to say, and I am sure he is glad to say, belongs in the latter category.

"The relations between Britain and the United States were never better than they are to-night. I pray God they will long continue in that happy state.'

A reference to the origin of the Pilgrims led the Premier to allude to the great discoveries and inventions by mankind in past centuries.

Gap in Discoveries

"But,' he continued, "there is one thing we have not yet discovered. That is how to be neighborly. The whole of our civiliation consists in reasonableness, in fair play, in kindly consideration one for another; of taking the quarrels of individuals away from their own arbitrament and placing them under the custody of disinterested parties. That discovery still has to be made.

"May I say without offense—for there is no offense in my heart—that America has gone far to make that discovery, America and ourselves—we want no alliance, we want no documents— America and ourselves are in the position of two peoples that in spirit, by reason of those great moral and spiritual forces that are demeaned and narrowed by being written down on paper—are prepared to stand side by side, not in political alliance, but in human fellow ships to help each other.

"We have had our quarrels, as all happy families have had, but, when any great human cause has come before us, we never have looked into hearts and hidden right away in their innermost recesses, we have each discovered a very shy, but very faithful friendship, for the other."

POINCARE WINS FIRST SKIRMISH

Amendment Proposing the Revision of War Contracts Since 1914 Defeated in Test Vote of Confidence By 168 Majority.

PARIS, Feb. 2.— The first skirmish between the Government and the Opposition in the Chamber of Deputies debate on the proposed new taxes and economies to balance the extraordinary budget, ended in victory for the Government yesterday when it obtained a majority of 168 in a test vote. At the end of discussion on revision of the war damages figure, M. Klotz, Minister of Finance in the Clemenceau Cabinet, who has been fighting the Government throughout the present debate, offered an amendment providing that all war contracts passed since 1914 be revised at the same time action was taken on the budget.

Premier Poincare pointed out that the amendment was a mere diversion; that a bill containing the same provisions had been passed by the Chamber and was before the Senate. He demanded that the Chamber reject the amendment and proposed that it be made a question of confidence. The radicals joined the Socialists in opposition, but the Government mustered 375 votes to 207, which was regarded as qunite a sufficient majority considering the nature of the questions involved.

The entire amendment providing for revision of war damages was then voted, and, at the request of the Premier, was disjoined from the other tax economy bils and sent to the Senate so as to expedite action by that body. Debate on the Government measures will be resumed Monday.

OH, CUPID ,COME BACK!

CHUMLEIGH, North Devon, England, February 1. — The village registrar, through alluring advertisements of all Chumleigh offers as a homey place wherein to dwell, is trying to entice Cupid back.

For a year now, there hasn't been a marriage here.

The registrar and the village rector cannot understand it.

"Why," they say, "Chumleigh, with its population of more than 1,200, has every convenience of a large city, and offers everything a home lover could desire."

Ponzi Investors Must Make Refund

BOSTON, Feb. 2.— Federal Judge Anderson ruled yesterday that investors in Charles Ponzi's postal reply coupon scheme who withdrew both principal and interest on their investments must be treated as preferential creditors and must return to the bankrupt Ponzi estate all the money which they withdrew.

The decision was made in the suit of Ponzi trustees in bankruptcy against Peter L. Thompson, of Boston, and the ruling will affect several other cases. Thompson received $2,100 in return for an investment of $1,400 and $1,950 for a second investment of $1,300. It is understood that Thompson will appeal the decision.

GERMAN WOMEN HAVE DEFENDER.

Woman Member of Reichstag Is Up In Arms.

BERLIN, Feb. 2.— (Associated Press).—Doctor Marie Elizabeth Lueders, member of the Reichstag from Dusseldorf, is up in arms over the inequality with which women are dealt in the reducing process which is going on in government organizations.

The regulation providing that married women be dismissed if their husbands are employed is denounced by Dr. Lueders as the rankest injustice. She says that in many cases the woman is the chief wage-earner and the ablest individual in the family, and she takes the position that every case should be considered on its merits rather than according to fixed rules.

Through dismissing 25 percent of government servants, including school teachers, many teachers are now required to care for from 80 to 90 children, which pedagogues insist is destructive of effective teaching.

Invite Finn Skater to Races at Lake Placid.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(Canadian Press). — Clas Thunberg, sensational Finnish skater, whose triumphs in the speed skating events in the Olympic games won him the unofficial title of world's champion, will compete in the national and international championships at Saranac Lake and Lake Placid, respectiyely, if he accepts the invitation of the International Skating Union.

Joseph K. Savage, president of the International Union, said yesterday that William Taylor, manager of the United States Olympic skating team, went abroad with an invitation from the Union to Thunberg to compete in this country.

EBERT GIVES VIEWS ON EDUCATION

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—(Associated Press).—President Ebert, in New Year's greetings to the Students' Economic Relief Committee of Berlin University, expressed the hope that the organization will succeed in preventing the "plutocratization" of education. He gave assurance that he will lo all in his power to foster the work of extending education as widely as possible among students of limited means.

NON-PARTISAN BOARD OVER CIVIL SERVICE

Auditor-General, Who Is Free From Government Influence, Given Audit Board to Review All Appointments—Premier King Outlines Economies

OTTAWA, Feb. 2. Canadian Press. Expenditures for the Canadian Civil Service are to be placed under the direct supervision of the Auditor-General of Canada, under the new policy of the Mackenzie King Government, it was announced last night

Following a conference in which the Cabinet met heads of the Government departments and members of the Civil Service Commission, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King announced that the powers of the audit board had been extended to include supervision of expenditure for civil servants, and the right to recommend to Parliament any changes in system or personnel in the service. Under the audit act as amended last session the government is empowered to make such provision, the audit board to consist of the Auditor General, the Deputy Minister of Finance, and two independent accountants to be chosen by the first two.

List of Employees.

In his campaign for economy in the Civil Service, the Premier said it would be made necessary that Deputy Ministers in all Governmnt departments must compile a complete list of their temporary and permanent employees and make such recommendations as were necessary for the carrying on of public business. In this way a sort of Domesday Book of the Civil Service would be built up omitting nobody who in any way earned money in Government service The Auditor General and his board would review all appointments, and make such recommendations to Parliament through the government as it saw fit. The Premier drew attention to the fact that the Auditor-General was exempt from party or government influence, and could be removed from office only by a vote of the House of Commons. The delay in appointing an Auditor General, the premier said, had been occasioned by the difficulty the government experienced in finding a man competent to carry out the enlarged duties of the position at the salary authorized under the act. It was found necessary to increase this salary before the right man could be found.

Superannuation Act.

The Prime Minister said that a Superannuation Act for Civil servants would be submitted next session as already announced. Some amendments to the Civil Service Act also will be brought down and Parliament will be asked to provide for the consolidation of certain departments and modification of the classification rules where this makes for delay in filling a vacancy. A consolidation of one or two Government departments similar to the merger of the departments of Militia, of Naval Service, and the Air Board under one department of defence, was also hinted at, but the Premier declined to discuss the matter further until Parliament assembles.

The possibility of economizing in the housing of government staffs also is to be gone into, and so far as possible employees in various branches of the same department, frequently scattered throughout the city in different buildings, will be brought together in considerably smaller space. In any changes in the civil service act to be brought down this session, the recommendations of the audit board will be submitted to Parliament for it guidance.

In all these matters, the Premier said, the experience and impartiality of the Audit Board would be utilized freely, and the government confident ly expected that great economy and efficiency would result. The co-operation of the Deputy Ministers with the Auditor-General's department would be the chief factors in ensuring this economy.

The Prime Minister did not indicate to what extent the new duties of the Auditor-General would impinge upon the province of the Civil Service Commission, but it is understood here that the powers of the Civil Service Commission will be unimpaired, except by such amendments to the act as may be passed next session.

Would Amend Act.

In his references to possible amendments to the Civil Service Act Mr. King said that it was hoped that Parliament would be persuaded that some of this legislation is bad. The system of classification, for instance, was cumbersome and cost too much. The audit board, he said, may be able to persuade Parliament that it was best to modify the act.

With regard to housing he said men who belong to different branches of the same department, and who have housed themselves in separate groups in scattered parts of the capital, will have to be brought together under the same roof and saving in rent effected. In the consolidation of such branches a s translation, which are needed in different departments, the audit board will be asked to act as a neutral agency to economize on space and personnel. Translators for instanc could do the work of more than one department.

Petite Cote Beer Still in Storage

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 1.—A squad of provincial police was sent from headquarters in Windsor to-day to Petite Cote to check stocks of beer held there for shipment. Inspector Mousseau said no irregularities had been found after a thorough investigation of liquor held by exporters for shipment to Detroit and other places across the border. No seizures were made by the police, who spent several hours on the river front visiting warehouses where beer is stored.

Testimony of Luderus Favorable to Jackson.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 2. — (Canadian Press).—Direct testimony of the plaintiff in the case of Joe Jackson, former Chicago American baseball player, who is suing the Chicago clubs for $18,600 under an alleged breach of contract, was concluded here.

Fred. Luderus, former first baseman for the Chicago Nationals, was the final witness on direct examination. He was called upon as an expert to give his opinion of Jackson's playing in the 1919 world series, which, it is alleged, was "thrown" by a number of the White Sox players to the Cincinnati Reds. He testified the playing of Jackson was good, and that he batted in six Sox runs, one-third of the runs scored by the team during the series.

MAINTAIN WAGE FOR FOUR YEARS

The Miners' Convention Approve Recommendation For Renewal of the Present Scale—Resolute Against Ku Klux Connexion.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 2.—Defeated in every attack upon the conservative administration of the United Mine Workers of America, insurgents last night planned a grand finale for to-day in their attempt to have Alexander Howatt, of Kansas, reinstated as a member of the union. Their last defeat came yesterday when the convention voted down a resolution intended to depose Ellis Searles as editor of the Mine Workers' Journal, and provide that only a practical coal miner shall hold the job.

Administration candidates for delegate to the World Mining Congress, at Prague, Czecho-Slovakia, in June, were elected on the first ballots to-day, Walter Nesbit, Secretary-Treasurer of the Illinois District, by a vote of 933, and President Thomas Kennedy, of District 7, Pennsylvania, by 800.

Yesterday the convention concluded adopting the report of the Scale committee, and the report of the Constitutional committee. The Scale committee recommendation for renewal of the present wage scale for a term of four years was approved withobt change, over opposition of insurgents. There was no important change made in the constitution.

Re-open Dundee Port to Canadian Cattle.

LONDON, Feb. 2. — (Canadian Press).—The port of Dundee has been re-opened for the admission of Canadian store cattle after having been closed for some time owing to the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease among animals in several places in the United Kingdom.

The ports of Liverpool, Glasgow and Manchester are still closed to the importation of cattle because of the foot-and-mouth scourge, and there is no prospect at present of their being re-opened for a while.

To date, £2,500,000 has been expended by the Ministry of Agriculture in compensation to farmers for animals slaughtered under the Ministry's orders in the attempt to stamp out the epidemic.

KIWANIS REVUE HAD A LARGER CROWD FRIDAY

The Kiwanis Revue presented under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A., had its second production at the Grand Opera House last evening, with a fairly good attendance.

The bright double programme of extravaganza went through in snappy style, and the various pretty musical numbers received much applause.

During the performance many lovely floral tributes were presented to the ladies taking part.

The dainty quartette which forms one of the closing numbers on the programme, sung by Misses M. Masson and Greta LeBarr and Messrs. H. M .Niven and A. M. Irvine, was well received, as were the numerous solos, duets, and trios in the attractive double offering.

The director, M. B. Chenhall, and his hard-working cast deserve much credit for the time and effort expended in producing a lengthy and well-rendered revue.

ITALO-RUSSIAN TREATY.

ROME, Feb. 2.—(British United Press.)— It is understood that the Italo-Russian Treaty, though essentially of a commercial nature, is in reality a document of a general character, inasmuch as it settles all questions pending between two the two countries, including that concerning the private property of Italian citizens in Russia.

Nothing is yet known regarding the status of diplomatic representatives at the two capitals. It is believed, however, that these will be made ambassadors.

BULPITT DEATH IN LONDON STAR

Serves As Material For Two Papers In Campaign Against Canada--Mention Montreal Banquet For Destitute Men.

LONDON, Feb. 2.— (Canadian Press Cable)—The London Star, the evening edition of the Daily News, had an editorial a column in length last night professedly "exposing the policy of setting the problem of the unemployed by shovelling the victims into the Dominions."

The Star declares that the "recent suicides of two British boy immigrants in eastern Canada have given a very sombre tinge to the whole subject of the emigration of those who are without capital.'

More letters from immigrants in western Canada are appearing in the Star supporting the views already advanced by immigrants about many men in the Dominion being unable to obtain work. One of the latest of these letters however is practically confined to the writers opinion of tariffs. "What eastern Canada has gained by tariffs," the letter says, "has been the economic ruin of the west."

Such sentiments as these on the tariff question are after the Star's own line of political thinking.

Rev. H. W. Burnett, of the Mountain street Methodist church, Montreal, states through the Canadian official press bureau here that he is convinced that if a man is willing to take any kind of a job until something better offers he need never be unemployed in Montreal.

The London Star contrasts this assertion with a news item in a Montreal paper about 1,200 destitute men having been provided with a Christmas dinner in Montreal.

This anti-Canadian campaign, as has been mentioned already, is confined amongst the English papers practically to the Star and the Daily News, its morning companion. The English press generally has given proper publicity to assurances from Canada that the circumstances attending the recent suicides on Ontario farms are being fully investigated, on the part of the newspapers generally to make a sensation of the two suicides.

PAPERS DIVIDED OVER SITUATION

London Times Attacks Government's Policy of Recognizing Russia.

LONDON, February 2 (United Press). — The Times, in a leading editorial, bitterly attacked the Government's grant of diplomatic recognition to Russia.

The recognition, although accepted as inevitable ever since the Labour Government, headed by Prime Minister MacDonald, assumed power, caused a considerable impression when announced by the Foreign Office late yesterday.

The editorial in The Times was interpreted as the opening gun in a Conservative attack on MacDonald's action.

It was the more surprising in that newspaper recently has been broadly pro-Government in its foreign affairs attitude

The editorial derides both the fact of recognition and the phraseology in which the Foreign Office made known the Government's decision, and is supported by long news despatches from Riga and other border cities picturing alleged chaotic conditions in the Soviet Dominion since the death of Premier Lenine.

Liberal papers, led by The Express, praised the recognition as a great step forward in the British programme for restoration of the political and economic equilibrium of Europe.

1923 BANNER YEAR FOR CANADA LIFE.

Company's Strong Position Further Consolidated.

Business depression and unsettled conditions due to the momentous election campaign in Great Britain have not been reflected in all lines of business, as the exceptionally fine record achieved in 1923 by the Canada Life Assurance Company proves.

This old, well established Canadian Company has again excelled in every branch of its activities in the Old Land. Its record during the past year is particularly noteworth: in view of the very trying year experienced generally there.

Total new life assurance placed in Great Britain in 1923 by the Canada Life amounted to $6,347,333, and annuities to the face value of $94,874.92 were issued.

The total income for the Canada Life from premiums and annuities in Great Britain was last year $3,161,746.85.

CALEDONIAN CLUB ELECT OFFICERS

The annual general meeting of the Caledonian Club was held last evening, with a good attendance. Elections for the ensuing year resulted in the re-election of the president, Robt French, and the election of the following officers: Vice president: A. Jackson, Recording secretary; G. Lows, Treasurer, W. Petrie. Committee; Messrs. A. Clark, (convenor), J. Brown, A. Milne, A. Rae and R. Gilmour.

NASSAU MAN FINED WHO STRUCK DEBT COLLECTOR

In the Police Court this morning, a Nassau man was fined $5.00, and costs, amounting in all to $14.30, on a charge of assault.

It appears he was approached by a collector regarding an account which he disputed, and struck the collector in the face.

Two young bloods of the city, who were emboldened by St. Michael's wine, ogled ladies passing the Post Office corner, and this morning paid for their amusement on the order of Magistrate O. A. Langley. The fines were $10.00, and costs.

HASTINGS WON FIRST HALF OF TRENT LEAGUE

Victory Over Campbellford Last Night Cinched the First Round Honors --Campbellford Put Up Good Fight.

HASTINGS, February 2. — Defeating Campbellford here last night 7 goals to 5, Hastings won the first half of the schedule of Group B in the Trent Valley League.

Hockey fans who went to the rink last night expected to see the locals step into Charlie Davidson's boys and give them the short end of the score, but they witnessed the battle of their lives on a keen sheet of ice when the Campbellford puck-chasers managed to hold the locals to a two-goal lead.

Although they were beaten by a very fast and husky gang of players, they were not outplayed at any stage of the game.

Campbellford came along with a clever gang of stick-handlers and back-checkers, a good goalkeeper, and a fast pair of defence men that seemed tireless.

They went home a happy gang, and are confident of winning the second half of Schedule B in the Trent Valley League.

During every stage of the game every man gave his best.

The locals started rush after rush, but mostly the one-man style, that does not get very far on the long run.

The Campbellford kids checked like fiends, and broke away frequently, giving the Hastings net guardian many hot shots to handle.

The Hastings defence pair, Doonan and Clapper stood up in front of Scriver like a stone wall, and after several unsuccessful attempts to break through the Campbellford boys, changed their tactics and shot mostly from outside the defence, and followed in fast to obtain the rebound, the net result of this method being that they succeeded in getting one of their counters from a rebound.

Both goalies played a first-class game, and saved the day a dozen times when it looked like a sure gool.

Both teams registered in the first period and the score stood: Hastings 3, Campbellford 1.

The homesters were bottled up badly in the second period, which ended: Hastings 1, Campbellford 1.

The third period was fast and furious, both teams giving all they had, Hastings bulging the twine 3 times while Campbellford was doing the same.

Doonan, Gould and Hill turned in a good game, and their rushes were always dangerous. The rest of the boys played good clean hockey and stayed on the ice.

Stewart in the nets was very effective. Cowell and Hankinson on the defence performed like veterans, and were always on the job. Bulford and White were very dangerous on the forward line, and turned in their best game of the season.

Referee, Danny White.

Goal scorers: 1st Period—Bulford, Clapper (3). 2nd Period — Hill, Cowell. 3rd Period—Clapper (2), White, Hankinson, Bulford.

The final standing of the first half of Group B:

	Won	Lost	To Play
Hastings	4	0	0
Campbellford ..	2	2	0
Keene	0	4	0

If you suffer from headaches, pains in the back, dizzy spells, or specks floating before the eyes, painful, suppressed or scalding urination let Gin Pills set your kidneys right, and restore you to the glory of good health. A few doses will bring relief. A few boxes will make you entirely well.

BODY LAY IN A SHACK UNBURIED UNTIL DEPT. SENT A MAN TO SCENE

Gruesome Story Uncovered Near Trent Bridge--Man Who Died January 20th in Lonely Shack Will Be Buried Tomorrow.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

TRENT BRIDGE, Feb. 2.—The body of Alfred Firman, who died friendless and alone in his little shack at Mud Lake, two miles east of here, on Sunday, January 20th, still lies unburied and neglected in a plain casket in which the remains were placed soon after the death of the lonely widower was discovered by his neighbors. Further than providing a coffin no attempt has been made by the authorities to give the remains burial. It seems like one of the most glaring examples of masterly official inactivity on record.

But the late Alfred Firman is to be laid at rest, thanks to the Attorney General's Department at Toronto. An official from the Public Trustee's Branch of that department arrived here yesterday, C. K. Greene, who is the representative for Eastern Ontario and took charge of the case. Firman will be interred in the Stanwood cemetery on Sunday, and Rev. J. E. Glover, pastor of the church in that place, will be asked to conduct religious services over the remains.

When Firman Died.

As announced in The Examiner at the time, some of Firman's neighbors became alarmed at seeing no smoke issuing from his home and hearing his cattle calling for food, broke into his residence on Monday, January 21, and found his dead body stretched upon his bed. He had evidently passed away some time previous, but as he had been seen on the previous Saturday, Sunday was fixed as the day of his death. The deceased had been living alone since last summer when his mother, who had been keeping house for him, left to visit friends in the United Sttaes, but just where no one appears to know.

Dr. J. Holdcroft, of Havelock, who was called in, he being coroner for Belmont township, in which the dead man's home was situated, decided that death was due to heart failure and that no inquest would be necessary. Undertaker Curtis of Havelock, placed the remains in a casket and it seems that there the affair was allowed to rest.

The Reeve Notified.

Reeve Breckenridge, of Belmont, who was attending the County Council session at Peterobrough, was notified. He is quoted by the neighbors as saying that he took legal advice in that city and was told that he had no authority to act in the matter. The Examiner's representative, who visited the neighborhood yesterday, made an attempt to get in communication with the Reeve, but failed to do so as he has no telephone in his house.

The dead man in the meantime lay alone in his home, the only mourner being his faithful dog, which kept unceasing vigil by the casket of his master. Thomas Tyler, a neighbor, was appointed by the authorities to look after the house and cattle, and has done so ever since.

Reported toGovernment.

Grant Dafoe, clerk of the Township of Belmont, finally reported the case to Attorney General Nickle at Toronto, and that official referred it at once to the Public Trustee branch of his department. In less than 24 hours a representative of the Ontario Government was on the spot, C. K. Greene, who was in Ottawa at the time, leaving for Havelock at once. Yesterday afternoon he drove out to the house of death, and lost no time in taking decisive steps. With township clerk Dafoe he made a close inventory of the property of the deceased. There are on the farm four good horses, and 23 head of well-kept stock. In the barn there was found about 300 bushels of grain, all that was left of 600 bushels that the deceased had threshed last fall. Seventeen acres of fall rye are lying under the snow and the implements are such as are usually found on the average farm.

Ordered the Funeral.

The government official ordered that the remains be buried on Sunday, the place of interment selected being the cemetery at Stanwood. Mr. Tyler was engaged to care for the stock and arrangements were made for selling off all the property of the deceased. This is the usual course taken by the Public Trustee Department when a person dies intestate, and without known heirs, the government acting as executor of the estate and holding the property for possible claimants who in the future may be able to establish their rights.

Sketch of the Deceased

The right name of the deceased was Firman although he was sometimes known as Cooney as he is supposed to have had a half-brother and sisters. He lived in that neighborhood practically all his life and while he may have been of eccentric habits he was always regarded as a peaceful and industrious citizen. When he was a young man—he was about 40 at the time of his death—he worked for 10 years on the farm of Ex-Reeve Russell of Belmont, who resides near Blairton. When Mr. Russell heard of the case he reported it to Chief Duncalfe of Campbellford, but the matter was outside the jurisdiction of that officer. Chief Duncalfe, however, did inform exReeve Russell that in his opinion there was nothing to prevent the burial from taking place at once.

Firman finally was able to start farming for himself on rented property. The 200 acre farm on which he died was leased by him some yeas ago Charles A. Chase who resides at Niagara Falls. The rent was paid to date at the time of his death and he appears to have been fairly prosperous, although his house lack the comforts of a modern farm house

Firman's neighbors, who have known him for years say that early in life he was married but that he separated from his wife about 15 years ago. Mrs. Firman was later killed in an accident according to a report that reached her former home.

The deceased is said to have a half-brother working in the mills at Delora, and a visitor to Campbellford yesterday, who lives near Delora, said it should be an easy matter to locate him. The whereabouts of the mother appears to be unknown as she never wrote to her son and before leaving for the United States held no communication with any of the neighbors.

Some Harsh Criticisms

The affair has excited more interest and accasioned more talk than anything that has occurred in this vicinity for years. Considerable harsh criticism of the authorities for the delay is heard, a good many people asking why a man should be denied burial when he had left ample means to cover all funeral expenses. These people fail to undertand that this is the very reason why complications arose. Had Firman died a pauper there would rave been no hesitation over his obsequies. As it was it appears that no official cared to assume the responsibility until his heirs were found and how to locate these was the problem. The proper course at the outset would have been to report the case to the Attorney General the plan that was finally adopted.

It is a small log shanty, a cheerless and lonely habitation, in which Firman lived and in which his remains have lain so long. No fire has been lighted, no lamp has been lit since before his death. It has suddenly become the centre of grewsome interest and will remain so as long as the story of the lonely occupant is recalled.

FIRE DESTROYED A FARMER'S BARN

All the Stock Was Saved Except About 100 Hens —Loss Partly Covered By Insurance.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 2. — An overturned lantern was responsible for the fire which destroyed the large barn on William Gray's farm last night between 8 and 9 o'clock. The property is in Hope township, and far from the border between Cavan and Hope. Mr. and Mrs. Gray were away from home at the time, and the eldest son, aged 18, was throwing down hay from the mow when the lantern upset and exploded, and the building was soon a mass of flames.

All of the season's crop was destroyed and the majority of the implements. The stock was saved with the exception of one hundred hens. The farm is the property of William Wood, now absent in the West, a brother of Mr. Thomas Wood, of Bailieboro.

The loss is estimated at between three and four thousand dollars, and is partly covered by insurance.

KEEP LITTLE ONES WELL IN WINTER

Winter is a dangerous season for the little ones. The days are changeable—one bright, the next one cold and stormy, that the mother is afraid to take the children out for the fresh air and exercise they need so much. In consequence they are often cooped up in overheated, badly ventilated rooms and are soon seized with colds or grippe. What is needed to keep the little ones well is Baby's Own Tablets. They will regulate the stomach and bowels and drive out colds, and by their use the baby will be able to get over the winter season in perfect safety. The new sales tax will not increase the price of Baby's Own Tablets, as the company pays the tax. You can still obtain the Tablets through any medicine dealer at 25 cents a box, or by mail, post paid, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

RIVER ICE DYNAMITED IN SEARCH OF BOY'S BODY.

LONDON, Ont., February 2. — Dynamite was used by city employees to break up the ice in the Thames yesterday, but the search again failed to locate the remains of Johnny Challis, the Hill Street lad, who was drowned on Monday.

Public Utilities staff men were in charge of the work of dynamiting the ice.

A WOUND IS AN OPEN DOOR

Absorbine Jr. enables you to shut the door quickly.

The skin is Nature's own protection against germs. When it is bruised, broken or cut, that protection is withdrawn. The door is open. As quickly as possible Nature closes it by forming what we call a scab and renders you comparatively safe against infection. But this scab sometimes takes days to form and until it has fully sealed the wound, even until the wound has thoroughly healed again you must furnish the required protection yourself.

A few drops of Absorbine Jr. in the water will give you an antiseptic wash that will kill all possibility of infection and help nature to heal the wound. As well as being a very powerful germicide, Absorbine Jr. will draw out the inflammation and bring instant relief.

Absorbine Jr. is antiseptic, germicide and liniment in one container—handy to keep always in the house; easy to carry around if you travel.

CURRIE WELCOME AT WASHINGTON

Canadian Ambassadorship Unverified But Canadian Appointment Would Be Reciprocated.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(Canadian Press). — Verification of the reports that Sir Arthur Currie has been offered the Canadian Ambassadorship to Washington is lacking here. However, the general comment is that the sending of a Canadian Ambassador to this country would be highly gratifying. Sir Arthur Currie is favorably known, especially to army officers. The fact that he is head of a great university is also greatly in his favor.

Expressions here are to the effect that it is to be hoped the time has come when Canada is to be represented in Washington by an Ambassador and the United States in Ottawa by an Ambassador.

This Government will lose no time in providing for representation at Ottawa if the reported selection of Sir Arthur Currie or some other Canadian of eminence is borne out.

SUNDAY HOCKEY.

A Scottish sprinter has notified the British Olympic Committee that he will not be able to participate in the 100-metre race at the Olympic game in France this summer, because that event is to be held on a Sunday and it is against his principles to participate in athletics on that day.

It is to be imagined that the young athlete will receive more credit for the moral courage shown in the stand that he has taken than he could gain by winning the race in question.

The final hockey game between the United States nd Canada is also to be held on Sunday—tomorrow—and many Canadians would have been glad to learn that the Canadians had declined to play on that day.

Hockey is not played in this country on Sunday, and it is difficult to believe that if that fact had been emphasized by the Canadian management that the Olympic Committee would have insisted upon the final being played tomorrow, seeing that the game could just as easily have been arranged for Monday.

It would have been a moral victory for the Canadians if they had adopted the attitude of the young Scotsman who has declined the honour of running for Great Britain because a sacrifice of his principles is involved.

THE ICE QUESTION.

In pointing out that the question of permitting the cutting of ice in the Otonabee River is entirely in the hands of the local Board of Halth, Dr. McCulloch, Chief Officer of Health for Ontario, takes advantage of the occasion to warn the board of their responsibility in ensuring protection for the public against impure ice.

If there is any danger in the use of such ice in beverages and food, the people must be protected.

At present in hotels and restaurants—or some of them at least—ice from the Little Lake is used for cooling water and in other ways that may be a source of peril to patrons.

Precautions should be taken, in allowing permits for harvesting ice from the river or lake, to see that that section of the public which has to depend upon the hotels and eating houses is not called upon to run the risk of illness because of possible impurities in the ice.

Householders, too, should be warned if the Board of Health has the least doubt about the purity of the ice in question.

There is considerable difference between using ice for general refrigeration purposes and in placing it in water, milk, butter or any other beverage or food, and that distinction should be accentuated by the board.

GOD SAVE THE KING.

A protest is entered by the Hamilton Spectator against a tendency that has long existed in Peterborough and has been more than once condemned by the Examiner, namely, the practice so common with theatre audiences of grabbing coats and wraps and scurrying out during the playing of the National Anthem.

Our Hamilton contemporary declares that it has no great hopes of bringing results, and that has been our experience.

In spite of several references in these columns to the bad manners, not to say disloyalty, of the habit of bustling out of a theatre while God Save the King is being played, it cannot be claimed that there is any improvement in this respect in Peterborough.

No one class in particular is to blame, for it is noticeable that the offenders are of all walks in life and of both sexes and of all ages.

Apparently the schools do not attempt to inculcate in their pupils an appreciation of the fact that it is neither mannerly or loyal to show disrespect for the National Anthem, for young people are no better than their elders.

So bad have the conditions become that in some theatres the National Anthem is played before the performance so that the spectacle of a mad rush toward the exits can be avoided.

There should be no necessity for this, if our citizens would realize, as the Spectator points out, that while it may seem a small thing to some people to insist upon decent manners while this loyal homage is being paid to the symbol of our nationality, patriotism is, however, fostered by just such minor details.

PAYING FOR HIGHWAYS.

The request of a number of County Councils that the Ontario Government assume the whole cost of highway construction is a perfectly natural one.

The size of the bills for which the counties are responsible, as contracted during the regime of the Hon. F. C. Biggs, is startling enough to justify any County Council in attempting to "pass the buck" to the Provincial administration.

But looking at the situation from the wider field of the interest of the whole people of the Province, there is reason to doubt the desirability of any change in policy at the present time.

There is liable to be more economy if the counties have to contribute a share of the cost, for there is less incentive to press for new roads.

If the whole cost were provided by the Province it is evident that the requests for more highways in all parts of Ontario would be numerous, for somehow or other the majority of the people lose sight of the fact that the statement that the Government will pay really means that the people will pay, and there is usually no difficulty in arranging deputations to wait upon the Provincial Government to urge the spending of money.

The present policy seems to be fair in its division of costs.

Take the case of a township road where the traffic is almost entirely local and not more than 20 per cent. comes from outside the township, and it is found that the Province pays 20 per cent. and the township 80 per cent. of the cost.

In the county system where more outside traffic is found the Provincial share is greater, 40 per cent., as against 60 paid by the county.

Still larger is the Province's share of the cost of the Provincial county roads, the counties paying only 40 per cents, while the Province, taking into consideration the fact that much of the travel along such roads is done by people living outside the county, pays 60 per cent.

The through Provincial highways cost the counties but 20 per cent. and the Province 80 per cent.

This basis covers the situation thoroughlly, and there is no real reason for a change, other than the natural desire of the counties to throw the whole burden over onto the general public.

CHARACTER AND FOREIGN TRADE.

In an article in El Debate, one of the most important of the Spanish newspapers, Senor Cambo, the Catalan leader and a force in the politics of Spain's industrial centre, has some remarks to make about British commerce with Spain. These go far to explain the significant development of the Spanish market for Bradford and Manchester goods at a time when Britain's competitors have been losing ground. Cambo says:

"The economic strength of Britain is often attributed to her coal mines, her merchant fleet and the technical skill of her industrial engineer, as well as the cleverness of her bankers. But these factors, valuable as they are, are not sufficient to explain her commercial superiority; the United States of America has more coal than Britain, and Germany before the war produced as much as Britain; American and German industries are, on the whole, much more advanced than the British; the German merchant fleet was beating the British before the war, and is beginning to compete again in a formidable manner five years after the defeat which left her without a fleet; British banks are not possessed of larger capital nor have British bankers greater skill than bankers of other countries.

"More important than all her mines and factories, her ships and her banks, the splendid business of Britain has been, and is still, that derived from the confidence inspired by her commercial reliability; the Britisher does not cheat, he fulfils his promises, he carries out his part of the bargain with regard to time of deliveries, he always honors his signature. Here is the principal source of trade in Britain."

When shall we reach a stage of development where a foreign customer, committed deeply to the protection and encouragement of his own industries, will be able to offer us such a testimonial as that? Have we forgotten the cancelling of foreign contracts, the failure to meet moral obligations not legally enforceable, which characterized some of our premature and badly based foreign business as a consequence of the deflation of 1920-21? It is the characteristic of British foreign commerce that at any cost it protects the foreign customer. It keeps the letter and spirit of its contract.

If German militarists had left German commerce alone, German business was beginning to realize this before the war. Up to that time the structure of German foreign commerce had some vital defects from which British trade has always been free. It was altogether too clever. It missed the asset of the confidence of the foreign consumer. There are plenty of American tailors who sell practically nothing but British cloth. The customer knows what he is getting. The lesson to ourselves-is so obvious that it would insult the reader's intelligence to draw it further.—Barron's Weekly (New York).

A FIELD FOR ECONOMY.

There's a fruitful field for economy in the Government blue books, says the Border Cities Star. Without doubt these publications which issue in an almost unending stream from the public printers contain a great deal of very useful information. But who reads them, unless he has to? Who cares about wading through the lengthy arrays of carefully tabulated figures or perusing the letters of transmission from this department to that, which invariably clutter up Government publications. Sometimes the tables are necessary, and there is a great deal in the blue books that the people ought to know. But they should be even more carefully edited and the useless and superfluous removed.

As it is with blue books, so it is all along the line. The time of a great many jobholders, who are now busy with useless correspondence and in winding and unwinding miles and miles of red tape, would be a great deal more profitably employed if they were on farms, or working elsewhere. And the best of it is, nowadays, that he who removes white collas and dons overalls usually profits by the change.

The days of regardng the Government as a milch cow, and in the light of providing jobs for deserving politicians, now belong to the dear, dead past. Outcries against Governmental extravagance used to be sporadic and die out quickly in the days when taxes were not a serious concern to the average man. But now that he has learned that taxes mean so much, Mr. Citizen is not going to stand for Governmental extravagance.

Mr. King is well advised in his economy.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

When it comes to hockey the old world has to give place to the new.

Great as has been the activity of the Peterborough Health Association, it is undoubtedly true, as President Breyfogle pointed out at the annual meeting, that much more could be done if there were funds enough available.

That Candlemas bear story still has its adherents despite the fact that the weather records seem to go to show that there is nothing in it.

Little new legislation is foreshadowed in connection with the coming session of the Legislature, and that is welcome intelligence. If there is lack of anything in Ontario it is not of laws at any rate.

M. M. McBride, M.P., is a "group" in himself in the new Legislature. And it won't be the quietest group either, judging by past experiences.

Is it too much to hope that the coming session of the Legislature will be marked by the shortest debate on record? It is.

Controller Cameron of Toronto proposes to cut the civic minimum wage in order to give work to as many of the unemployed as possible. That is a sensible suggestion, but that won't prevent it from being opposed by labour leaders.

February, usually a cold month, has one day more than usual this year. Still it may be mild on that extra day.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a 16-oz. bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make 16 ounces—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—Price gains in Monday's market were quickly lost again in the slightly overcrowded market following. By the close of Wednesday's market the trade had got back to normal, and though the early gains had been swallowed in the subsequent general declines, there was a fairly good clean-up of all the week's offerings at prices about the same levels as the previous week. In the butcher class choice steers were going at from $6.25 to $6.50 and good mediums at from $5.25 to $5.75. Mixed butcher lots rough common quality from $4 to $4.50.

In the export heavy steers section trade was but of moderate proportions all week owing to the fact that the bulk of the week's requirements had already been secured at country points and shipped direct to the seaboard. Purchases in the local market totaled about 300 and prices were steady at the opening at from $7.25 to $7.75 for heavy steers, but easing off slightly in the generally easier week-end-market. Export heifers sold from $5.50 to $6 and heavy export bulls from $4.25 to $4.75.

Fat butcher cows eased off considerably the latter end of the week to 50c to 75c lower, and ranging from $3.50 to $4.50 at the close.

Sheep and lambs were strong at the opening, top lambs up to 14½c and 15c but easing off to $12 to $13 at close.

Very heavy runs of hogs up to over 14.00 for the week weakened the market to 50c lower at the close, at $7.25 f.o.b. and $7.75 fed and watered.

LADY HOWARD ACHIEVED POPULARITY AT COURT

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(Associated Press).—Lady Isabella Howard who, as wife of Sir Esme William Howard, the newly appointed British Ambassador at Washington, succeeds Lady Geddes at the national capital, belongs to an Italian family that holds an old Scottish peerage. Lady Howard fell back on her Scottish title when she became the wife of Sir Esme Howard. Her brother is Prince Giustiniani-Bandini who with his wife was recently the victim of an attack by dishonest servants.

Lady Howard is described as dignified, kindly and sensible, which characteristics made her very popular in Madrid society where she was a particular favorite with the king and queen of Spain.

PRINCESS SCORNS RULES AND DROPS INTO SLANG

EUXINOGRAD, Bulgaria, Feb. 2.—(Associated Press).—When royalty unbends, as royalty so often [illegible] on the pariance of the common people with spontaneous naturalness, the common people chuckle and are well pleased.

At least this is true today in Bulgaria. It is being related that Princess Nadejda, sister of King Boris, was listening recently to the dignified matron of the royal court, Madame Petrova-Tchomakova, telling something that purported to be true, but to the princess the earmarks of fiction were too apparent. Nadejda stood it as long as she could, and then burst out with: "Oh, cucumbers!"

There was a burst of laughter which almost drowned Nadjeda's quick apology, for court etiquette had been gravely damaged.

The expression of the young princess might be rendered in English by "Oh, rats!"

BRITISH BUILD OIL BURNERS

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(Associated Press).—The growing demand for oil-engined steamers is shown from the fact that there are orders in hand throughout the world for 150 such vessels, of which 60 are under construction or will be laid down in British yards.

According to Motor Ship, the tonnage of the cargo boats will be more than 1,000,000 tons deadweight, and of passenger vessels 144,000 tons gross. During the year 1923 between 80 and 90 motorships were completed and launched.

"We got our Exercise at the Wood Pile"

IN the good old days when we were boys in the country there was no lack of exercise.

When other jobs ran out there was always wood to be cut and there is no denying that pushing the buck saw and swinging the axe are real exercise.

Rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes told of pure blood and an active liver. There was no lack of appetite those times and no complaints of indigestion.

But wood piles are not so plentiful now as they used to be and the tendency to avoid exercise is continually on the increase.

For this reason it becomes absolutely necessary to resort to other means of keeping the liver active and the bowels regular.

Particularly in the cold season when we live so much indoors with too little pure air to breathe and too much artificial food to eat do we require the use of medicine to regulate the vital organs.

In the great majority of homes Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are constantly kept on hand for this purpose because they have proven to be the most dependable regulator and suitable for all the family.

Neglect to keep the liver, kidneys and bowels in healthful activity is only courting trouble from such ailments as appendicitis, Bright's disease of the kidneys, diabetes, high blood pressure or other dreaded diseases.

By the use of one pill a dose at bedtime once or twice a week you can be sure of the healthful action of these eliminating organs and the prevention of such ills as naturally develop in a poisoned system.

Please note that while the price of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills is increased to 35 cts. a box the number of pills in a box is increased in the same proportion. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

GAS COMPANY ASK FOR HIGHER RATE

Petition Opposed By the Consumers' Association at Hearing By Reference Board in Chatham.

CHATHAM, Ont., Feb. 1.—Judgment was reserved by the Natural Gas Board of reference to-day at the conclusion of the hearing of an application for higher rates forwarded by the Union Natural Gas Company, of Chatham. The company asked the board for a $1 rate to all consumers except those who come within the limitations of the act in respect to altering of rates.

No special rate was requested by the Consumers' Gas Association, but W. G. Scott, of Toronto, counsel for the Association, laid stress on the 40 cent tentative rate set in 1920 by an agreement between the Consumers and the Company and from which he said the company made large profits.

The hearing occupied two days. It was one of the most important meetings ever held by the Natural Gas Board, and was featured by a mass of evidence based on the government's appraisal, recently completed, and upon expert evidence resented by W. F. Ross, an account ant, who testified for the consumers and Arthur Ting, of Buffalo, consulting engineer, who was present for the Union Company. The imposing array of legal talent included W. N. Tilley K.C. of Toronto, and J. G. Kerr, K.C., of Chatham, counsel for the company and Mr. Scott J. M. Pike K.C., of Chatham, and A. T. Simpson, of Hamilton, counsel for the Consumers.

Consumers who live in the border cities and in the towns of Ridgetown and Wallaceburg are especially interested in the result of the hearing

MILITARY DECREE IS LOWERING FOOD COST

COBLENZ, Feb. 2.—(Associated Press).—While virtually all Germany has beeen complaining of high prices, the inhabitants of the Ruhr and Rhineland have begun to enjoy food at much lower cost because of decrees issued by the French and Belgium military authorities which prohibit profiteers from fixing charges to suit themselves.

In Coblenz and other cities in the occupied areas warnings have been issued to merchants cautioning them against price boosting of food in any form. Notices have been posted in the streets, by military order, saying any profiteer tried by court martial and found guilty would be sent to jail or fined, for both. Food prices here art 50 to 60 p.c. cheaper than in Berlin and elsewhere in unoccupied Germany.

JAPANESE SEEK MANILA TRADE

MANILA, Feb. —(Associated Press).—A branch of the Japanese "Sho-Ho-Sha" or Bureau of Commercial Information is to be established in Manila soon to bring about closer business relations. It is said the pressing need of construction materials, especially timber, has hastened the establishment of the Manila branch.

The bureau was established in Japan several years ago to bring foreign markets into closer touch with Japanese markets.

TORTUR S OF SCIATICA

Relieved by Enriching and Purifying the Blood.

Sciatic is neuralgia of the sciatic nerve and the treatment should be the same as for other forms of neuralgia. Sciatic is stubborn in resisting treatment and the patient frequently suffers for years.

So many cases of sciatic have been helped by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that every sufferer is justified in giving this treatment a thorough trial. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not simply relieve pain—they correct diseases caused by weak, watery blood. Thus they are beneficial in the treatment of even the most severe disorders. Their value in cases of this kind is shown by the experience of Miss Lizzie Freeman, Nogies Creek, Ont., who says:—"I was confined to bed for seven weeks with sciatic. What I suffered is almost impossible to realize. The doctor did all he could for me, and yet I was not getting any better, and he told me the trouble was likely to leave me crippled. A neighbor who was in to see me, strongly advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I decided to do so and after taking them for a while found they were hepling me. I continued taking the pills until I had taken nine boxes, when I was able to walk as well as ever, and felt that I was fully restored. In view of what these pills have done for me I strongly recommend them to all sufferers."

If you are suffering from any condition due to poor, watery blood or weak nerves, begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now and note how your strength and health will improve.

The new sales tax will not increase the price of Dr. Williams' Pills Pills as the company pays the tax. You can still obtain the pills through any medicine dealer at 50 cents a box, or by mail, post paid, at this price, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Trapper Finds Vicks Handy For A Host of Ills

ONTARIO MAN SAYS IT IS A MOST USEFUL REMEDY.

Mr. C. Phoenix of 755 Grey St., London, Ont., writes: "I am very pleased to recommend Vicks VapoRub. I am a hunter, trader and trapper, also a fisherman. I use Vicks VapoRub in place of liniments, because it is very handy to carry and always gives such quick relief for small animal and insect bites, and for chapped hands and lips. My boots would blister my feet and I rubbed it on them and it made them just right. When I go trapping next fall I will have plenty of Vicks VapoRub in my kit. I call it the 'Trapper's Friend.' I have not had a cold all winter and I go out all the time and sometimes stay out all night with my traps."

Vicks VapoRub, the discovery of a Southern druggist, is a combination in salve form of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine, etc.

Absorbed through the skin and at the same time inhaled as a vapor, Vicks reaches immediately inflamed, congested air passages.

It is the modern direct treatment for all cold troubles, the successor to goose grease, camphorated oil, liniments, poultices and plasters.

Used for croup and children's colds, Vicks gives remarkably quick results and also avoids nauseating internal dosing. Just as good for cuts, burns, bruises, bites, stings.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P. Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

When Babylon, often regarded as the oldest great city of the world, was in its infancy a neighboring city was already hundreds of years old, it has been established by recent archeological researchs in the Tigris-Euphrates valley.

The city was called Kish. Babylon, according to discovered records, first became important about 2200 B. C., but it is believed Kish was an important city 1000 years earlier.

Previously, the Sumerians were supposed to have been the earliest civilized inhabitants of the Mesopotatian region, but recent discoveries have indicated that the even older race inhabiting Kish ruled the Sumerians for a long period.

Probably the earliest international boundary of which there is any record was established when a king of Kish decided a boundary dispute between two Sumerian cities and set up stones to mark the line of his award.

BUTTER PRICE HOLDING FIRM

A Few More Weeks and Butter Prices Will Begin to Tumble—Other Prices.

The main element in the week's prices in local stores is the firmness in butter prices. There has been a rise of from two to five cents a pound recently in the creamery quality, and about the same increase in the dairy brand. There is also an increase in flour prices, owing to firmness in Western hard wheats.

Low prices in grapefruit are noticeable in the fruit stores, some dealers selling a good quality of the big yellow citrus balls at six for a quarter. It is reported that bitter oranges will be about three weeks later than usual in arriving. "At one time," says the Canadian Grocer, "it looked as though bitter oranges were going to be scarce in Canada, owing to the fact that the United States contemplated putting an embargo on the fruit on account of some fly pest. The usual custom is to bring bitters in by boat to New York and trans-ship by rail, rather than ship by Liverpool and St. John. The embargo, however, did not materialize, and manufacturers and fruit dealers will have their usual supply, although, as mentioned previously, a few weeks later than usual." In this connection, it is interesting to note that marmalade is becoming increasingly popular as a food.

Live hogs show a decrease in price, but there is no difference in the price of the dressed product. Montreal and Toronto market reports indicate in both instances a contrary trend, wih hog prices firmed up considerably. Egg prices also, which remain unchanged here, are higher in Toronto.

There is a rumour of advance in coffee prices within the next month or two, due to the damage by fifty per cent. of the coffee crop in Brazil, to the increase in wages paid those employed in the cofee-producing business, and to the fact that the Brazilian Government has determined to continue to restrict the receipts of coffee for the remainder of the crop year so that the amount that can be shipped does not exceed the amount consumed last year, and which will leave little to take care of the extra consumption likely to materialize in 1924.

BUCHAREST AGAIN IS GAY.

BUCHAREST, Feb. 2.—(Associated Press).—Bucharest is in a fair way to resume the appearance of gaiety that gave it the name of "Little Paris" before the Great War. One of the signs of the purpose of the Government to restore the capital to its pre-war condition is the banishment of the beggars who a year ago were numerous on the streets.

Bucharest at Christmas time was as gay as ever to the eye and as exhausting as ever to the purse. The stores in the principal streets, or rather the best of them, recalled Fifth Avenue to the New York visitor.

SCIENTISTS TELL WHAT WOMEN KNEW

Systematic Arrangements of Colors to Match Complexion.

DRESDEN, Feb. 2.—(Associated Press)—Face powder has been dealt a hard blow by complexion experts in Germany.

Science, desiring to aid feminine beauty, has perfected a system of forming color schemes in dress goods, it has been announced, whereby every woman will appear at her best by following the directions of the color doctors, who say there is no color unmatchable. For years they have been at work on tone combinations for costumes designed to create characteristic effects, and to give the wearer individuality unobtainable by the use of face powders or other comestic preparations which for so long have occupied first place in every society woman's boudoir.

The color doctors or scientific blenders of hues will set the pace for the dressmakers and women's tailors. Every woman becomes absolute mistress of her appearance at all times by means of the harmonious combinations, or groups of colors, arranged by order of the experts who have visins of revolutionizing the dry goods business everywhere there are women who want to look smart.

One or two visits to the color experts are necessary, on which occasions the customer sits to have her complexion "measured" and recorded. After the sittings the customer is given a prescription detailing the various systematic arrangements of colors in silks and other goods to match her complexion on every occasion. These prescriptions, which serve as guides for the dressmaker, may be used for years, so long as there is no material change in the hue of health which every woman nurses so carefully. But when the complexion does change, the color doctors must be given another chance to "measure" and write out another prescription.

Perfumes, also by prescriptions, to match every hue and every shade of dress, is another possibility of the near future, according to the scientists.

TRIES TO SUBDUE MEXICAN DESERTS.

David Smith Has Worked 35 Years on Five Acres—Has Flourishing Farm.

ENSENADA, Lower California, Feb. 2.—(Associated Press).—Faith in the ultimate agricultural development of the desert regions of Mexico has impelled David Smith, called "the Burbank of Mexico," to put in 35 years experimenting with the soil in a five-acre world of his own, two miles from here.

Thorny cactus and sagebrush once were all that grew on his little farm, but now it is filled with flourishing fruit trees and vines. It is an oasis in a stretch of desert.

Among the 28 varieties of fruits that Smith is producing in the desert are thornless blackberries, spineless cactus, persimmons, mulberries, pears, apples, walnuts, chestnuts, milk-white pears, quinces, white sapates, avocados, grapes, guavas and a delicious result of the grafting of apricot and peach.

Smith is an American. He came from the middle west. He lives by himself, but not for himself. He is something more than 50 years of age, tall and sturdy, a man delighting in the open air.

WILHELM BLAMED FOR GERMAN WOE.

Recent Writer Joins the Anvil Chorus in Knocking the Doorn Exile.

By GUS M. OEHM

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—(United Press)—Wilhelm II and with him the whole monarchistic system were the curse of Germany, declares the Socialist Vorwaerts, commenting on the unfavorable verdict rendered against the former German emperor by Dr. Frederick Thimme, the most recent writer to join the anvil chorus against the Doorn exile.

Thimme's book is based on Foreign Office information and is called "The Great Policies of the European Cabinets." Vowaerts declares it merely adds another link to the condemnatory literature which has recently flooded Germany.

Thimme declares Wilhelm is responsible to the German people for having brought about the war; that he not only wanted to be his own chancellor, but his own chief of staff; that he refused the advice of the foreign office; and that in view of this personal leadership, Wilhelm alone was and is responsible for German policies since 1890.

"In the final analysis, one must say," Thimme writes, "that the personality of Wilhelm II, contrary to that of Bismarck, was the cause of Germany's downfall."

"BLACK OXEN" by GERTRUDE ATHERTON

XLVIII. (Continued)

When Mary and Clavering arrived at the camp in response to the dinner bell, Eva Darling, who wore very pretty pink silk bloomers under her sport skirt, was turning handsprings down the living room, while the rest of the party applauded vociferously, and Mrs. Larsing, who was entering with the fried chicken, nearly dropped the platter.

"Just in time, Madame Zattiany," cried Minor. "This is the sixth round and she is panting——"

But she interrupted him. "'Mary'—from this time on. I insist. You make me feel an outsider. I won't be addressed in that formal manner nor answer to that foreign name again."

"Mary! Mary! Mary!" shouted the party with one accord, and Clavering drew a long breath. He had wondered how she would manage to feel Mary Ogden under the constant bombardment of a name that was a title in more ways than one. But he might have trusted her to manage it!

In the afternoon Mrs. Minor suggested having tea in the woods, and they all walked—single file—five miles to drink their tea and eat their cakes (Larsing carrying the paraphernalia) in a pine grove on the summit of a hill, and then walked back again, clamoring for supper. Mary had been monopolized by Scores and Bolton occasionally vouchsafing Clavering a glance. During the evening they were all too pleasantly tired and replete to dance or to play the charades they had planned, but lay about comfortably, listening to a concert of alternate arias and jazz. Clavering did not have a word alone with Mary. She sat on one of the divans between Gora and Todd, while Scores lay on the floor at her feet, his head on a cushion, one foot waving over a lifted knee, the perfect picture of the contented playwright. They kept up a continuous murmur, punctuated with gales of laughter. Clavering had sulkily taken a chair beside Babette Gold, whose metallic humor sometimes amused him, but she went sound asleep before his eyes, and he could only gaze into the fire and console himself with visions of a week hence, when these cursed people had gone and he was the most fortunate man on earth.

His room was downstairs next to Mr. Dinwiddie's, and he made up his mind to let himself out softly at midnight, throw pebbles at her window and whisper to her as she leaned from her casement. It was a scene that if introduced into a modern play would have driven him from the theatre and tipped his pen with vitriol next morning, but it appealed to him, somehow, as a fitting episode in his own high romance. But he was asleep before his head touched the pillow, and did not lift an eyelash until the first bell roused him at seven o'clock. Then, however, he lay for some time thinking, soberly.

XLIX.

The hour between seven and eitght was a lively one in the upper corridor. There was only one bath-room on the second floor. Scores and Miss Gold took their morning plunge in the lake, but the rest preferred the less drastic shower, and there was a continual darting to and fro of forms clad in bathrobe or kimono; the vanquished peeping through door-cracks waiting for the bathfoom door to open—signal for another wild rush down the hall, a scuffle at the door, a triumphant slam and hoot, and loud vituperations from the defeated. Mary cannily waited until the last, and came down, clad in a white sweater and heavy white tweed skirt, after the others had cleared the generous platter of ham and eggs, and the mountain of corn bread was a hillock of crumbs.

"Oh, Mary!" said Mr. Dinwiddie, reprovingly, "and you as prompt as royalty. In camp——"

"I've no thought of going without my breakfast," said Mary unrepentantly. "Ring the bell, Din."

The men had risen, but Clavering alone had determination in his eye. He pulled out a chair beside his own, and Mary accepted it gracefully, waving a morning greeting to the others.

"How good of you to keep this chair for me, Mr. Clavering," she murmured. "It is shocking of me to be so lazy."

"I'm sick of this game," growled Clavering. "If you act today——"

"Shh! I am sure you are going to take me out on the lake immediately after breakfast."

His amiability was immediately restored, but his gayety was somewhat forced. "You are looking charming this morning, Miss Ogden. I wished last night that there was a guitar or even a banjo in the camp, that I might serenade beneath your window."

And Mary actually blushed. She had slept dreamlessly, and between the light mountain air and her new role, she felt as lighthearted as Eva Darling, who was holding Mr. Dinwiddie's hand openly.

"Oh, Excellence!" cried Mrs. Minor from the other end of the table. "What do you say to having a picnic lunch? Didn't you tell me that you knew of a lovely gorge about six miles from here? Steak broiled between forked sticks! Potatoes roasted in the ashes! Flapjacks! Heavenly."

"Anything you say," replied Mr. Dinwiddie rather tonelessly. "Want to put it to the vote?"

"Let me answer for the crowd," commanded Todd. "It is our duty when in the woods to eat our meals after as much unnecessary toil, and to enjoy as much discomfort, as is humanly possible. Otherwise we might as well stay in town. We'll hilariously tramp six miles with packs, sit on the damp ground, extract earwigs, eat burnt steak and half-cooked potatoes, and then tramp back again, our spirits gradually rising at the prospect of a decent meal eaten in comfort—"

"Kill-joy!" cried Minor. "Don't we come to the woods to tramp? I want to lose twenty pounds this trip, and if you don't you ought to. I vote we make Rolly carry a sack of potatoes."

"It's agreed then?" asked Mr. Dinwiddie, veiling his hope that it was not. But the assent was general. They were all as excited over the prospect of a picnic as if they were slum children about to enjoy their first charitable outing, and it was settled that they were to start at ten o'clock. Mrs. Minor and Miss Gold went into the kitchen to help Mrs. Larsing make sandwiches and salads, and the others ran down to the lake.

L.

Clavering had tied the boat to a tree in a little inlet far down the lake, and they were walking through a wood of spruce trees and balsam. There was no leafy curtain here, although they could see one swaying on either side through open vistas between the rigid columns of the spruce. A trail was hardly necessary for there was no undergrowth, and although the trees were set close together they were easily circumnavigated.

It was some time since they had spoken. His face was graver than she had ever seen it, and she waited for him to speak. She almost could feel those unuttered words beating on the silence of the woods. There was nothing else to break that silence but the faint constant murmur in the tree-tops, and once, beyond that leafy curtain, the sudden trilling of a solitary bird. Again, the tremendousness of this high isolation swept over her. The camp and its gay party might have been on some far distant lake.

He put his arm around her firmly. "I am not going to pretend any further," he said. "It is too big for that. And you have never been anything but Mary Ogden to me, except, perhaps, on that night I have practically dismissed from my mind. I called you Mary Ogden to myself until I learned your new name, and I don't think that name has ever come into my thoughts of you. And although you slipped on another skin with it you were always Mary Ogden underneath. You needed a new name for your new role, but, like any actress on the stage, it had nothing to do with your indestructible personality. I say this because I want you to understand that although I cannot play up to your little comedy any longer and go through the forms of wooing you as if you were a girl—I shouldn't like you half as well if you were—I do not think of you or wish you to think of yourself as anything but Mary Ogden."

He paused a moment, and she slipped her arm about him and they walked on through the wood.

"I cannot go on with it because these days up here that we can spend almost altogether alone, if we will, are too sacred to waste on an amusing but futile game. Do you realize that we do not know each other very well? I sometimes wonder if you know me at all. From the time I fell in love with you until you promised to marry me, I was at one sort of fever-pitch, and when I got to work on that play I was at another. No writer while exercising an abnormal faculty is quite sane. His brain is several pitches above normal and his nerves are like hot taut wires that hum like the devil. If this were not the case he would not be an imaginative writer at all. But he certainly is in no condition to reveal himself to a woman. I have made wild and sporadic love to you—sporadic is the word, for between my work and your friends, we have had little time together—and I don't think I have ever taken you in my arms with the feeling that you were the woman I loved, not merely the woman I desired. And I believe that I love you even more than I desire you. You are all that, but so much—so much—more."

She had fixed her startled eyes on him, but he did not turn his head.

"There has always been a lot of talk about the soul. Sentimentalists wallow in the word, and realists deride it. What it really is I do not pretend to know. Probably as good a word as any—and certainly a very mellifluous word—for some obscure chemical combination of finer essence than the obvious material part of us, that craves a foretaste of immortality while we are still mortal. Perhaps we are descended from the gods after all, and unless we listen when they whisper in this unexplorable part of our being, we find only a miserable substitute for happiness, and love turns to hate. Whatever it is that golden essence demands, I have found it in you, and if circumstances had been different I should have known it long ago."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

A LEGGY RIDDLE

'Cept when Santa brings a treat.

This was the next riddle the Riddle Lady asked in Riddle Land when Nancy and Nick were there:

"One foot that can't walk,
One mouth that can't talk,
One knee that comes and goes,
Room for five pink toes.

"One leg that can't stand,
Wears a collar—a stretchy band,
Funny ribs—up and down,
Trots all over town.

"Each morning eats a meal,
Stuffs like Paddy, mouth to heel,
That's all! Day or night,
Never eats another bite.

"'Cept when Santa brings a treat
Give him all he wants to eat,
Just at bedtime, too! A question,
If it gives him indigestion.

"Hasn't any sprinkler nose,
Don't know why it's called a hose,
Maybe 'cause it's black and 'round
And never makes a sound!

"Johnny Dumpling went to bed,
Never took his off, 'tis said,
Must have dreamed he went a-walking
In his ————!"

"That's all!" said the Riddle Lady. "What is it?"

Everybody was looking at Johnny Dumpling who had come over from Mother Goose Land with his mother. He was looking pretty cross.

"I couldn't help it," he said. "I was too sleepy to take them off."

"Well, you should have been in bed an hour earlier," said the Riddle Lady. "The Old-Shoe-Woman told me so and she lives next door to you. She makes her children all go to bed right on the dot and your mother has to call you and call you and speak to you over and over again and you keep saying 'yes, mother, in a minute!' And the first thing you know it's 9 o'clock, which is much too late for any child to be going to bed. No wonder you drop off to sleep with half your clothes on. Why, you can't get washed up or teeth brushed or anything."

"Say!" said Daddy Gander, good naturedly. "Is this a riddle party or a lecture, Misses Riddle Lady? Everybody knows the answer now since there has been so much talking."

"I'm sorry," smiled the Riddle Lady. "Let's give Johnny Dumpling the prize. Mister Sandman has it."

"It's a special bag of sleepy sand," said Mister Sandman. "It's called 8 o'clock sleepy-sand and I'm going to let Johnny's mother keep it for him."

COULDN'T SLEEP HEART WAS BAD NERVES A WRECK

Mr. H. A. Reid, Upper Musquodoboit, N.S., writes:—"I am very thankful fro the benefit I have received by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

When I came home from overseas, in 1920, my heart was very badly affected by concussion, and my nerves were a dreadful wreck. I was very short winded, and could not possibly sleep at night, in fact, I was in such a condition I felt as if I did not wish anyone to speak to me. I thought I would try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and before I had taken two boxes I could enjoy a good night's rest as well as anyone.

There are lots of returned men who are suffering the same as I did, and I feel sure that if they would only try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills they will receive the same relief that I have."

CHRISTIANA RETURNS TO FORMER NAME OSLO

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Feb. 2. —(United Press).—Christiania will be renamed Oslo to do away with the last vestage of Danish influence, according to municipal action here. The town, once called Oslo, was renamed in honor of King Christian of Denmark when he rebuilt it in 1624.

Oslo was founded in 1050 and early became the seat of a bishopric. Since 1397 it has been the most important city in Norway. In 1624 came the fire and Christian IV. caused the town to be rebuilt across the fjord and it was named in his honor. In another year news dispatches dated Oslo will really be coming from the old town of Christiania.

AND HE WAS INNOCENT!

PARIS, February 4. — After 45 years the stigma has been removed from Louis Danval's name. And France has started to pay her debt to an innocent man.

Danval, who served 24 years in prison for the murder of his wife, finally has proven his innocence.

The Court of Appeal has awarded him $1,000, and a pension of $750 a year for life.

Internal Bathing Meant Life Itself to 93-year-old Man.

All the physics of doctors couldn't give health to this 93-year-old-man. Internal Bathing, the common-sense warm water method of cleansing the intestines, gave him vigor in place of the infirmities of old age.

The letter from Mr. Amos Ganter of 57 James Street, St. John, N. B., is only one of thousands from men and women who have found the way back to health by Internal Bathing. He writes:

"Dear Mr. Tyrrell: "I believe the J. B. L. Cascade is one of the greatest inventions for sound health in the world. For years I was troubled with constipation, which was poisoning my whole system, and I was losing flesh. Purgatives failed to have any effect upon me, but only acted more like a poison; I would take a burning itch in my hands—a most distressing feeling—and purple spots would come out on the backs of my my hands. Everyone thought I was nearing the end because of my old age. But I can thank Dr. Tyrrell and the J. B. L. Cascade for restoring me to health. I am now perfectly healthy and regular, and never use drugs."

People who are losing flesh, whose appetites are failing, and who are losing their health and sleep, due to constipation, headaches or biliousness, should stop using pills or laxatives and start Bathing Internally.

The J. B. L. Cascade is shown and explained at Warne Drug Co.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

The high income tax and tax exempt securities are not the problems of the rich man. It is the "average man" who is losing on this combination. He loses in two ways.

If the rich man of today works with his money and brains to develop a successful business, he must turn over 50 per cent of his income in taxes. Evidently then he is likely to put his money into tax exempt securities and go on a vacation.

What difference does that make to us? In the first place we pay his share of taxes, in addition to our own. He doesn't have to pay any tax on tax exempt securities, so some one else must pay his share.

Secondly, we lose a good workman. The rich man could afford to develop natural resources, but why should he when it loses money for him? Surtaxes would eat up 50 per cent of his profits. He has the ability to improve industry and low3r the cost of living for all of us, but why should he work hard when he can make more by buying tax exempt securities?

When the rich man buys tax exempt securities we not only pay higher taxes, but we lose capable workmen who were responsible for raising the standard of living in the last two generations.

MAN SENT FOR PRIZE FAILED TO COME BACK

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 2.—(United Press).—Tragedy followed upon the prosperity of five Italians in Patagonia who won the grand prize in the national lottery, amounting to 300,000 pesos. The men were working as peons. When they learned the ticket they held had won they gathered in a little shack. The ticket was placed on the table, with five daggers sticking in the wood around it.

All night they debated as to which of their number should go to Buenos Aires and collect the money—they had only the fare for one. At last it was decided, and one left. He never returned.

One of the men left became a raving maniac when it became certain that the messenger would not return.

SOCIAL PROGRESS.

Social progress aims to carry out the program of a distinct betterment in all reproduction and the enactment of just and hygienic health laws.

At present a cry is being raised against the lower of our vital powers of resistance and the germ-plasm of reproduction. Both sexes seem to have taken it for granted that a wild attack on their nervous and muscular systems is the proper way to indulge their sportive whims.

Weakening physical powers by excesses, over-excitement, loss of the proper amount of sleep, results in loss in stamina and nervous energy.

Just what the real physical condition of our race is today, as the result of social unrest and changed living conditions, is hard to say. I believe, counting all advantages and disadvantages on both sides, we have made distinct progress in racial uplift as a whole, although in certain parts of our country chronic maladies are increasing.

If you have an opportunity, play health detective and see if you can find the social progress in the community where you reside on the upgrade. The formulating and carrying out of a true eugenic program will be the great health work of this generation.

Under the knowledge we gather from the growing science of eugenics our country will keep its solemn obligation, that transmitting a pure, undefiled life stream is the highest trust in our social progress.

LAST AHWANEE CHIEF HITS THE LONG TRAIL

FRESNO, Cal., Feb. 2.—(United Press).—Peter Westfall, last chief of the Ahwahnees, is dead; his body has been laid to rest according to tribal custom, and it is to be hoped that from the Happy Hunting Ground his soul watches over his leaderless people.

For with the passing of Chief Peter passes also the Ahwahnee custom of appointing a chieftain, only one of the many traditions of long standing that are coming to be ignored by the rising generations of Ahwahnees.

Chief Peter, like his father before him, was a romantic figure among his own people and among the tribe's white neighbors. Also he was a man of stern purpose, who strove with vigor to hold his people together and to keep old customs intact. But even he was not able successfully to inject into the minds and spirits of his children the parallel of Indian custom and white "civilization."

Chief Peter was the "peace chief," who received from his father, a head sachem of warlike fame, the command to live in amity with his white neighbors. A man of his word, he did so, as did his father.

No white man knows the real name of Chief Peter's father, but it is authentically reported that when the head sachem uttered it, and placed his thumb mark upon a treaty, that treaty was kept. One of the famous "Lost Treaties of California" is said to have been signed by the old hero in this manner.

Washington Cabinet Considering Reply From Canada.

WASHINGTON, February 2 (Canadian Press). — The Cabinet had under consideration yesterday the reply of the Dominion Government to President Coolidge's proposal for the negotiation of the treaty between Canada and the United States for the construcion of the St. Lawrence deep waterway.

At the White House and the State Department alike, it was stated that the text of the reply would be published simultaneously at Ottawa and Washington.

No authoritative statement could be obtained as to the contents of the Canadian note, but severol members of Congress who have been most active in promoting the waterway were inclined to believe that the tenor of the note was not favourable to the commencement of the work.

BAD BLOOD PIMPLES AND BOILES

Banished By Burdock Blood Bitters

Miss Irene A. Matthews, Stayner, Ont., writes:—"I thought I would write and tell you of the experience and benefit I have derived from Burdock Blood Bitters.

Some few months ago I was troubled with bad blood which broke out on my face in the nature of pimples, boils and ring-worm, and I got so bad I really did not know what to do.

I was ashamed to go anywhere, and the itching and burning caused such a terrible sensation I could get no relief day or night.

One day a friend advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I used one bottle and felt quite a relief, and by the time I had taken 3 bottles I was completely relieved.

I cannot praise B.B.B. enough and I hope anyone afflicted like I was will get the same benefit I received."

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Now Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Washington, D.C.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which a physician said I would have to have for a very bad case of female trouble. My system was all run-down for two years after my little girl was born. Then I read of your wonderful medicine and decided to try it. I could hardly drag one foot after the other, and after taking six bottles of the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I now do all my housework, also washing and ironing, and do not know what real trouble is. My health is fine, and I weigh 140 pounds. When I started taking it I weighed 97 pounds. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any one who is suffering from female trouble or is run down. You may use this testimonial for I am only too glad to let suffering women know what the Vegetable Compound did for me."—Mrs. IDA HEWITT, 1529 Penna. Ave. S.E., Washington, D.C.

Such letters from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Neither France Nor Germany Can Prosper Alone Says Ma on

By J. W. T. MASON

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(United Press).—Germany is steadily improving her economic condition, due to the arbitrary stoppage of reparation payments by the Berlin government, and to stabilization of the currency. The German people are showing confidence in the ability of their government to outwit the allies in the final reparations settlement.

The most noteworthy indication of the returning self satisfaction of the Germans is the persistent recovery of government bonds on the stock exchange. Individual state bonds also are showing advances. The collapse of Germany so frequently predicted as the result of French pressure along the Rhine and in the Ruhr is no longer regarded as a cause for worry by the German people.

This change in the situation across the Rhine is accompanied by wavering confidence in France's ability to right herself. The previous fall of Germany's own self confidence in herself had bolstered up international belief in France's buoyancy; but now the see-saw is swinging the other way.

Must Work Together.

The facts of reality thus point to the unbreakable relationship, industrial and financial, which exists between Germany and France. Under present conditions of uncertainty, both countries cannot prosper and neither can prosper for long without the other. When France seems to be getting the upper hand, Germany begins to tremble; and when Germany shows elements of recovery, France sees her financial stability endangered. The whole of the evidence since the beginning of the war shows that neither France nor Germany is strong enough to crush the other and endure in solitary grandeur as the dictator of continental Europe.

Instead, the two countries have demonstrated that their destinies are bound together. Unless the haphazard see-saw of prosperity and adversity is to continue, the Rhenish neighbor must reach a common agreement. If they don't, the bumping on the see-saw with the Rhine as the buck horse will permanently cripple both.

Ruhr Invasion Fails

This is the lesson now being taught the French and the Germans by the swing back and forth of their fortunes. One year ago France went into the Ruhr and crushed German resistance there. But, instead of this victory resulting to the advantage of France, no sooner was the Ruhr success made complete than the franc began its heavy downward plunge. A 20 per cent increase in taxation for the French people following the Ruhr victory is impressive evidence of the hollowness of such methods of warfare.

The Poincare ministry failed to gain anything for France of permanent value. The various German ministries that have risen and fallen during the Poincare dictatorship of continental Europe likewise have failed to gain anything permanent for Germany. The battle has been a losing one for both.

In modern life of trade and finance when great stakes are being played for compromise inevitably follows such a measure of strength. Business men realize the usefulness of battling one another's powers away in vengeful rivalry. This is the course that must be followed by Poincare or his successor if the vicious see-saw is to be ended.

BETTER OUTLOOK FOR THE EXPORT MARKETS

One Man and Twenty-nine Cattle Washed Overboard.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy, of H. P. Kennedy, Limited, Toronto, is spending the week end in the city. Mr. Kennedy, who is one of the largest live stock dealers and exporters in Canada, reports a favorable outlook for export markets to the United Kingdom. The embargo on store cattle for foot and mouth disease has been lifted recently at Dundee, Avonmouth and Cardiff, and it is expected that Glasgow and Birkenhead will be open again for store cattle within a few weeks' time.

A shipment of cattle sent by Mr. Kennedy's company to Glasgow, per the Steamer Castalia, from St. John, N.B., cabled yesterday their arrival after a rough voyage, during which one man and twenty-nine cattle went overboard. Another load of cattle is on the water and a steamer leaves St. John with a load next Saturday, for Birkenhead.

Mr. Kennedy has just returned from Winnipeg, and reports many more cattle than for the past couple of years on feed in Western Canada this year. On his own farm near Edmonton, between four and five hundred cattle are being fed. According to Mr. Kennedy there were very heavy receipts in live stock this week in Toronto, where butcher cattle declined 25 to 40 cents per hundredweight.

Ma, Pa and Son Tie Marriage Hitches "While You Wait"

For this is where the family of "marrying parsons" live.

Rev. Arthur N. Lindsey is a parson.

And his so's his son, 18.

But there were so many to be wed in the community, Pa Lindsey could not take care of business.

That's why his wife was ordained to the ministry.

For a time she helped stem the matrimonial tide.

But the services of their son, John soon were needed.

And he became a preacher, too.

Pa—32 weddings.

Ma—22.

Son— 5

During 1924 he expects to even beat their record.

Why Cough Your Head Off

Make Your Own Cough Mixture for the Whole Family and Save Money. It's Easy.

When you can make in your own home a wonderful cough mixture far ahead of any you can buy ready made, why not do it?

This home made mixture will stop the most stubborn cough and is fine for chest colds and acute catarrh. Children love it.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make half a pint—that's all there is to it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home made cough mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

Any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

ONE EXPERIENCE ENOUGH.

"How was that?"

NORMAL STUDENTS IN COMPETITIONS

Local Students Won the Debate and Visitors Won Hockey Match.

Between forty and fifty of the students and several teachers of the Toronto Normal School were in Peterborough yesterlay and to-day, for a gathering with the Peterborough Normal students, in which a debating and an oratorical contest and athletic competitions are the main items.

Last evening, a debate between the local students and the visitors was held in the Normal School, on the subject: "Resolved, That Asiatics should be admitted to Canada as immigrants on the same conditions as Europeans."

The Peterborough debaters took the affirmative, which won the debate, and the negative was debated by the visitors.

Debaters for Toronto were Messrs. Kendall and Davis, for Peterborough Messrs. Clarence Fusee and Clare Zufelt.

udges were Rev. C. W. Rose, R. F. Downey, and A. S. Zavitz.

An oratorical contest between two young ladies, representative of both cities ,took place last evening also, the Toronto representative winning. Very eloquent speeches were given by both young ladies, Miss Dewar upholding the supremacy in oratory of the Toronto group. Miss Margaret Graves representing the Peterborough school.

A vocal solo was given by Mr. Davidge of Toronto, and Peterborough's contribution to the programme was a selection by the orchestra of the school and a song by the boys.

Judges for oratorical contest were Rev. W. H. Young, Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, and Mr. J. P. Finn.

Visitors from Toronto included several teachers on the staff, Miss Hay, Miss Bibby, Mr. Firth, who was a former teacher on the local Collegiate Institute staff, and the secretary of the Toronto Normal School, Miss Bining.

To-day, the visitors and local students, amounting in all to about 90 guests, were entertained at luncheon at the Normal School, and the Toronto group will be guests of the local Normal School staff at tea this afternon at the Y.W.C.A.

This morning, at half-past ten o'clock, the boys of the two schools met in a friendly hockey game, the result showing a score in the visitors favour of 14 to 0.

This afternoon the girls and boys were playing basketball games at different hours in the Y.M.C.A.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines | New York Stock Exchange — and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Ma kets.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 2. — (United Press.)— After the week's unbroken succession of million share days, trading slowed down in the stock market to-day, bullish enthusiasm was not so boisterous, but the general tone was none the less confident the shrinkage in dealings itself suggesting that the market was gathering strength in preparation for further constructive demonstration over the next few weeks. Rails continued to be stimulated by the strength of Wabash "A" while the forward movement was resumed in various industrials. Chandler led the Motors, moving up to 64. Accumulation appeared in progress in Baldwin and other leading equipments in response to better demand for rolling stock. There are many inquiries for Locomotives in the market which will no doubt develop into active orders before spring. Wages are higher than ever before and labor is fully employed. Wages range from $4 to $18 or more a day, the steel worker, the bricklayer, the plasterer and the coal miner are spending money and their surplus goes into the bank. It means record consumption, industrial activity, plenty of money for investment purposes and prosperity in general—the real foundations for activity and strength in the market.

Until there are signs of a slowing up in business, the chances of a permanent turn downward in the market are poor. Recent developments indicate that the big financial interests believe the tendency of stocks and bonds will be upward for some time to come. Activity at rising prices gained ground in the Rails in the late trading. St. Louis South Western reported the highest price since 1912 at 40 1-4 and good gains were scored by standard issues like Canadian Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio. The sensational uprush in Savage Arms reflected the activities of W. C. Durant, who has gone into this issue following his recent campaign in Cast Iron Pipe. Savage sold at 51 1-2, up 5 from Friday's low.

With the industrial average in new high ground on the movement and less than five points away from the peak of last winter's bull market, stocks maintained a generally strong tone at the opening. Stimulus was imparted by the optimistic tenor of the weekly mercantile reviews, which found business moving toward spring activity, with steady improvement in London and Steel. Irregularity of the Canadian Oils at the previous close had been due, not so much to Washington developments as to the undoing of a top heavy long account. This class of stocks displayed an improved tone in the initial transactions, while the Oil group as a whole was helped by another upward revision in mid-continent crude prices.

FIND HEADS ENCASED IN CONCRETE

Searching this rubbish pile at Aurora, Ill., police, directed by Warren Lincoln, found the block of concrete in which were encased the heads of Lincoln's wife and her brother, Byron Shoup. Mrs. C. H. Jochum is pointing to spot where concrete block was found. Lincoln is charged with killing the pair, burning the dismembered bodies in his greenhouse furnace and disposing of the heads in this manner.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

MILLBROOK, Feb. 2. — A fair-sized audience gathered in the Town Hall for "The Chosen Prince," the third film in the series of moving pictures under the auspices of the Ministerial Association. The life of David and his friendship with Jonathan, the king's son, formed the basis of the story. Many of the scenes depicted were most impressive and gave a good idea of Oriental manners and customs, though it seems unfortunate that when Bible stories are filmed all the details are not kept exactly true to Biblical facts.

Eastern scenes, too, need the vivid coloring which belongs to the Orient, and lack of this makes the costumes particularly loose in effectiveness. The concluding film in the series, "From Manger to the Cross," will be shown on February 27.

Among those present were: Rev. S. T. and Mrs. Tucker, Rev. Canon Aller, Rev. G. S. Gervan; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Kennedy, Mrs. John Allen, Mr. and Mrs. M. Hutchison, Mrs. G. Fortune's Wheel Spins Fast in the Madhouse Once Called Germany

MUNICH, Feb. 2. — (United Press).—Fate's wheel revolves with lunatic violence in Germany.

Shortly before the World War broke out, the owner of the largest spinning mill in Hof sold it for 20,000,000 marks, or 5,000,000 pounds. He was the richest man in town.

Most of his money was invested in securities, preferably bonds of large corporations. The remainder, he had in cash, drawing interest in banks.

Then came the end of the war, and defeat for Germany. The former factory owner's twenty million marks became worth 2,500,000 pounds when the mark fell off from 4.20 to 8.40 to the dollar.

Toward the end, when the mark slipped no longer, but fell, it was too late to save his fortune. Most German capitalists, caught in the same situation, managed to rescue something out of the wreck. The Hof manufacturer was an exception.

He hung onto his marks to the very end, and today his fortune is worth, at the official quotation for the mark, just about half a cent.

But the Hof capitalist was lucky. He managed to get a job again in the factory he used to own. He works as a bookkeeper.

Fiction writers would refuse to use the final cap on this tale of mad house Germany. It remains a fact that the present owner of the factory is the former bookkeeper. The two men simply changed places.

The factory looms spin on.

COMPETITION ON THE LOCAL MART

Downstairs Vendors Have Chickens For Sale -To day's Prices

Although the temperature on the open market this morning was more favorable than that of last week, there were many chilly-looking sellers of meat and small farm produce. The fish man has deserted the open portion altogether, and has taken up his stand in the lower entrance, deserted by the fruit vendors who formerly cried their wares in enclosure and who now have moved up a flight and joined the feminine ranks in the basket section. Several gentlemen ar selling fowl side by side with the women now, and, to even things up some of the downstair vendors have chickens for sale, and it might be noted that their price is usually sligtly above that of the basket section, where competition brings quotations to a lower level as the morning crowd grows less.

Snow-covered sheets protected the meat carcasses, small roots and apples that formed the selling stock this morning. There was plenty of wood on sale, in prices varying from eight to twelve dollars a load, most of it neatly cut and split, and a couple of loads of hay. Meat was te main object on sale, beef at 9 and 11, and 10 and 12 cents, for front and hind quarters, pork at 14 and 16, and a small quantity of lamb at 20 and 28 cents.

Four good-looking Pekin ducks were the object of much praise and sold for $10 in the lot. A pair of guinea fowl in a small crated box were a dollar apiece.

Apples were having a good sale. Wagners, a good-looking red and yellow apple, were $4 a barrel and russets $3. By the peck, Spies were selling from 65 to 90 cents, Greenings were 60 and Kings 50 cents.

Potatoes were very scarce, at $1.60 a bag. Onions ranged from 80 cents to $1 a peck, turnips were 25 cents a peck, beets were 40 cents, carrots and parsnips 50 cents. Honey was 10 and 15 cents a pound.

Upstairs, there were pear-shaped yellow apples at 50 cents a peck.

Cream was 30 cents a pint, with one lady selling a sealer containing a pint and a half for 40 cents. Eggs and butter and fowl were very plentiful with a slow sale. Chickens ranged in price from 25 cents a pound to 30 and 35 cents. The dealer who sells April birds, milk-fed, gets 35 cents for pullets and 38 cents for cockerels. A little pinkish-skinned bird completed its color scheme by the inclusion of a bright-red-combed head, and weary-looking purple wattles protruded from between the trussed legs of several turkeys, selling for 30 and 35 cents a pound. Geese were scarce, those available going for 30 cents a pound. Butter was priced from 40 to 45 cents a pounds, eggs from 45 to 50 cents a dozen, a fairly reasonable price for this time of year.

There were a couple of sales of home-made cookery, one of home-made candy and a young girl showed examples of her knitting prowess, in dainty little woollen things for babies. At the foot of the stairs, a blind man stood, playing together his mouth-organ and big Hawaiian guitar, in a medley of gay little tunes.

A Gallant Courtier.

A Frenchman was courting an English girl. Her mother said, mischievously:

"Now, monsieur, if my daughter and I were drowning, which would you save first?"

With great presence of mind, he replied:

A Poor Bargain.

Bobby—Mama, did you buy me from the stork?

Mama—Yes, dearie, why do you ask?

Bobby—Oh, I've often wondered why you didn't pay a few more dollars and pick out a little boy without freckles.—Kansas City Star.

He Was Prepared.

He—My dear, it's no use for you to look at those hats. I haven't more than a dollar in my pocket.

She—You might have known when we came out that I'd want to buy a few things.

He—I did.—Boston Transcript.

The trouble with the congressional practice of keeping the ear to the ground is that it also limits the field of vision.—Norfolk Virginia-Pilot.

He's 'Way Behind.

MANY GOOD RECEIPTS FOR MAKING CANDIES

Pick Clear Dry Weather and Make Only One Kind of Candy at a Time.

By SISTER MARY.

It's amazing the sort of candy the perfectly inexperienced and imperfectly equipped candy maker can turn out of her own kitchen.

If you have a double boiler, a wooden spoon and a smooth porcelain sauce pan you can work wonders. A thermometer is desirable, but not necessary. Molds and trays and racks and marble slabs and "dippers" facilitate the work to some extent but are not necessities.

The one absolute necessity for the success of many kinds of candy is a clear day. The required temperature may be artificial, supplied by the stove, but atmospheric conditions do. Do not attempt to make glace fruits under other conditions.

Nuts should be cracked and ready before the candy making is started.

Fondant should be made two or three days before dipping. Cover tightly in a bowl and let stand in a cold place.

The regulation of heat is important. Fondant should boil fast over a high flame. Caramels require a slow, steady heat. Nougats use two temperatures in their making. A nut brittle should be cooked over a low fire, the flame being decreased and finally extinguished before removing from the pan.

Care must be taken in making a brittle of pure sugar. Sugar burns quickly after melted and the heat must be reduced to prevent risk of fire. Burned fingers, if nothing worse, might result.

"Try" the candy in a saucer of cold water, rather than a cup.

Fondant.

Two cups granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ cup water.

Mix sugar and cream of tartar; add water. Stir until well mixed. Put over slow fire and bring to boiling point. Watch carefully that sugar does not burn on bottom of pan before it is dissolved. As crystals form on sides of pan wipe them off with a cloth dipped in cold water.

Have pan of water close to pan of syrup. Cover fingers with cloth and dip into cold water. Swab few crystals, dip into cold water. Continue this until sides are clear.

Cover and let boil rapidly two minutes. Remove cover and boil slowly, wiping down crystals as they form. Boil until a few drops tried in a saucer of cold water form soft ball when picked up with fingers. Ball must be firm enough to hold, but soft and pliable.

Remove instantly from fire and place pan in larger one of cold water. Let stand until cool. Beat with wooden spool until creamy. When too stiff to beat turn onto a large platter and knead until soft.

Put in oiled bowl and let stand covered in cold place at least three hours.

Butter Creams.

One-half cup fondant, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Work butter into fondant. Add vanilla and beat until thoroughly mixed. Put in covered bowl and let stand until firm. Form into marbles and let stand an hour or longer in cold place. Dip in chocolate.

Peppermint Wafers.

Two drops oil of peppermint, ½ cup fondant.

Make fondant in flat cake and put oil in centre. Work with fingers or wooden spatula until smooth and thoroughly mixed. Let stand until firm and make into flat wafers the size of a half dollar. Dip in chocolate after standing until firm, or use uncoated.

Fruit and Nut Creams.

Drain preserved cherries from their juice. There should be one-quarter cup. Flavor fondant with vanilla; knead in chopped nuts and cherries. Use as many nuts as fondant will hold. Form into long roll, let stand until firm. Cut in small oblong or square block and dip in chocolate.

Maple Nut Nougat.

One-half cup strained honey, 1 egg white, 2 cups maple syrup, 1 cup finely cut nut meats.

Put honey in smooth, wide, rather shallow sauce pan over low fire to become barely warm. Beat white of egg until stiff and dry. Beat into warm honey and continue beating by side of fire while syrup boils.

Boil syrup until hard ball is formed when tried in cold water. Slowly beat about half of syrup into honey mixture. Return syrup to fire and cook until syrup is slightly discolored and cracks when tried in cold water.

Beat honey and egg mixture by side of fire while syrup is cooking. Beat in syrup gradually but do not return to fire. Beat until well blended. Add nuts and beat a few minutes longer. Turn into well-buttered square pans and let stand 12 hours. Cut into small oblong blocks and dip in chocolate.

Beat egg on platter with a wire whisk, then do all the beating with the whisk.

Caramels.

Two and one-half cups granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ cup butter, ¾ cup red label corn syrup, 1 cup milk, ½ cup cream, 1 cup broken nut meats, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Melt one cup sugar combined with cream of tartar over slow fire until golden brown. Stir while melting. Stir in butter, remaining sugar, corn syrup and milk. You may think mixture is ruined at this stage, but lumps will all cook out.

Cook, stirring occasionally until mixture forms a hard ball when tried in cold water. Add cream and cook until mixture cracks when tried in cold water. Stir syrup almost constantly during last part of boiling to prevent burning. Fire should be low.

Turn into two well-buttered brick bread pans and let stand several hours in cold place. Cut and wrap in oiled paper.

Lemon Pastes.

Two tablespoons plain granulated gelatin, 2 cups granulated sugar, ¾ cup boiling water, 1/3 cup cold water, 2 lemons.

Soak gelatin in cold water 10 minutes. Add boiling water, stir until dissolved. Add sugar and grated rind of lemons and boil 15 minutes. Add juice of lemons and boil five minutes longer. Put through a fine wire strainer. Pour into brick bread pan and let stand several hours in cold place. Cut in squares and roll in powdered sugar.

Almond Brittle.

Two cups granulated sugar, 1 cup shelled almonds, ⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar.

Stir cream of tartar into sugar. Put sugar in iron frying pan and stir over hot fire until pan is hot and sugar begins to melt, but not discolor. Reduce heat, cook until syrup is formed and all sugar is dissolved.

As syrup forms keep reducing the heat. When thoroughly dissolved and syrup is a golden brown, add nuts and turn onto well-buttered platter. Let stand in cold place until hard. Remove from platter and break in small pieces.

Glace Nuts and Fruits.

Nuts should be perfect halves. Any kinds can be used. White or tokay grapes, sections of tangerines, well scrubbed prunes may also be used. The grapes are carefully washed and dried. The tangerines are pulled into sections and every particle of white fibre removed. Fine large prunes should be used. They are well washed and the stones removed. A blanched almond is put in place of the stone.

One cup granulated sugar, one-sixteenth teaspoon cream of tartar, one-quarter cup water.

Mix well and bring to boiling point over slow fire. Do not stir after syrup begins to boil. Boil until syrup is pale straw color. Put into pan of warm water to prevent hardening and further cooking. Dip nuts and fruit into syrup and drop on well-buttered plates. Put in cold, dry place to become hard and keep on ice until needed. The fruit and nuts are lifted from the syrup with a fork.

To Coat With Chocolate.

Use dipping chocolate. Break one pound into small pieces and melt over hot, not boiling, water in top of double boiler. Stir in two dessertspoons of olive oil while the chocolate is melting. Stir with fork. When chocolate is melted pour about half of it into shallow bowl and let cool. Work with fingers to keep chocolate smooth. When cool, but soft and smooth, roll prepared centre in chocolate and drop on large platter covered with paraffin paper.

As chocolate hardens add enough warm chocolate to soften, working it in with fingers.

Centres should be made into desired shapes and placed on left of dipping chocolate. Platter to receive finished candies should be on right.

The attractive swirl on tops of hand-dipped chocolates is made by bringing the thumb and forefinger up the sides with a tiny bit of a flourish at the top.

Warning!

To be successful, remember these pointers:

Weather must be clear and dry.

Make only one kind of candy at a time.

Stay in kitchen while candy is boiling.

Stop stirring fondant after it begins to boil.

Don't double recipes. Make two "batches."

Don't dip centres into warm chocolate.

Don't do other cooking while making candy.

Remove crystals from side of pan when boiling syrup for fondant.

Plates or pans must be well buttered for caramels.

Keep fire regulated as necessary.

PETES SHOWED MARKED IMPROVEMENT AGAINST PARKDALE CANOE CLUB

Defeated the Paddlers By 7-4 In Exhibition Game—Still Lack Finished Play of Well - Oiled Hockey Machine.

WERE MINUS PARKER

Showing considerably better hockey than they did against St. Mary's a week ago, the Peterborough Intermediates outscored and outplayed the Parkdale Canoe Club team of Toronto in last night's exhibition game, winning by 7 to 4.

The team work of the Petes still, however, needs considerable oiling, and the outfit has not yet shaken down into a machine, although there were flashes of pretty combination last night.

Both in clearing around their own nets and in their work around the other fellows' citadel there is room for improvement, and the practice next week should be used to advantage in remedying these defects, if the Petes are to be at the top of their form when they enter the second round series.

Neither team was at full strength last night. The local crew were without Parker, who was out of town, while Jeffrey, Cawkell, and Applegath were unable to make the trip with the Paddlers. However, it was an interesting battle, with moments of lightning fast hockey in spite of an ice surface that speedily became sticky.

Although Parkdale scored the first goal, the Petes evened it up before the first period ended, and had a considerable margin in the second and final session, leading 4 to 1 at the end of the second, and running the score up to 7 to 2 in the last period, Parkdale getting the last two counters.

The Petes combined better than a week ago, and all but one of their goals were scored from close in, Koster having little chance to save.

Both goalies were good, and they had a lot of work to do, too. For Parkdale Lount at centre and Bas Mogan, the right wing player, were the most effective. Lount is fast and clever, and works in nicely on the nets, while Mogan packs a hard shot and is a tireless worker. The defence pair, Groh and Staines, checked well and the former did some useful rushing.

All the Petes contributed their share towards the victory, and there was no outstanding star.

Walter Jackson handled the game in good style. The teams played clean hockey throughout, and the game was always interesting.

The teams:

Peterborough—Goal, Dwyer; defence, Halpin and Rose; centre, Collins; right wing, Burgess; left wing, Ranger; subs., McPherson, McMartin and Lackey.

It was fast hockey at the start, and there was no particular advantage in the first few minutes, although the Petes lost several close-in chances by making a target of the goalkeeper. Lount drew a penalty for tripping, but nothing happened while he was in the penalty box. When he came back he grabbed the rubber at centre, waltzed inside, and gave Dwyer a hard one to handle.

The Petes' goaler made a nice stop but Mogan closed in fast and netted the rebound.

The Petes tried hard to even it up and missed several openings. The period was nearly over when the equalising goal arrived. Ranger started a rush, passed across the rink to Burgess, and the right wing carried the rubber up and transferred to Collins, who pulled Koster out of the net and scored neatly. That left it 1 to 1 at the end of the period.

Early in the second session, with Mogan off for tripping, Ranger rushed nicely and passed to Collins close in the centre man making no mistake on the play.

Rose was penalised and while he was off McMartin put the Petes further ahead when the went down alone and shooting between the defence pair fooled Koster cleanly with a wicked waist-high shot.

A little later McPherson made it 4 to 1 when he poked one in from a mix-up. There was no further scoring in this period.

Parkdale got the first goal in the final episode. A penalty to Ranger left the Petes short-handed, and a combination rush ended in a goal when Bowsfield started a fast one past Dwyer.

The Petes were all over the visitors for the next ten minutes, getting three markers. Burgess started the first one when he carried the rubber in and after Koster had blocked slipped the puck to Ranger at cross range, the left wing completing the play.

Collins got the next when he went in alone and batted in his own rebound and Rose made it 7 to 2 on a swift scoop shot following a pass from the corner by McPherson.

Parkdale retaliated with two markers before the final bell. Lount got one when he scooped the puck over Dwyer as the latter lay on the ice in a scrimmage, and King rang up the last tally of the night by a snap shot from well out just as the bell rang.

Summary.

First Period.

1—Parkdale, Mogan, 8 mins.
2—Peterborough, Collins from Burgess, 11.30.

Second Period.

3—Peterborough, Collins from Ranger, 3 mins.

HOCKEY

The Lavoie Knitters, giving an imitation of the Olympic team, made their opponents look like a bunch of Swedes Thursday night.

"Shorty" Lavole and Lionel Lipsett were the outstanding stars of the game, "Shorty" scoring the winning goal.

The game was very fast individually, but passes were scarce.

In the third period the rooters turned out the lights, and before they could be switched on four goals had been scored.

The period ended with the score tied 3-3.

Both teams battled on for several minutes without a score, until "Shorty" Lavoie slapped one in on a pass from Williams.

The final score was Lavoies 4, opponents 3.

Recent happenings in the league and the even more recent return to form of the local sextette has resulted in keener interest among Canadiens' supporters, and the natural consequence has been a house practically sold out.

CENTRAL LEAGUE MEETING TODAY

Executive Will Discuss Kingston's Application and Will Attend Funeral of Sandy Lockington in Port Hope.

OSHAWA, Feb. 2.—In reply to the Kingston Amateur Baseball Association's request for the status of the Limestone City in regard to Central Ontario Amateur Baseball League, received last week, the Secretary of league notified the eastern club that "Kingston had not at present time any status in the league. But if your executive see fit to forward twenty-five ($25.00) dollars to cover cost of executive meeting, the same would be done as soon as amount is received when you will be notified to have a representative present."

On receiving same, Kingston at once got busy for on the first the following was received by Secretary of league: "A meeting of the 1924 Executive of the Kingston Amateur Baseball Association held on the evening of January 29th, at which your letter of the 25th was considered, and am enclosing herewith marked cheque for $25.00, as requested and will be pleased to have you advise me when arrangements for the executive meeting have been completed."

In communication with President M. P. Duff, of Belleville, the Secretary advised the calling of meeting in Port Hope for Saturday, February 2nd, at 1.30, with the result that the President authorized the same and notices were sent out from Oshawa on the evening of Thursday, January 31st. The executive will meet at the hour stated and adjourn to pay their last respects to their late Past President, Sandy Lockington, after which they will reassemble to discuss the Kingston application.

Belleville, Oshawa and Peterboro have expressed themselves in favor of entrance of the Limestone City for the year 1924, while Lindsay declare themselves out if the eastern team is included and with Cobourg not in it looks like a four team circuit for the coming season.

The schedule of 1924 will likely be discussed at the meeting in Port Hope—as to whether a double or triple schedule will be adopted.

YOUNG'S POINT TEAM DEFEATED

Kennedy's Colts of Lakefield Won Opening Game By 7-4 — Flails Used Freely and Penalties Were Many.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 2.—Kennedy's colts of Lakefield took the first game in the Lakefield district series for the Casement cup from Young's Point last night on home ice when they ran up a score of 7 to 4. The game was anything but slow, making up in pep what it lacked in science.

The Young's Point team has never had a full practice, the rink not being in shape. The boys were consequently short of wind but they managed to keep things lively, making it anyone's game until the final bell.

Northey starred for Lakefield, and both goalies played good games, turning back many more shots than they let in and being subject at times to regular bombardments. Dever played a good game and Wannamaker made his weight felt on several occasions.

For Young's Point, Allen showed himself a splendid player and the fastest man on the ice. He was inclined to be rough, but played a good game. Carrol and Wood were dangerous men.

The game drew a good crowd of spectators who were not slow in applauding good plays by either side. Young's Point sent a contingent of two loads to swell the throng, and they rooted right royally for the visiting team.

How They Scored.

Lakefield ran in three counters in the first period to the Young's Point two. Northey netted 2, Dever one and Carrol 2. Only one penalty was handed out, Dever going to the box.

In the second period Young's Point sailed into the Lakefield team and penalties were liberal, Lakefield drawing two more reprisals than the visitors. Northey, Hampton, F. Payne (2), M. Wanamaker and Dever were the unfortunate on the Lakefield sextet while Wood took the box twice and Saxby and A. Brookes went once each from the Young's Point team. At times there were scarcely enough men on the ice to keep the puck moving.

In the third period both teams showed the effect of the gruelling second period and Northey and Wood had no difficult yin repeating their scores. Lakefield's only penalty was given to F. Payne, but Young's Point drew four—Allen (2), Wood and A. Brookes.

The lineups were:

Referee—Reg. Murduff.

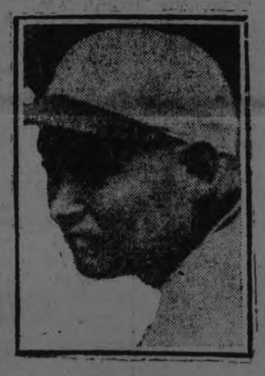
HERO FAILS TO DELIVER

"Reb" Russell, Sensation of National League in 1922, Proves Big Bust.



"REB" RUSSELL

PITTSBURG, Jan. 31.— One of the bigest flivvers of the past season in the National League was "Reb" Russell of the Pirates.

Russell, who was acquired from Minneapolis in the middle of the 1922 campaign, where his fence-busting proclivities were the talk of the circuit, failed to come anywhere near living up the reputation he established in the association.

All told, the former White Sox pitcher, who took up playing the outfield when he lost his arm, got into 94 games. In many of them, though, he only appeared in the role of pinch-hitter. He crashed out 84 hits for a total of 143 bases. His batting average was .201.

When Russell joined the Pittsburg club along in July of 1922, great things were expected of him. Cast adrift by Comiskey when his southpaw flinger had played itself out, the rebel person took up playing the outfield for the Millers. Always a good batter, Russell soon learned the art of chasing down fly balls, and ultimately gained a regular position on the Cantillon roster.

Shortly thereafter, Russell commenced driving the ball out of the "double A" parks. His ability to massage the horsehide attracted the attention of big league scouts with the result that Pittsburg signed him to a contract.

In the majors Russell got off to a good start. In 60 games he batted .368, and crashed out 12 home runs. His stick work kept the faltering Pirates in the canter. Russell was the biggest sensation of the season. His "come-back" was lauded.

But in 1923, Russell failed to keep pace with his performances of the previous campaign. He wasn't the Russell of 1922. Not by a wide margin. National League hurlers were out to "get" him. And they did For "Reb" instead of being the big gun in the Pirates battery didn't even make the grade as a regular. The pitchers got his number. And with that accomplished, he lost his much talked-of batting eye. With it of course went the confidence he knew in 1922.

Now, he has petered out. At least that's the present viewpoint, judging from his 1923 record. He may find himself again next season. And he may not. It's problematical.

Pitchers No Longer Fear Batting Ability of Pirate Slugger.

CANADIANS NET BULGED TWICE

The British Hockey Team Scored Two But Were Defeated By Margin of 17 Shots — Final on Sunday.

CHAMONIX, France Feb 1—The immaculate goal line of Canada's hockey representatives at the Olympic Games received its first smudge to-day when the right wing of the team from Great Britain slipped two unexpected shots past Collett, the Dominiin's goal-keeper. But for the slight fall-down in the defense, the Canadians maintained the reputation which they have held since the hockey began, and the perfection of the Maple Leafs' offensive machine resulted in 19 tallies being registered against Great Britain.

The United States team, displaying the best stuff they have so far put up, snowed under Sweden with a 20 to 0 triumph. The United States goalkeeper was never once threatened and the team thus goes into the final event with Canada on Sunday with a record of no goals scored against them. The United States team has scored 72 goals against Canada's 104.

McCaffery led the scoring for the Canadians to-day, getting three in the first period atnd one each in the second and third for a total of five. Smith and Munro came next with four goals each. Watson and McMunn collected tallies in the first and third periods and Sig. Slater scored in the third period.

The scores were made in the following order:

First period, McCaffery, Watson, Smith, McCaffery, McMunn, McCaffery—6.

Second period — Smith, Munro, Munro, Smith, Munro, McCaffery—6

Third period—Smith, Munro, Watson, McCaffery, Watson, McMunn, Slater—7.

Both British goals were scored by Charles Carruthers in the first period.

Upper Half

ATHLETES SHOULD CARRY ON.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—(Associated Press).—Fred Thomson, former holder of the A.A.U. all-round track and field championship, deplores the practice of athletes in relinquishing athletics as soon as they finish school.

"American athletes are the greatest in the world," Thomson says, "but they are not sportsmen. By that I do not speak of ethics or honor. A sportsman, in the universal sense, is one who plays for the love of play. Yankee athletes give everything to their schools and colleges; then when they finish school they are finished also with athletics; they relax and grow fat."

The members of the winning team were: Bernice Brown and Kathleen Kerrigan, who had the negative side of the subject: "Resolved: That Canada should not naturalize alien immigrants within ten years."

The judges were: A. T. McNeill and Mrs. J. M. Stevens, of Woodstock, and Prof. Spencely of Western University, London.

BUSH LIKED TO ARGUE WITH UMPIRE DINEEN

BY BILLY EVANS

DONIE BUSH who last year managed Washington, but will this year head the Indianapolis club of the American Association, is a great admirer of Umpire Bill Dineen, of the American League Yet nothing pleases Bush more than to get into an argument with Dineen and come out on top.

"I never could hit him when he was pitching, despite the fact that the players said he was through when I broke in," remarks Bush. "I haven't been much more successful in winning arguments from him as an umpire."

However one day last summer Bush's repartee was so fast that Dineen admits Donie won the argument, and was on his way before he could get a chance to think up some wise crack in reply.

Walter Johnson was doing the pitching for Washington. Walter was having one of his good days. He was very fast, but was a trifle wilder than usual, giving the umpire back of the plate more than his ordinary share of work. The count on many batters was three and two and Johnson was often in a hole. However, he always managed to steady in the pinch and pitch himself out of trouble.

After one particularly wild inning in which Johnson had walked several men and had finally ended the inning by striking out the batter with the bases filled and the count three and two. Bush stopped at the plate on his way to third to do the coaching. He was a bit peeved, believing that on a couple of balls Bill had been rather severe on Walter.

"How does Johnson look today?" asked Bush.

"Great," replied Dineen, "except that he is a trifle wild."

"Looks to me as if he is much faster than usual, just like the Walter of a dozen years back," said Bush.

"What makes you think he is so good?" asked Dineen.

"Because you are missing so many," replied Bush as he dashed for the coacher's box at third, a delighted smile playing over his face.

Even Dineen grinned. Bush admits it's the only argument he ever won from him.

HAMILTON TOOK LEAD IN ITS O.H.A. GROUP

HAMILTON, Feb. 2.—(Canadian Press.)—Hamilton took the lead in Senior O. H. A. group No. 1 last night, the Tigers defeating Aura Lee by a score of 4 to 1 in a stubbornly fought battle in which the Bengals always had an edge. They scored three goals in the first period and from then on they were never in danger, being content to play a defensive game during the latter part of the game. The visitors tried hard to even matters up in the last period in which they made a better showing than earlier in the fray, but the Tigers played a hard checking game and Aura Lee were unable to make much headway.

ST. MARY'S OUTCLASSED BY KITCHENER PLAYERS

TORONTO, Feb. 2.— (Canadian Press.)—St. Mary's lost their last chance of getting into the play-off for the championship of Senior O. H.A. Group Number 1, when they were defeated by the Kitchener team in a bitterly fought contest at the arena last night by 5 to 4. The Saints were outclassed in the first two periods and entered the final session 3 goals down, but by staging a desperate rally and playing their best hockey of the night, they reduced the Kitchener lead to one goal. The game was marred by players on both teams forgetting that they were on the ice to play hockey and paying too much attention to starting and settling feuds. At times there were almost as many players in the penalty box as on the ice.

JOHNNY DUNDEE WON FIFTEEN ROUND BOUT

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(Canadian Press.)— Johnny Dundee damaged the lightweight championship hopes of Pal Moran of New Orleans last night when he gained the judges' decision in a furious fifteen round battle at Madison Square Garden. Dundee's early margin gave him the victory, despite a spectacular closing rally by Moran. Dundee's featherweight and junior lightweight titles were not at stake.

For ten rounds Dundee was Moran's master, piling up a big lead with a relentless attack that had the southerner bewildered. The last five rounds were fiercely contested, with Moran carrying the fight to his opponent for the first time, but the Italian-American managed to weather the terrific storm.

GUELPH 3, BRAMPTON 1.

GUELPH, Feb. 2. — (Canadian Press).—The Guelph Intermediate O. H. A. team tied up their group last night when, in one of the fastest and best played games of the season, they administered a 3 to 1 defeat to Brampton Excelsiors, this being the first defeat of the season for the Brampton team. The game was played on sticky ice, but in spite of this both teams travelled at top speed from start to finish, and it was not until within the last few minutes in the third period that the Guelph team forged to the front.

PORT COLBORNE 5, WELLAND 2

PORT COLBORNE, Feb. 2. — (Canadian Press). — The Port Colborne Intermediate O.H.A. hockey team continued its winning streak by defeating Welland 5 to 2 at the Artificial Ice Palace last night before a fair-sized audience. This makes eight victories and no losses for the locals, who are strong favorites to win the play-off with Niagara Falls for the group.

OSHAWA 5, TRENTON 2.

OSHAWA, Feb. 2.— (Canadian Press.)—For the first appearance on Oshawa ice of a Trenton hockey team and recollection of a 30-minute overtime struggle when the locals visited the eastern town, a capacity crowd greeted Trenton at Bradley's Arena last night for an intermediate O.H.A. group game and it was only after sixty minutes of great hockey and sensational goal tending by Dick Smith that Oshawa carried off a 5 to 2 victory.

WOODSTOCK 6, INGERSOLL 1.

WOODSTOCK, Feb. 2.—(Canadian Press). — The Red and White Woodstock Juniors, champions of their group, had little difficulty in defeating Ingersoll lads here last night by the score of 6 to 1. The ice was very sticky and the puck was hard to control.

CALT 2, STRATFORD 1.

GALT, Feb. 2. — (Canadian Press). — The Terriers last night lowered the colors of the Stratford Indians and smashed their old goose egg when they registered a 2-1 victory in the big four here. It was the hardest fought ice battle Galt has witnessed in many days, but on the night's play the locals deserved to win, playing a much improved brand of hockey over anything they have displayed this season.

THE NUT CRACKER
BY JOE WILLIAMS

WHAT TO DO ABOUT THE STYMIE PROBLEM.

MUGGSY McGRAW—I should get alarmed about the stymie after having guys like Bugs Raymond and Casey Stengel around the joint for years.

GOVERNOR PINCHOT—It's a law and should be enforced. Any man who carries a half-filled stymie on his hip is guilty of a crime against the government.

BILL BRYAN—I don't think they ought to monkey with it; there's too much monkey business in the world now.

BULL MONTANA—If it's another of those derned beauty creams take it away. Nothing can help this mug of mine.

BABE RUTH—All I've got to say is that if it comes over the plate and is in the groove, sock it.

TEX RICKARD—I never heard of this stymie guy, but if he's game and can hit I'll match him with Firpo.

JOE BECKETT—The stymie's all right with me. I'll fall for anything.

HENRY FORD—How far can you make the blamed thing go on a gallon of gas, that's what I want to know?

PEGGY JOYCE—Not for a sweet young thing like me. I've seen entirely too much of these foreigners.

SAM GOMPERS—What the stymie needs is an eight-hour working day, improved factory conditions and an increased salary scale.

MAGNUS JOHNSON—Shux! It oughtn't to be hard to raise 'em, if you keep the army worm and the boll weevil out.

GENERAL OBREGON—If Coolidge will rush me 3,000,000 hand-picked, house-broken stymies I'll end this here revolt in three days.

ODDS ARE STILL IN FAVOR OF CANADIANS

CHAMONIX, Feb. 2.—(Canadian Press.)—Canada still rules as favorite to-day in the hockey competition feature event of the winter section of the Olympic sports, which will close to-morrow with the final between the United States and Canada. Stock of the United States' players has gone up since yesterday, when they displayed a notable improvement in form in defeating Sweden, but the odds are still in favour of the Canucks.

It is conceded that the Canadians excell in offense, their combination work being much superior to anything the United States 'sextette has so far shown. The United States, however, have a strong defensive organization and several very brilliant individual players. The weather was mild here last night, but the prospects for the next 48 hours is "clear and cold."

THREE PAIRS BOXERS OBTAIN OLD VERDICT

TORONTO, Feb. 2.— (Canadian Press.) — Three pairs of boxers fought back to the same decisions as they received in the last meetings at the International Club's show at the Coliseum last night, Kid Roy, of Montreal, getting the verdict over Curly Wilshur, of this city, after ten rounds; Allan Holmes pulling out in front of Danny McDonald, of Providence, while Tommy Mitchell was awarded the decision over Tommy Mack, of Hartford, Conn. Other winners were Alex Burlie and George Fifield of this city, who won from Jimmy Ray, of Wheeling Va., and Ted Crossette, of Montreal. Twice the judges failed to be unanimous, and Referee Lou Marsh was called to name the winner. He gave Mitchell the edge over Mack, and it was close.

GIVEN DECISION

BOSTON, Feb. 2. — (Canadian Press.)—Dave Shade of California, was given the decision over Tenmore, English middleweight, at the end of the ten round bout here last night.

AT THE REGENT

"GOOD-BY, GIRLS" IS WM. RUSSELL'S LATEST

In a brass bound box a lovely girl kept the secret of her invention, an invisible deep sea light, which was sought by all other governments. The agents of these governments wanted the secret so badly that armed men threatened her life at every turn. Both she and the secret would surely have been lost but for the aid of a brilliant author who has gone to the country for "rest, peace and quiet."

The ills the author thought he had and the frayed condition of his nerves were soon forgotten, and he later found the doctor was right who said—"What you really need is a wife."

William Russell, the popular Fox star, plays the part of an author, with Carmel Myers as the girl, in "Good-by, Girls," which may be seen at the Regent Theatre, where it will be shown from Thursday ot Saturday this week.

Director Jerome Storm, Cameraman Joe August and an exceptional cast have turned out a picture of artistic beauty and skilful portrayal that will furnish entertainment for the most blase.

AT THE GRAND

"THE COVERED WAGON"

Next Wednesday night at the Grand Opera House "The Covered Wagon" will make good in advance reports that have preceded it from New York and other cities. The favorable critical verdict is also the popular one.

Love story, spectacle, Wild West, allegory, farce, song—and dance, tragedy, comedy are just a few of its facts, it might truthfully be described as "the show that has everything." The mighty unity that binds the congeries is the inspiring theme of the opening up of the West, America's greater Empire, by the humble travelling arks on "covered wagons." Scenes of these weird paririe schooners towed by their swimming horses and oxen across the Platte; barricading, tongue to axle, against Indian attack; their brave lanclubbers fighting savages, prairie fire, buffalo and 2000 miles of hostile wilds; the caravans splitting as the Gold Trail and the Plough trail diverge, and Oregon's final conquest in the snows, stir partiotic pulses and make every auditor proud of being an American.

The romance of Molly Wingate the pretty wagon-driver courted by rival Mexican War service men finds splendid embodiment by Lois Wilson, J. Warren Kerrigan and Alan Hale, while Earnest Torrence and Tully Marshall contribute astonishingly lifelike and entertaining portrayals of tough old scouts. There are 3000 persons in the cast. Frederick Arundel's orchestra is a delightful feature. Two showings are given daily.

AT THE CAPITOL

ARLISS, GREAT STAGE VILLIAN, IN DRAMA OF GLITTERING INDIA

An outstanding event in the dramatic season, in the strictest sense of the term, is the coming of the screen version of "The Green Goddess", starring George Arliss, to the Capitol Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The original play by William Archer enjoyed a run of no less than two years at the Booth Theatre, New York. The screen version, the same in every particular, will be shown at the Capitol Theatre, also had a record-breaking run at the Sam H. Harris Theatre, New York, equalling in every way its tremendous popularity as a play.

"The Green Goddess" is hailed as the greatest art achievement of the screen to date. For sheer compelling melodrama superbly acted, and magnificently set, it is said that nothing has ever been done to approach this production.

Distinctive Pictures Corporation, producers of the film, have most certainly spared nothing to transfer Mr. Archer's clever work to the screen satisfactorily. The leading feminine role opposite Mr. Arliss is played by none other than Alice Joyce, that gorgeously beautiful young lady who, after her recent marriage to one of New York's wealthiest young men, swore the screen would never see her again. The lure of a part with such possibilities as the young Englishwoman in "The Green Goddess" was too great and Miss Joyce succumbed to persuasion of Arthur S. Friend and Henry M. Hobart of Distinctive, to return to the screen. For which, incidentally, they deserve a vote of thanks. In addition to Mr. Arliss and Miss Joyce the cast includes the handsome David Powell, who has made love in a cinema way to more famous young women than any other actor of the day, and Harry T. Morey, the screen's best bad man.

Ivan Simpson, a member of the original stage cast, is also in the film version as is the highly interesting and alluring French actress, Jetta Goudal. William Worthington takes the part of the high priest.

Sidney Olcott, the director, is also deserving of no little praise for his handling of the mob scenes in which more than two thousand people were used and for the deft handling of the many intensely dramatic scenes.

Clark Robinson, art director, according to all reviews and advices, has done the work of his career in the settings of "The Green Goddess." At one time more than 100,000 square feet of sets were in working order in the Distinctive studio in New York and on the adjoining lots. An entire Himalayan hillside street, two city blocks in length, was erected for the mob scenes. A rock cliff 125 feet high was built as a background for the airplane crash. The interiors of the Rajah's palace are said to be magnificent. Priceless hangings and ornaments from India were loaned to Distinctive for this production by the Brooklyn Museum of Art. With the exception of a few scenes in the Himalaya Mountains for which a photographer was sent to India, every scene in "The Green Goddess" was taken within the confines of the City of New York.

Roshanara, famous interpreter of East Indian dances, supervised the Indian detail and Oriental atmosphere of the picture.

Although the palace of the Rajah was in a mountain fastness, he was not unexpectant of feminine visitors for he kept a supply of the latest Parisian modes on hand. Therefore, when the young Englishwoman whom an airplane wreck had thrown upon his hospitality, expressed a regret that she had nothing to wear but her aviation costume, he was able to place the wardrobe at her service, thus allowing Miss Alice Joyce in the portrayal of that part, to display some highly attractive gowns.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL.

On Friday evening two games of basketball were played at the Y. W. C. A. The Quaker Oats defeated Westclox 19-5. The former showed splendid team work and good shooting on the part of M. Frost. The Westclox forwards had opportunities but seemed unable to score. Line-ups:

Westclox—Forwards, G. McIlwain and M. Merritt; centres, A. Scott, J. Northcott; defence, J. McIlwain, T. Wolfe.

Quakers—Forwards, M. Frost, L. Whalen; centres, J. Collins, L. Nash; defence, L. Edwards, M. Hill.

The most exciting game this season was featured by the Canadian Woollens and the De Laval. Both teams played well. Edna Forster played with speed and efficiency. B. Meredith made all the shots for De Laval. L. Bradley was best for the Woollens. With one and a half minutes to play, the teams were 14 all, and it looked like overtime playing. However, the De Laval scored one on a free shot with one minute to go, and the Woollens failed to score again, with the final score 15-14 for De Laval.

De Laval—Forwards, B. Meredith, B. Sloan; centres, E. Forster, T. Meredith; defence, F. Giroux, M. Archambault.

Woollens—Forwards, M. Bradley, L. Bradley; centres, L. Gregory, L. Slaughter; defence, E. Bradley, E. Mann.

Referees—"Scotty" McLeish and Howard Young.

On Monday at 7 p.m. the Normals will play the De Laval.

TWO ST. HELEN'S BOXERS COMING

Meet Combe and Johnson in Main Bouts Next Thursday.

Boxing fans are promised another snappy boxing bill at the G.W.V.A. Hal next Thursday night, when St. Helen's Club of Toronto, will be represented by two mitt artists who will meet Lorne Combe and Art Johnson in the main bouts. Johnson's good work in the last show caught the popular fancy.

The bill will be one of eight bouts. Other boxers who will take part include Ray Millard, Leonard Minnicola, Al. Williams, Harvey Smith, Tony Minnicola, Jimmy Rex, Mike Murray, Des Hunt and "Red" Thompson, all of whom are now well known to the boxing fans.

Improvements have been made to the ring by which all the wood supports for the posts have been done away with, so as to eliminate a chance of a repetition of the accident to Al. Williams at the last show.

God's name,
And I leave them where they are,

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

AN ASTOUNDING FACT.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—According to an official return brought down by the Dominion Government at the request of Hon. T. A. Crerar, we find that the Civil Service in 1921 and 1922, the last year of the former Government, the Government employed inside and outside 14,739 employees at an annual cost of $23,149,511, and in the year of 1922 and 1923, the first year of the present Government, it employed 41,255 employees at an annual cost of $50,355,721. Now how and why, will some one answer? Thanking you, I remain, yours truly,

FIRE SWEEPS BLOCK.

BRIDGEPORT, Con., Feb. 2. — A fire which destroyed the paint and blacksmith shop, a huge structure in the centre of a group of buildings at the winter headquarters of Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus, early to-day, created a wild panic among the animals in the menagerie and kept the city firemen and keepers busy for more than an hour before the fire was controlled. An early estimate places the damage at one hundred thousand dollars.

Easy to Find Him Now.

"Can you give me a good description of your absconding cashier?" suavely asked the detective.

"Well," replied the hotel proprietor, "I believe he's about five feet five inches tall and about seven thousand dollars short."—American Legion Weekly.

BETTER OFFER MAY BE MADE WORKERS

Conference Today Between Parties in Effort to Stop Strike.

GLACE BAY, N. S., Feb. 2. — (Canadian Press.)—The Miners' representatives, William Dalrymple, Silby Barrett and Robert Baxter, left this morning for Montreal, where, with Andrew Steele, the official of the United Mine Workers, they will go into the conference with President Wolvin of the British Empire Steel Corporation in an effort to arrive at an agreement which will stop the strike in the Cape Breton mines. Among the union officials here the decision of the company to meet the men in Montreal after the conference between the officials and men representatives had failed to reach an agreement is interpreted to mean a better offer is to be made the miners and that settlement is possible.

WOODROW WILSON IS HOLDING OUT

Former President is Gradually Growing Weaker But May Last Several Days.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Daybreak found the silence at the home of Woodrow Wilson unbroken since late last night when Dr. Grayson, his personal doctor, said the former president, gravely ill, was gradually growing weaker. There was comfort in the lack of any official statement, however because of the promise of the doctor that if any development warranted during the night an announcement would be made.

Steadily losing ground, Mr. Wilson continued to grow weaker today having lasted through night which his physicians feared would bring end, but they cannot predict how long his remarkable vitality will hold out. Although he has taken no nourishment in almost 24 hours, and is disinclined even to take sips of water, Mr. Wilson's pulse, respiration and temperature early to-day were practically normal, but Dr. Grayson, his physician said his life was simply ebbing away. At no time has former president been unconscious. At no time have such heroic measures as applications of oxygen been resorted to and no time have opiates been given, as he has been in no pain. Some stimulants have been given in small doses. At no time has Mr. Wilson been delirious but he seems at all times to be conscious of what is going on in his chamber although he is too weak to carry on a conversation. He does whisper a "yes' or a "no' in reply to questions as to what may be done to make him more comfortable. She knows from whence blows

Having come through the night, physicians now feel there is no predicting how far his tenacity may sustain him. It is not beyond the range of probability taht Woodrow Wilson might linger along three or four days. It is, of course, possible that something may snap at any moment and he will slip quickly away.

PARIS COMMENT.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—(United Press). —"Soon the great voice of the idealist, the democratic pacifist, will be stilled for ever."

The Petit Journal thus summed the French opinion to-day as the nation waited anxiously for news of Woodrow Wilson, the man who [illegible] United States into the world war and saved France from the iron heel of a German conqueror. Throngs stood in front of the newspaper bulletin boards for the latest cables from Washington of the former President's condition.

"Wilson, lying on his sick bed, has witnessed the crash of his works," the Petit Journal said, referring to the persistent refusal of the American people to enter the League of Nations. "But France remembers him only with sympathy."

REFUSE TO PAY CHIEF NEWHALL SALARY EARNED

Mayor Turner Urges Finance Committee to Clear Matter Up—R. R. Hall Says Council Agreed to Pay Costs.

TO ASK COUNSEL

"I can't see for the life of me how you justify your position," Mayor J. J. Turner told the Finance Committee of the City Council last night, referring to the non-payment of Chief Newhall's salary.

The City Council refused to pay out any more money than that allocated to the use of the Police Commission when the Commission's estimates were reduced $3,000, and Chief Newhall has not received any salary for November and December. The rank and file of the police force sued for two weeks' salaries, and the suit is still pending in Division Court. They have been paid all except two weeks, and there is an order on the minute book of the Council that the money be paid on suit being withdrawn.

It was to the discrimination by Council between the Chief and his men that Mayor Turner referred when he declared he could see no justification for the action.

The discussion arose out of a letter received by Mayor Turner from R. R. Hall, K.C., counsel for Chief Newhall, pointing out that an agreement was entered into whereby the city promised to pay the Chief's salary and all expenses in the case, win or lose. Chief Newhall, it was pointed out by Mr. Hall, might have entered suit in Division Court for a sum of money less than $100 and obtained judgment. From this there would have been no appeal. The City desired a test case which would bring a declaration of the law from the Appellate Court and thus settle the controversy as to who governed the expenditures of the Police Commission. In order to make this appeal possible it was necessary that the sum sued for be over $100, and Chief Newhall, it was stated by Mr. Hall, added items of expense incurred in the maintenance of the police car on an agreement between ex-Mayor Taylor, the City Solicitor, and other representatives of the city, that the costs in the action would be paid by the city and that the Chief's salary would also be paid.

"If what Mr. Hall says is true," His Worship said, "and the Chief did that to oblige us, I feel that the City Council should keep faith with him. I have been told that Chief Newhall was informed by members of the City Council that this was a friendly case and would not affect relations with the Police Department, and the City Council would pay the costs whether it won or lost. In any case, if what Mr. Hall states is a fact, Chief Newhall did amend his claim so that the city could get a definite judgment, and the costs are $42, made up of $20 in the Toronto court, $8.37 in Division Court, and $4.50 for evidence."

Committee Opposed.

Mayor Turner pointed out that Mr. Hall had made no charges for travelling expenses, but only for the court costs. "It is worth that, isn't it, to the city to get the judgment, and we have done something for the whole province," he said, adding that he had advised the Chief to advise the men to withdraw their claim and pay the costs when their salaries for the two weeks would be paid.

Alderman Stocker: "The Chief was beaten."

Mayor Turner: "Yes, but he could have sued for $99.99 in Division Court and would doubtless have obtained judgment, since there is no doubt he had earned the money. He took the other course, evidently on the advice of ex-Mayor Taylor, Mr. Wearing and Mr. Gordon and put in the extra amount so that you could have the judgment."

Alderman Stocker: "We might pay the costs, but I don't think we should pay his salary."

Alderman Crowe: "The City Solicitor said something to us about something extra to make a test case, but he didn't say there were to be any costs."

Alderman Fife: "That's new to me, too."

Alderman McIntyre: "It seems we did not understand the case properly. We did not know Mayor Taylor and Mr. Wearing had agreed to pay the expenses."

Alderman Phelan: "I was never a party to agreeing to pay the expenses. I said I would vote to pay the individual policemen their salaries."

Alderman McIntyre: "We should have Mr. Gordon and ex-Mayor Taylor here to explain their stand. I think we should treat the Chief like a man and pay him his salary."

Alderman Phelan:—"I don't feel like paying anything at present. I think we should consult with Mr. Gordon and Mr. Wearing. We are not legally liable to pay anything."

Mayor Turner, remarking that he still could not see why the Chief should be penalized, asked the chair man of the committee to obtain an opinion from the counsel who represented the city's case, and have a statement ready for Monday's Council meeting.

Morally Obligated

Alderman Fife enquired why the men had not withdrawn their claim and accepted their salaries. "It must be on advice of their counsel," he said.

Mayor Turner: "I don't see why you distinguish between the men and the chief. We have paid some of the salary due the men and decided to pay the remainder when they withdraw their claims. I would like to see the chief's salary go through to show him we recognize he has given us his services."

Alderman Morrison: "We were in favor of paying the men if they withheld the action. Chief Newall is chief of the department. The men obey orders pretty well. I wouldn't say the chief has told them not to withdraw the action, but they haven't."

Mayor Turner: "You didn't notify the men when the appropriation was exhausted that you would not pay them. You allowed them to continue work and you accepted their services You are morally liable, and I don't see for the life of me how you justify your position. You paid the men—then why not pay the chief?"

Alderman Phelan: "I don't think the finance committee should recommend payment without consulting Mr. Gordon who was mainly responsible in bringing the case to a successful conclusion."

Mayor Turner: 'Suppose when you refer this to the city solicitor and Mr. Gordon they say you are not legally liable, are you going to deny the chief his salary?"

Alderman Phelan: "I wouldn't like to commit myself on that."

Mayor Turner: "Do you suppose you could do your best work if you had not been paid for two months."

Alderman Phelan: "Oh, no . . ."

Mayor Turner: "Well there it is. You are demoralizing the man."

The debate closed with the understanding that Alderman Phelan will ask the city solicitor and Mr. Gordon for an opinion, and the matter will be reopened in Council on Monday.

General Business

The financial statement of the Public Library Board was read, showing that $8,800 was the grant last year from the city and only $260 was received from the government. Alderman Turner suggested an endeavour to obtain a larger grant in view of the community hall which is part of the Library. This will be looked into by the city clerk and Alderman Phelan.

The estimates for the Library for 1924 total $9,000. Mayor Turner suggested writing to the Board and asking that they endeavour to cut down the purchase of books, for which $700 more is asked this year than was expended last year.

A resolution from Kitchener suggesting that the magistrate be removed from the police commission and the government appoint a citizen in its stead, was discussed. Alderman Crowe said he was strongly in favor of an elective police commission and would stand by the resolution.

Mayor Turner suggested that to give the appointing of the third member to the government, would be putting it into the realm of politics.

Alderman Crowe: "I don't think there is anything in that."

Alderman Phelan: "I would rather see a man appointed by the people. If he didn't suit them they could put him out the next year."

Alderman Fife thought this would bring the commission into politics as much as having the third member appointed by the government.

Alderman McIntyre pointed out that the water commission is not brought into politics.

Alderman Crowe, seconded by Alderman McIntyre moved that a reply be sent to Kitchener, saying the Peterboro City Council is of the opinion that if the magistrate is replaced by a citizen it should be by vote of the people.

Tax Collector's Roll.

Mayor Turner moved that the tax collector's roll for 1922 be returned forthwith and that the roll for 1923 be returned to the city council not later than March 1.

Several members urged that the Mayor, the chairman of the Board of Works, and the City Engineer go into the matter of the sewage disposal plant, and make an early decision as to the plans.

On request of some of the city employees, who are now paid monthly, the Finance Committee directed that any who so desire may obtain their salaries semi-monthly. At present the office staffs are paid monthly, the fire department and the police department are paid semi-monthly, and the outside workers are paid weekly.

Accounts passed last night indicated that the city's expenses in the police controversy amounted to about $214, made up of an acount from G. N. Gordon, $200, and expenses of the city solicitor $14.

ENGLISH TENOR IS COMING NEXT WEEK

Mr. Alfred Heather is a Singer of Note

The concert to be given in the Conservatory of Music Hall, on Tuesday evening next by Mr. Alfred Heather, the famous English tenor, gives every indication of being one of the outstanding musical treats of the season. Mr. Heather has the reputation of being a singer of wide experience and rich, golden voice. He was principal tenor soloist at Westminster Abbey for twelve years, and a prominent member of the renowned Covent Garden Opera Company.

His programme is one that will call forth the musicianship which doubtless is one of his strong points. The English music of Henry Purcell opens the recital, followed by two selections form Handel's Works, and a rendition of Beethoven's seldom-heard "Adelaide." The music of Brahms is in four of the briefer numbers, and the "Narration," from Wagner's "Lohengrin," will be given. A group of five traditional songs closing the programme, includes "Two Hebridean Songs," "Sally in our Alley," and "Sigh no more, Ladies," in the English suite, and a couple of Irish songs, one the jaunty little "Ballymure Ballad."

A NORMAL SPRING.

TORONTO, Feb. 2 (Special.) — Deep and intense cyclonic areas in the North Pacific are the cause of the mild winter, says Sir Frederick Stupart, director of the Meteorological Bureau here. The spring is likely to be normal.

An Ontario woman shot a wolf at 250 yards. That is good shooting, even for these days. A wolf makes a smaller target than a husband and moves a good deal faster.—Life.

LOCAL NORMALS WERE DEFEATED

By the Fast Working Toronto Team in a Weird Game of Hockey on Slow Ice.

In a weird game of hockey this morning the Toronto Normal School defeated the local Normal boys by the score of 14 to 0, after a one-sided game in which the Big Town boys outclassed their opponents in every stage of the game.

The Toronto boys showed speed and skill, and also worked in a nice combination at times, which accounted for most of their goals. They had a little of the edge in weight on the locals, and showed signs of more practice. They were inclined to rough it a little in the latter part of the second period, and they visited the penalty box quite frequently for the rest of the game.

Duggan and Young were the only fighters of the Petes and they were the only ones on the local team who were effective in any way. They tried hard while the rest of the gang stood back and watched.

There was no outstanding star on the Toronto line-up, as they all played unselfish hockey and worked their heads off.

Learoy in the nets did not get a chance to show his wares, as he had only two or three shots to stop in the whole game.

In the earlier stages of the game the local Normals showed more speed. They battled hard against their superiors in the first period, and succeeded in holding them to 3 counters, while they had the goose egg, the same as they had when the final gong sounded.

In the second twenty minutes the visitors ran away with the local boys and kept the play mostly at the locals' end of the rink.

It was at this stage of the game that the visitors began to show signs of combination, while the Peterborough boys were still plugging away with their one man rushes, only to be stopped by the defence if they got that far.

When the period ended the score stood 9 to 0 for Toronto.

In the third period the ice became sticky and the game slowed up a little. The soft ice did not stop the Toronto boys from scoring, for they went right ahead and slapped five easy ones past Zufelt.

The final score was 14 to 0.

The teams lined up as follow:

Peterborough Normal — Goal, Zufelt; defence, Reggan and Duggan; centre, Clancy, right wing, Izard; left wing, Pinkham; subs., Young and Hageboon.

Toronto Normal — Goal, Learoy; defence, Watson and Schulze; centre, Fraser; right wing, Hetherington; left wing, Stuart; subs., Sinclair and Perrin.

Grover Halpin handled the bell in good style.

SIX GUNMEN MAY BE GOOD CATCH

TORONTO, Feb. 2. — (Canadian Press).—The possibility that six men arrested in Toronto yesterday with seven guns may have some knowledge of the hold-up, shooting and robbing of the Standard Bank and Bank of Nova Scotia messengers last July here when eighty-four thousand dollars was stolen, is being thoroughly investigated to-day. The messengers and eye-witnesses of the robbery were brought to police headquarters to-day to see if they could recognize any of the men the police arrested yesterday.

Officials at police headquarters yesterday declined to discuss the arrests, except to say that their belief is that some the prisoners are wanted in the United States. Correri and Nierrie were arrested in a Walton Street house, the remainder in a Shuter Street boarding-house. The two women under arrest informed the detectives they had nothing to say. They were here with their husbands. When the posse of officers visited the Shuter Street house they found five of the suspects in bed. The suspects, who rented rooms at the Shuter Street house about a week ago, were afforded no opportunity of resisting arrest, as the officers pounced in on them and ordered them to dress, while one of the detectives guarded the suitcases. The revolvers were packed in an empty suitcase, which the officers found covered with some bed clothing beneath the head of one of the beds. The detectives made a hasty search of the clothing of each suspect, but found nothing which would assist in linking them up with any of the recent crimes in Toronto which are still unsolved.

All Well Dressed.

The eight suspects were put through a grilling by Inspector of Detectives Guthrie and Inspector Wallace. All disclaimed ownership of the revolvers, and declared that they had just returned from an extended trip through Europe, and came here on a visit from New York.

The women are well dressed and have expensive fur coats. The men sported the latest styles in toggery. A large amount of money was found on one of the suspects, while the remainder only had small sums. It was intimated that the detectives also found a quantity of jewellery in possession of one of the suspects in the Shuter Street house. The eight suspects were immediately photographed, prints of which will be sent to the police in some of the large United States cities.

While the detectives were at the Shuter Street house, Plainclothesmen Boyd, Scott and Ward visited the Walton Street house and found Correri and Nierrie, preparing to take their departure. Later the detectives located in the baggage room at the Union Station several trunks which had been delivered there during the morning. The trunks were taken to police headquarters and the contents examined.

Four years have passed, our hearts are sore,
As time rolls on we miss her more,
Her loving smile, her tender face,

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Elizabeth Parsons, who departed this life, Feb. 2nd, 1923. Gone but not forgotten

Deep in my heart lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest,
In memory's frame I shall keep it,
Because she was one of the best.

Words cannot express the grief we feel,
For one we loved so well.
She's left behind some aching hearts
The pain no tongue can tell.

We miss her smiling cheerful face,
Her winsome loving way,
And oftimes think of her at rest,
And miss her every day.

'Twas only to us given,
To cheer us for a little while,
Now gone to bloom in heaven

WAR BROKEN PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES DIED PEACEFULLY SUNDAY AFTER FOUR YEARS' VAIN STRUGGLE

Illustrious Leader of American Democracy's Great War Effort Went Conscious to the Brink of Eternity and Whispered His Readiness to Go—Digestive Disturbance Last Week Was Immediate Cause of Final Illness — Paralysis During Presidency Ended His Second Presidential Term

SACRIFICED LIFE TO IDEAL

A NATION'S SORROW.

WASHINGTON,, Feb. 4. — (By Lawrence Martin, United Press Staff Correspondent.)—A nation's sorrow at the death of Woodrow Wilson was expressed to-day in the silencing of the wheels of Government, flags dropping at half staff and in a proclamation from President Coolidge providing that the highest honors that can be paid shall be accorded the war chieftain of the nation.

Mr. Wilson died at 11.15 a.m. Sunday while prayers were ascending in the churches for him. He simply went to sleep, passing from life without struggle or pain.

Arrangements for his funeral awaited to-day the decision of Mrs. Wilson, who was too exhausted after her long vigil at the bedside to consider questions regarding burial and funeral servies.

Her wishes, however, will decide whether Mr. Wilson is to have a great state funeral, with military pomp and ceremony, and with burial in the hallowed ground of Arlington cemetery, among the nation's heroic war dead of all wars. If she wishes instead a simple, non public funeral in the old boyhood home at Staunton, Va. That is what President Coolidge has put at her disposal, the whole machinery of Government. He has ordered the war and navy departments to prepare to accord fitting honors to the departed chief.

So far as is known, Mr. Wilson did not express any preference as to where he should be buried, nor as to the character of his funeral.

From Lloyd George.

LONDON, Feb. 4.— High up in Surrey Hills, in his new home, David Lloyd George yesterday spoke of the late Woodrow Wilson, who, he declared, will become one of the great figures of history. While Lloyd George stated that Mr. Wilson was "the first to embody ideal of fraternity of nations into a concrete plan," and a man who "like the founder of Christianity and like Lincoln, prosecuted his ideal to his death." British statesmen regarded Wilson's "refusal to give up personal animosity," as the tragedy of the latter years of his life "If President Wilson had been willing to sacrifice personal prejudices to obtain general support of his people at home, he could have realized his League of Nations ideal," said Mr. Lloyd George.

"But he could not overcome his failing. Mr. Wilson walked on his weaker opponents—a dangerous policy for a great man." Mr. Lloyd George declared that the feeling between Wilson and Roosevelt was the most savage hatred he had ever known.

Funeral services for Woodrow Wilson will be held Wednesday afternoon, Raymond T. Baker, former Director of the Mint, said to-day, after a visit to the White House.

Baker said details of the funeral were being worked out and would be announced later to-day.

Secretary of War Weeks visited the Wilson home this morning, and that was taken to indicate that Mrs. Wilson had acceded to the wish of President Coolidge and other Government leaders to pay fitting honors to the departed war President, by giving him a State funeral.

House and Senate leaders were ready to introduce at noon resolutions providing for a State funeral. They were awaiting word concerning Mrs. Wilson's wishes. Former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels spent several minutes with Mrs. Wilson and Miss Wilson today. He said both were holding up bravely. "The life of Woodrow Wilson was one of complete and beautiful faith," Daniels said. "We had no more doubt that the things he stood for, which had been broken, would be picked up and mended, than the sun would dawn in the morning. That he died in full faith was a beautiful thing about Mr. Wilson's death." The storm doors of the Wilson home had hardly been thrown open early this morning, when the first of a steady stream of callers — high Government officials, former associates of the late President, family friends and others began to arrive to leave messages of condolence and sympathy for Mrs. Wilson and Miss Margaret Wilson.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press)—Woodrow Wilson passed away at 11.15 a.m. Sunday after hovering for two days between life and death.

The end came peacefully. Mrs. Wilson, Miss Margaret Wilson and Dr. Grayson were at the bedside.

Fatigued and worn by the battle with death which began before he left the White House in 1921, the war president of two terms—eight of the most momentous years in the history of the world—closed his eyes and slipped peacefully away.

The end came when vitality no longer could retard the steady dissolution which set in with the stroke of paralysis that laid Mr. Wilson low on his return from the western speaking trip in 1919, in which he declared he was glad to give his life for the League of Nations if that would make it a success.

The cause of death as officially announced was general arteriosclerosis and hemiptegia.

Doctor's Statement.

The passing of the former President was announced in the following statement issued by his physician and friend, Second Rear Admiral Gary T. Grayson:

"Mr. Wilson died at eleven fifteen this morning. His heart's action became feebler and feebler and the heart muscles were so fatigued that it refused to act any longer. The end came peacefully.

"The remote causes of death lie in his ill-health which began more than four years ago, namely, arterio-sclerosis with hemiptegia. The immediate cause of death was exhaustion following a digestive disturbance which began in the early part of last week, but did not reach an acute stage until the early morning hours of February 1."

Dr. Grayson, restraining tears with obvious difficulty, gave the formal announcement to waiting newspaper men. Worn with the strain, his voice was barely audible when he said that the former president's last moments had been peaceful.

"Ready to Go."

During all of Friday, Saturday and early Sunday, Mr. Wilson had lingered on the verge of eternity. He slept fitfully, and toward the last refused nourishment, but before extreme weakness overtook him he talked with those about him, and told Dr. Grayson he was "ready to go." Step by step he lost ground and his physicians knew that the end was but a question of a short time.

As the news of his death spread throughout the city and was flashed around the world, messages of sympathy poured in a great floodtide to the widow, who so long had kept him in her tender care.

One of the first to send a message of condolence was President Coolidge. President and Mrs. Coolidge were at church when the announcement was made of Mr. Wilson's death. They drove to the Wilson home immediately the services were over and left their cards.

A DOMINATE FIGURE.

The death of Woodrow Wilson removes the dominant world figure of the decade from 1910 to 1920. Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt will probably go into history as the leading actors on history's stage during the generation in which they were the culmination.

Only the mature judgment of history can assign Wilson his certain place. He lived and worked and ruled in the years that produced Kaiser Wilhelm, Lloyd George, Clemenceau, Kitchener and other men who occupied whole chapters in world history. He reached the world's summit of applause during the Paris peace conference and his ebb, as broken in body and fame, but not in spirit, he rode down Pennsylvania avenue through the sunshine of March 4, 1921, away from the White House, forever.

Few outside of his immediate circle loved him, and he loved few. Millions admired him for his admitted strength of vision, idealism and idnomitable courage. Millions hated him for his intolerance to views other than his own and for the ruthlessness with which he swept aside opposition. His was a lonely, self-controlled personality.

Yet, with body broken and old age creeping fast upon him, his closest friends say he mourned that he could

WILSON'S PHRASES

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 4. — Wilson will rank with Roosevelt as a maker of phrases which have moved the world. Some were seized upon by his political enemies and used against him but others raised the hopes of the lowly peasant in the heart of Europe and of many of his own countrymen as have the words of no other man of modern times.

Here are the Wilson phrases which have been graven in the language of the twentieth century "Watchful waiting," "Too proud to fight," "Make the world safe for democracy," "Pigmy minds," "Breaking the heart of the world," "Pitiless publicity," "Open covenants openly arrived at," "The little group of wilful men." "The fourteen points," the name given to his peace programme; "May I not," his favorite method of beginning letters.

THREE ARRESTS FOLLOW SARNIA STORE ROBBERY

Grocer and Companion Held Up By Armed Trio --Two Levelled Revolvers While the Third Looted Pockets and Safe—Police Act Quickly.

Money Not Recovered.

SARNIA, Feb. 4. — Three hold-up men armed with revolvers, held up J. F. Fulkerson and Harry Hardy in Fulkerson's grocery store, late on Saturday night, and got away with about $140 in cash and cheques amounting to about $500. Yesterday the police arrested Bruno Cazzaro, Tony Cazzaro and Fepini Salonika, at 214 Confederation street, and late on Sunday afternoon the men were identified by Fulkerson, and two of them by Hardy, as the robbers.

Three men wandered into Fulkerson's store about 10:30 Saturday night, while the proprietor and Harry Hardy were talking, and suddenly the two men were confronted with loaded revolvers thrust into their faces and ordered to "stick 'em up, and keep quiet!" while the third man went through the till. They were ugly looking customers with coat collars turned up and caps pulled over their eyes, and seemed to mean business, and Hardy was relieved of $20 in cash from his pockets, while the safe yielded some $140 in cash and numerous cheques paid in by C. N. R. employees or cashed by Fulkerson, and all endorsed, amounting to same $500. The third man missed the proper till and thus some $200, the amount of the day's takings.

Having cleaned up all the money they could find, the trio backed out of the shop and vanished into the darkness of the foggy and rainy night.

The police were at once notified, and Chief Lannin and his men got to work with the least possible delay, and soon had the trio in the cells — pretty good work. The police have not located the money or cheques, but expect this to come to light in due time.

Leaving the Fulkerson store, the trio of bandits went south on Russell street and west on Devine, and this trail assisted the police in coming to the residence of Cazzaro, the father, where the two Cazzaro brothers and Saloniki were located and arrested. Tony Cazzaro has been in the city about a week, and has been working in a restaurant in Baby City, the brother running a taxi in Windsor. The father is an employee of th Imperial Oil Company Limited. They will appear for trial to-day.

Rush Now to the New Mining Areas.

OTTAWA, February 4 (Canadian Press). — Referring to the rush now in progress from Mayo to the newly discovered silver region of Beaver River district in the Yukon Territory, W. E. Cockfield, of the Geological Survey, says:

Silver lead ores have been discovered at many points and with much of the area still unprospected there is excellent chance that further discoveries will be made. The district is fairly accessible, being within a few miles of the territory already prospected and partly worked.

OLD NEWSPAPER PLANT REDUCED TO BLACK RUIN

Norwood 'Register' Building Totally Destroyed With Butcher Shop, Garage and Carriage Shop Early on Sunday Morning—Partially Insured.

DISCOVERED ABLAZE.

NORWOOD, February 4 (Special to The Examiner). — The fine brick building and plant of the Norwood Register newspaper, owned by J. G. Keefer & Son, was totally destroyed by fire which broke out about five o'clock on Sunday morning in a nearby building owned by Hugh McDonald, and occupied by M. H. Lonsberry as a butcher shop.

The buliding on the other side of the butcher shop, owned by the Pearce Estate, and occupied by F. A. Webb as a carriage shop and George A Hamblyn as an automobile tire repair shop, was also burned.

The Register building was a modern, well-equipped newspaper home, erected by Messrs. Keefer for their business.

The butcher shop, a large two-storey building, was a mass of flames when discovered, consequently little or nothing was saved from the Register office, and the loss is a heavy one, as the office was one of the best equipped country printing plants in the Province.

A quantity of new furiture and other equipment belonging to Mr. McDonald and stored in the heart of the building occupied by the butcher shop, was also destroyed.

The large new factory and machine shop owned by Messrs. H. G. Buck & Son, west of the Register office, was seriously threatened.

The combined fire loss will be about $15,000, only partially covered by insurance.

The Register is among the oldest newspapers in Ontario, having celebrated its fiftieth anniversary three years ago.

Arrangements are already under way to secure premises and re-establish the Register.

ONLY ONE REBEL FORCE REMAINS

Obregon Has Conquered All But Estrado's Army--Way Open to Both the "Rebel Capitals."

MEXICO CITC, February 4.—As the second month of the revolution closes there is only one sizeable army of rebels still undefeated.

This is the force of former War Minister General Enrique Estrada, in the State of Michoacan. So far General Estrada has evaded a direct issue with the Federal forces.

The disaster to the Southern rebels at Llano Grande and Esperanza leaves the way open for the Federals all the way to the Gulf of Mexico. Both of the "rebel capitals," Vera Cruz in the south and Guadalajura in the west, are accessible to the Federals whenever they wish to enter them, according to the War Office.

It is freely predicted that the rebellion will collapse before another month. With the Federal occupation of the port of Vera Cruz only a few days off, the so-called provisional government there is expected to adjourn to Havana.

However, until the Estrada forces are rounded up in Michoacan and decisively beaten there, that section of the rebellion will continue to constitute the most formidable of all the revolutionory forces.

The mountainous nature of Michoacan makes a round-up of the rebels there a tough job, and the Government is likely to be occupied for a long time in chasing the small raiding groups.

DRAGGED MINER FROM PLATFORM

Deposed District President Created Bedlam at Close of Mine Workers' Convention.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., February 4. — Amid riotous scenes the biennial convention of the United Mine Workers of America was declared adjourned sine die by President John L. Lewis on Saturday.

Adjournment was announced by the president while the delegates howled as Alexander Howat, deposed president of the Kansas District, was dragged from the platform by two sergeants-at-arms.

Howat sought to address the convention on the report of the Appeals and Grievances Committee which refused to consider a plea for his reinstatement in the union.

While the shouting was going on President Lewis declared that a vote taken on the committee's report showed its adoption.

The president hammered in vain for order, and then declared the convention finally adjourned.

CUTTING WILL BE PERMITTED LOCAL WATERS

Ice Cutting Controversy Disposed of Today by the Local Board of Health.

TO ISSUE PERMITS

"That permits be issued by Dr. T. W. H. Young, Medical Officer of Health to cut ice, to those who make application, providing the ice be used for cooling purposes only, and no person shall cut or store ice for such purpose without such permit," also

"No ice shall be stored or sold to be used within the city of Peterboro for domestic or public use when it comes in contact with food or drinks for domestic or public consumption in the city of Peterboro without a permit being first obtained from the Medical Officer of Health of the said city."

The above is the text of two resolutions that ended a discussion by the Peterboro Board of Health at their regular meeting this morning, on the subject of ice-cutting, which was raised by the printing of a notice forbidding such cutting within a certain area, followed by a visit of Peterboro representatives to Dr. J. W. S. McCullough in Toronto.

Mr. G. H. Duncan, chairman of the Board, presided over the meeting, which was attended by Dr. T. W. H. Young, Mayor J. J. Turner, Messrs. Jas. J. Lynch, C. H. Rogers and City Clerk Armstrong. The latter read a letter from Dr. N. H. Sutton of the 23rd of January, drawing the attention of the local Board to the order prohibiting the cutting of ice, reminding them that it was part of their duty to carry out the order, and suggesting that the local police force be notified regarding its enforcement. The letter recently received from Dr. McCullough, recording the authority of the local Board alone to deal with the matter, was also read, and an application was received from W. Bromwell, for a permit to cut ice on Boyler's Creek.

With the suggestion made by Mayor Turner that Dr. Sutton's letter was issued prematurely and without proper authority, the Board turned its attention to the consideration of its duty in the matter. Mr. Lynch enquired how the "ice got so bad all at once," Chairman Duncan recollected that it had been pronounced pure last July, when a sample was submitted for test, and Dr. Young thought it couldn't be more impure now that at that time.

Mr. Duncan: "They say that germs which are frozen for a certain length of time don't exist after that."

Mr. Lynch: "It is the duty of the local board to see that the ice is as pure as possible. Are we quite sure that the sanitary ice is pure, too?"

Mr. Rogeres suggested that tests be made at the local laboratory, thus putting the onus on the man bringing in the sample.

Dr. Young: "These ice men are losing time now. They are anxious to get the ice harvested."

Mr. Lynch: "We don't want to see injustice done any individual, but

RETAIN GOODWILL

LONDON, Feb. 4. United Press.)—The personal letters exchanged by Premiers MacDonald and Poincare which have aroused interest because of the novelty of such a procedure, were published to-day.

On January 26, the British Labor Premier wrote to Poincare recalling the Anglo-French sacrifices in a common cause and expressing grief that so many points remained unsettled.

"I assure you it will be my daily endeavor to help settle them to our mutual benefit," MacDonald wrote adding the hope that by strenuous good-will he and Poincare would be able to settle their conflicts and devise policies of co-operation enabling France and England to "advance together and establish peace and security in Europe."

Two days later Poincare replied cautiously expressing his confidence that they would be able to effect "that Anglo-French co-operation which is essential to world tranquility."

SAYS LOSS OF EIGHT LIVES COULD HAVE BEEN AVERTED

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 4. —That the now undoubted loss of eight lives resulting from the collision between the Peruvian steamer Perena and the schooner Maid of Scotland, which occurred early Friday morning near the Fairway Buoy, south of Partridge Island, might have been averted had the tackle attached to the small boat on the steamer not been swollen and frozen, was a statement made to-day by Chief Officer Walter Lowox, of the Perena.

He explained that the warm spell had swollen the ropes and then the sudden drop in temperature had caused them to freeze in the blocks, making handling slow and difficult. In the mad haste to launch the boat one of the tackles had been cut away with a knife, but this only materially helped. He said that the time it took to launch the boat would have been sufficient to save all of the unfortunate men.

TWELVE KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK

Crews of Both Trains and Dispatcher Held

ANDERSON, Ind, Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press).—The crews of both trains and dispatcher were ordered to be held by Coroner Jesse Helbert who began an investigation yesterday in to the wreck oi two Indiana union traction trains near the village of Alphone late Saturday, which took a toll of twelve dead and 45 injured. Interstate Commission is also conducting an investigation into the accident.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Child's Hair With

If you want to keep children's hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing as this can not possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitation. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

AIRING CLOTHES.

If the air in a closet or wardrobe seems close and dead, place your electric fan in there, let it operate for a few minutes, and the condition will be remedied.

MOIST CAKE BOX.

Keep an apple in your cake box to keep the cake from drying out. Change the apple, of course, whenever it begins to show signs of withering or decaying.

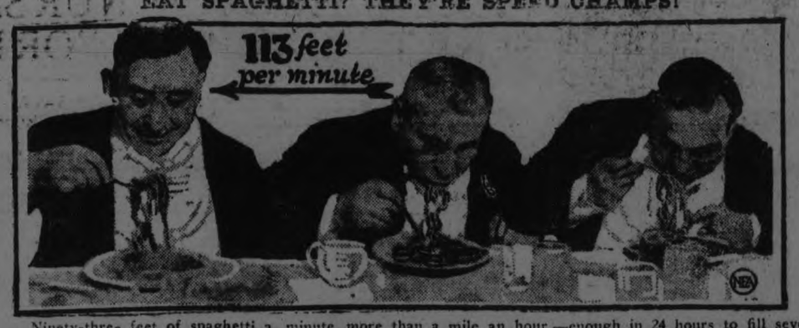
EAT SPAGHETTI? THEY'RE SPEED CHAMPS!



Ninety-three feet of spaghetti a minute, more than a mile an hour —enough in 24 hours to fill several ships and two box cars—that's the way Frank Rufalo, new spaghetti eating champs, eats it. Frank, who is shown at the left of the picture, won the title in his home town, Kansas City, when he stowed away 1130 feet of Sicilian cabbage in 11 minutes. He took the title from Walter Randazzo, shown in the centre, after Randazzo entangled his napkin with his spaghetti, and lost precious time trying to chew a corner of it. Peter D. La Petina, right, finished third in Kansas City's great "Spaghetti Derby."

THE P.C.I. LITERARY SOCIETY

The Fourth Form staged their stunt as the programme for the P. C. I. Literay Society's meeting Friday afternoon. The stunt was a charade in four acts. The word being "judicious" and acted in three syllables—"jew" "dish" and "us," as the first three scenes and the whole word being portrayed in the final scene.

The play was remarkably funny keeping the audience in hysterics during nearly every minute of the little play. The acting was remarkable good, considering the short space of two weeks given for preparation. The costumes were many and varied giving the young actors free use of their own skill in making up. Each act was neatly connected with the previous and this increased the quality of the little play.

Allan Neal and Grant Niller were screamingly funny as the two Jews, new members of the British "beerage" who thrust themselves in upon Lord De Fendus reception and who enter the home of the peer in the dead of night to "snitch" the antique and valued vase of the English noble. The third scene was in the servant's quarters and the servants made many laughable remarks. In the final scene the culprits are dragged in by Erlock Sholmes and the mystery of the stolen dish cleared up and "judiciously" settled.

The whole play was carried off naturally and without any glaring defects. This is the second stunt in the Inter-Form stunt competition of the Literary Society. Fifth Form staged their stunt two weeks ago with remarkable skill, but many are of the opinion that Fourth Form's effort o'ersteps Fifth and that the stunt banner will adorn Fourth's walls yet another year. However, no judgment will be given till all the forms have had an opportunity to perform.

The play was written by Allan Neal, assisted by Harry Ebbs. Parodies by Grant Miller. The scenic effects are by Messrs. William Yelland, Ross Lord and George Cunningham.

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, Feb. 4.—Mr. F. M. Field, K.C., town solicitor, has given his opinion as to whether the town of Cobourg should have a second deputy-reeve or not as follows:

That the electors of the town of Cobourg had a right on the 31st of December, 1923 (nomination day), to elect a second deputy-reeve. It follows, probability, be submitted at the next regular meeting of the Cobourg Town Council.

The list of voters of the town as it stands today, it is contended, entitled the town to a second deputy-reeve at the time that municipal nominations and election took place.

The matter has occasioned considerable speculation in the town since it was brought to the attention of electors on nomination day, and keen interest is being taken in its outcome.

Cobourg Bonds Sell at $101.65

At noon on Thursday the 22 tenders submitted by different firms for the purchase of $113,829.98 of local improvement debentures were opened by Mayor Boggs and the members of the finance committee. Stewart McNair & Co's offer at $101.65, was accepted. Some of the offers made were: Bain Snowball Co., $101.517; Stewart McNair & Co., $101.65; Bell Gouinlock & Co., $100.75; R. A. Daly Co., $100.92; Nesbitt Thompson Co., $100.53; Wood, Gundy & Co., $100,98; Dyment, Anderson & Co., $100.83; Municipal Bankers' Assocn., $100.083; Housser Wood Co., $101.559; Gairdner Clarke & Co., $100.-31; Gross Forget Co., $101.48; H. Burgess & Co., $99.63; McLeod Weir & Co., $99.-53; Mathews Co., $99.42; A. J. Patterson, $97.70.

It is considered that the price at which the bonds sold speaks well for the credit of Cobourg.

Death of J. G. Macdougall

John Gladwyn Macdougall, who died at Ottawa recently, was a grandson of the late Dr. John Beatty, of Cobourg, and a nephew of the late Mrs. John Daintry of this town. He was a son of the late Hon. William Macdougall, K. C., M.B., one of the Fathers of Confederation and first minister of public works after confederation, holding that office when the first House of Commons was erected. Mr. Macdougall was educated at Trinity College School, Port Hope, and Trinity College, Toronto. He served with the Strathcona Horse in the South African War, and with the Canadian Expeditionary Force in the late great war.

St. Peter's Men Held Social Evening

St. Andrew's Brotherhood, a new organization in St. Peter's Church here, of which Rev. Canon Sawers is rector, held a very pleasant social gathering on Friday night in the I. O. O. F. Hall. Ex-mayor Dan. Denton was chairman and in a short address spoke of the object of the association. Mr. Fred Friend, Mr. George Page gave songs and duets, and Mr. J. Edward Fisher, piano solos. Games of various kinds were played and later a delectable luncheon was served, which was thoroughly enjoyed, thus bringing to a close a pleasant evening.

Great Future For Agriculture

"Agriculture has a great future if we but develop the co-operative spirit," was a remark made by Mrs. J. S. Ames, president of the United Farm Women of Ontario, in an address in the I. O. O. F. Hall at Trenton before the Trenton Farmers' Club. She referred to the splendid work done by Canadian pioneers, and said we should make the most of our heritage so as to leave rural Ontario a little better than we found it. Mrs. Ames emphasized the social and educational value of the U. F. O. and the U. F. W. O. to rural communities.

Entered Store

On Thursday morning an unknown man entered Mr. De Lisle's store at Trenton, where Miss De Lisle was in charge, the former being out delivering goods, and helped himself to several cans of pork and beans, other groceries and cigarettes. The police were notified and the man is stated to have been traced as far as Smithfield in East Northumberland, where he was lost trace of. Occurrences of this kind appear to be getting altogether too common.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: Have read Mr. Merrill's "awful attack" on the King Government for its increase, as he says, of the Civil Service.

Mr. Merrill wants to know what the explanation is.

The explanation is that Mr. Merrill's statement is not true. The King Government have decreased, not increased, the Civil Service, and the cost of it.

Let me tell Mr. Merrill and his friends that an attack like is is like the kick of the mule in the story, which showed how it could kick by kicking its owner. FAIR PLAY.

INSECT POISONS VS. DISEASE

Mr. Editor: May I trespass further on your favor to answer two important questions which "a reader" addressed to me through your pages some days ago. They were put forward in the discussion on vaccination. As I stood out against the germ theory, the writer asked me to explain away insect poisons and epidemics of disease.

I am well aware of the difficulties of this task and can only give some impressions which have seemed important to me in certain biological aspects. We can hardly deny that an insect carries off the honors of the fight, if in his contact with the body, he has put it out of order, and we must admit that certain of the species have this inherent power. Can our observation give us any grounds to believe that the tiny enemy on wings has an advantage which humanity, as a whole, has not yet been born into. I believe we can answer in the affirmative. Man is a terrestrial organism and his enemy the insect, an ariel organism. Man's body still reflects largely his earthly environment, the major portion of which is aquatic. The insect, on the other hand, is attuned to far different vibrations, its relations with the atmosphere, the mobility, elasticity and translucency of which, as a fluid, are far superior to water, emanating from the nervous structure of the insect are vibratory forces which can cause disruption in the human body.

We may call the results which appear in the body by whatever name we choose, but the probability is, man, with his slower modis of vibration, shows in this contact with his ariel neighbor, a shock to the nervous organization, which means disunity throughout the bodily organs. This effect, the physiological student works out in a later stage as the result of certain germs, being unable, with his microscope, to follow into deeper causes.

The question arises, can man, with his own power of volition, face the combat with hopes of success. We say that he can if he has become truly aware of his own higher relationships which lift him beyond the ariel plane of any insect, for while he is related through his respiratory organs to the ariel world his wonderful cerebral instrumentalities lift him into the magnetic world the powerful susceptibilities and emanations of which, directed through his mind upon the bodily organs, can restore harmony and unity; but this, in the majority of cases, does not take place.

The individual who has been affected has been taught to have no faith in his own powers; therefore, he turns to some outside agent. The physician does not even apply his higher power directly, but takes the poor sufferer a stage lower and injects a little bovine matter. How far the mind of the vivisector or physician enters into any cure we may, perhaps, never know, but I know from practice and observation that, given a patient whose mind is a lready predisposed to a certain treatment, and faith in a certain healer and restoration to health is, in the majority of cases, assured.

Now, I would like, briefly, to make some remarks on this second question. Can individuals contract certain diseases other than by contact, as in the case of epidemics. I believe, when the germ theory has been exploded, the wonderful laws of vibration will be studied in their bearing upon the human mind, and when all available information can be tabled, a new view of the human family may be accorded us. We may find the scientific student marking them out in their order. Genera and species, the thought forces of the individual and their action upon the bodily organs may receive more attention, and in this department we may get some wonderful light on these conflagrations of certain diseases.

We know that individuals differ widely, but it is possible we may find whole groups which are bounded within a certain vibratory limit and who are closely related through conscious and subconscious mental action, any serious disturbance taking place within this group may, through those vibratory affinities, affect the whole order, no matter where they may be in residence, with results such as we have witnessed or which are recorded in history.

I will not go further into this question for it would take much time and space to explain away many things in regard to the bacteria and epidemic theory. Nor am I vain enough to presume that these views which I have presented are without error. They are, as I have remarked, certain impressions which my mind received while studying the various subjects in conjunction with others I trust they will serve as a reply to the questions addressed to me by "a reader," and which lack of time has kept me from answering sooner.

Yours faithfully,
197 Mark St. Jos. GRIERSON.

BODY ALFRED FIRMAN HELD FOR RELATIVES

Coroner Dr. J. Holdcroft Explains Why Body Remained Unburied for Two Weeks.

Havelock, Feb. 2nd, 1924.
Editor, Peterborough Examiner:

In your issue of to-day you publish a story from your Staff Reporter re the treatment of the body of the late Alfred Firman, of Belmont which was evidently drawn from imagination (I do not say whose) and is far from the true state of affairs.

Mr. Firman was found dead in bed on the morning of the 21st of January and I was called. I went to see him and decided death was from natural causes and an inquest was not necessary. I immediately placed Messrs. Brunton and Tyler in charge of his stock and took proceedings to find his mother, who was on a visit to the United States. I sent a telegram to Albany to an address received from a neighbor and got a request from the Telegraph Company for a better address. Messrs. Brunton and Tyler drove twenty miles to see her brother and got the same address, which I wired to the Chief of Police in Albany, asking him to hunt her up and also to put an ad. in the Albany papers if he could not find her. This is not my interpretation of what your Staff Reporter calls neglect or masterly official inactivity, and the Reeves of Havelock and Belmont were aware of what was being done.

Your reporter says "the only mourner was his dog, which kept unceasing vigil by the casket of his master." How tragic. The fact is, Mr. Brunton took the dog away the morning I viewed the body and it has been tied up at Brunton's home ever since.

As to the grain, one would infer 300 bushels had been stolen. I can give you the names of the people who bought 200 bushels and 29 head of stock would easily consume the 100 since fall.

As to the Government official coming in less than 24 hours, that story is the same as the rest of the report. The Attorney General, Mr. Greene, was notified on Monday and Mr. Greene arrived here on Friday, not 24 hours after, as stated by your reporter. Mr. Greene ordered the burial to take place at once (Sunday at the latest) and I absolutely refused to comply with his orders. I told him I would not issue a burial permit till I heard definitely that Firman's mother could not be found.

Mr. Greene found everything in order and confirmed my appointment of Messrs. Brunton and Tyler.

More could be said on the subject but I do not wish to take up your valuable space, except to say there is a sequel to every story and the sequel to this one is that the mother arrived to-day. Her first words when she reached Mr. Brunton were: "Oh, you have not buried him yet, I can surely see him," and the look in her face, when she was assured he was not buried, amply repays us for any unjust criticisms that may have been made.

Yours sincerely,
J. Holdcroft, M.D.,
Associate Coroner for Peterborough County.

FUNERAL POSTPONED.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

TRENT BRIDGE, February 4.—Rachel Cooney, mother of Alfred Firman, who died two weeks ago on Sunday, and whose remains have not yet been buried arrived here on Saturday. The funeral originally set for Sunday has been postponed until Wednesday, and the place finally selected for the interment is Maple Grove Cemetery.

W. T. Curtis, the undertaker at Havelock, who has charge of the funeral, said to The Examiner representative over the telephone on Saturday that the delay which has caused so much comment throughout the district, was due to the efforts made by the authorities to locate the mother of the deceased, her address in the United States, where she was visiting friends, not being known.

No one it seems, was willing to assume the responsibility of burying the dead man until the mother was heard from.

The Examiner representative in the report of the case published on Saturday, endeavoured to make this point clear.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Annual Meeting of the East Durham Conservatives--Outlook Bright

MILLBROOK, Feb. 4.—The annual meeting of the East Durham Liberal-Conservative Association was held in the Town Hall, Millbrook, on Saturday, the retiring president, J. H. Paul, occupying the chair. Delegates were present from Port Hope, Cavan and Millbrook, but none from Hope or Manvers. The delegation from Port Hope would have been much larger had any day other than Saturday been chosen for the gathering, business men finding it almost impossible to attend on that day.

In his opening address, Mr. Paul explained that owing to unsettled conditions during war time and since no election of officers had been held since his appointment in 1916. However, he believed the Conservative party to be now in good shape, and we expect to keep it that way. It is not smashed yet, nor is it going to be. We are proud of the Government of Ontario, and hope soon to have another equally good at Ottawa." In conclusion, the President urged the benefits arising from a Dorcourh organization.

The secretary's position being vacant owing to the death of W. S. Given, on motion, L. C. Russell was appointed to act in that capacity. The minutes of the special meeting called in May, 1923, to select a candidate for the Provincial House, A. J. Fallis being the unanimous choice, were read, and also those of the last annual meeting in December, 1916. On motion of L. H. Winslow and J. W. Hamilton, the minutes were adopted, and signed.

Moved by J. A. Vance, seconded by J. W. Hamilton, that the calling of the roll be dispensed with. Carried.

Considerable discussion re the finances took up some time, those speaking to the question being: H. C. Brundette, Port Hope; A. Noble, Port Hope; J. A. Vance, L. C. Russell, W. Earle, A. J. Fallis, M.P.P., L. H. Winslow and J. H. Paul. Two dollars per annum is due from each local association to the East Durham Association, but no collection of funds has been made since 1916, the treasurer, W. Earle, reporting only four dollars on hand.

Moved by H. C. Brundette seconded by L. H. Winslow, that the President and Secretary prepare a statement of amount of indebtedness and send same to each local association asking that it be discharged forthwith. Also that all bills presented be O.K.'d by the President and Secretary and the Treasurer instructed to pay same as soon as funds are on hand. Carried.

The following officers were then elected:

President—H. C. Brundette, Port Hope.

Vice-Presidents — Presidents of local associations in the Riding: Cavan, L. H. Winslow; Hope, J. A. Beatty; Port Hope, G. A. Smith; Millbrook, J. J. Clarke; Manvers, O. Staples.

Secretary—L. C. Russell.

Treasurer—William Earle.

The general orders of business being concluded the retiring president, J. H. Paul, vacated the chair after thanking those present for their loyal support and asserting "he did not intend to lie down now and do nothing, but would still work to advance the party interests."

H. C. Brundette, in taking the chair, stated that he "would everything in his power to make the next four years the banner years of the organization. We have a big job, but I believe the Association is big enough for the job." Following a man whose record it would be difficult to live up to, he hoped with that gentleman's assistance, to do his utmost to bring things to a successful issue. He regretted not being well acquainted with the electors in this part of the riding as he shortly intended to be, and emphasized the fact that as we now have a Conservative Government in the Province and a Conservative member representing us, the latter should be made cognizant of the needs of the riding, and he would then be in a position to seek to have them supplied. "It is entirely up to you, gentlemen, whether you get what you want or not."

He was followed by L. H. Winslow, president of the Cavan Township Association, who strongly upheld the two-party system and condemned class organization. The latter he felt the farmers had no need of, as they control practically two-thirds of the votes in the Dominion. "There has been too much 'hole and corner' legislation, which is not representative of the whole constituency."

Brief addresses were also made by Reeve J. L. McCamus, G. A. Fair, past president of the Cavan Association, W. Earle, T. H. Aiken, Stuart Fallis, N. Belch, A. Noble, Port Hope, was then called upon, who stated that this was his thirty-seventh trip as a delegate to the East Durham Association. He felt it a great honor that the new president should return with their party, and assured the gathering that the town would appreciate the honor also. The Conservative party had not been as compact and tight a body as he believed it should have been, but the outlook for the future was a brigh one, and he would do his best to forward its interests.

R. S. Hancock, assistant secretary of the Port Hope Association, referred to the large majority which his town had piled up for the present member in the last election — six hundred and eighty votes was the largest majority given in many years, and represented much concentrated effort. Both in England, which he had left twenty years ago, and in Canada, the speaker had never been anything but Conservative, "because I believe there is only one party true to God, King and Country." "The only 'King' we don't want is the one now at Ottawa as head of the Federal government." He believed the present member would be true to his pre-election promises and others, seeing his dependability would then be led to join the party he represents.

A. J. Fallis, M.P.P., was greeted with hearty applause as he rose to speak. This was his first opportunity of addressing the electors and expressing his appreciation of their loyal support since the "signal victory of June 26th, 1923."

Organization had been somewhat abnormal since the Union Government came into power in 1917, but he emphasized its importance and the impossibility of keeping up to standard without it. He was opposed to group government and believed the people of Ontario were of the same opinion, as their action last June had testified. Like the previous speaker, Mr. Fallis said he endorsed fully the principles and policies of the Conservative party, and thought the Association should make choice of a candidate for the Dominion House, "get behind him and send him there."

Briefly reviewing the legislation which was likely to come before the House during the coming session, he mentioned Hydro development, highway construction and improved educational facilities, and stated his firm conviction that when demands for capital expenditure are made there should be an equal division of benefits arising therefrom. The time has come when the necessity of extending Hydro to the rural sections must be considered that agriculture may be added and enjoy similar advantages with other parts of the Province.

The Premier has given assurance that Provincial highway construction is to be carried on, but economy is necessary at present by all public bodies, and the speaker believed that retrenchment, consistent with the needs of the Province, is the policy of the present Government. Agriculture should be given all necessary assistance, for "what other calling renders a like service to humanity? Food and clothing are primal necessities, and these the agriculturist supplies."

With the assertion that "education is the root and foundation of national success," Mr. Fallis said he would never rest satisfied until rural people have equal advantages with urban centres. Some changes in the public school curriculum are contemplated, but the problems of the present generation are more difficut of solution than those of any preceding period, and it is well to move slowly when questions of national importance are being settled.

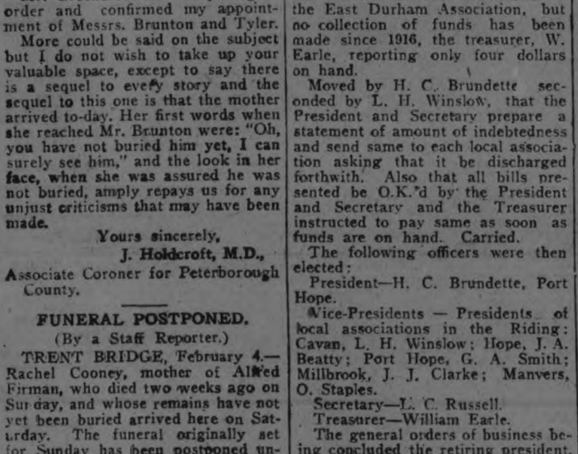
Expressing his desire to worthily represent East Durham, the member asked that he might have the opportunity of meeting the electors as often as possible, "and that you will let me know what I can do for you. I hope you may never have cause to regret electing A. J. Fallis as your representative."

A resolution was moved by J. H. Paul, "That this convention place on record its unbounded confidence in the Premier of the Province, the Honodable Howard Ferguson, and also in the Honorable Arthur Meighan, whom they hoped soon to see Premier in the Federal House." The resolution carried by a standing vote.

Moved by A. J. Fallis, seconded by A. Noble, that a letter of condolence be sent to Mrs. W. S. Given, expressing the deep appreciation felt by the East Durham Liberal-Conservative Association of the faithful services rendered by the late Mr. W. S. Given, who was for several years the efficient secretary of the organization, and also expressing the sense of severe loss suffered by the Association through his removal by death.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem. Those present were: H. C. Brundette, R. S. Hancock, A. Noble, Port Hope; R. J. McKnight, J. H. Paul, J. W. Hamilton, G. Hootan, J. Might, N. Belch, G. A. Fair, Wilbert Thorne, J. A. Vance, L. C. Russell, E. Earle, W. Fallis, H. A. Fallis, L. H. Winslow, L. McNeil, L. W. Smith, T. H. Aiken, S. Fallis, L. S. Hutchison, E. Keegan, H. Roddy, J. L. McCamus, J. R. Eakins, H. A. Earle and W. W. Brown.

The playgoers of Millbrook will have a chance of seeing "The Whip" the great Drury Lane success, which will be shown tomorrow (Tuesday) at the Town Hall. This picture is the same one that was shown in all the large centres of the country.



PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE SENT TO CAMPBELLFORD

Miss Reba Veitch, Appointed By the Provincial Board of Health For Three Months, Will Devote Herself to Town's Physical Welfare—Visit Homes and Schools.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 4.—Miss Reba Veitch, public health nurse has arrived here and under the auspices of the Provincial Board of Health, will for the next three months, conduct a campaign of education in matters pertaining to the physical welfare of the community. She will have an office in the Ferris block, the home of all the municipal departments in town.

Miss Veitch comes here on the invitation of the local Board of Health, served by the members at their first meeting of the year, when Mayor Meyers was elected chairman. The other members are Dr. W. P. Loucks M.O.H., and John Gay, who were re-appointed for another term at the inaugural meeting of the town council. The Board adopted a resolution instructing Secretary John F. McGregor to write the Provincial Board asking that a health nurse be sent to Campbellford, and the arrival of Miss Veitch is the answer.

This is a new step, so far as Campbelford is concerned, although such action has been taken in nearly all the larger towns and cities of Ontario. Very little health or welfare work, however, has yet been done in the counties of Northumberland and Durham.

Province Pays.

It is perhaps as well to explain at the outset that the coming of Miss Veitch does not mean any additional financial burden to the taxpayers except for the comparatively small item of office rent.

Her salary is paid by the Provincial Board which will also defray other expenses in conection with her work here.

Campbellford has never had medical inspection in the public schools, and this will be one of the chief fields in which Miss Veith will operate. First of all it will be necessary for her to get permission from the Board of Education to visit the schools, and this she will ask for at the annual meeting Wednesday night. It is believed that the request will be granted without dissent.

Although Miss Veitch is an expert, having had training in her vocation, she does not profess to be a medical practitioner, and will not assume to make a diagnosis of the physical condition of any pupil. She can observe, however, and offer advice, referring the parents of the child to the family doctor. If she suspects a case of adenoids or of diseased tonsils, the parents will be advised. Defective teeth are more easily detected, and here again information will be sent to the parents. If by actual test on the scales children are found to be below normal weight for their age, recommendations as to a suitable diet will be made.

There are a number of children attending Campbellford schools from so great a distance that they are obliged to bring their dinners with them. The providing of hot lunches for these has been one of the aims of the public health nurse and it is likely that some of the women organizations in town will be asked to cooperate, just as they have done in other places.

Reaching the Homes.

The schools will be the real starting point of the work which Miss Veitch has undertaken. Through the children she will get in touch with the parents whose sympathy is essential to the success of the movement.

Another work and one of the most important of all, is the is the instructing of mothers in the care of children, infants especially. Public health nurses agree from their experience, that while there are many little ones improperly nourished and inadequately clothed, this is due not to neglect or poverty in the majority of cases but to a lack of knowledge of what is required. To correct this condition is one of the chief aims of the health authorities and welfare workers.

Since this work has been taken up, the statistics of infant mortality is he best index of the measure of success that has been met with. The death rate among infants under one year old has of late years fallen from 200 in every 1000 born to less than 100 in a 1000.

Mothers' Conferences.

In some towns and cities Well Babies' Clinics are held at which infants are treated by medical men of experience in children's ailments. Instead of these clinics Miss Veitch proposes to hold a series of mothers' conferences in which instruction in the care of children will be given.

At the end of Miss Veitch's term of service the town will be in a position to decide whether it is advisable to secure a permanent health nurse, her expenses to be borne by the municipality. This has been the outcome of the experiment in other places, and there are now in Ontario 16 nurses engaged in field work. The scope of their operations is wider than that of the nurses who are under the provincial board of health, as they nurse the sick who are too poor to secure such services for themselves.

Miss Veitch, who comes to town highly recommended, and whose best credential, perhaps, is her enthusiasm in her chosen profession, will be pleased to meet any ladies who are interested in welfare work.

CAMPBELLFORD CURLING NEWS

Lumbering Industry Not Entirely Dead in Seymour Township--Personal Mention.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 4—The lumbering business, which was at one time the leading industry of this vicinity is not dead entirely and the forest wealth of Seymour township is not yet exhausted. Anyone can be convinced of the truth of these statements by a visit to the sawmill of McKelvie and McCook, on Sebasta pool street, which is rapidly being stocked up for the summer's run. Ever since the snow came farmers have been bringing in logs every day and some fine specimens of timber, especially basswood, are to be seen. This firm had a large cut of lumber last year and this season promises to be as good. The Town Council last year agreed to build a bridge across the creek at the mill and if this is done the improvement will not only be a help to the firm in getting their lumber to the station but will be an advantage to the residents of the vicinity. At present the only means of crossing the creek at that point is a narrow plank and during the freshet last year at least one drowning accident was narrowly averted.

The funeral of the late L. F. Gould, was held on Friday morning at his late residence on Sebastapool street. It was well attended. Rev. W. Elliott, pastor of the Methodist Church was in charge. Rev. Mr. Bennett, pastor of the Baptist church, who is a neighbor, led in prayer, Rev. J. Glover Rear street, pastor of Seymour circuit, read the Bible lesson, and Rev. W. Elliott gave a very helpful and thoughtful address.

The remains were taken to Wooler. The pall bearers: Wm. Runnells J. Taylor, A. Bonney, W. J. Abernethy, A.J. Beavis and S. A. Maguire.

The flowers included: a cross from Miss Martin, Mr. J. P. Archer and J. M. Ferris of Ferris' store, where the late Mr. Gould was employed for a number of years; a wreath from the Methodist church; Gates Ajar, from the neighbors; Wreath from Mr. R. C. Johnston of Montreal who boarded at the hom of Mr. and Mrs. Gould for several years; a sheaf from Miss Hutcheson and a large bunch of pale pink roses from Miss McFarlane of Keene

Those who attended the funeral from out of town were: Mr. A. C. Dafoe of Belleville and Mr. R. C. Johnston of Montreal.

The late Mr. L. F. Gould was born in Wooler on September 19th 1867. He lived there for a good many years keeping store with his brothers. The store was known as 'Gould Bros' Store.'

On September 16th 1891 he married Miss Josephine Scott also of Wooler, who died just a few months previous to his death under very much the same circumstances as Mr. Gould both having strokes and not regaining consciousness during their short illness.

About twenty years ago they moved to Campbellford and Mr. Gould was employed in J. B. Ferris and Co's store for several years. There were formerly four brothers two of whom are now living. George M., having died in the West several years ago on Jan. 27th; L. F. died on Jan. 30th. The two brothers living are Mr. W. W. Gould now in Los Angeles, but late of Edmonton, and A. A. Gould of Dryden, Ontario, who came home to see his brother before he died and who is remaining a few days in town before returning to his home in the West.

The late Mr. Gould was an active member of the Methorist Church as long as he had his health, having been recording secretary of the Official Board for a good many years. He was a quiet and retiring disposition, but very faithful and true to his friends and very conscientious and systematic in all his business dealings.

BAND CONCERT CAMPBELLFORD

Will Soon Need a Larger Building to Accommodate the Crowd.

CAMPBELLFORD, February 4.—If the Sunday evening sacred concerts given by the Northumberland Regimental Band increase in popularity as they have done steadily from the beginning, the next problem that will arise will be the securing of a larger building in which to hold the entertainments.

The attendance at the concert last night was the largest yet. Every chair in the Regent Theatre was taken and every inch of standing room, except in the aisles, was occupied. A number were unable to gain admittance on any terms, and were obliged to return home disappointed.

Last night the programme was up to the high standard which the band has always maintained. The first selection was "Holy, holy, holy," the hymn that is used as the opening number in the services in so many of the churches. This was followed by a medley of familiar hymn tunes, exquisitely rendered by the twenty-five musicians who were in their places last night.

"The Wayside Chapel," one of the popular numbers in a former programme, was last night repeated by request. The remainder of the programme was the same as that announced some days ago, with the exception that Arthur Collison, one of the town's favourite soloists, was unable to be present.

David Jamieson rendered two vocal solos, and was heartily applauded after each number.

Bandmaster Cowell accompanied him on the piano.

C. L. Owen, who had been announced as chairman for the evening, was kept away by a severe cold, and the entertainment proceeded without a presiding official, Bandmaster Cowell making the announcements.

The collection amounted to $27.22. Following the usual custom, part of the proceeds will be devoted to charity and the balance will be used for the purchase of new music.

The theatre is well heated and lighted for these concerts, at the expense of Captain Hyland, who gives the use of the building to the band absolutely free.

News Notes.

The Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Church will give a musicale in the School Room on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All ladies are invited.

Can You Save 60 cents a Week?

For a man between the ages of twenty-three and thirty, about 60c. a week will maintain an Imperial 20-Payment Life Policy for $1,000.

If, after you have paid but one premium on such a policy you should die, this Company would immediately pay $1,000.00 to your wife or other beneficiary. That $1,000.00 invested at 6% would yield your heirs an income of $1.15 a week as long as they live, and still leave the principal intact.

Consider what a wonderfully safe investment it is! One policyholder said recently "the only thing I possess that is worth one hundred cents on the dollar is my life insurance policy, and I regret to-day that I am not carrying five times as much."

NORWOOD'S FIRE LOSS.

The city and county of Peterborough will sympathise with the people of Norwood in the serious property loss it suffered by the fire on Sunday morning, which wiped out a butcher shop, garage and carriage shop, and the Norwood Register newspaper office and printing plant.

Norwood bears quite a number of scars of other fires, some of them of comparatively recent record, and to-day another charred and blackened ruin presents a pitiful gap in the business section, where stood for years buildings, such as the Register office, which have established themselves by faithful, enterprising service to the community, as inseparable and indispensable adjuncts of the daily affairs and business of the village.

To the proprietors of the Register, Mr. J. G. Keefer and his son, Mr. Harlan Keefer, The Examiner extends heartfelt fraternal regrets, realising from grim experience the weight of the blow misfortune has dealt them.

And as an earnest of this condolence, The Examiner, immediately upon receipt of the news of the fire, placed its typographical equipment and resources at the disposal of Messrs. Keefer, who with characteristic energy have laid out plans for the re-establishment of their printing business and newspaper.

PUT PETERBOROUGH ON THE MAP.

The attention of the City Council, Chamber of Commerce and other interested organizations is called to the announcement that the Ontario Government intends to spend $100,000 in advertising this Province as a tourist paradise, and that the preparation of the publicity is to be taken in hand at once.

An earnest effort should be made to ensure this district receiving a fair share of the advertising in the pamphlet that is to be prepared.

Last year a booklet issued by the former Government did much less than justice to the summer resorts around Peterborough, Stoney Lake, for example, being dismissed with a few paragraphs of generalities, while the charms of such localities as the northern part of Frontenac County were described to the extent of half a dozen pages.

This district does not want to monopolize the space, but there is in every resident a feeling of pride in the fact that in Rice Lake, the Otonabee River, Stoney Lake and the other lakes of the Kawartha chain and in Chemong Park we have something worth while to offer the tourist, whether he comes via the Trent waterway or by train or motor, and simple justice should entitle the district to more specific attention than was paid to it by those responsible for last year's publication.

It is the duty of our Council to see that Peterborough is fairly on the map so far as this Provincial advertising scheme is concerned.

DOWN TO BUSINESS.

Premier MacKenzie King's declaration after a two-hour conference between the Cabinet and Deputy Ministers and the Civil Service Commission that "large economies must be effected" will be applauded everywhere in Canada.

It is in line with the general feeling throughout the country that our Government overhead is too large, and that in all departments of the Government service there are opportunities for retrenchment, which if taken advantage of will materially reduce expenditure.

The Premier is applying a new method to the problem by giving the Auditor-General more authority and more responsibility, by making him only responsible for the proper accounting of all moneys paid out by the Government, but also for the magnitude of such expenditure.

A board of audit, with the Auditor-General as chairman, is given wide powers, and after a comprehensive superannuation bill has been passed and a complete inventory of the Civil Service taken, the Premier declares that a reduction of both outside and inside Civil Service must be effected either by consolidation of departments or by the releases of employees when not actually required.

That sounds very much like business, and the people generally will wish the new Auditor-General every success in his housecleaning.

HAIL, THE WORLD'S CHAMPIONS!

All Canada will be delighted that the Toronto Granites, assisted by Slater of Montreal and McMunn of Winnipeg, have maintained for this country the hockey championship of the world, won for Canada four years ago at Antwerp by the Winnipeg Falcons.

At Chamonix in France yesterday the Canadian hockeyists disposed of their most dangerous adversaries, the players representing the United States, by 6 goals to 1, a decisive margin for a final contest.

The triumph of Canada's representatives in the splendid sport, developed and brought to perfection by Canadian courage, dexterity and skill, is gratifying to every Canadian.

The series concluded yesterday has demonstrated that the land of the maple leaf stands supreme in ice hockey.

European teams were eliminated with the utmost ease by the two clubs from the new world, and the only serious opposition encountered by the Canadians was from their cousins representing the Republic to the south of us.

Canadian supremacy in hockey gives promise of being long maintained, in spite of the evidence afforded by the presence of six European teams, that the game itself is winning wide popularity.

Good skaters as are the Swedes and Swiss, quick and active as are the French, courageous and fond of sport and adaptable as are the British, there will be no dangerous challenge from any of these nationalities until they start with the youngsters and develop hockey players almost from the cradle as they are developed in this country.

As for the United States, although hockey is becoming each year more popular, the tendency to depend upon Canada for exponents of the game rather than to concentrate upon the training of the home product, has prevented the development that might have been expected

There are, it is true, some remarkably clever American-born hockeyists, but not nearly as many of them as there should be in view of the length of time the game has been played across the border.

The Granites have worthily upheld the best traditions of Canadian hockey, their victory has been without a flaw, and they are in every sense champions.

All Canada acclaims them.

AN IMPOSSIBLE POSITION.

The majority of citizens share Mayor Turner's inability to understand how the city Aldermen justify their refusal to pay Chief Newhall's salary for the last two and a half months of last year.

The members of the Council who take that stand are trying to maintain a position that is morally impossible.

The controversy out of which the present situation grew involved the respective powers of the City Council and the Police Commission—the salaries of the police force were merely incidental.

The attitude taken by the Council was that they wanted a test case in order to secure a court decision on the main point at issue, whether or not the Council had the power to reduce the estimates of the Police Commission.

The test was made possible by the co-operation offorded by Chief Newhall and his counsel, Mr. R. R. Hall, K.C., who met the wishes of the city's representatives at every point, and added items of expense in connection with the police car to the Chief's salary claim in order that the sum sued for would be over $100 and thus permit an appeal being made as the Council wished.

The case was proceeded with, and the final decision was favourable to the Council.

Everything the Aldermen professed to be striving for they have obtained, and yet up to the present they have refused to pay the salary of the Chief of Police, although that official as on duty throughout the whole period, gave his best services as usual and carried on with his work as though in full receipt of his salary.

And to make this stand even more objectionable and open to attack the salaries of the other members of the police force have now been paid in full.

How the Aldermen can attempt to justify this discrimination between the head of the police force and the members of that force is beyond comprehension.

Why they after securing the court opinion, should desire to carry on a vendetta against Chief Newhall, instead of endeavouring, in the interests of the whole community, to restore harmony and establish friendly relations in all branches of the civic machine, is equally as great a mystery.

The affair has lasted much too long.

It should be terminated by the payment of Chief Newhall's salary and the court costs, the first because the Chief of Police was on duty throughout the period for which he has not been paid, and the second because the judgment prized so much by the Council could not have been obtained without the Chief's co-operation—in fact, the understanding was, Mr. R. R. Hall, who acted for Chief Newhall, declares, that in order to get a test case the city would pay the costs of the action, and also the Chief's salary.

Mr. Hall has contributed more than his share to the settlement of this issue. He has made no charges for travelling expenses or anything but the court costs, $29 in the Toronto court, $8.37 in the Division Court and $4.50 for evidence.

This trifling sum and Chief Newhall's salary should be paid, and the matter should be cleared up by the Council at tonight's meeting.

INFLUENCE OF THE RADIO.

An Ontario librarian has expressed the opinion that the extensive use of the radio is seriously affecting the attendance of the public at public libraries throughout Canada and the United States, says the Montreal Star. That there has been a material falling off in the patronage of the libraries is proved by statistics, and it is by no means an unreasonable hypothesis that the radio has exercised an influence in this direction. Both in England and in the United States it has been found that the broadcasting of entertainments by radio is diminishing attendance at theatres and concerts, and though no definite joint action has yet been taken in America, the British theatre managers and concert directors have been up in arms for some time past, and many have prohibited broadcasting either of plays or of concerts, unless the broadcasting organization makes adequate recompense for the privilege.

There certainly would seem to be no justification for any radio station supplying its customers free with entertainment for which it pays nothing, but which costs those who attend it hard cash. Why should anybody leave a comfortable fireside on a cold and stormy winter's night to travel to a theatre and pay five dollars for two seats when they can sit at home and hear the performance for nothing? The argument is so obvious as to require no emphasis whatever. The suggestion of the broadcasting people that they are advertising the entertainment is not one to which the managers ake kindly. Instead, they regard it with cynical amusement.

Already certain concert impresarios are refusing to give contracts to artists who sing for the radio, and there is evidence that the example will be generally followed shortly. Unquestionably there is a very important point as to rights to be settled, and the elementary principle that it is unfair to make fish of one section of the public and fiesh of the other is clearly involved. But, like most problems that affect the domestic circle, it will be solved sooner or later in a manner satisfactory to the majority. Minorities are always left to protest.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Woodrow Wilson was a war casualty—and his own people helped to kill him.

Vincent Richards, tennis star, has eloped with an innkeeper's daughter. Evidently a love-match, with the father threatening to raise a racket.

The Germans found the Canadians tough opposition in France, too, so they probably will send a message of condolence to the U.S.A.

There are many guesses as to the plans of the Labour Government in Britain. It might be well, however, to wait until the new Ministry makes a definite announcement as to its intentions. There may not be much foundation for many of the prophecies.

FORTS OF QUEBEC MAY BECOME PARK

QUEBEC, February 2 (Canadian Press). — Quebec's old fortifications may be taken over from the Militia Department by the National Battlefields Park Commission, if the conference which is to take place this afternoon here between the Hon. E. Macdonald, Minister of Militia and Defence, the Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, and Sir George Garneau, chairman of that Commission results in an agreement being arrived at.

If such is the case, it may be expected that the Province of Quebec Historic Monument Commission will also take an interest in them.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.— (Canadian Press).—Anxiety over the unprotected condition of winter wheat had much to do Saturday with a price advance which carried September delivery to a new high record for the season and lifted July up equal to the previous high point. The market closed unsettled at a shade to 3-8 and 1-2c net gain, May $1.11-5-8 and 3-4 to $1.11 3-4 and July $1.10 7-8 to $1.10 7-8 and $1.11. Corn finished a shade to 1-4c down; oats at 1-4c off to 1-8c up, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 5c.

With a cold wave starting from Alaska and with nearly total absence of snow covering in the domestic winter crop belt, buying of future deliveries of wheat took place on a fairly broad scale. The fact that the market had been on the upgrade for four successive days led numerous traders to assume that something of a setback was to be looked for, but throughout the Board of Trade session the major part of the selling was of a profit-taking character. The chief exception was during a temporary drop due to gossip that imports of Canadian wheat had bearishly affected values at Minneapolis.

THE REFEREE

Would you live if bitten by a tarantula spider? It is commonly supposed to be more deadly than a rattlesnake. Cleveland Museum of Natural History publishes reports to the effect that a tarantula bite isn't more deadly than the sting of a bee.

This proves nothing. The sting from one bee has often caused death. It depends on the person stung. In stinging, the bee injects a mysterious poison fatal to certain people with diseased endocrine glands. Ordinarily, the safety-first process is to ignore the sting and rush to some one who can extract the stinger with a pair of pincers. Then apply iodine, the best antiseptic for all purposes.

POISON.

Having lived in the southwest, we are intensely interested in the Cleveland Museum claim that the bite of a tarantula is no more dangerous than the sting of a bee.

Where did they get their tarantulas? A lot depends on that. Maybe the spider family is like snakes. The farther you get away from the equator, the less poisonous the bite of a snake.

In the Georgian Bay country of Canada, a rattlesnake bite rarely kills if proper remedies are applied. In the semi-tropical desert, snakes are more poisonous.

QUEER.

Snakes are peculiar, have queer ways. You'll recall, snakes are very old—one became famous in the Garden of Eden with Adam and Eve.

Old Cap Hill once told us that a man in the desert could keep snakes away from him by sleeping in a circle of horsehairs tied together. The idea is that a rattler won't cross the hair—that it tickles the "tummie."

Nature has mysterious ways.

ROAD-RUNNERS.

For every yes, there's a no. For every poison, an antidote. For every evil influence, a counteracting agent. Consider, for instance, the "road-runner" of the southwest. Swift bird, runs like a baby ostrich.

Spying a rattlesnake asleep, the road-runner plucks pieces of cactus, plies them like a wide fence around Mr. Rattler. The poisonous snake wakens. If he tries to spring out, the thorns of the cactus rip him. Inside the cactus fence, he dies—like man in civilization.

RESCUE.

If bitten by a rattlesnake or any other poisonous serpent, what to do? First, a tourniquet—a cord tied around the limb ABOVE the bite, then thrust a stick between the cord and the skin, and twist the stick tight. That stops the poison from being carried throughout the body to fatal spots by circulation of the blood.

Second first-aid treatment: cauterize the bite with a hot iron.

Then rush for a doctor.

Many consider whiskey best of all, one poison counteracting another. You know the story about the bootlegger who kept a pet rattler.

Officers Testify In Immigration Trial.

LONDON, Feb. 3. — (Canadian Press Cable). — Andrew Fraser Mitchell, the former Prince Edward Island immigration officer who is charged with obtaining money under false pretences from ex-army officers, again appeared in Bow street court yesterday, his case having been adjourned from Jan. 26. A witness testified that he had paid Mitchell £325 and another said he had paid Mitchell £434. Both understood that they were buying Prince Edward Island government land but they alleged they had received nothing for their money.

Evidence was also submitted that the accused had no authority to sell land on behalf of the island government. The case was adjourned for one week.

SECRET TRIBUNAL FACES PUBLICITY.

Condemned the Alleged Traitor to Death and Shot Him in Cold Blood.

By CARL D. GROAT.

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—(United Press).—Secrets of the brutalities of the vehme (secret criminal tribunal) court of the noted secret fighting organization, Oberland Corps, will be bared in the coming court trial of Lieutenant Baer.

Baer is accused, with the missing Lieutenant Maiwald, of cold bloodedly shooting to death Sergeant Samson of the Oberland Corps, because the latter was suspected of betraying to the Allies and to the Poles secrets of the free-corps' actions in Upper Silesia during the anti-Polish action several years ago.

Judicial investigation of Samson's murder tends to show that the corps had a vehme court, similar to the ancient vehme courts, which sentenced Samson to death without hearing. Samson was wireless operator for the corps. In the days before the League of Nations threw much of Upper Silesia to the Poles, volunteer nationalists flocked to Upper Silesia to defend the country against Polish robber bands.

The Oberland Corps was one of the most famous of these. It originated in Bavaria and had as its special insignia the white Bavarian flower Edelweiss. It was strongly militarily organized. Baer went in as a private and was promoted to lieutenant.

When the vehme court condemned Samson, it selected Baer and Laiwald to carry out its sentence.

According to Baer's story, they took Samson into a forest under the pretext of seeking information about a new wireless station.

There they told him he had been a traitor to the German cause. Baer, according to his story, cold bloodedly fired one shot, which struck Samson in he shoulder, whereupon Maiwald finished the job with two bullets to the heart.

Baer subsequently told officials that he was also selected to assassinate the communist Reichstag deputy, Dr. Paul Levy, but had been dissuaded by friends. Instead, he went to the authorities with his story.

Subsequently, it is alleged, members of the Oberland Corps tried to kidnap him, intending to make him pay with his life for his revelations to the authorities.

CALL POLICE RESERVES TO MINE WORKERS' MEET

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., February 2 (Canadian Press). — Alexander Howat, the deposed president of the Kansas District, was forcibly taken from the platform at the convention of the United Mine Workers to-day when he sought to address the delegates, despite the refusal of President John L. Lewis to recognise him.

Howat's removal by two sergeants at arms threw the convention into a turmoil, and calls were sent for the police reserves.

HOUSEWIVES' COLUMN

Would you rather have a hundred people give you one dollar each, or one person give you ten dollars?

I think most any of us would prefer the hundred dollars. It's just the same way with Dominion Store profits. Each of the 300 Dominion Stores sells a lot of groceries at a very small profit on each sale. The result is that a million customers a week buy at our red front stores and the little profits add up into the biggest retail grocery business in Canada.

That's good for us—and good for you. You pay less for your groceries and our business keeps on growing bigger and bigger as more and more thousands of Canadian housewives discover that the surest way to steady savings is to buy regularly from the Dominion Stores.

It's a good thing to remember, too, that Dominion buying experts buy our high quality foods in enormous quantities—and therefore at surprisingly low prices. So you see why the price tags on Dominion Store shelves are so low. We buy for less and sell at a very small profit indeed.

Thousands of careful Canadian housewives have proved to themselves that Dominion Store savings help them feed their families for less. They keep a record of their food expenditures. Then at the end of each month they add up their food costs and see how they actually came out.

They find that regular buying at their Dominion Store saves them three to ten dollars a month.

Wilson's Death Awed Crowd at Chamonix.

CHAMONIX, France, February 4 (Canadian Press).— The announcement of the former President Wilson's death immediately after the conclusion of the match on Sunday, although expected by hundreds of spectators, came as a shock to the crowds still thrilled by the hard battle just witnessed.

The announcement was made through huge amplifiers, and immediately all heads were bared; there was a minute of silence, while the United States flag was half-masted.

As a last resource he gave the alarm signal and was hauled to the surface with the octopus still clinging to him. Comrades cut the tentacles off with hatchets and knives.

FALL SILENT TO COMMITTEE

Declared the Proper Authority Had Not Been Obtained From Congress For Oil Enquiry.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, faced the Senate Oil Committee Saturday in answer to the committee's summons for examination as to loans made to him by E. L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair, the oil men, to whom he leased the United Sttaes naval oil reserves. Mr. Falls, however, declined to answer any questions.

Mr. Fall read a prepared statement in which he declared he would refuse to answer questions because he did not consider the committee had proper authority from Congress to conduct the investigation it was attempting to conduct. The statement, which was very involved and full of legal technicalities, cited the various Congressional resolutions under which the committee had been functioning and advanced the claim that these were irregular.

Mr. Fall gave two major reasons why he declined to reply. The first was that the authority given to the investigating committee by the last Congress had expired, and the second that in the light of the action of Congress in directing institution of court action, civil and criminal, in the oil leases cases, any answers he would make might tend to incriminate him.

Clearing the hearing room of the crowd which jammed every available space the committee went into executive session to determine its course in the light of the attitude of the former Cabinet officer and Senator. As the committee deliberated Mr. Fall waited with his lawyers and physicians in an ante room.

Its authority to continue the investigation having been challenged by Mr. Fall, the committee decided to ask the Senate on Monday to remove all doubt by readopting the original resolution authorizing the enquiry. The committee then adjourned until Tuesday.

Mr. Fall will be recalled before the committee and should be then decline to answer questions Senators said the issue of the authority of the committee to compel an answer under pain of contempt proceedings in the courts would be squarely raised.

WAR BROKEN PRESIDENT

not awaken love in the hearts of the people for whom he felt he had done so much; for whom he had advanced his ideals and for whom he felt he had suffered something akin to martyrdom.

Desired Love.

Wilson's political death softened the animosities of ruthless politics and the passing of the ex-President is today mourned by a nation that always had the highest respect for his deep learning, diligent search after truth and unswerving devotion to what he believed were the world's ideals and which he adopted as his own.

In a measure, Wilson was a self-made man. His parentage was sturdy, but poor. His father was a Scotch-Irish Presbyterian minister; his mother, Janet Wilson, the descendant of a family of Scotch Presbyterian ministers noted for their aggressiveness.

Thomas Woodrow Wilson was born Dec. 28, 1856, in Staunton, Va., where his father was pastor. Two years later the family moved to Augusta, Ga., where Wilson spent most of his childhood. He was a normal boy, played baseball on the corner lot, and refused to learn the alphabet until he was nine years old. His early tutors were his father and mother.

At seventeen Wilson began his scholastic career at Davidson College, and in 1875 he entered Princeton University.

Wilson's urge to self-expression first took a literary bent. While a student at Princeton, and later while attending the University of Virginia law school, he wrote various pamphlets and articles, mostly devoted to political and humanitarian subjects. Perhaps the best known of his more mature works is a "History of the American People," and "The New Freedom." The latter book is regarded by critics as a masterly presentation of liberal theories of government and economics.

Completing the law course at Virginia, Wilson hung out his shingle in Atlanta, Ga., but clients did not flock to the young attorney, and in 1883 he abandoned the bar and took up a course of special studies at Johns Hopkins University.

In 1885 he married Helen Louise Axson of Savanannah, Ga., the mother of his three daughters, Margaret, Jessie and Eleanore.

Wilson began his teaching career as professor of history and political economy at Bryn Mawr, which chair he filled for two years.

As Executive of New Jersey from 1911 till he was nominated for President by the Democratic national convention, Baltimore, July 2, 1912, Wilson amply demonstrated the vigor and independence of his political aspirations and in some measure manifested the personal aloofness that characterized his later career.

Woodrow Wilson took the oath of office as President on March 4, 1913, after one of the most sweeping triumphs ever known in Presidential elections. His party had a majority of five in the Senate and held more than two-thirds of the seats in the lower house.

Mr. Wilson's first wife died Aug. 6, 1914, and in the fall of 1915 the engagement of the President to Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt, of Washington, a daughter of William H. Bolling, a prominent Virginia lawyer, was announced and they were married in Washington on Dec. 18, 1915.

In the meantime, Wilson's notes of warning were unheeded by Germany and Austria, and on Feb. 3, shortly after he had first outlined in a memorable address to Congress his plan for a league of nations, Wilson broke off diplomatic relations with Germany. This was in reply to the Kaiser's submarine warfare. On March 16, 1917, Wilson declared a state of "armed neutrality," and a month later, April 2, he demanded that Congress declare war on Germany.

From that day until the armistice on Nov. 11, 1918, Wilson bent his energies to defeat Germany, at once taking the position of spokesman for the allies. He helped bring about unity of command, which ultimately defeated Germany. He pushed through Congress gigantic bills for selective draft and governmental food, fuel, telegraph and railroad administration.

Early in 1919 Wilson broke all precedents by going to Paris to participate in the peace conference, from which he returned with both victories and defeats. His fight was far from ended, and after presenting the treaty to Congress, he again took the issue to the people.

Owing to his illness, Mr. Wilson was comparatively inactive to the date of his retirement, when succeeded by Warren G. Harding on March 4, 1921. He retired to his newly purchased home in the national capital and busied himself with his books until death came. While he took little active part in politics or public business, his letters from time to time showed that his keen grip on public affairs had not weakened and his fighting heart was still strong.

In the fall of 1923, Mr. Wilson received several delegations and several statements by him were broadcasted. He also contributed to magazines.

SIR ROBERT BORDEN

OTTAWA, February 4. — Referring to the death of ex-President Wilson, Sir Robert Borden, Canada's war-time premier, paid the following tribute:

"In the death of Mr. Wilson the world has lost the service of a great man. Strength and sincerity of his high ideals and great purpose will give him a distinguishing place in the forefront of statesmen of this century. Splendid courage and remarkable tenacity characterized his attitude on every question of principle. It is the irony of fate that a man of less brilliant parts might might perhaps have won more enduring results in the latter episodes of his public career. In every allied nation his name will be held in honour and grateful remembrance of his conspicuous service to the cause of humanity and especially, for the supreem effort that his country made under his leadership and inspiration, when the need was so vital in the fatal spring and summer of 1918. We join with his countrymen in mourning their loss."

The combination of fruit and vegetables, of pickled beets and threads of gherkins.

Tuna Fish and Tangerine Salad.

One and one-half cups tuna fish, ½ cup diced celery, 2 tangerines, mayonnaise, lettuce.

Combine fish and celery with enough mayonnaise to make moist. Arrange on a bed of lettuce and garnish with sections of tangerines. After peeling the fruit remove the skin from each section. To do this cut a gash through the skin at the thick middle part of the section, being careful not to pierce the fruit. Then pull the back to the outside and tear or cut off. The covering of the outside of tangerines is so thin that it need not be removed.

The tongue and tuna fish salads could be used with brown bread and butter sandwiches for an afternoon tea or bridge.

A salad of sweetbreads, carrots and tangerines makes a delicious combination. The carrots should be used raw and cut in tiny dice. If the core is hard and watery use only the golden outer layer. The sweetbreads should be well cooked and blanched. When very cold cut in dice. To one cup of diced meat add one cup of diced carrots and one-half cup of diced tangerines. Let stand in a cold place for half an hour. Arrange on a bed of lettuce hearts and mask with mayonnaise.

An oil mayonnaise is perhaps more "tasty" with these salads than a boiled dressing. A meat salad requires an oil mayonnaise and with the meat the fruit can carry it.

meat in salad is rather unusual but delicious. The fruit lightens the dish and adds just the piquancy needed with the meat.

A tart fruit such as pineapple, canned of course, apricots or fresh oranges or grapefruit should be used. These fruits take the place of celery, if celery is not at hand, but combine well with meat and celery.

A delicate meat or fish gains much from the fruit while the whole salad is leavened, as it were, and made to fit into any sort of a dinner or luncheon.

Left-over bits of chicken and canned fruit can be worked up in these salads to advantage.

Chicken and Pineapple Salad.

One cup diced chicken, 1 cup diced pineapple, hearts of lettuce, 1 canned pimento, mayonnaise.

Combine chicken and pineapple and arrange in lettuce hearts. Mask with mayonnaise and garnish with tiny strips of pimento.

Turkey and Pineapple Salad.

Turkey combines in the same proportion with pineapple that chicken does. The meat should be carefully diced and freed from skin and tendons. Nuts may be added to the meat if there is less than one cup.

Tongue and Apricot Salad.

Drain canned apricots from their syrup and cut in neat dice. Baby beef or veal tongue should be used. Boil tongue and skin. Cut in dice. Combine one cup of diced tongue with one-half cup diced apricots. Arrange on a bed of lettuce, mask with mayonnaise and garnish with cress-

WHAT GLANDS DO.

So much is being broadcast today regarding the effect of glands on human activities, that a word of advice and information may be of real import to those who are anxious to know the facts regarding the latest sensational "doings."

Let it be clearly understood that the transplantation or stimulation of glands is not for the purpose of rejuvenating old and decrepit men to youthful virility. This is only a delusion and a snare. The work done by both European and American surgeons, in this particular field of operations, has been for the purpose of stimulation, and to aid in building bodily vigor in persons who, through lack of the normal gland secretion, were unable to produce children, or whose bodily functions needed stimulation to produce a normal development and a naturally healthy condition.

When this is said, the end of the story is at hand. There is nothing miraculous or wonderful about it, except the skill and determining treatment of the operating physician. In fact, the skillful use of the X-ray has played a more important part in this rejuvenating process, than any transplantation of glands, monkey or otherwise. Also, the careful attention to diet and proper food has effected as much change as any other agencies.

The main point is this: the world's greatest scientists and physicians are endeavoring to segregate the internal and external secretions of the glands. If this should prove a success, it will be possible to give treatments to capable subjects and to build up men and women in points where they are weak and undeveloped.

Vernon Roberts

Vernon Roberts is the meanest man in our town. He isn't a drunkard or a thief or a liar; he isn't a bully; he is just mean. He has the disposition of a rattlesnake and the manners of a wildcat. People who enter the Racket store, where he is a clerk, try to avoid him because to speak to him at all is to invite some kind of subtle insult that isn't plain enough to resent and yet is plain enough to be extremely annoying. Roberts never smiles, and his natural speaking voice is a growl.

Two years ago he began to court Amy Hoyt, the prettiest girl in town and commonly considered the most charming. Roberts was madly in love with her and everybody was delighted, for everybody knew she would refuse him and that would pay him for his sins.

She didn't refuse him, however. She married him. The town literally ached with sympathy for her for a time, and then people began to notice things. Roberts and his wife quarreled frequently and in nearly every case Amy was at fault. She had, beneath her sweet exterior, the instincts, character and passions of a she-tiger.

They say love is blind, but it isn't. It is the only thing that sees clearly. Roberts' love looked beneath the surface and saw the thing the world could not see. It saw its affinity. It saw Amy's hell-cat nature and was drawn to it as a bit of steel is drawn to a magnet.

Famous Guys

OLD OMAR: Away back in the middle of the eleventh century, three Persian boys agreed that the first of them to win success should help the others to their feet. In time one of them became boss of the bailiwick and kept his pledge. One he helped proved a rogue, but the third, who was Omar Khayyam, became immortal.

Omar had an income from his friend of $3,000 the year, and might have dreamed away his days or sat from morning until night within some tavern; but he had a head full of brains and delighted in exercising his wits.

He became one of the few great astronomers of his time. He knew more about algebra than a college professor; he understood the binomial theorem long before Newton was on the scene; geometry was his plaything; and he wrote books on metaphysics and simple little things like that.

Yet he might have done all these things and more, and the memory of them might have perished with him, except for his skill in the writing of verse.

When FitzGerald translated him into English, or rather paraphrased him into English, several centuries after his death, he was a made man; and now wherever the intelligentsia is found, there a thumbed copy of the Rubaiyat is found in the midst.

Old Omar was a heretic and a realist, but he was a sweet singer, who earned immortality, and the world is more lovely because he lived in it for a little while.

THE BUTCHER BOY AND HIS BRIDE

The Girl Learns About Money

"She went about with his statements on the first of the month, and batted an even thousand."

Hiram, the butcher boy, and the girl across the street have entered upon an era of unprecedented prosperity, and the whole of the credit belongs to the girl.

In our town, where everybody knows everybody, each of us has reliable information concerning the contents of the other fellow's purse. We know whether Sam Brown has paid his hospital bill at the county seat; we know the Bright girls are wearing frocks that haven't been paid for; we know Carl Hoyt is three months behind with his rent.

The merchants know these things, also; but when the poorest of us ask for credit, it never is denied, for one cannot deny a neighbor and friend who is for the moment without funds.

It happens, therefore, that all of our merchants have many accounts on their books that cannot be listed as actual resources. Each merchant quits his place of business on the first of the month and goes about with statements; but all are diffident and press the matter no further when a debtor says: "Sorry, Jim, but I'm broke just now; I'll see you later."

This sort of thing has kept Hiram almost continually without ready cash; and when the rival butcher shop opened up a few weeks ago and began to get some of the cash customers, he felt the blow and began to worry. The girl, however, solved his problems.

She went about with his statements on the first of the month, and batted an even thousand. This morning, as we were eating breakfast, she came over to tell us about it.

"Men don't mind telling one another they can't pay," said she, "but they're too proud to let a woman think they ain't prosperous. So I just walked in like I knew I was going to get the money; selected the right statement; marked it paid, and handed it over. Every time the man would look at it in a dazed kind of way, grin a little, as though I had paid him a compliment, and come across. He didn't even stop to add it up. And Hiram says we are on easy street now, if I can keep it up."

Well, she can keep it up. We're all poor in this town, but not one of us would let the other fellow's wife suspect how poor he is. Its taking an unfair advantage of masculine vanity; but the butcher boy needs the money, and while many of us may squirm, not one of us will have the nerve to kick or postpone payment.

Do Your Teeth Shine

Like so many teeth you see now?

Make this free test

Here is a way to whiter teeth, which millions now employ. A way to cleaner, safer teeth. You see the results in added beauty wherever you look today. Let this test show you what it means to you.

Combat that film

Teeth are clouded by a film—that viscous film you feel. Under old ways of brushing much of it clings and stays. It soon discolors and forms dingy coats to mar the beauty of the teeth.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Film-caused troubles, under old ways, became almost universal.

Modern science has found ways to fight film. One disintegrates the film, one removes it without harmful scouring.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Many careful tests proved these methods effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Now that method is bringing to homes the world over a new dental era.

Many new benefits

Pepsodent also multiplies the tooth-protecting agents in saliva. Dental science has in late years proved all these things essential.

Learn what they mean to you. Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear. You will be amazed and delighted. Cut out coupon now.

A HASTINGS BOY IS MAKING GOOD

George W. Rear Reaches High Place in Engineering Profession.

HASTINGS, Feb. 4.— Mr. Geo. W. Rear, an old Hastings boy, is making good in California.

Mr. Rear is general bridge engineer of the Southern Pacific system, with headquarters at Oakland, Calif.

On December 28, 1923, Mr. Rear erected one of the largest bridges in the Southern States.

The Oakland paper has the following to say of Mr. Rear's feat:

Declared an impossibility by various engineers the entire Harrison street bridge was towed intact yesterday across the estuary between Oakland and Alameda by the Southern Pacific Railway, its owners.

The feat was accomplished through lifting the huge structure by water pressure produced by a rising tide and the pumping of water from a string of pontoons beneath, slightly less than ten hours after the last train had passed over it.

The 300 ton main truss was lifted about 18 inches and moved from what has been its site for a quarter of a century.

In compliance with an order from the War Department G. W. Rear, engineer of bridges for the railway, planned and erected the task of removal.

Resting upon five water-weighed pontoons, the bridge was towed clear of the stream to a channel prepared on the Oakland side, as the tide began to rise about 9 o'clock yesterday morning water was pumped from the pontoons hardly twenty minutes later it was observed that the structure had lifted one inch from the pier and at 10.40 o'clock was clear and ready for the work of towing to begin.

Since receiving his appointment, Mr. Rear has been responsible for 9,311 railway bridges and trestles.

On one small slice of the Southern Pacific twenty-eight bridges are necessary in a distance of 135 miles. This is on the Ogden route through Nevada, where the railroad track crosses the Humbolt river every few moments. The Sacremento river has eighteen bridges in 47 miles of track and the Truckee river thirteen bridges in 49 miles.

In 1912 Rear supervised the erecting of the Sacremento river, bridge, which is 834 ft. in length and cost $730,000.

Geo. W. Rear was the eldest son of Mr. John Rear of this village and was born here on June 13, 1873, he attended Public school here and at the age of 10 years passed his examination for the High school.

He attended Campbellford High school for the following three years. He then entered the service of the Midland railway as water boy for a bridge building gang.

He afterwards entered the engineering department as a student in the year 1901 he became connected with the Southern Pacific.

In the year 1902 he was appointed assistant general bridge inspector, and in the year 1920 he was president of the Bridge and Building Association of America, which includes the United States and Canada.

His many friends in Hastings are pleased at his success.

JUDGMENT GIVEN IN A LOCAL CASE

Mrs. A. J. Robertson Brought Action Against E. T. Lumb.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.— Judgment was given Saturday by the Hon. Mr. Justice Kelly, who sat at the Cobourg Assizes, and heard the case of Mrs. Kate Robertson, the executrix of the estate of the late Dr. Alexander J. Robertson, of Peterborough.

Mrs. Robertson brought an action against Eli T. Lumb, of Bancroft, for $11,000.00, and interest, being moneys due her, on the purcase price of a store in Tweed. Mr. Lumb repudiated the contract and alleged he was not liable, but Mr. Justice Kelly, after considering the evidence, gave judgment in favor of Mrs. Robertson, with costs.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., of Peterborough, appeared for Mrs. Robertson, and E. Gus Porter, K.C., of Belleville, appeared at the first sittings of the court, but his partner, Mr. C. A. Payne, acted at the trial, for the defendant.

COAL MINERS MOURN THE LOSS OF LENINE

SYDNEY N.S., February 4 (Canadian Press). — Glace Bay theatre was crowded to capacity this afternoon by idle coal miners and others, when a memorial service was held for Nikolai Lenine, the deceased Premier of Russia.

The proceedings, which were orderly, included eulogistic references to deposed United Mine Workers', District 26, president, J. B. McLachlan, now serving sentence in the Dorchester Penitentiary for seditious libel.

BAND CONCERT

The fifth concert given by the Peterboro Rangers Band in the Grand Opera House last night proved as popular as its predecessors, both as to the magnificent attendance and the reception accorded to the various numbers of the programme. Mrs. I. Dwyer sang two soprano solos very finely, and Mr. Arnold Everett, a veteran tenor of these concerts, was given a hearty reception in both his numbers. Band-Sergeant Paterson's euphonium solo was well received, as it thoroughly deserved to be, both for tone and skill, both in the "Air" and its variations. The band numbers were well chosen, and the bright, cheery music reflected credit on Lieut. Perver and the band. The novel renditions of "Home, Sweet Home," by various nations, was well played and heartily applauded.

The accompaniments to the assisting artists were admirably played by Mr. R. J. Devey.

the first duty of the Board is to look after the public health." Mr. Lynch maintained that the Act referred to every use of ice as well as its use in cooling beverages. The Act was read by S. R. Armstrong, who gave as his opinion that a permit should be issued for any purpose.

Mr. Duncan referred to the supplying of the Golf Club with ice from the canal, which he considered to be in worse shape than the Little Lake ice on account of the canal being stagnant for part of the year, and full of weeds.

Mayor Turner busied himself with writing out two resolutions to cover the case, which were later amended slightly by S. R. Armstrong, and passed as above recorded, the Mayor and C. H. Rogers standing sponsors for the first, Messrs. Rogers and Jas. J. Lynch supporting the second, the first resolution putting the onus on the ice man, the second placing the responsibility on the dealer, the Board legislating simply for areas under its own control, and allowing neighboring districts "to run their own shown."

G. A. Gillespie, who expressed himself as representative of several large users who were becoming anxious over the ice situation, attended the meeting, and professed himself as quite satisfied with the action of the Board in passing the two resolutions read to him.

Some surprise was expressed at the action of Dr. N. H. Sutton in allowing a dealer named Doughty to fill his ice house, after the publication by the doctor of the notice which afterwards proved to be premature.

Samples of ice may be demanded for bacteriological examination at any time that Dr. Young sees fit. He was of the opinion that when ice was frozen, "there is little danger, but there may be some strong, fat, healthy fellows among the germs that will persist in living and doing damage."

Two forms of permits will be issued, one implementing each resolution, the term of life of each to be until the end of the current year of issue, and all permits to be subject to refusal or revocation by the Medical Officer of Health, if circumstances warrant such action.

FAILED TO REMOVE SNOW OFF SIDEWALK

B. R. Strano Was Fined Ten Dollars in Police Court.

B. R. Strano, fruit dealer, 416 George Street, was fined $10.00, and costs of $5.75, in the Police Court this morning by Magistrate Langley, on a charge of failing to remove the snow and slush from the front of his premises after reasonable notice had been given him.

On Saturday a policeman left a notice with the girl clerk in Mr. Strano's store to have the proprietor clean up the sidewalk in front of his establishment.

Calling in later to inquire about the non-enforcement of the request, the guardian of the law was invited by the proprietor to take a shovel and do the job himself.

In the Police Court this morning, on the evidence of Sergt. Thomas and Constable Welsh, Mr. Strano was found guilty by the Magistrate, and fined $10.00, with a costs bill of $5.75.

He expressed himself as having a mind to appeal the case, considering the treatment accorded him as unfair.

Magistrate Langley took immediate exception to the complaint, remarking that he could charge the offender with contempt of Court for such an accusation.

"Every Court in Ontario gives fair play, and I can vouch for this one. Will you withdraw your remark?"

Mr. Strano consented to withdraw the offending accusation, and was given two days in which to pay the amount of the fine and costs.

Magistrate Langley made it plain that he intended to enforce the law regarding the cleaning up of sidewalks, to the letter.

ROTARY CAMP HAS JUSTIFIED ITS EXISTENCE

Success of Experimental Stages Warrant Its Continuance, Says Mr. Mowat.

TODAYsS LUNCHEON

That the success of the experimental stages had justified Rotary in making their summer camp an annual institution and in putting more into it was the emphatic declaration of Mr. Herbert Mowat, of Toronto, who was in charge of last year's camp, in the course of a most eloquent and interesting address before the Peterboro Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon at the Empress to-day.

It was Boys' Camp Day, and Rotarian Claude H. Rogers, chairman of the Boys' Camp Committee, presided, while the speech of the day was devoted to the work of the camp and the possibilities it offered.

In introducing Mr. Mowat, Rotarian Rogers paid a warm tribute to the splendid work done by him as camp superintendent last year, and referred to the fact that Mr. Mowat had undertaken the position without any remuneration, giving up his vacation in order to take hold of the activities of the Rotary Camp.

Mr. Mowat, in return, congratulated the Rotary Club on its magnificent camp plant, and complimented Mr. Rogers upon his work as chairman of the committee and as being mainly responsible for the splendid camp.

The speaker stressed the value of the camp from the viewpoint of the opportunity it gave of self-importation, of impressing upon the boy the best that was in Rotary. He pointed out that it was essential not only to share life with man but to share it with God, and it was from this angle that the Rotary Camp had been conducted last summer. There was nothing ostentatiously religious about it, but at the same time advantage was taken of the opportunity to show the boys this slant on things and to give them a new viewpoint. Mr. Mowat said that he was strong on discipline, and he related an incident of the first night in camp to show how he had succeeded in impressing the fifty-five boys under his control with the realization that authority had to be respected. He also placed emphasis upon what could be achieved by a spirit of competition, and added his conviction that no other agency offered such an opportunity of putting boys in the right path as a summer camp, where they could be impressed with a respect for authority, given pride of place and made to realize the value of character and integrity and industry.

He urged the Rotarians to make more out of the camp by persuading young men to assume some of the responsibility of camp leadership, pointing out the splendid field of service that was before them.

In moving a vote of thanks to the speaker, Rotarian F. L. Roy paid tribute to the splendid work of Mr. Mowat, and hoped that he would be in charge again this year. He also expressed thanks to Rotarian Rogers for his services.

Before the address of the day, Rotarian Alex. Mowat welcomed the two new Rotarians, Manson Comstock and Douglas Carlisle, in an eloquent address, in which he pointed out the privileges and responsibilities of Rotary.

Rotarian Rev. D. C. Ramsay, of Belleville, was a visitor.

It was announced that a member of the Fulton, N.Y., Rotary Club would be a vistor to Peterboro on February 21, and that Peterboro was expected to send a member to Fulton on that date.

CANADA GRAIN ACT TO BE RE-ORGANIZED

WINNIPEG, February 4 (Canadian Press). — A complete revision of the Canada Grain Act of 1912, which would include the reorganisation of the Board of Grain Commissioners, is the object of the Province of Alberta, declared George H. Van Allen, of Edmonton, here on Sunday night.

He is here to attend sessions of the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission as counsel for his Province.

Mr. Van Allen said the Province of Alberta considered the twelve-year-old Act obsolete, and advocated that in future the Board of Grain Commissioners should be constituted as a court, having regular annual itinerary, instead of sitting at Fort William, treating matters from long range.

A CHEQUE CASE IN THE POLICE COURT

Man With Craving for Foot Appliances Was Remanded.

A man with a craving for foot appliances and an aptitude for clever penmanship struck town, Saturday and, after a short and hectic career spent in purchasing arch supports, found a lodging in the Police Station, after an unsuccessful attempt to make a swift getaway on the midnight train of Saturday night.

Styling himself as James A. Harris, the stranger was charged at the Police Court this morning with uttering forged cheques, each to the amount of $24.50, on several city merchants. There was a sameness about his work that somewhat cramped his style. Each cheque was made out on a counter cheque form of the Peterboro branch of the Royal Bank for the same amount $24.50, and signed by R. E. Fleming, an Aylmer street contractor for whom the prisoner claims to have worked, but who has no place, as far as can be ascertained, in the city directory.

The case was remanded until next Monday morning.

A card from the Police Department at Guelph to the local Chief of Police bears the description of a man by the name of Jas. A. Martin alias Robt. J. Martin, who is wanted in that city for uttering forged cheques, and whose description, even to the overalls and dirty face described, answers in almost every particular to the description of the Peterboro cheque artist, whose disguise in both cities was that of a painter.

On Saturday the accused spent most of his time in purchasing arch supports from three or four local boot-stores, giving in return in each instance a cheque for $24.50, and receiving the change in cash. He visited two establishments belonging to the same proprietor, and the similiarity of the sales being commented upon in conversation during the afternoon, led to a surprise visit from Sgt. Deannard on the prisoner just as he was about to board the midnight train on Saturday. To the sergeant, he gave his name as Ray Hartnett, and said he had come to the city to see a friend. While talking to him, the driver of the police car was sent to bring one of the victimized merchants, who identified him as the man in search of arch supports. He was again positively identified by another individual at the Station this morning.

bobbed up and down in their interest in the proceedings.

Coroner Dr. W. H. Clark, of Lindsay, presided. Jno. Hobday, Supt. of Barnardo Homes, Toronto, represented the Home interests. Jno. W. Hobday testified that John Wm. Frederick Payne was a ward of the Barnardo Home from 1913 until April 2, 1921, when he was placed with Chas. Wm. Fee of Omemee.

The agreement under which the boy was placed called for payment of wages and the attendance of the boy at school.

An amount of $25 due on March 31, was paid into the bank and stood to the boy's credit. No complaint had been received by the officials who had visited the boy. An inspector had called and interviewed the boy alone and filed his reports, which showed the boy was quite contented.

A report by Robt. Bruce declared the boy was treated as one of the family. He did not attend Sunday school, but in 1921 was in the third reader in day school. The Fee home was objected to on account of the boy not attending church or Sunday school.

A later report stated that the boy attended church regularly. In October 1923 the inspector reported that the boy was "saucy to the women folks." He at that time attended Sunday scohol, but the report showed that he was still in the third book.

"This boy's conduct is only fair." Mrs. Fee said the boy was saucy and impudent. She had a good deal to say about his ungentlemanly conduct, said the latest report.

The home had never been advised the boy was unhappy. On the day of the boy's death Inspector Stanner was within two miles of the Fee farm and was rushed to the spot.

"The boy was encouraged, Mr. Hobday said. "We treat them as chums."

Why Ford Predominates

The Empire Builders

From time immemorial, Britons have gone forth and pioneered the remote corners of the earth.

In the face of seemingly insuperable difficulties they have built up a world-wide trade—trade that grew and flourished in spite of the limitations of those primitive burden-bearers, the native carriers, the mule train and the camel caravan.

Ford carries the burdens of Empire trade on the hill-trails of India, on the African veldt, on the sheep-stations of Australia and New Zealand, on the plantations of Ceylon and Burma, on the rubber estates of Malaya and on the jungle-paths of Borneo.

Universal usage under all these conditions has stamped the Ford as dependable transportation.

Made in Canada for the Empire

The Ford car is completely made in Canada with the exception of parts to the value of $15.02.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Dear Sir: On Feb. 2nd, there appeared the following letter in the Examiner:

"Dear Sir: According to an official return brought down by the Dominion Government at the request of Hon. T. A. Crerar, we find that the Civil Servive in 1921 and 1922, the last year of the former government, the Government employed inside and outside 14,739 employees at an annual cost of $23,149,511, and in the year of 1922 and 1923, the first year of the present government, it employed 41,255 employees, at an annual cost of $50,355,721. Now, how and why, will some one answer? Thanking you, I remain, yours truly,

W. H. MERRILL."

The answers are as follows:

1. No such official return was ever brought down.

2. The story was made up out of whole cloth by Grattan O'Leary, a Tory propagandist.

3. The true facts are, according to the statement of Mr. Clarence Jamieson, a member of the Civil Service Commission, that, in the last year under the Meighen system of government there were:

Civil Servants 41,641
Salaries paid $53,266,000

While in 1922-23, the first year under the King Government, there were:

Civil Servants 41,255
Salaries Paid $50,355,000

Or a saving by the present Government, in one year, of approximately $3,000,000.

In giving his figures, Mr. Grattan O'Leary performed the feat of making figures lie, by showing under the Meighen Administration only the inside service, while under the King Administration figures he includes both inside and outside civil service.

Yours truly,
G. N. GORDON.

WANT OF FOOD CAUSED DE VEAU TO COLLAPSE

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Collapsing from starvation Joseph De Veau aged 25 of Halifax, was removed Sunday afternoon to the Western Hospital here suffering from the want of proper food and exposure.

De Veau told the police he had ridden "bumpers" on a freight trains from Winnipeg to Toronto in search of work. He had no overcoat and made the long trip exposed to zero weather.

De Veau changed trains, many times, when he dropped off freight in yards at West Toronto, he was cold, tired and without food. He staggered into restaurant and was given cup of coffee. He then started to walk toward the downtown section in search of a place to sleep, when he became so weak that he fell on the street.

I. (Continued)

"I know now what you meant that night when you told me you had spent many distracted years looking for what no man could give you, and although I doubted at that time I could even guess what your own mysterious essence demanded, I know now—still vaguely, for it is something as far beyond the defining power of words as the faith of the Christian. It can never be seen, nor heard, nor expressed, but it is there. And only once in a lifetime does any one mortal have it to give to another. A man may love many times, but he is a god-man only once."

He held her more closely, for she was trembling, but he continued to walk on, guiding her automatically through the trees, for his eyes were almost vacant, as if their vision had been reversed.

"I have had some hours of utter despair, in spite of the double excitement of these past weeks, for it has seemed to me that I was no nearer to you than I had been at the beginning. There was a sense of unreality about the whole affair. At first it seemed to me the most romantic thing that could happen to any man, and it was incredible that I had been chosen the hero of such an extraordinary romance—intensified, if anything, by the fact that it was set in roaring New York, where you have to talk at the top of your voice to hear yourself think. . . . But that passed—in a measure. I was beset by the fear—at times. I mean: I was not always in a state to look inward—that you were slipping away. Not that I doubted for a moment you would marry me, but that your innermost inscrutable self had withdrawn, and that you accepted what must have appeared to be my own attitude—that we were merely two vital beings, who saw in each other a prospect of a superior sort of sensual delight——"

"That is not true," she interrupted him fiercely. "But you seemed to me to be in that phase when a man can think of nothing else. If I hadn't hoped—and believed—in you against all I knew of men, I'd never have gone on with it."

"I'm sure that is true. I must have disappointed you horribly. You had left the bond from the beginning, and I can imagine what you must have dreamed I alone could give you. The trouble was that I didn't realize that I alone was in fault, at the time. That boiling pot in my brain was making too much noise. But I can assure you that I have returned to normal, and if I thought I couldn't satisfy you I'd let you go without a word. But you know that I can, don't you?"

She nodded.

"What is it, I wonder?" He sighed. "I wish I knew. But it is enough to feel. . . . You must understand that in spite of the erratic creature you have known since you refused to marry me at once and left me with no resource but to let that play boil out, I am man first and a writer incidentally. I also have a stronger ambition to be your husband than to write plays. If I don't strangle what talent I have it is because I must have the money to be independent of newspaper work. Otherwise I should have neither peace of mind nor be able to live abroad with you. I know that you cannot be happy here, and I am not a victim of that ancient myth that two people who love each other can be happy anywhere. Environment is half the battle—for the super-vivilized, at all events. But you shall never have another dose of the writer. I'll write my plays in New York and rush production. The greater part of the year I shall spend with you in Europe, and I cannot think of anything I'd like more—why, the very night I first saw you I was longing with all my soul to get out of New York and over to the other side of the world. Why, Mary! You are not crying? You! I never believed you could."

"I—I—did not believe it either. . . . But, are you sure? Could you reconcile yourself? You seem so much a part of New York, of this strange high-pitched civilization. If you are not sure— if you are only tired of New York for the moment. . . . I—yes, I will! I'll give it all up and live here. Of course I love New York itself—was it not my Mary Ogden home? And there are delightful people everywhere. . . . No doubt my dream of doing great things in Europe was mere vanity——"

"Perhaps not. But, after all, what I tried to do might be so easily frustrated in that cauldron—why should I risk personal happiness—the most precious and the rarest thing in life, for what may be a chimera—wasted years and a wasted life. Why are we made as we are, if to coax that hidden spark into a steady flame is not our highest destiny? It certainly is our manifest right. . . . Dreams of doing great things in this world are nine-tenths personal vanity. I believe that when we leave this planet we go to a higher star, where our incompleteness here will be made complete; and perhaps we are spared a term of probation if we make ourselves as complete here as mortal conditions will permit. And, possibly, once in a great while, two human beings are permitted to effect that completeness together."

They were both in an exalted mood. The wood was very still, its beauty incomparable. And they might have been already on another star.

"'Why, Mary! You are not crying? You! I never believed you could.'"

Across that divine balsam-scented stillness came the deep imperative notes of a bell.

Clavering twitched his shoulders impatiently.

"Let them go on their screaming picnic," he said. "We stay here. Did you mean that, Mary?"

"Yes, I meant it. We will not go to Europe at all—except to visit my Dolomites some day. When you are writing I'll come up here."

"I don't know that I shall ask that sacrifice of you. A part of your brain is asleep now, but it is a very active and insistent part when awake. In time you might revert and resentment is a fatal canker; but let's leave it open. It is generally a mistake to settle things off-hand. Let them alone and they settle themselves."

"Very well. At all events, while we are here, I shall not give it another thought. The present at least is perfect."

"Yes, it is perfect!" He put both arms about her. The past was a blank to both. Their pulsing lips met in the wonder and the ecstasy of the first kiss of youth, of profound and perfect and imperishable love. They clung together exalted and exulting and for the moment at least they were one.

LI.

They ate their dinner under the amused eyes of Mrs. Larsing, who had served dinners a deux before to couples that had "lost their way." Afterward they sat by the fire and talked desultorily; a great deal about themselves; sometimes wandering to the subjects that had interested them most before they had met each other. Clavering told her of the many plays he had written, and burned; because in his inordinate respect for the drama he had found them, when not wholly bad, too good to be good enough. But the long practice had given him a certain mastery of technique, and when she had set his brain on fire he had had less trouble than most young playwrights in compelling his imagination to adapt itself to the inexorable framework.

ONTARIO LOSES A GREAT DEAL IN FUR INDUSTRY

TORONTO, Feb. 4.— (Canadian Press.)— Sam Harris, noted game hunter of Toronto, speaking to Conservatives of the north end of Ward Six Saturday night, said there are leaks in the handling of the fur industry in Ontario and if these were stopped, he said, there would be a saving of from three to four million dollars a year to the province.

Mr. Harris also dealt with Canadian Mercantile Marine, urging the use of these ships for export and import trade through Canadian National ports.

BOY'S BAD COLD TURNED TO BRONCHITIS

The frequency with which bronchitis develops into pneumonia is appreciated by very few mothers. The danger of pneumonia is, probably, well understood too, but how many mothers take into consideration that a neglected attack of bronchit- is frequently leads to this dangerous disease.

We would advise all mothers to give their children Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup the first moment they show any symptoms of a cold or cough as by doing this they save them from an attack of bronchitis or pneumonia.

Mrs. Lawrence Quick, Sandwich, Ont. writes:—"My little boy, six years old, had a bad cold which turned to bronchitis. I tried every thing I thought would be best for it but did not see him getting any better. I was told to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after giving him two bottles he got wonderful relief. I cannot praise it enough.'

How the alcohol was brought into Canada is the question the law officials will endeavor to solve. In the meantime Kauwuala is being held in custody.

OLYMPIC HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE WORLD STAYS IN THE POSSESSION OF CANADA'S BRILLIANT DEFENDERS

Cosmopolitan Crowd of Thousands at Chamonix Thrilled By the Swiftest Hockey Europe Has Ever Witnessed — Americans Fought Hard and Were Individually Brilliant But Lacked Smooth Combination of Victors.

A SCRAPPY GAME.

CHAMONIX, France, February 4 (Canadian Press). — Canada won the blue ribbon event of the 1924 Olympic winter games, and added ten Olympic points to her score, when the Dominion hockey team yesterday defeated the United States in the final of the hockey series by a score of 6 to 1.

It was a fast and furious contest from start to finish, and when Paul Loicq, of Belgium, the referee, blew the whistle and the game was over, the United States players were physically exhausted and stumbling from fatigue.

The smoothness and finish of the Canadian offensive combination overwhelmed the brilliant individual play of the United States. As regularly as though conducted by well-oiled machinery the puck passed from Smith to McCaffery to Watson, or from Munro to Smith to Watson and into the net. Drury, who scored the lone tally for the United States, did so after a single-handed dash down the ice. Munro and Ramsay made an almost impregnable defence for the Canadian goal and smothered the individual efforts of the United States forwards with efficiency.

Numerous Injuries.

There was little love lost between the two teams, rivals since the Olympic hockey commenced. The game had not proceeded more than two minutes when Watson was bleeding from the nose and Rice was stretched out on the ice after a collision with Smith. The United States fought hard in the opening session when they were fresh and frequently Rice, McCarthy or Drury, getting the puck in United States' territory, rushed down the ice, only to be blocked hard by the Canadian defence. Then began the regular action of the Canadian combination in its mechanical perfection, heart-breaking to the United States. The puck seemed to pass ceaselessly between the stick of the Canadian forwards.

The play was characterized by slashing on the part of Small of the American squad and the heavy body-checking of his team mate, Abel. However, neither of these were able to stop the scientific passing of the Canadians. Watson and Smith particularly shone in their combination work as against the rougher tactics of the U.S. forwards, particularly of McCarthy.

Drury Was Eclipsed.

The play of Drury, former Midland, Ontario, boy, now the star of the Americans, whose spectacular rushes had been so effective in previous games, was not no conspicuous to-day.

Dunc. Munro rushed once through the entire opposing team in the second period and scored alone. Harry Watson scored two goals in the first period and one in the third. Smith and McCaffery scored in the second. Jack Cameron, the Canadian goalie, was in great form. This was the first game in which he really had much to do and he stopped brilliantly. Abel was sent to the penalty bench three times during the game and "Hooley" Smith of the Canadians, decorated the penalty box twice.

The Americans won the toss, which meant that the Canadians had to play against the sun in the opening period. This was an advantage to Haddock's men, because the sun settled behind the mountains in the middle of the second period after the teams had reversed ends.

The thousands of spectators who filled the stands watching the most hard-fought and swiftest hockey that Europe had ever seen, thrilled to the desperate stand made by the United States under the pressure of the better co-ordinated Canadian team. Time after time cheers broke from the crowd as Drury or Rice dashed away for a rush into Canadian territory, only to be foiled as he reached Ramsay or Munro. Shots from outtside the line of defense were easy for Cameron. Counter cheers arose as the popular Canadians penetrated the United States lines and drove their bullet-like shots at Lacroix.

The referee had his difficulties from the opening of play and his frequent cautionary admonitions seemed of little avail. Collisions between rival players were frequent and time was called often when either a Canadian or United States' lay stretched out on the ice.

The United States' players were first to appear on the ice at 2:35 p.m. They received a great ovation from the largest gathering of the games. A special train came from Paris last night with hundreds of British and United States' enthusiasts purposely for this match alone.

The Canadians received a noisier welcome when they came out a few minutes later, and some of this was due to the vociferous encouragement from Great Britain's hockey team and its supporters, who were all gathered in one section of the stand.

The weather was ideal, clear and cold, and the ice was fast and hard.

Watson Knocked Out.

Munro, the Canadian captain, and Small, captain of the United States' team, received final instructions from Referee Loicq in the centre of the rink. There was considerable wrangling over the referee's interpretation of body-checking, which delayed the start for several minutes. Finally, at 3 o'clock, Smith secured the puck in the first face-off and passed it to Watson, who collided with Abel and went flying to the ice after twenty seconds of play. He was knocked out for a minute or two. There was blood in every player's eye after Watson resumed, and many of the European players shouted "rugby."

The play up and down the rink was lightning fast and for five minutes neither team had any advantage. Both played only five men for two minutes, while Smith and Abel were off. Finally McCaffery and Smith got clear and went down the ice together. Smith passed to Watson, who shot a goal, the puck rebounding off McCarthy's skate as was covering McCaffery in front of the net.

Watson was used up from body-checking and taken off; McMunn was substituted, and Synott replaced Rice, who was bleeding from a collision with Munro. Watson came back and scored after 30 seconds with an unstoppable shot on a pass from McCaffery.

Drury, the United States' centre, secured the puck from a face-off and eluded the entire Canadian team, scoring one for the United States.

McCarthy grieved greatly in the dressing room owing to his responsibility, as he believed, for the first Canadian goal, when the puck struck his skate, but Manager Haddock cheered the United States' boys up. Big Jeff Abel already had a big black and blue spot over his ribs and Rice was in a bad way.

The stands cheered as the teams appeared for the second period, but Rice was weak and had to be taken off after three minutes of play, Synott taking his place. Then followed ten minutes of furious struggles, in which the men came to grips at every turn. Watson slashed Abel over the neck and Abel countered with one on the hip, sending his adversary sprawling. Both were ruled off for two minutes.

Canadian's Period.

Then Smith scored on a pass from Watson after eleven minutes of fast and furious work. McCaffery repeated after one minute on another pass from Smith. Almost immediately McCaffery was laid out, McMunn substituting, and Synott relieving McCarthy, who was also in a bad way. Smith was warned by Referee Loicq for loafing offside. A lively mix-up between Smith and Abel in the centre of the rink brought both of them a two-minute penalty. Munro closed the period with a terrific shot in the upper corner of the net, against which the United States' goalkeeper had no chance.

The third period was a repetition of the second so far as style of play was concerned. Small attended strictly to business and played a great game in both defence and offence. Synott, who replaced Rice, again immediately mixed it up with Munro and both were sent off the ice for one minute.

"Remember your Olympic loyalty oath," one fair spectator shouted from the grandstand. Cameron, the Canadian goalkeeper, was called upon to stop seven shots in rapid succession from sticks of Drury, Synott and McCarthy. Then, McMunn, for Canada, eluding both Small and Abel, passed the puck to Watson, who scored the last goal, after 15 minutes of play.

"Please extend to members of Canadian hockey team my heartiest congratulations on winning world's amateur championship. All Canada is proud of this latest feather in her cap."

CANADIENS WIN FROM SENATORS

Blanked the "Pro" Champions By 1-0 Before a Capacity Crowd In Montreal Arena—Game Packed With Thrills.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press).— Canadiens have battled their way back into a strong contending position for national hockey league play-off honors. The local sextette advanced another step in their uphill climb towards second place when they blanked the champion Ottawa Senators at the Mount Royal Arena Saturday night, 1 to 0 in a game which was crowded with all the incidents that are necessary to a fast, thrilling struggle such as is generally waged between these old-time rivals.

Billy Boucher's goal in the first period, the way for which was paved by Sprague Cleghorn, was the lone tally of the game and sent the local club within one game of the Toronto St. Patrick's. It came as the culmination of over 18 minutes of one of the fasetst and most thrilling periods seen locally in the N.H.L. this season and was a well-earned margin.

But the edge was a narrow one and the nal session caused considerable apprehension among the Canadien supporters, for the latter moments Ottawa pressed determinedly and only the work of the defence saved Canadiens.

The Boucher family was represented by three brothers in the contest, George, on the Ottawa defence, Billy, the Canadien right wing, anu Bobby, Canadien sub. Of the two most serious injuries both fell to the Bouchers. In the second period George was stopped heavily by Sprague Cleghorn and wrenched the cartilage of his right knee, which necessitated his retirement. He was followed shortly after by Billy, following the trip which aggravated an already injured knee.

Canadiens showed vastly improved form over recent games. The defence seldom allowed the Ottawa front rank to get set to shoot on Vezina and kept them well outside, while the forwards combined much better than in recent fixtures. The three youthful forwards travelled at a terrific speed in the first period and back-checked steadily, Morenz being particularly smart in breaking up attacks at centre ice. They bored in on the net at all times and in the early sessions Joliat and Morenz in turn were on several occasions through on Benedict, but the Ottawa goalie was safe. Once in the first period Benedict was temporarily out when he was hit by the puck in falling to the ice to save when Morenz had got through the outer guard.

Ottawa missed the services of Frank Nighbor at centre ice. Clancy worked at the pivot position for the champions and turned in a good exhibition, but the long poke-check of the wily Frank was noticeable by its' absence and Canadiens were able to get in on the defence at faster clip that usual.

LAKEFIELD HIGH TEAM DEFEATED

Students Lost to Presbyterians in Opening Game of Junior Hockey League

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 4.—The first gun was fired at 1 o'clock on Saturday in the Junior hockey league when the Presbyterian team (Donald Kidd, captain) met the High School team (Clare Irwin, captain.) The Presbyterian team were nearly all in the Junior league last year, while the High School team are all new players who have not had the advantage of a practice. However, the High School team are a "peppy" bunch and are game in spite of a heavy defeat (7-1), and realize that lack of practice is a handicap, but are planning to make good in the next two weeks, before the next game. A unique feature was that the McFadden brothers were playing centre on the opposing teams and each played his hardest, which is saying a good deal, as both McFaddens play a strong game.. Don. Kidd and Russell Payne were hard to beat and kept the puck from getting past the defence line except on rare occasions so that Harry Hill did not suffer from the bombardment which was Sam Spence's portion. Sam played a steady game and will make a valuable goal keeper with a little practice. "Scotty" McPhail was a small but resolute player for the High School, and scored the lone goal for his team. "Scotty," as his name implies, was not discouraged under difficulties, but played well. Jack Gibson started combination play which had good results. Jack Gibson, Jack McFadden and Scotty McPhail gave a very good exhibition of combination work which effectively checked the opposing team. Joseph Kelly was also a good player for the high school.

The line up was as follows:

By periods the score was:
High School 0101
Presbyterians 3227

Reg Murduff handled the bell to the satisfaction of both teams.

CHAMOIX, Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Norway, with 91½ points, has what is regarded as a safe lead at the head of the seventeen nations engaged in the sports, Finland being the only contender with any possible chance of overtaking, and that small.

Great Britain has assumed third place, displacing the United States by virtue of scoring seven points in the bob-sleigh events and four points in hockey.

Only fifty more points remain to be divided. There are two ski events for today, and Norway is the favorite.

The standing at the end of the tenth day was:
Norway, 91½ points.

RECORDS BROKEN AT BOSTON MEET

Pole Vault Mark Raised By Nearly Two Inches at Boston Indoor Athletic Club.

BOSTON, Feb. 3. — One new world's record was established and another twice equalled in the fifth annual track meet of the Boston Athletic Club here last night. E. E. Myers of the Chicago Athletic Team scratch man, cleared the bar at 12 feet, 10 inches, setting a new world's indoor record, when he won the pole vault. The best previous mark, 12 feet, 8 1-4 inches, was estabished by Myers in 1922.

Carl Christiernsson of the Newark A. C., tied the worlds record of six seconds in the semi-final heat of the 45 yards high hurdles and that mark was equalled again by Karl Anderson was rushed to a hospital immediately following the race when he collapsed after clearing the last hurdle. It was subsequently announced that his left ankle was broken.

Joie Ray, crack Chicago miler, wiped out the stigma of two defeats this winter at the hands of Lloyd Hahn, when he raced home a winner over the Boston A. A. runner in the Hunter mile. Hahn's best efforts failed to get from Ray's lead sufficiently in the last lap, but the Chicago an was forced to set a new record for the Hunter Mile in winning. His time was four minutes, 18 3-5 seconds. Ray's victory gave him a third leg on the trophy and permanent possession.

PENALTY COSTLY TO CORINTHIANS

Free Kick Awarded When Centre Forward of West Bromwich Albion Was Sandwiched—Review of Saturday's Soccer.

LONDON, Feb. 3.— (Canadian Press Cable).—Regret is expressing in football circles over the downfall of the Corinthians who were beaten yesterday in the second round of the association cup ties by a team which at no time has shown any great superiority. The success of the West Bromwich Albions was due to a penalty meted out to the Corinthians for an irregular tackle. At the time Davies, the Welsh international was playing centre forward and while dribbling cleverly he was sandwiched by Bower and Morrison of the Corinthians and brought down There was no doubt about the legality of the tackle which in amateur football would probably have been excused but the referee immediately awarded a kick and Davies easily beat Baker.

West Ham United, on yesterday's showing in their tie game with Leeds United, will not survive the re play unless they remodel their team. here were over fifty free kicks for fouls in the game a majority of which were distinctly discreditable to professional football. When some one was not taking a free kick there was a lot of scrambling play. There was also some rough play at Cardif by the Arsenal team. Robson, the latter's gool-keeper who cleared brilliantly, felt foul of the crowd who hooted him severely.

The largest attendance was at Manchester were Huddersfield took the honors, 67,000 people witnessing the game while 52,000. the next largest crowd, saw the Bolton Wanderers and Liverpool in action. Forty-nine thousand attended the Corinthians-West Bromwich match.

Three goals were scored by Walsh of the Liverpools and Cook of Brighton. Walsh put on two of these in the last three minutes. Thoms missed scoring from a penalty kick at Derby. This was the fourth successive time that Derby failed to profit from a spot kick.

Manchester City saved their bacon thirteen minutes from the close. Harold Fleming, an old international played a brilliant centre forward game for Swindon.

Ayr United's crack goal-keeper, Nisbett, was absent from his post for the first time since April 1920. He has made 171 consecutive appearances in the field for his club and is in the running for international honors this year.

Aston Villas visit aroused much enthusiam in West Wales. There was a queue outside the grounds at 6.30 in the morning although the gate was not opened until noon.

FALCONS DEFEATED.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 3. —The Falcons were practically eliminated from the Eastern division of the Manitoba Senior hockey race on Saturday night when they were defeated by the Port Arthur brigade 3-2. It was a hard fought struggle throughout, with the visitors having enough edge to gain the verdict.

MOTHER CHIEF RIVAL OF GIRL SWIMMING CHAMP

MRS. IONE BLANCHARD AND HER MOTHER, MRS. A.N. LETT

MEMPHIS, Feb. 4.—The champion five-mile swimmer of Tennessee is Mrs. Ione Blanchard, 18 years old, a newly wed.

The champion's nearest and chief rival is her mother, Mrs. A. N. Lett, aged 42.

Mrs. Blanchard, the daughter, somewhat of a swimming prodigy, has finished first in the annual five-mile Mississippi River swim for five consecutive years.

Just as often Mrs. Lett, the mother, has finished in second or third position, usually a mere stroke or length behind her youthful daughter.

"I taught her how to swim," laments the mother, jocularly, "and she turns right around and beats me. That's a fine form of gratitude."

HAMILTON TEAM WON IN TORONTO

Defeated the St. Patrick's in Good Game of Hockey

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press).—The boys from Hamilton on Saturday night at the Arena did to St. Patrick's what they threatened to do on their two previous appearances of the current N. H. L. season, when they made the Irish finish on the short end of a 4 to 2 score, and in winning they showed every cause for climbing closer to the locals in a bitter three-cornered race for second place and the right to meet Ottawa in the play-off for the Calder bunting. , The winners were always in front after the first goal of the game had been scored, eighteen minutes after the game had started, and for the twenty-four minutes of the remaining forty-two they had a two-goal margin. Twice Jack Adams reduced their lead to one goal, but the Hams managed to regain the counter, the first time in fifteen seconds and the other time after seventeen minutes of play.

While the locals lost, it was the best played game of the N. H. L. season at the Arena, and the locals looked a lot better in winning than they have in winning several of the other home engagements, and had the defence been tighter they might have won, but there is no doubt that Hamilton showed enough to warrant the statement that they are real contenders for second place.

A NEW HORSE FOR DISTRICT TRACKS

Armstong and McQuigge of Havelock Have Bought Another Horse.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 4. —Charles Armstrong and Steve McQuigge, owner of Mack R. the horse that made such a brilliant showing at the fall fairs in the district last year, have another horse that they are confident will be able to show the green pacers and trotters the way around the circle next season. This is a sturdy and handsome youngster of four years as yet un-named and unmarked, but of aristocratic lineage. He has splendid action, pacing with the usual hopples, and has given his stable mate, Mack R. some close finishes in trials of speed on the snow roads.

Last year Mack R. was started ten times and won seven first and three thirds. He is still eligible to start in the 2.30 class. At Tweed last fall he went twice around the track in 1.59 but the distance was only about seven eighth of a mile. He made the full half miles circuit at Campbellford in 1.04.

The Petes sail into action in the second round of the intermediate O. H. A. race this week, having been ordered to play at Belleville Wednesday night, with the return game here on Friday night. It should be a great series. The Petes put Belleville out of the running last year, but the Quinte team have come through a tough group without a defeat, and claim to be stronger than last season despite the loss of Croak and the two Holways, last year's defence.

Whether or not a special train will be run to Belleville on Wednesday depends upon the fans. The fare will be $3.00, and if before 7 o'clock tomorrow night 125 local enthusiasts deposit $3 each at Eddie Wright's cigar store the special train will be arranged. It is entirely up to the fans.

The Belleville series last winter was about the most spectacular the Petes figured in and the two games this week will be of similar calibre.

SCHEDULE GAMES TO START EARLY

Deferred Games to Be Played at Nine O'clock Each Evening.

Owing to the mild weather that has cut into the curling schedule and the bonspiel of last week the regular curling schedule is running behind. In order to catch up on the deferred games, commencing tonight schedule games will start at seven o'clock and deferred games at nine o'clock. This will continue each evening until all deferred games are disposed of.

GOOD ICE FOR THE JUNIOR GAME

Lindsay Running Special Train Here Tomorrow Night.

The championship of the Junior group depends upon the game at the Brock street rink to-morrow night, between Lindsay and Peterboro, a fixture postponed from last week. Good ice is assured for to-morrow night and the game should be the best Junior clash of the year. Lindsay are running a special train, and are coming down chock full of confidence in their ability not only to hold the two goal lead, but beat the Petes on their own ice. The local crew, however, are in good shape, and realizing the task in front of them are going into the game full of determination. Everything points to a snappy contest.

On Last of Empire Tours Prince to Hunt in Africa

Prince of Wales to Sail in May--Lions Will Be, Chiefly, the Royal Prey, But Let the Ambling Hippo Beware.

LONDON, Feb. 4—John Bull has seen his 29-year-old Prince of Wales risk his neck so often in dangerous exploits that the traditional placid Englishman is only [illegible] learning that the Heir to the throne will hunt lions this Summer in comparatively little known territory of Northern Rhodesia.

It is said that His Royal Highness probably will be embarking on the last of his Empire tours when he sails on May 2nd for a four months' stay in South Africa. The announcement affords considerable consolation to those of his admirers who suffered with "nerves" during his tiger hunts in the jungles of India, and his broncho riding in Canada. Although he often flits [illegible] ter in England— as a flat race jockey, a poloist or a [illegible] —they prefer to see him in the relatively safe environment of home soil.

Hippopotami and Rhinoceroses also amble about the African wilds, which the Prince will invade, but most of his ammunition will be used on lions. Big game will claim only a part of his attention, as he intends to visit every important centre from Cape Town to the Zambri.

One of the features of the Prince's tour will be a pilgrimage to the tomb of Cecil Rhodes, founder of the Rhodes' Scholarship, which has brought so many American students to Oxford University. This great educator's body rests in the heart of the Matoppo hills, next to that of his lieutenant and comrade in adventure, Sir Leander Starr Jameson. His Royal Highness also intends to spend a few days looking about the famous Kimberley mines.

A part of the visit will be devoted to touring the principal battlefields of the South African war, including stops at Ladysmith and Mafeking. Societies of veterans of the late war will turn out for his inspection at nearly every town on his itinerary.

According to present arrangements the Prince will go direct to Capetown, where he will be received by his uncle, the Earl of Athlone, who left London only a few days ago to assume his new post as governor-general of South Africa.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

AN INKY RIDDLE

He's truly most obliging.

Here's another riddle, kiddies, that the Riddle Lady asked. If you are wee little maybe you can't guess it. But if you're about half past seven or maybe eight years old, you ought to know it first crack out of the box. But really it's kind of a riddle for very old folk—say twelve or fifteen, or around there! When the postman begins to bring you letters you just have to answer, or when somebody has sent you a Christmas present from out of town, you just have to sit down and say you are much obliged for. And that reminds me! I do hope you have said thank you for all the gifts you got for Christmas whether out of town or in town.

Well, here's the riddle:

"I have a little servant,
No longer than my hand,
But though he is so very small,
I find no fault with him at all,
He jumps at my command.

"He's truly most obliging,
He answers all my mail,
When letters come, that very day,
He sends an answer right away,
Quite promptly—without fail.

"He doesn't know his A B C's,
He cannot read a word,
And yet he writes and writes and writes,
In spelling words he quite delights,
Tho' some he's never heard.

"He didn't come from Africa,
And yet he's black as ink;
But that's a word I should not say,
Because it gives the joke away,
It's both his meat and drink!

"His trough of ink is on my desk,
And there his nose he dips,
I wish he hadn't such a thirst,
It's really of the very worst,
He sips and sips and sips.

"He's got a camel's tummy,
That holds a lot of drink,
But when he's on a writing trip,
He soon gets dry and has to dip,
What is his name now? Think."

"It's a pen!" cried Nick who hadn't guessed a riddle for a long time.

"Right!" said the Riddle Lady. "Or to be perfectly right, it's a fountain pen, for that is the only kind of a pen that can hold a lot of ink at once. It's the kind I write all my riddles with. The prize is a pen, Nick, and here is one you may have for your very own."

That was all for that day.

(To Be Continued)

POSTAL CO-OPERATION BY TYING LETTERS IN BUNDLES

The first handling that your mail gets after reaching the Post Office is "facing up." This means that the jumbled mass of letters as taken from the mail receivers, are picked over and the addresses all faced the one way so that the stamps may be cancelled and the letters sorted easily. Your mail may be in the bottom of one heap and be the last to be dealt with. This handling would not be necessary if you would have your letters all faced the one way—tied in bundles and handed in at the Post Office. This will give you the jump on your competitor right at the start.

After cancellation, there is a preliminary sortation to separate mail for local delivery from out-of-town mail—to sort mail by provinces, etc. If you are mailing in quantity you speed up the service by making these preliminary sortations yourself. For instance, you tie in one bundle all the mail for local delivery — in another bundle all the mail for your province—in another the mail for the adjoining province and so on—if you do this you gain a few more minutes on your competitor. These minutes may be few but a train may be missed by seconds, and a missed train may mean twenty hours' delay in delivery, with the result of a lost customer or, at the very least, a disappointed one.

When we ask you, therefore, to tie letters in bundles, separated by provinces, etc., and with the addresses all faced the [illegible] in your own interests. We want you to get the best possible service and you will get it if you carry out these suggestions.

The Train of Wagons in "The Covered Wagon," w hich will be shown at the Grand Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

FLAMING PASSION FILM VERSION OF FAMOUS NOVEL

Ever since the period of the tragic life of Lucretia Borgia, that flaming personality of the Renaissance who was a skilled mistress in the art of poisoning, the name of Lucretia has typified mystery. The story of "Lucretia Lombard," or "Flaming Passion" as ithe picture is called, the screen adaptation of Kathleen Norris' best seller, is one of Beauty and the Beast. Married to a roue, young and beautiful, her life is a dull drab affair, yet faithfully she serves her stricken, dissolute husband. Then romance comes to her, which brings conflict of heart interests, ethical problems, heroic sacrifice, but "Man proposes and God disposes." As if by miracle, the barriers are swept away, and Lucretia wins the man of her choice. It is a powerful, domestic drama, starring the emotional actress —Irene Rich with Monte Blue, who are ably supported by Marc MacDermott in the character role of Sir Allen Lombard the dissolute husband.

It will play at the Capitol Theatre for next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. "Flaming Passion" is a Warner Brothers classic of the screen, and a Harry Rapf production directed by Jack Conway.

DAVID POWELL REACHES NEW FILM HEIGHTS

Famous Actor Considers His Role in "The Green Goddess" the Best of His Career

One of the most distinguished as well as one of the most fortunate gentlemen of the screen is David Powell who plays an extremely heroic role in the Distinctive Picture Corporation's latest George Arliss production, "The Green Goddess." In this much anticipated picture which comes to the Capitol Theatre on Monday for three days. Mr. Powell plays opposite the gorgeously beautiful Alice Joyce. Needless to say such a task requires the aforementioned distinguished attributes, and it is also needless to point out why a man who is permitted to make love to Alice Joyce, even if it is only on the screen, is styled fortunate.

It is a known fact that the worshippers of feminine screen celebrities are extremely hard to please. That is to say there are but few men they will accept as being worthy of their idols. For that reason a producer who wishes actually to convince his audience that the heroine could really love the hero must choose the latter with no little care. David Powell has long since passed the test. He had been pictured as inspiring the love of no less a list of beauties than Mary Pickford, Elsie Ferguson, Irene Castle, Billie Burke, Mae Murray, Alice Brady, Dorothy Dalton and Gloria Swanson. In no instance has he been found wanting.

While especially well endowed by nature in the matter of looks Mr. Powell seems to attract the so-called opposite sex more by his personality. His first impression is one of sincerity and those who have learned about women all agree that this is ninety per cent. of the battle.

In "The Green Goddess" this highly talented young gentleman has what he considers the best part of his career. And it probably is. For it gives him more than the usual opportunity to display his dramatic ability. It is easy to understand, after seeing Mr. Powell's performance in the screen version of this famous play why he is the most popular of all leading men.

AT THE REGENT

"DON QUICKSHOT" STARS HOXIE IN [illegible] STORY

"Don Quickshot of the Rio Grande," the Universal photoplay starring Jack Hoxie, which will be shown at the Regent Theatre today is a typical western play of the cattle country down along the Rio Grande.

The story involves the adventures of a romantic cowboy who spends most of his nights reading Cervantees' "Don Quixote," and much of his spare time doing imaginative characterizations of the hero of the legend. When he is fired for his day dreaming he immediately hits the trail south.

No picture could have been better adapted to Hoxie's unusual ability as a cowboy and his dramatic skill. Hoxie is far more than a "stage" cowboy who appears at ease in full cowboy regalia. He is a veteran of the open range country of the days when cowboy life was real, when the great cattle industry of the west was at its height.

Although he has been in pictures for three years he has never strayed from the western roles in which he began his career and in wich he fits so well.

And "Don Quickshot of the Rio Grande" is a visualization of the old West. The story was adapted from a magazine story by Stephen Chalmers and directed by George E. Marshall.

The vaudeville to-day is Stevens and Laurel, speedy dancers and sparking tunes, and Dave Eveline, singing, dancing and acrobat. On Thursday, three new acts are coming including the Thompson Barri Trio with two or three big acts.

AT THE GRAND

"The Covered Wagon," Emerson Hugh's great story of the Oregon Trail which James Cruze picturized for Paramount, will be shown at the Grand next Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. "The Covered Wagon" success is the outstanding news of summer theatricals. The big photoplay combines almost every sort of Wild West adventure of the early pioneering days with a romantic love story and a brand of native American humor that is new to the screen. Behind it are the epic significance of the Western conquest by the indomitable Forty-niners, and the magnificance of the scenes through which their journey takes them. Three thousand actors, myriad herds and flocks, are employed in the depictions. The passage of the Platte by the swimming stock, hauling the covered wagons and the settlers, is a thrillingly novel scene, and others of powerful interest are the prairie fire, the buffalo hunt, the attack by the Indians, the California gold-seeking, the fights between the Missourians, and the ambuscade in the cabin. Lois Wilson, J. Warren Kerrigan, Ernest Torrance, Tully Marshall, Ethel Wales, Charles Ogle, Alan Hale, Guy Oliver and Johnny Fox contribute striking portraitures of the fascinating pioneer types. "The Covered Wagon" is being presented.

A decided artistic addition to the production is the score arranged by Hugo Reisenfeld and played by a seleeted orchestra of 12 musicians.

DUNGEONS NOT USED IN KINGSTON CLINK

OTTAWA, Feb. 4. —(Canadian Press).—In regard to statement from Kingston, that a convict named Fenton, had been placed in "dungeon" on orders from Ottawa, Brigadier General Williams S. Pierre Hughes, superintendent of Penitentiaries, stated to-day that he had never heard of such ridiculous things for years.

He said that although there were dungeons at Kingston none of them had been used since the time of the Fenian Raids. Most of the dungeons, he said, had never been unlocked for over 30 years. He doubted if penitentiary officials would be able to find the keys to unlock them anyway.

RUNAWAYS HAVE A POOR CHANCE HERE

If A. H. Cooke is Around They Will Not Have Far to Go.

Mr. A. H. Cooke of 183 Wescott street, has succeeded in the last 14 months in catching three single runaway horses and one team. In these four daring captures he has only received a bad shaking up in one, the last one, which happened on Friday night, in which one of the C.P.R. tracks saved im from falling under the pacing horse. As he leaped for the horse's head he slipped, his heel catching in the rail. If he hadlat tempted to stop the horse twenty feet farther north on George and slipped like he did, he would most likely have went under the horse.

His first attempt to stop a runaway horse was last winter on Charlotte street, between Rubidge and Stewart streets, when a livery horse, driven by a Chinese laundryman, got of the driver's control, and bolted down Charlotte towards George. Cook, who was walkir along the street, made for the horse, and succeeded in bringing it to a halt.

In the fall of 1923 another horse which was making good headway on George street, between Wescott and Lake, fell a victim to Mr. Cook, who once more pluckily threw himself in fornt of the pacing steed, and returned it safely to its driver.

A short time ago on Brock street, between Aylmer and George streets, he stopped a pair of young colts, which had broken away with their wagon from in front of a house on that street, while their driver was in with a bag of potatoes. Mr. Cooke grasped the horses by the head, and trailed with them from near Mr. Dunsford's residence to George St., wher he got control of them. Mr. Cooke stated that nobody knows what damage these frightened horses might have done if he had not succeeded in stopping them before they got on George street, as the streets were crowded with marketers and children.

On Friday night a horse bolted from in front of the Grand Opera House, but Mr. Cooke stopped it before it had made much headway. He halted it at the C.P.R. tracks. This is the only occasion on which he as had a very close call. He was not hurt much, but he got a bad shaking up.

Mr. Cooks states that all he received for risking his life these four times, and for protecting other peoples' lives, is "Thanks," and the farmer who owned the team which bolted on Brock street asked him if he had a piece of string with which to mend the harness.

Mr. Cooke is well known in the city and has been a driver for the Canadian Packing Company for the past 21 years, with the exception of three years he spent overseas.

Congratulations in Order.

"I'm engaged," said the taxi-driver, as Mrs. Dorothy Parker was about to enter the cab.

"I hope you'll be very happy," she said, meltingly. — New York World.

STAGE AGAIN SET IN MURRELL CASE

Same Cast of Characters as in the First Trial

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Once again the stage of justice has been set for the trial of Sidney Murrell and Henry Jack Williams, charged with the slaying of Russell Campbell in Melbourne in April, 1921. The Winter Assize Court of Middlesex County, over which Mr. Justice Lennox is presiding, opened at the Court - House early this afternoon, and with the exception of the Judge and the personnel of the jury, the same cast of characters which featured the first trial of the bandits in October were present.

But the retrial of Williams and Murrell will not be the sole principal feature of the criminal cases on the docket as was the case at the Assizes in October. The life of another alleged slayer will in all probability be placed in the hands of twelve good and true men before the present session is over. He is Clarence Topping, alleged murderer of Geraldine Durston, his sweetheart, who was fatally shot in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Cook, York Street, on November 23rd last.

There are 96 talesmen from which the jury may be selected. T. J. Rigney, K.C., of Kingston, is again presiding as the Crown prosecutor.

TRADE TREATY WITH APPLES AS AN ISSUE

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press). —When negotiations for Trade Treaty between Canada and Australia are under way during the present week, the disadvantageous position of Canadian apples in the commonwealth will probably play an important part. A few years ago, Australia imposed an embargo on the importation of apples from any country with fire blight. As there was some fire blight in Canada, no Canadian raw apples have since been able to enter Australia. Representations have been made from time to time urging removal of embargo but it still remains in force. Point taken on behalf of Canadian Government is that Australia admit Canadian apples when coming from district known not be be suffering from fire blight. Some form of official certification in this respect has been suggested.

It was claimed by the Crown that one of them, Ciro Nierri, is wanted ofr murder, while there is a reward of one thousand dollars for Behan, offered by the police of New York. All were remanded till Friday.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—I desire to publish a few remarks relative to the collapse of the Home Bank. In the past the people had the impression they were safeguarded by the Dominion Parliament through a system of auditing and inspection. On the contrary such was, and is not the case.

A letter appeared recently in the press summarizing the situation admirably. The letter I refer to was sent by Bishop Fallon to the prime minister of Canada. Judging from comment made by leading bank officials alluding to government supervision they try to convey the impression that the banking business is a science and therefore any revisions contemplated would have drastic results. The average intelligent personu has other definite views about that. If our government had taken action at the proper time this catastrophe might have been prevented.

The people who are interested in this matter will expect the government to rectify and revise this Bank Act at the first session. Every member of the house should contribute his influence and vote in doing so especially Mr. Gordon, our representative of West Peterboro.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, I remain,

Yours Sincerely,
CITIZEN OF PETERBORO.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines | New York Stock Exchange — and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Ma kets.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.— (United Press.)—Wall Street was profoundly affected by former President Wilsons death, but the reaction was a sentimental one, as his position of retirement prevented his passing from having stock market influence. Developments in the business and economic situation over the week-end were of constructive character and the stock maintained the buoyant atmosphere of the preceding week. Oil shares were especially favored in the early dealings in response to further advances in crude prices. Standard of California and California Petroleum continued the recovery from the selling movement directed against them last week. Calif. Petroleum sold at 28 1-4, a rally of 1 1-4 and Standard of California at 66 1-4 against last week's low of 63 3-4.

The governing committee of the stock exchange is expected to hold a special meeting to-day to decide what action the exchange will take to observe the day of former President Wilson's funeral.

Further pronounced strength in the railway list was the outstanding feature of the first hour. New York Central moved into new high ground for the year at 106 on increasingly favorable chances of the establishment of an $8 dividend basis at the March meeting.

In the lower priced group Wabash "A" reached new high ground on the movement 42 1-4 and St. Louis Southwestern surpassed its previous record high, made in 1912, when it spurted to 42 7-8. Strength in St. Louis Southwestern is due to a combination of excellent earnings and the belief that directors will inaugurate dividends during the current year.

HOME BOY'S SUICIDE WAS NOT JUSTIFIED BY HARSH TREATMENT

Tragedy of 15-Year-Old John Payne Told to the Coroner's Jury--Verdict of Death By His Own Hand With Exoneration of the Fees.

DID ALL POSSIBLE.

OMEMEE, Feb. 5.—(By a Staff Reporter).—Declaring that no evidence was found of ill-treatment by Mr. or Mrs. William Fee, the Coroner's Jury yesterday brought in a verdict in the inquest on John Payne saying the boy came to his death by his own hand by drinking Paris Green. The boy was well cared for, the jury declared on the evidence, and his guardians were completely exonerated of all blame for his death.

The inquest opened in the Community Hall before a crowded auditorium with County Crown Attorney J. E. Anderson of Lindsay representing the crown; Inspector John Stanners and Supervisor John Hobday representing the Barnardo Homes; C. Bogue Smart, Supervisor of the British Immigrant Children Receiving Homes, representing the Department of Immigration and Colonization, and Provincial Constable H. Storey in charge of police arrangements.

Witnesses examined included Mr. and Mrs. William Fee, with whom Payne lived; Miss Irene Clemmett, telephone operator; Dr. G. N. Earle, who attended the boy; John McGee, Mrs. Francis Fee and James Bannan, neighbors, and H. Brown, another Barnardo Home boy who lives near the Fee farm.

Six newspapers were represented, and a great deal of local interest was manifested in the inquiry, although the general opinion was that not much could be accomplished.

G. W. Powell of the Peterborough Children's Aid Society was notified by Crown Attorney Anderson to be present, but failed to appear. Mr. Anderson said he had been told that Mr. Powell had taken a boy from the custody of Fee some years before.

A stinging blizzard that swept over the country from the west made travelling difficult and made the roads all but impassable. It was on just such a day that the boy died on January 24 and doctors were unable to get over the road to his assistance.

William Fee on whose farm the boy was placed by the Barnardo Home gave his age as approximately 42 and said he had been married somewhere about five years. John Payne, he said, had the same food as the rest of the family and ate at the same table. His bedroom was comfortably furnished and he was well clad. Fee gave him money to take to Sunday School and to pay for church teas, he said, and the boy shared in any treats that came into the house. Young Payne had a craving for tobacco. "He was a good kind of a boy, one I thought a lot of," Fee said, "but he had a pretty good temper. He gave a certain amount of sauce to Mrs. Fee."

Fee had thought of reporting this to the Barnardo Home but had never done so. The boy used a lot of profane language. He quit school some time during last year when over 14.

About the last year the boy used so much bad language it was necessary to punish him. "I would talk to him and tell him where he got off and shake him. He would curse and swear in my face and I shook him to show him who was boss," Fee said, declaring he never used a whip or a stick to punish the boy. "Mrs. Fee gave the boy a light tap on the face on the day of his death. I never knew her to punish him before."

Payne got on well for a time but came to think he was boss of Fee's children. He was a good worker outside but not very good at house work. The boy had been reading the story of the Goderich tragedy in the newspapers and had spoken quite a lot about it, Fee said.

In the bush a few days before the boy's death, when handling an axe, the boy said to Fee, "couldn't I just split your skull open with that." Fee said this was after the boy had read the Goderich story. He made no attempt to strike Fee. Some time after Christmas the boy said to Mrs. Fee, "come on out and I'll split your skull." He was angry about something in the house.

Story of Tragedy.

Telling the story of the tragedy, Fee said his wife had a tub in which she kept the children's soiled clothes. She found refuse in it and enquired who put it there. John told her he did not. She said, "you must have." He said, "you're a liar." Mrs. Fee gave him a light tap on the face and the incident closed.

"Later when Mrs. Fee asked him to wash clothes he did not want to do so and I tapped him on the shoulder and told him if he did not help with the work he would have to go back to the home," Fee said. "John started to help Mrs. Fee and I went about my work and did not see him again until after he had taken the poison."

Fee said he missed the boy about 10.30 when his wife said Payne had been out some time without his coat or hat. Neighbors visited by Fee in his search could give no information. He feared the boy might get frozen without his coat and hat. Finally he found Payne in the straw mow after calling several times. The boy was lying on his back with his hands behind his head. He said nothing was wrong and Fee told him to go to the house to help, or to look after the stock and he would attend to the housework.

The boy said he was not feeling very well. "I asked him what was the matter and he said "I know but you don't", Fee said.

"I told him if he was ill to go to the house and get some liniment but he didn't go. He had cramps but no worse than if he had eaten something that didn't agree with him. I offered to get the doctor but he would not say whether he was ill or not. I told him to strip off his ordinary wearing apparel and we would put fresh on him. We gave him liniment and hot milk." That caused him to vomit, and Fee saw specks of green, which he afterwards took to be Paris green. He showed it to his wife and she said, "we will have to go some now] he has taken something." This was between one and two o'clock.

Rushed to Barn.

"I rushed to the barn and got on the beast and dug for Mr. Miller's place where the phone was. Mr.

WOODROW WILSON FUNERAL SERVICE

Former President of United States Will Be Laid Away Tomorrow.

(By Lawrence Martin, United Press Staff Correspondent).

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—All that is mortal of Woodrow Wilson will be laid to rest to-morrow, while representatives of the nation bow by his bier.

The funeral plans were complete to-day. Simplicity will be their keynote. Neither at the home nor at the chapel where the body will be placed in a crypt will there be pomp or ostention of grief.

The radio will carry the words of the final rites to 50,000 people who are expected to gather in a natural amphitheatre on Mount St. Albans, on the site of the imposing new Episcopal Cathedral of Saint Peter and Saint Paul. It is in the small Bethlehem chapel of this cathedral that Mr. Wilson's body will rest temporarily. When the cathedral is finished he will lie in the nave. If the arrangements being discussed to-day are completed the services will be carried by radio to millions in other cities.

Mrs. Wilson to-day gave her approval to the funeral programme and to the list of those invited to the services at the home. The small company which will gather in the home for the purely private services will include President and Mrs. Coolidge, Chief Justice Wm. H. Taft of the Supreme Court, a few Senators and other officials who were particularly close to the late President, and the members of the family who are here. The company to be admitted to the small chapel will number fewer than 500. President and Mrs. Coolidge will attend those services also, as will all the members of the Cabinet, the committees of Congress and representatives of foreign Governments.

President Belisario Porras, of the Republic of Panama, has decreed three days of national mourning in memory of Woodrow Wilson.

BERLIN LAYS TO WILSON WOE OF GERMAN PEOPLE

Socialist Organ Says He Didn't Dare Fight Evil to the End — Only Max Hardins Finds Good Word For ex-President.

PERFORMED MIRACLE

BERLIN, Feb. 5. — The Berlin newspapers comment at length on former President Wilson's death. Most of them seemingly find it difficult to follow the old adage not to speak ill of the dead. The majority of them consider that it was Wilson's "Fourteen Points" that brought Germany an unsatisfactory peace.

The Monarchist Kreuz Zeitung accuses him of perfidy and duplicity and declares that in the eyes of the German people he contributed more than anybody else to Germany's misfortune.

The Deutsche Zeitung says that "behind his coffin oppressed peoples will march, with angrily upraised fists, and the German people will endeavor to cleanse the besmirched and misused words of freedom and self-determination from the greatest fraud or which those words ever have been made to serv."

Compared with Lenine

The Tages Zeitung compares Mr. Wilson's achievements with those of Nicolai Lenine, saying: "Much has eben destroyed in Europe by the hands of these two idealists, the great difference between whom was that while Wilson conferred on other nations the blessings of his disastrous experiments, Lenine only made his own people victims."

Vorwaerts, the Socialist organ, says it regards Mr. Wilson as having been one of the most "tragical figures of world history, who overestimated his strength and did not dare fight to the end against the power of evil."

Maximilian Hardin seems to be the only publicist with a good word for the dead former president. An article in the Vossische Zeitung, written by Hardin, says it is to Wilson's credit at least that France did not obtain a Rhine frontier; that the whole of Silesia and Danzig did not become Polish, and that the German colonies were not firmly annexed, but only masdated to the Allies.

Persuaded America

Hardin adds that Mr. Wilson accomplisred something which appeared to be impossible; he persuaded a young nation to fight for an ideal without expecting the slightest compensation for the sacrifices entailed.

"A man capable of this miracle," declared Hardin, "cannot have been a small man."

The Boersen Zeitung remarks: "One of our taskmasters has gone to his grave."

The Deutsche Allegemeine Zeitung says that in Paris Mr. Wilson "betrayed his trust and degraded himself to become the tool of the most gigantic swindle ever perpetrated on a conquered people."

C. N. R. EMPLOYEES APPROVE OF BOARD

Will Deal With Grievances When Appeals to Officials By Committeemen Fail—Representatives of Management and Men.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press).—The establishment of a joint board of adjustment to adjudicate on grievances of employees of the Canadian National Railways in all cases where committeemen fail to make an adjustment in dealing with officials direct, has been endorsed by the representatives of the employees in the Atlantic, Central and Western regions.

A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees, who returned to Ottawa from Winnipeg yesterday, stated that the general grievance committee of the Brotherhood for the Western Region had accepted the proposal as being the solution of many long-standing grievances.

Reports from the Central and the Eastern committees which have just concluded their biennial meetings advised Mr. Mosher that the plan had been unanimously endorsed by both committees.

The proposed board would be composed of three representatives of the management and three of the employees, the six members combining in selecting a joint chairman. They would deal with grievances arising out of the application misapplicaton, or non-application of the schedule of working conditions and wages, but would not be concerned in revisions of the schedule or negotiations

WAS GIVEN DECISION.

TOLEDO, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press.)—Jock Malone, of St. Paul, was given the decision by newspapermen last night after a 12 round fight with Young Fisher, of Syracuse. The men are middleweights.

Moonshine Ended Their Honeymoon

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press).—The fact that Nick Kosbik had been married only two hours when police raided his home at 928 Cadillac St., Ford, Sunday did not save him from spending the remainder of his wedding night in jail. He was released yesterday after bail had been given by friends. According to the police, a party was being held at Kozbick'c home. They say they seized a quantity of moonshine and a keg of beer. Kozbik is to appear for trial to-day on a charge of illegally purchasing liquor.

SCHOONER AND CREW ARE LOST

Belongings of Men Washed on Newfoundland Shore--Crew of Six on Fishermen's Union Boat.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press.) — The three-masted Newfoundland schooner, President Coaker, of three hundred tons gross, owned by the Fishermen's Protective Union, is believed to have been lost with her whole crew of six men at Shoe Cove during a heavy storm of the past few days on the north-east coast. None of the bodies have been recovered but belongings bearing their names have been washed ashore.

IMMIGRATION IS NOT AIDED BY CONDITIONS

LONDON, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press).—The Canadian Government, in its own interests, should be prepared to offer every facility to expert investigators to prove the truth or falsity of adverse reports being received in Britain from British immigrants in the Dominion as to conditions there, says the Glasgow Herald, after alluding to the periodical receipt by that paper of communications from Scotsmen in Canada criticizing Canadian conditions.

These critical communications, the Herald says, often are accompanied by clippings from Canadian newspapers to support the arguments of writers.

The newspaper states that it does not take an alarmist view, but that a recurrence of the reports now when the tide of immigration is flowing strongly towards Canada is disquieting.

$5000 DONATION GIFT OF FRIEND SQUIRES SWEARS

Package of Bank Notes From Hector McInnes, Director of the British Empire Steel Company, Was Not From the Corporation, the Former Premier of Newfoundland Testifies.

WERE OLD FRIENDS.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press). — The first session of the fifth week of the Commission of Inquiry under T. Hollis Walker, opened Monday morning with ex-Premier Sir Richard Squires, against whom allegations of wrongdoing are directed, on the stand. The former Prime Mnister, who, at this stage of proceedings is being charged with accepting money from the British Empire Steel Corporation's plants at Bell Island, at a time when these companies were seeking benefits from the Government of Newfoundland, was examined by his own counsel, Merton E. Lewis of New York. The examination lasted all day and the cross-examination by Hon. W. R. Warren, Attorney-General, commenced just before adjournment.

Gift from Friend

The ex-Premier's statements were for the most part flat contradictions of the testimony given against him by T. Meaney, ex-Liquor Controller and by James J. Miller, former accountant at Bell Island, and his sister, Mrs. Harsant, at one time accountant and private secretary to Sir Richard. He testified that the package that Miss Miller (Mrs. Harsant) obtained from him at a time when Hector McInnes and other British Empire Steel Corporation directors were here in 1921 contained $5,000 in bank notes. It had nothing to do with corporation matters, he declared, but was a donation to his campaign fund by Hector McInnes, himself, who had been his intimate personal friend since his student days at Dalhousie University, Halifax, twenty years ago.

Labor Concessions

Other testimony adduced from Sir Richard by his counsel tended to show that during the whole period when he was supposed to be seeking financial help on a large scale from the steel companies, he was endeavoring to get labor concessions from them for the benefit of the workmen at Bell Island mines. Sir Richard also testified that after the charges were laid against him during the past summer a number of efforts were made to get him to open negotiations with Meaney for the settlement of their quarrel, but tha he had refused to take any such steps. At the close of the afternoon session, Mr. Lewis stated that Mr. McInnes would attend at the commission sessions to give evidence.

Negotiate Further Natural Resources.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 4.— That the Dominion Government does not desire to attack the natural resources question piece-meal but will continue negotiations with a view to the final settlement of the question is the substance according to Premier John Bracken this morning, of the reply received from Premier W. L. Mackenzie King.

Some three weeks ago Premier Bracken, accompanied by Professor Chester Martin, went to Ottawa as a deputation to place the position of Manitoba before the Dominion Government.

AUSTRALIA'S LOAN

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 4. —(Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's) — With reference to the report in the Melbourne Herald that the Federal Government is contemplating the issue of a loan of 25,000,000 pounds at 6 per cent., the acting premier, Dr. Earle Page, states that the loan will be of an indefinite amount, redeemable at varying periods and subject to Comonwealth taxation, but free from state taxation.

Million Feet of Logs Swept Away

VANCOUVER, Feb. 5—(Canadian Press)—More than one million feet of high grade logs were carried away; hundreds of trees torn down and camp buildings and roadways badly damaged by a flood which raged for 12 hours at Indian River, 15 miles northeast of here Saturday according to word brought here yesterday. The damage has not been estimated. The flood was subsiding Monday.

Gandhi Released To Regain Health

BOMBAY, India, Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press).—"Mahatma" Mohandas Gandhi, the Indian nationalist leader, has been released from prison unconditionally by order of the Government.

Gandhi on March 18, 1922, was sentenced to six years' imprisonment for sedition in connection with the non-cooperationist movement. He gained the title of "Mahatma," or "Wonder Worker," through his power and personal magnetism.

Recently the nationalist leader has been in a hospital. The action of the Government was taken on recommendation of the attending physicians, who declared that six months at the seaside was necessary for his convalesence.

REBELS AVOID OBREGON TRAP

Federal Forces Baffled By Retreat and Dispersal of Insurgents When a Decisive Battle Seemed Imminent.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press). — President Obregon's hope for a decisive battle with the rebels on the shores of the Yoriria Lagoon, near Valle De Santiago, was not realized, for the revolutionists retreated after an unimportant skirmish with the Federal vanguard early Sunday morning. The forces of the rebel general, Manuel M. Dieguez, dispersed in numerous bands over a vast area, probably with the purpose of counteracting the combined movement against him by the Federal generals, Gongalo Escobar and Juan Jse Rios.

Escobar was in front of the rebls with the task of cutting off their advance toward Guadalajara, while Rios was in the rear of the rebels, driving from Salvatierra in order to cut off the retreat of Dieugez toward Morela.

These advices were contained in reports received Monday from federal aviators.

Only partial battles are expected to take place in the Staets of Michoacan and Jalisco, and President Obregon is being forced to organize plans for relentless pursuit until the revolutionists are cornered and forced to give battle. The operations are expected to be long and tedious, owing to the extreme roughness of the country. Federal aviators have received orders constantly to fly over the retreating insurgents.

STILL ANOTHER POSITION OPEN

Master of the Horse Remains to Be Filled in England.

LONDON, Feb. 5. Canadian Press Cable. — The remark ble fact is that the court appointments announced here yesterday, which are more significant of the new order than any other recent developments, have up to the present passed without comment. Probably this is due to the fact that most of the jobs concerned are merely sinecures but the framers of the Britsh consituttion surely never foresaw an ex-miner and a Welshman like John Parkinson, the new controller of the Royal household, helping the Lord Steward to maintain discipline among the staff below stairs, and on pompous ocasions, take precedence over the Lord Chief Justice, the Chancellor of the exchequer and sundry secretaries of state.

Parkinson's immediate senior, Thos Griffiths, now treasurer of the King's household, has switched his attention from the Welsh selters to the intricacies of the board of the green cloth. In the Lord Steward's absence Griffiths takes personal direction from the Sovereign and supervises all the household expenditure.

The most interesting change is found in the Vice-Chamberlain, now John Davison, who was formerly an iron founder. In addition to the little distractions like seeing that the King's trumpeters duly sound the trumpets, and the King's messengers deliver messages, he has the really one onerous and often unenviable task of licensing plays. This last duty, however, will be transferred from his shoulders when, as is anticipated, Premier MacDonald transfers the responsibility to T. P. O'Connor.

The jolliest job has not yet been filled. It is master of the horse and he has the right to ride directly behind His Majesty in all processions.

STAGE PREPARED FOR OPENING OF ONTARIO HOUSE

Seats of Members Comprising Sixteenth Legislature Have Been Allocated — Thompson Will Be Elected Speaker—Sinclair Leads Opposition.

DEMAND FOR TICKETS

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press).—The seating arrangements for members of Ontario's sixteenth Legislature which opens Wednesday was announced yesterday.

The first official act on Wednesday will be the election of Jos. E. Thompson, M.L.A. (North East Toronto) as Speaker. The motion for his election will be made by the Prime Minister and seconded by a member of the Cabinet. After Mr. Thompson's election the official opening takes place by His Honor the Lieutenant Governor. The Liberals will be the official opposition and W. E. N. Sinclair, M.L.A., will occupy the first seat on the Speaker's left. Further down the same front row Manning Doherty, U.F.O. leader will sit. Many conservative members will be in the overflow on the opposition side of the House.

No hint has yet been given by the Government as the main features of the Speech from the Throne. At the last Parliament the U.F.O. secured their Speaker (Hon. Nelson Parliament) from the Liberals and his nomination proposed by Mr. Drury was seconded by the Liberal leader. This precedent does not hold for the election of Mr. Thompson it was pointed out yesterday. Judging from the application for tickets there will be a greater crowd at the opening than there has been for many years.

PROMISED COURT HOUSE

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—Premier Ferguson promised a deputation from Cochrane yesterday afternoon that work on a new court house there would be proceeded with immediately and that an amount will be put in the estimates for the purpose. The deputation showed that the court house was necessary for the carrying out of justice in the Cochrane judicial district. They also reviewed with the Premier some proposals for extensive road work in the district, but nothing definite was settled.

It was agreed that no one without matriculation standing should be allowed to qualify for another of the professions coming under the medical act. Other amendments to the medical act will be discussed at future conferences.

CANADIAN CLUB HAD A MEETING

Russian Refugee Was the Visiting Speaker --- A Good Attendance.

There was an exceptionally good attendance yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Women's Canadian Club, in the hall of the Public Library, when Baroness de Hueck, resident for the past two years in Toronto, and a refugee, with her husband, from Russia, was the visiting speaker. The Baroness' talk was in the nature of an informal chat, delivered while sitting at a small table on the platform, and dealt with her own personal experiences and those of her husband during the time following the overthrow of the Czarist regime and the establishment of the Soviet government in the Great White Kingdom. A general outline of Russian emigration, which was to have followed the recital of her experiences, was cut short by the approach of train time, but the speaker was accorded a unanimous and hearty invitation to return later to continue her talk, by an audience that listened to her with attentive and close appreciation. The president, Miss A. M. Lancaster, occupied the chair.

"Personal Experiences of War and Revolution," was the subject of the Baroness' talk. A unique touch was given the recital by the speaker's foreign accent, and the manifest sincerity with which she lived over again the experiences of bygone, terrible days. The Baroness' husband, an architect and civil engineer in Petrograd, was an officer at the Russian front during the war, and his wife was matron of a small, hundred-bed hospital near the trenches. To the fact that she was a nurse, and therefore necessary to the work of helping their own wounded soldiers, she ascribed her own personal safety from the rebelling soldiers at the time of the Revolution. "After the revolution the soldiers were very hard on the officers. The Russian peasant is a good peasant, but when his head is turned round with all sorts of ideas, he sees red. They had a saying: 'You drank our blood long enough. Now we are going to drink yours.'"

An execution of a general and six officers was witnessed personally by the speaker, who described the process of forcing the unfortunate leader to dig a hole for himself, where he was buried with his head above the ground, and guarded day and night, while he died from starvation. The officers were bound to trees and shot in succession.

Disguising herself as a peasant, the Barones made her way to her husband and they succeeded in getting to Petrograd by a train that was jammed to the doors, in which they were forced to remain in one position, without food or drink, during the four days it took to traverse the distance ordinarily covered in six hours. In the city they found that the banks had been nationalized, and the large deposit to their credit converted to the use of the state. Of a considerable fortune on deposit, the Barones was able to obtain only the sum of fifty guilders. The notices appearing day by day in the newspaper headlines, addressed to "Aristocrats and Bourgeoise, Attention!" were mentioned, ordering first the transfer to the State of all jewels, which deprived the speaker of a considerable quantity of gems, then of any extra articles of clothing, silverware and food, the only articles exempt being a wrist watch apiece and a little crucifix.

The Baroness' husband, a member of the White Army, was forced by his Red guards to help in digging a trench about the city, and was given a place on the 'black list,' with death to follow, his only salvation lying in the fact that a timely warning was received from a former great friend who had joined the Red forces. The two refugees made their way by stealth to the river flowing between Russia and Finland. Here they were compelled to hide for two weeks in a small shack on its banks before they were able to cross it and make their way to the small estate in Finland, only to become embroiled once more in the Red and White struggle which has sprung up in that section of the country.

The speaker in a few brief words, recorded the mental agony passed through when her husband was taken from her for execution, and the unconsciousness which overwhelmed her as the hours ticked by. The intervention of a peasant who had been helped by her husband in time of need saved his life, but the two were virtually condemned to death by slow starvation by an order forbiding food cards to be issued them, and a constant watch was kept to prevent aid from reaching them.

Here again, in a few words, was a vivid description of the struggles of the two to exist, on a small quantity of frozen potatoes and some oats that remained in the house from former times. One potato a day was the ration of each, while the oats were boiled to a thin paste. The oats, however, were hard to digest. "It used to scratch very much the throat when we used it." By Easter time, they could scarcely move from weakness, and the Baroness was suffering from scurvy. Her husband, in desperation, made his way by night to the hut of the peasant who had befriended them and brought back a half loaf of black bread that was described in enthusiastic terms by the lady. Just when matters were at a critcal pass, the White Forces triumphed momentarily, and the two weer enabled to make their way to the estate in Finland of the Baroness' mother, where they remained for some months. The first object that enchained the attention of the speaker on her arrival, was a "very beautiful pitcher of milk, a joint of meat, and a loaf of white bread." The Baroness, a woman of large proportions, had decreased in weight to ninety-six pounds by this time.

Her husband joined the British army forces at Murmansk later, and the Baroness helped as nurse. When her husband fell ill with pneumonia, they went to London, where the Baron was a member of the Russian embassy for a ime, coming finally to Canada and Toronto, where they have lived for the past two years.

An earnest plea for kindness and consideration of Russian refugees was made by the speaker, who spoke of her interest in a colony of her countrymen in Toronto.

The large attendance at the meeting yesterday was indicative of the interest taken by members in the lectures provided by the Women's Canadian Club. Other speakers on the schedule of future appearances, include Principal Bruce Taylor, of Queen's University, Kingston; Principal Maurice Hutton, of the University of Toronto staff, and Dr. Alex. McMillan of Toronto.

Members of the Women's Club enjoy the privilege of bringing out of town guests to these meetings.

ADDED STRENGTH FOR LABORITE GOVERNMENT

LONDON, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press).—Aside from three new peers created yesterday, Lords Parmoor, Haldaneand and Chelmsford, the new Labor Government's strength in the House of Lords has been increased by the adhesion of a Conservative peer, Lord Blebisloe, a noted agriculturist.

Lord Blebisloe told a meeting of landowners at Gloucester yesterday that he believed the new Ministers were prepared to embark conscientiously upon a better policy for industry, through which he hoped agriculture would have a brighter future. He intended to support them and advised landowners to do likewise.

COUNCIL MEET AT WARKWORTH

Councillor Renews Effort to Have Statute Labor Commuted--Ratepayers Object.

(By a Staff Reporter).

WARKWORTH, Feb. 5. — Councillor George Poole, at the regular meeting of the Percy Township Council Monday, renewed his efforts to have statute labor commuted, a change which he tried to effect when he was Reeve two years ago. At the January meeting he gave notice of a motion with this end in view, but at Monday's session he failed to obtain a seconder. The remainder of the members either opposed a change or were in favor of abolishing statute labor altogether, all road work to be paid for out of the general fund.

Councillor Poole was well supplied with arguments and figudes. The township had last year a total of 3,250 days of statute labor. If the men who had to put in this work paid for it at the rate of $2 a day this would mean a fund of $6,500. To this the Ontario Government would add a grant of $1,300, which would not be given if the old system is adhered to. The Councillor said that 60 per cent. of the townships in Ontario had commuted or abolished statute labor, and that the change was proving satisfactory in practically every place where it had been made. Seven townships out of the 15 in Northumberland County had commuted.

Although Councillor Poole's motion was not seconded, the matter was thoroughly discussed. Reeve McCubbin said that work done under a superintendent would be no more satisfactory than that performed on the county roads, and this was the subject of considerable complaint. He believed that statute labor had outlived its usefulness, but instead of commuting it he would have it abolished altogether.

Councillor Poole offered to adopt the Reeve's idea, but the latter said the people would have to be educated before they would agree to a change. It was suggested that an educative campaign be started and public meetings, with speakers to explain the new plan, be held throughout the township.

Councillor Atkinson was in favor of the Reeve's proposition so that all ratepayers could be treated alike.

Deputy Reeve Nelson thought the taxes were high enough at present. A man on a rented farm would rather work out his statute labor than pay $1 or $15 for it in the fall.

On motion of Councillors Fairman and Atkinson, further consideration of this matter was deferred until the question can be submitted to a vote of the people.

To Disqualify Deputy-Reeve.

A bomb was dropped into the proceedings when W. J. Baker appeared before the Council and raised a question as to the right of Deputy-Reeve Nelson to sit as a member. An attempt was made before election to disqualify the Deputy-Reeve because he is on the School Board in his section. George A. Payne, of Campbellford, to whom the question was submitted, gave it as his opinion that the statute did not bar the member of a rural school board, but applied only to cities, towns and villages. The case was accordingly dropped.

Mr. Baker, who assured Deputy-Reeve Nelson that there was no animosity in the step he was taking, that he simply desired to get at the truth, read a recent decision by a High Court Judge in Toronto, disqualifying a councillor in East York because he was also a member of a school board.

His attention was called to the wording of the statute and a ruling on a similar point given in the Municipal World, but he refused to give the latter serious consideration.

Deputy-Reeve Nelson declared that he was a legal member of the Council and would continue to serve as such.

W. I. Hire Hall.

Mrs. George Walker, president, and Mrs. W. J. Harper, secretary, of the Percy Women's Institute, asked for the use of the council chamber for 10 days, beginning February 25th. Miss Olive Campbell, an employee of the Department of Agriculture, will give lessons in serving on the dates referred to. The request was granted, the charge for the room to be 50 cents a day, just enough, it was estimated, to pay for the wood used.

Traffic By-laws.

Percy Council has no traffic by-laws, but one may be passed limiting the weight of loads to be carried while the highways are soft in the spring.

A communication, numerously signed by ratepapers, was received, asking that no change be made in the statute labor system, and that the council should exercise more judgment in the selection of pathmasters.

Expenditure on Roads.

It was decided to spend $4,500 on road construction and $2,500 for maintenance this year. Of this $2,000 will be laid out on bridges and $300 spent for new machinery. The money will be spent under the supervision of Reeve McCubbin.

Richard Heney and John F. Diamond were appointed sheep valuators.

Percy's New Council.

Deputy-Reeve Wilson is the only member of the council in 1924, who survived the last election, getting in by acclamation, when his opponent failed or neglected to qualify. He is on his second term as deputy reeve, and before that served a year and a half in the ranks. He is a hard worker, either in Warkworth or at Cobourg.

All the other members of the council have had former experience, no fewer than thre of them having served as reeves. John McCubbin, who at present holds that position, was reeve in 1920 and 21, and served in a lesser capacity in 1916 to 1919 continuously. At the age of 68 he is the oldest meber of the counties' council, and last session was elected chairman of the Contingencies committee.

Reeve McCubin has been a resident of Percy for the past 50 years, coming from Scotland with no friends and no equipment, except ambition and a sturdy frame, when he was 18, working his way up from laborer to that of the owner of a fine 200 acre farm, and to be regarded as one of the most successful in his vocation. He has also been honored by his neighbors in being three times elected to the highest position in the township.

Councillor Atkinson has the longest record of them all, having been seven times reeve, in 1898, 1901, 1902, and from 1915 to 1918 inclusive. In 1903 he was deputy reeve.

Councillor Poole was reeve in 1922, deputy reeve for two and councillor for two terms previous to that.

Councillor Fairman is young yet both in years and public serive having had only two years previous experience as Councillor, but the future looms bright ahead of him.

CAMPBELLFORD COUNCIL MEET

Credit of the Town Still at the High Water Mark--Will Pave Streets

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 5. — The credit of Campbelford still stands at the high water mark. Sixteen bids, these coming from the leading financial dealers in Canada, and all offering a premium, except two, were received for the $28,800 debentures isued to raise money to complete the new High School. The best bid was sent in by Bain, Snowhall & Co., of Toronto. It was 101.52, and this was acepted at the regular meeting of the town council last night, when all the tenders were submitted and read by Clerk McGregor. The issue will bring $29,237.76. The rate of interest is 5½ per cent. The premium received on this and the original issue of $68,000 was nearly $5,000.

Plans fro Paving.

The new council has already begun to plan for the paving of some of the streets in the town. A representative of the Standard Paving Company of Ottawa, will be in Campbellford in a short time to circulate among the property owners petitions asking for the paving of their streets, under the local improvement act. He will besides conduct a campaign of education, explaining the nature of the work to be done, and the yearly cost, until the debentures run out, to each person interested. The services of this representative will cost the town nothing, the paving company to pay all his expenses. This offer was made to the council last night by J. F. Driscoll of the Standard Company, and was accepted.

The price for paving quoted by Mr. Driscoll was $3.25 a square yard with $1 per lineal foot extra for the combined curb and gutter, all work to be done subject to the usual guarantee. On streets where there are no sewers the paving people stand ready to put these in while the streets are torn up at a figure which Mr. Driscoll asserts will defy competition. As the company is obliged to guarantee the pavement above the sewers it is to their interest to see that these are well finished.

The paving that the council at present has in mind is on Front St., from the spur line crossing to River street; Bridge street from the Methodist church to Ranney and Grant Road from Station street to Baptist church.

Delegates to Toronto

Mayor Meyers and Reeve Davidson will represent the town at the meeting of the Good Roads Association in Toronto to be held on the last three days of this month. While there they will join the committee from the County Council and will wait on the Minister of Highways to urge that a grant be made for a new bridge at Campbellford. The Mayor and Reeve have authority to make Campbellford a member of the Good Roads Association if they decide that any advantage is to be derived from such a connection.

Council Makes Grants

The sum of $15 was voted the Sick Children's Hospial. The Public Library will receive $1550 his year, the same amount as was granted in 1923. This figure is equal to 75 cents per capita of the population, the minimum set by the Statute. R. C. Weston and A. J. Jenkins of the Library Board were present, but did not find it necessary to address the council as the sum asked for was granted without debate.

Uphold the Bylaw

W. G. Fraser asked permission to build a garage 60 by 20 feet, 22 feet back from the street line on Tice street. The floor is to be of concrete and the walk and roof of corrugated iron. In time it is planned by Mr. Fraser to put up a building close to the street in front of the garage.

As the proposed new building is to be located within the fire limits Reeve Davidson, Councillor McDonald and others took exception to the request on the ground that the structure did not comply with the by-laws which provides that within the fire limits all buildings shall be of stone brick or cement and that if the walls are of iron these must not be less than one-eighth of an inch thick. Mr. Fraser contended that there was no corrugated iron of that thickness and asserted that his building would be just as fire proof as others recent ly put up within the prescribed limits. He admitted that Building Inspector Mitchell had refused to approve of such a building and this was the reason Mr. Fraser had come to the Council.

On motion of Councillors Cole and Johnston, Mayor Meyers, Reeve Davidson and Deputy-Reeve Dorie will confer with Inspector Mitchell with regard to the matter

Routine Business.

Councillor Johnston will have an electric light installed in front of his handsome residence on Palliser street. The councillor explained that he had intended to ask for this much-needed improvement before he was elected to the Council. Others will share in the illumination.

A by-law was put through to raise $1,450 by debenture issue to pay for the new water main on Rannie street. Of this amount the town will pay $736.50. Another by-law gives authority o'r a debenture issue of $5,750 o'r the Concession street sewer.

Councillors Kingston, Redden, Johnston, McDonald and Abernethy will form the court of revision for 1924. Their first meeting will be held on February 25th to hear complaints concerning the assessment for the Ranney and Richard street sewers.

Engineer Charles L. Hayes submitted a plan of his survey for the sewers on Sebastopol, Inkerman and Canrobert streets, which it is proposed to construct next summer. The sewers on the first two mentioned thoroughfaes will connect with the one on Canrobert street and all three will empty into the government sewer at the end of latter. This plan was approved, accepted and paid for.

Reeve Davidson, as chairman of the Police committee, was instructed to take up with Chief Duncalfe complaints that have been received against the placing of large advertising signs against walls of downtown buudings. The signs are often blown down by high winds, to the danger of pedestrians. Councillor Redden also objected to having electric light oples disfigured by posters fastened up with paste and these, too, will be looked into by the Reeve and Chief.

During the last municipal election the officials in polling division No. 2 were obliged to purchase 100 pounds of coal to warm the booth. On Deputy Reeve Doire's motion this coal will be paid for, the amount to be deducted from the $8 allowed the owner of the building who claims that he did not know until the eleventh hour that the place was to be used for that purpose.

Looking forward to the next election for town officials, Reeve Davidson suggested that only two polling places be maintained, one in the tow hall, for the east, and the other in the Ogilvie building for the west side. A sufficient number of election officials could be on duty in each to take care of the voters. In Cobourg, he said, all the municipal voting is done in one building.

Believing that sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof, or for some other reason, the councillors took no action.

DELORME APPEARS FOR TRIAL AGAIN

Looks a Trifle Thinner — Keen Interest in the Case.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5. — Looking perhaps a trifle thinner, but otherwise unchanged, Rev. Father Adelard Delorme apepared in the court of King's Bench here yesterday before Mr. Justice Martineau to answer to the charge of murder of his half brother, Reoul Delorme, the Ottawa College student, in January, 1922.

The hearing of the case was fixed for February 25, after Alban Germain, K.C., counsel for the defence, had asked for a delay on the ground that finacial difficulties had to be ararnged before the trial commenced

Delorme looked calm and reserved. He did not look curiously at the crowd in the court room and nod to acquaintances as he did during the last trial, and his pen and note book were not made use of during the brief deliberations. He was dressed exactly as when he appeared last June and July in the local court and was wearing a black suit with a Roman collar. His appearance was very neat. Rose Delorme, his full sister was in court, but the two half sisters were not present.

After R. L. Calder, K.C., Crown Prosecutor, had asked that the trial be fixed for Feb. 12, Mr. Germain requested that it be postponed until a latter date.

"The defence," said Mr. Germain, "is without a cent to allow us to procure the services of witnesses of great importance in this capital case."

Mr. Calder made no objection, and the court at once agreed to fix hearing for February 25th.

In spite of the lengthy trials and the wide publicity already given in the Delorme case, public interest in this cause celibre does not seem to have waned. Mr. Germain stated that he has received a letter from a man in Christmas Island, in the South Pacific, who appeared to have followed the case very closely. Another communication was received from a lawyer in Madras, India, who showed no less keen interest in the trial.

PERTH THREATENED BY FIRE AND WIND

Blaze in the Business Section is Out of Control of the Firemen.

PERTH, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press).—A conflagration is raging this morning in the business section of the town which threatens disaster unless the efforts of the fire brigade, reinforced by all citizens available, prove effective. The conflagration started next to the post office in Gore street, in the second storey of the feed store of Finlay and White That building is in ruins and the fire has spread to the premises of Dodds and Erwin and the lunch counter of Sam Cordick. The firemen have three streams playing on the blaze but their efforts appear to be having little effect on the flames. There is a high wind blowing and the situation appears to be very serious. The residence attached to Dodds and Erwin store is burning.

PAY FOR COUNCILLORS.

The members of the Goderich Town Council have voted themselves a salary to be paid at the rate of $3 for regular meetings and $2 for committee meetings, and the Mayor, who seems a conscientious individual and of the opinion that such a move is not in the interests of economy, has declined to accept money for his services.

Knowing nothing of the calibre of the Goderich Councillors, the Examiner is unable to decide whether or not they are worth pay at the rate of $3 a meeting, but has no hesitation in saying that in taking this step at the first meeting of the new year instead of announcing before the municipal elections their intention of doing so, the members of the Council have not played fair with their fellow-citizens.

Although Legislatures and the Dominion Government assume the power to estimate the value of their own services, the principle is unsound even there, and should not be carried into the municipal field.

If the people of Goderich knew that they would have to pay their Councillors they would doubtless have exercised greater care in selecting them or would have welcomed an opportunity to reduce the number.

In fact, Goderich, or any other town, would probably prefer turning over the management of their affairs to a commission of three or four members to paying the average crop of Councillors for their services.

AUDITOR AND EXECUTIONER.

The Examiner the other day in discussing the appointment of Mr. Gonthier of Montreal as Auditor-General pointed out that if he possessed the proper qualifications for the position he could easily earn many times over the amount of his salary, about which there has been some complaint.

The announcement of the new duties to be thrown upon the shouders of the Auditor-General confirms this opinion.

Mr. Gonthier is not only to be responsible for the proper auditing of the money spent by the Government, but he is also expected to keep the expenditures of the various departments from assuming undue proportions.

Apparently, so far as the cutting down of the Civil Service is concerned, he is to be the high chief executioner, and his axe is expected to effect the large economies the Premier declares must be brought about.

That is a large order, and the aplification of the duties of the Auditor-General justifies the $15,000 salary which Mr. Gonthier is to be paid.

If he succeeds in coming anywhere close to the mark at which he is expected to aim he will be worth every cent of that salary—and a good many cents beyond that figure.

The post of Auditor-General has never been a sinecure, and now that it is combined with the position of official headsman it becomes one of heavy responsibility and calls for courage, tact, judgment and energy.

WOODROW WILSON.

It is too early for a proper estimate of Woodrow Wilson; history will have to pronounce that verdict after the partizan clamour has died down and motives and actions can be given their true value.

In qualities of intellect and character, the ex-President stood near the peak in the list of United States chief executives.

Not even Lincoln was a more valiant champion of the welfare of humanity, none had higher ideals, none more worthy motives than Woodrow Wilson.

Not even Lincoln, too, had a harder task than Wilson during the days before the United States entered the war, and in the period that followed the culmination of the conflict.

Politically he made mistakes—at least he failed to recognize the strategic importance of spiking his enemy's guns and of consolidating his own forces.

It was that failure to conciliate the Republican leaders when the peace negotiations were to the fore that led to the repudiation by the United States of the covenant of the League of Nations and of the treaty to which Mr. Wilson had unhesitatingly put his signature.

There is no doubt of the fact that the rejection by his own people of the ideals for which he had fought was the primary cause of the ex-President's breakdown and ultimately of his death.

Bitterly assailed and maligned Wilson has been by many of his fellow-citizens, many of whom we now hasten to pay tribute to the sincerity of purpose and the high ideals of the man.

History will, however, reveal his true worth.

AN EARLIER START DESIRABLE.

The House of Commons is to assemble on February 28th, and it is pointed out by a number of newspapers that an earlier date would have been an improvement.

Certainly there are reasons that readily suggest themselves for believing that it would be in the general interest were the Commons to be called together in time to get the session through before the warm weather arrives.

Members of Parliament are merely human, and they have the same prejudice as everybody else against sitting inside when the sun is shining brightly and the air is warm and balmy.

The result is that when the hot days arrive the attendance in the House falls off.

It should not, of course, if the members were to regard their responsibility toward their constituents and towards Canada with sufficient seriousness—but anyway it does.

Towards the tag end of the session when the proposed expenditures of the Government are under discussion and when every member who can possibly attend should be in his place and keeping a watchful eye upon the estimates, it is undoubtedly often the case that the attendance is slim and many estimates are passed through carelessly and without proper attention to what they involve.

This could be avoided by an earlier start that would make it possible for the session to be concluded before the advent of warm weather.

Of course, even with the opening on February 28th the same result could be obtained if the debate could be cut down to reasonable proportions and our politicians took a leaf out of the book of the members of the British Parliament.

But those things are too much to hope for perhaps.

THE IRISH BOUNDARY QUESTION.

In inviting the heads of Southern and Northern Ireland to confer with him over the boundary question in London, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald is merely following in the foodsteps of his predecessor, Mr. Baldwin having issued a similar invitation shortly before the election, says the Ottawa Journal.

The fact that both Ulster and the Free State have promptly accepted the invitation looks encouraging. One year ago Ulster stoutly maintained that she would have nothing to do with any boundary rearrangement, the attitude being summed up in the phrase, "what we have we'll hold." Since then, however, a great deal has happened. The Free State has been showing commendable vigor and good sense. It has put down lawlessness, re-established economic life; reduced its army; and floated a big internal loan. More than that, there has been a perceptible lessening of antagonism between North and South. Sir James Craig and Mr. Cosgrave have both been most conciliatory in their utterances; and a notable indication of a new feeling has been evidenced in the fact that Belfast has decided to send a team of athletes to the great All-Irish Tailteann games to be held outside Dublin next summer.

At all events the whole Empire will wish for a settlement of the difficulty.

LABOR AND EMPIRE.

From the standpoint of Empire a Labor Government in Great Britain may have advantages. It is a fact that few of the leaders of British Labor have spoken the language of Empire and one wondered if they thought of the overseas British countries as assets or as encumbrances and liabilities. Nor has there ever been any Imperial spirit in the foreign policy of Labor. Its leaders seemed less ready to defend their own than to find excuses for other countries. All through the war Mr. Ramsay MacDonald hung on the borders of pacifism. Some of those who have seats in the Labor Cabinet gave British arms little comfort or support. The facts are not revived in order to censure, but as of vital and singular interest in the new situation in which Labor finds itself in the Mother Country.

Today Mr. MacDonald and his colleagues stand with the full weight of Empire on their shoulders. Already we have from Labor sources the unexpected complaint that under Mr. Baldwin there was excessive weakness in British foreign policy. Mr. Thomas shows concern lest he should be misunderstood in the Dominions. Manifestly it is recognized that Great Britain must be strong in Europe if a Labor Government is to negotiate effectively with other nations. But the strength which Mr. MacDonald requires can come only through the common support of the British people and certain co-operation between the Dominions and the Mother Country. The Labor leaders may perhaps now realize more fully than they have understood in the past how much Europe requires a safe and strong England and how greatly in these later days the moral and diplomatic power of England is enhanced by the presence around the throne of the younger British nations.

There was a time when all political parties in Great Britain were willing to set the colonies adrift. Long ago the folly of that attitude was fully realized by the governing statesmen of the Old Country. But Labor has not governed and has not been in such a favorable position to understand. No doubt those leaders of Labor who sat in the War Cabinets came to understand, but they were neither numerous enough nor powerful enough to control British policy. They directed great departments with devotion and efficiency, but only for a time and through a crisis and with restricted authority. Now their power is restricted only by the will of the British people and their own conception of what the British Empire should be and should do in the world.

One believes that Labor will find an Empire in spirit and in purpose very much like the thing it would have fashioned if it had come to power long ago. No doubt there are social fashions and social institutions that Labor would not have tolerated, but probably they would have taken new forms, as they have in other nations, and have defied annihilation. But would Great Britain have played a better part in Europe? Would the march of human freedom have been so greatly accelerated? Would ther have been more peace for England and more peace in Europe? We may not forget that so often those who make war go over the statesmen and make their appeal to the passions and prejudices of "democracy." One wonders if in 1914 a Labor Government would have kept Great Britain out of war, even if Ramsay MacDonald had held the office of Prime Minister. The decision which affects only an individual is so different from that which affects an Empire, a continent, a world. Because such decisions have now to be made by Labor it may be that Empire will come to have such significance for the British people that in the future the Prime Minister of Australia will not have reason to complain that the fact and the vision of Empire have not touched the imagination of the working masses of Britain.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

That hockey final at Chamonix seems to have been the hottest clash between Americans and Canadians since 1812.

One of the reasons Karl Homuth was disqualified was because he had hired a brass band. Evidently the judges must have been lovers of music.

Even the Republican Senators who frustrated his plans and wrecked his life will now say that Woodrow Wilson was a great man.

Winnipeg Labour men have held a memorial service for Lenine. If his passing is all they have to be sorry for Labour in Winnipeg must be in a particularly happy condition.

The death of W. A. Bowden, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, is a loss to Canada.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—Prices were none too buoyant yesterday and sales not too ready. Prices generally were steady.

Exporters had most of the heavy stuff checked up with tops around 7¾ cents a pound. One packing house wanted some heavies, but found it difficult to break in. Bulls were freely taken for import at 4¼ to 5¼, but the latter was one of the best bulls on the market for a long time. A number of good cows were also taken for overseas, mostly at 5 cents, and a few extra good ones brought 5¼ to 5½ cents.

Choice handyweight butchers in singles brought 7 to 7¼ cents and good butchers were generally around 6½ cents. Medium butchers sold at 5¾ cents and some poor quality at 5 cents.

Easier prices for calves was not unexpected. Sales of choice calves were made at 12½ cents and none were expected to go over 13 cents. Good mediums were 10 to 11 cents and heavy ones 7 to 8 cents.

Lambs were not too strong with packers bidding 12½ cents. A small bunch of extra nice light lambs brought 15 cents, but the run of good lambs went from 12½ to 13½ cents. Sheep are reasonably steady with tops at 8 cents.

Although there was no change in the packers' bid on hogs, the light run was regarded as favorable to the sellers who were trying to advance the price from last week's drop. The asked price was $7.75 f.o.b., and some rise is generally conceded as possible.

A Health Secret

It is frequently claimed by physicians that nine-tenths of all human ills may be traced to neglect to keep the bowels regular and the liver and kidneys active.

The result is an accumulation of poisons in the system which cause pains and aches and give rise to such dreaded diseases as appendicitis, Bright's disease, diabetes, high blood pressure, etc.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the ideal regulators of these vital organs because they act directly on the liver, kidneys and bowels, and ensure a thorough cleansing of the system.

You will notice that while the price of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has been increased to 35 cents, the box now contains 35 pills instead of 25 as formerly.

Likewise Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is 60 cents a box of 60 pills, instead of 50 cents a box of 50 pills. Edmanson, Bates & Co. Ltd., Toronto.

THIRD TIME PRESIDENT OF CAVAN PLOUGHMEN

L. H. Winslow Re-elected At Annual Meeting of the Cavan and South Monaghan Ploughmen's Association — Grateful For Assistance From Peterboro.

THANK J. J. DUFFUS.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 5.—The annual meeting of the Cavan and South Monaghan Ploughmen's Association was held in the Town Hall on Saturday, following the Liberal-Conservative meeting, President L. H. Winslow occupying the chair.

Moved by H. A. Fallis, seconded by L. W. Smith, that T. H. Alken be appointed to audit the books, the auditor appointed last year having been unable to act. The Treasurer's report was most satisfactory, showing a substantial balance on hand and all bills paid.

On motion of L. W. Smith and R. McKnight it was decided to hold the annual ploughing match, as usual, in the fall of 1924.

H. A. Fallis and G. A. Fair were appointed delegates to the annual convention of the Ontario Ploughmen's Association held in Toronto on Wednesday, February 13, with L. W. Smith as alternate. As the local association is entitled to four delegates, Thomas McCamus was also appointed, the expenses of only two to be paid out of the funds on hand.

The following officers were elected for 1924:

President—L. H. Winslow.
1st Vice-President—H. A. Fallis.
2nd Vice-President—George Berry, Jr.
Secretary-Treasurer—L. McNeil.
Directors—A. J. Henderson, G. Berry, Jr., R. L. McCamus, J. L. McCamus, W. R. N. Sharpe, A. J. Fallis, M.P.P., G. A. Fair, Gerald Armstrong, R. O. Larmer, L. M. Fallis, T. A. Kelly, L. W. Smith, I. W. Larmer, Joseph White, R. J. McKnight, J. Eagleson, H. Tait, D. Rutherford, J. A. Vance, J. Greer, A. B. Kennedy.

President's Third Term.

The President who has already held the office for two years, while thanking the members for his re-election, said he thought the organization would be better served by a change of officers every second year at least. Mr. Winslow also expressed appreciation of the loyal support which the association receives annually from the business men of Peterborough, "without which we should have been bankrupt long ago."

Particular mention was also made of the service of J. J. Duffus of Peterborough, who, in a manner which gave satisfaction to everybody, acted as judge at the ploughing match last fall, W. H. Paterson of Agincourt, who was appointed for that purpose, having for some reason as yet unexplained failed to appear. The usual fee for the judge's services Mr. Duffus had generously donated to the funds of the local association. A hearty vote of thanks was moved by H. A. Fallis, seconded by G. A. Fair, and the Secretary instructed when conveying same to Mr. Duffus to include with it a letter of appreciation expressing the general satisfaction felt with his decisions last October.

Boys Are Encouraged.

Mr. Winslow in concluding his remarks, stated his conviction that more competition is needed to keep alive the interests and quicken the enthusiasm for the annual ploughing match each fall, and expressed his pleasure in the number of boys who are joining the association and doing splendid work, which will make the older competitors look to their laurels if they do not wish to be outclassed by the juniors.

Three of the younger members present were: D. Sharp, Harry McCamus and Howard Fair.

Owing to the lateness of the hour when the meeting could be called to order, the report of the delegate, L. McNeil, to the Ploughmen's convention last year had to be dispensed with. A considerable amount of important correspondence was attended to and necessary action taken befott the members dispersed.

H. Thomas as the political secretary of the national union of railwaymen, in a speech on Saturday, said he was willing to consider any scheme for getting all railwaymen into one union.

HOME BOY'S SUICIDE WAS NOT JUSTIFIED

Fee phoned to Dr. G. S. Cameron of Peterborough and he said they could get to Peterborough quickly.

"It would have taken three hours to drive to Lindsay," Fee said.

The Millbrook doctor answered the phone and said he had another case. It would have taken two hours or more to drive to Peterborough.

Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Fee tried to give the boy oatmeal and water but he had his teeth shut fast and would not allow them to give him any. Payne went with Mr. McGee in the rig and they arrived in Omemee about six o'clock.

"We came as fast as we could," Fee said. "If he had been my own child I couldn't have done more."

Dr. Earle was not at home but was expected at any moment and soon arrived. If the boy had been taken to Peterborough he would not have been half way by the time that Dr. Earle actually saw him in Omemee.

The boy did not admit to Fee having taken poison. There was a pastboard box on the woodpile that had contained Paris green and Fee found this when he was looking for the boy. Fee had never found any vessel containing Paris green from which the boy might have taken the fatal dose but a few days later found a spoon with traces of the poison on it.

Payne had never threatened to take his own life.

Crown Attorney Anderson: "Would it have been possible to get a doctor from Peterborough, Millbrook, Omemee or Lindsay sooner than you got attention from Dr. Earle?"

Fee: "No not unless brought by a car and it would have been impossible to get a car over the roads."

Dr. G. N. Earle who attended the boy said when he first saw John Payne at 6.15 the boy had collapsed.

He endeavored to restore him by giving him morphine. He was dying and all could be done was make the passing easy. The boy died about 10.30.

Payne told Dr. Earle he took a quarter of a cup of Paris green, and in the doctor's opinion the retaining of that for an hour would cause death. The boy refused to say why or when he had taken the poison and only asked for relief from the terrific agony.

Mrs. Frances B. Fee, sister-in-law of William Fee said she telephoned at William Fee's request for a doctor. Pressed by the Crown Attorney for the time Mrs. Fee said she was scared and could not remember.

She phoned Dr. Earle, Omemee; Dr. Rich of Lindsay, and Dr. Turner of Millbrook. The first two were away and Dr. Turner had an engagement. He, however, told Mrs. Fee she should give hydrate of iron.

Dr. Cameron of Peterborough said he could not come, as he would have to hire a team, and suggested taking the boy to Peterboro.

John McGee, a neighbor of Fee, said so far as he knew the boy was well treated.

Mr. Fee came to his farm on horseback and asked for help to get the boy to the hospital. Young Payne, Mr. McGee thinks, tried to block their efforts to get him ready to go to the doctor.

Telephone Operator.

Miss Irene Clemett, telephone operator, said at 4.15 on January 24 she was asked to call the doctors.

Dr. Turner, whose was the only message she relayed, said he could not attend on account of having a previous engagement.

Harry Brown, 18, said he was well acquainted with John Payne. They had been close friends for four months last summer, when Brown worked for Frank Fee. Payne had never made any complaint about his treatment. Brown had never heard of ill treatment given Payne and said he had as good a room as anybody would expect. Brown said he was satisfied the boy had not been mistreated.

James Bannan, another neighbor testified he had never heard of the boy being ill-treated.

Rev. E. W. Rowland, Methodist minister in Omemee said he answered a phone message at 6.30 and found the boy lying on a stretcher in the doctor's office. He was told the boy was dying.

He prayed with the boy and the lad himself tried to play, but the pain was so severe his words were incoherent. The Reverend gentleman read the 23rd Psalm and assisted in the work of putting the boy at ease.

Young Payne did not make any statement.

Mrs. William Fee was not in fit condition to give evidence in open court and was heard privately in the village home of her brother. She said the boy was excellent until the last six months of his stay when he used bad language.

Inspector Stanners of the Barnardo Homes said he visited the Fee home on the 26th January and found it very comfortable. The boy's room was as nice as anyone would wish and he had a good average supply of clothes.

One man in the village complained that the boy should have money for tobacco, but outside of that no one had any complaints to make.

Peterborough Witness Missing.

G. W. Powell, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society in Peterboro was called by the Crown Attorney but did not answer.

G. Bogue Smart, Supervisor of British Immigrant Children, said his department has supervision of all British children who come into this country. His reports showed that the Payne boy came here at the age of 13 and was visited regularly. He was reported to be making excellent progress and had made no complaints. No notice is given to the foster parents, Mr. Smart said, of these visits. It is the duty of the inspector to interview the child separately from the foster parent or employer. The inspectors visit all parts of the boy's home, examine his clothing and work and decide whether he is overworked.

The foster parents have no right to whip the children and if notice is given to the home of any whipping the child is removed. The inspectors also visit the schools and make enquiries as to attendance and appearance of the child compared with others in the vicinity.

"After investigation I came to the conclusion that the act of this boy was not induced by any ill treatment at the Fee home," Mr. Smart said.

Crown Attorney Anderson asked any who had information to give in the matter of the boy's death to come forward and make their statements or for ever hold their peace.

Mrs. Sharpe, of the Children's Aid Society for Victoria, said she had never heard any complaints regarding the treatment of the Payne boy.

International Importance.

Crown Attorney Anderson said the case is of international importance, affecting the immigration into this country. It came, he said, most unfortunately on the heels of the Goderich tragedy and had therefore raised more interest and created more publicity than would otherwise have been given it. He urged the jury to carefully consider the verdict.

"You must endeavor to clean up the situation," he said. "If you find the Fee's were to blame I want you to say so. If you find they were not to blame I want you in fairness to them to say so.

In regard to the punishment on the fatal morning I want you to say whether it was merited or not.

You have heard Mr. and Mrs. Fee say that the boy had been becoming saucy and hard to get on with and they were debating sending him back to the Home but refrained because of their affection for him.

I want you to consider whether his reading the Goderich incident had anything to do with the boy's action.

I want you to find as to whether or not everything was done that might have been done to gain medical assistance for the boy.

The Verdict.

The jury retired at 4.35 and after an absence of forty minutes brought in the verdict of no culpability. It was found that John Payne came to his death by his own hand by taking paris green. "We exonerate Mr. and Mrs. William Fee from any blame whatever. They did everything they possibly could to obtain medical attention.

In our opinion the boy had read about the sad affair at Goderich and this, coupled with the threat of Mrs. Fee that he would be sent back to the Barnardo Home was the only cause we could find from the evidence given." The jury did not find any evidence of ill-treatment.

The jury was composed of: H. J. McGinness, foreman; R. J. Adams, Richard Morton, T. E. McPherson, G. T. Wilson, J. Palmer, S. J. Mackey and T. J. Beatty.

Mrs. English reported the evidence.

Shirley Denison, K.C., of Toronto, had a watching brief for the Barnardo Homes.

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT STAND

Says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well and Strong

Glens Falls, N. Y.—"For over two months I was so sick I was not able to stand on my feet, and my husband did my housework. The doctor said an operation might be necessary. I read testimonial letters about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began to take it. Before I had finished taking the first bottle I saw what good it was doing me. I am now well and strong, doing all my work for a family of four, all my washing and my sewing, which I think is remarkable, as I had not dared to run my sewing machine, but had done all my sewing by hand. I truly feel that were it not for your medicine I would not be here today as my case seemed very serious."—Mrs. GEORGE W. BURCHELL, Glens Falls, N Y.

MOCCASIN DANCE IN LAKEFIELD ARENA

Unusual Rink Feature Will Be Held Thursday Night — Social Events, Past and Future.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 5.—The moccasin dance which is billed for Thursday evening under the auspices of the Lakefield Rink Company promises to be probably the most unique event of the season, as a moccasin dance is a decided novelty in the village. On February 18, 1920, a moccasin dance was given in the Exhibition Building (at that time used as a rink), but owing to counter attractions, insufficient advertising and inclement weather it was not largely attended. This year's dance offers an attraction which is decidedly novel to the young people of the village. The management have announced skating after the dance.

Imported Band.

The Peterborough Rangers Band supplied music at the rink on Saturday night and drew a large crowd, who enjoyed the good music. Saturday night is everybody's night at the rink, and its popularity is greater this year than ever. Married people, the young people and children all join in making the crowd on Saturday night.

G.W.V.A. Ladies' Social.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the G. W. V. A. gave one of the popular card parties in the rotunda of the Hotel Lakefield on Thursday evening. Twelve tables of progressive euchre provided amusement and the play was keen. Mrs. Trude Waldon was the winner of the first prize for ladies and Ernest Waldon was high for the men's prize. The consolation prizes went to Mrs. J. Lemay and R. H. Alford.

Dance on Friday.

The Holy Name Society of St. Paul's Church are holding a card party and dance in the rotunda of the Lakefield House on Friday evening. Messrs. John Coughlin, A. G. Lawless and J. J. McFadden are the committee in charge.

Personals.

Mrs. McKeown of Hamilton returned home last week after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Connell in the village.

Misses Mildred and Greta McCall of Peterborough were guests of Mrs. McConkey last week.

Miss Lelia Burgess of Peterborough was a week-end visitor in the village.

Rev. and Mrs. Walter Cox returned from Toronto on Saturday and expect to be settled in the rectory this week.

Mrs. John Hunter has returned from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Flynn in Smith's Falls.

Mrs. E. Sellens of Hamilton is visiting her mother, Mrs. Peter Baptie. Mrs. Baptie celebrated her birthday on Saturday.

Miss Elsie Kidd of Otonabee spent the week-end with her parents in the village.

Miss Doris Burgess of Peterborough was a week-end visitor at her home.

Mrs. A. M. Bowen of Toronto is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. Baptie.

"ECZEMA first appeared in the form of a severe rash on my body in 1916," says Mr. Alfred Rose, Booth Avenue, Toronto.

"This rash kept breaking out first in one part, then in another, and the constant raw, sore state of my skin caused great pain and inconvenience.

"During the war, through active service conditions, this skin trouble increased in severity. Even in 1919, when I was discharged from the Army, my skin was in such a bad state that the authorities delayed me leaving for home until its condition improved. But I arrived back in Toronto still in a serious plight. My skin was so painful and tender that I dreaded the thoughts of taking a bath; water's effect almost sent me crazy with pain.

"Whilst in this condition I was persuaded to get Zam-Buk. To my great delight, even the first dressing of this great herbal healer gave surprising relief and encouraged perseverance. FIGHT WITH CHURCH KEPT ALIVE BY WILL Woman, 84, Provides Home Not To Be Sold by Heir.

ALTON, Ill., Feb. 5.—In death as in life, the late Mrs. Lois Caroline Swift, who died at 84 years of age, is continuing her resentment against the Upper Alton Presbyterian Church next door to the home she lived in, because of the efforts of the congregation to buy her property. Her will, just filed, left the house and lot to a grandson, with the provision that it "shall not be sold by him or his heirs to the Presbyterian sect or congregation."

Mrs. Swift said before she died that she had no enmity to the Presbyterian denomination, as such, but did resent the repeated efforts of the congregation next door to buy her home.

The church is flourishing and has considered enlarging its building if it got the extra ground. Of late the church members have thought they could make the purchase after Mrs. Swift's death. Evidently she got wind of the idea, and did her best to forestall it in her will, which was made November 17 last.

PREMIER ROBBED.

Taschereau's Pockets Emptied of $1,200 While He Slept in Montreal Hotel.

QUEBEC, Feb. 4. — (Canadian Press.) — Premier Taschereau returned to Quebec to-day $1,200 short in cash as a result of a week-end visit to Montreal. When he awoke Sunday morning he found his trousers had been carried into the adjoining room through the communicating door, his room being part of a suite and his money taken.

He had two hundred dollars in ordinary bills and a one-thousand dollar bill, his January salary, which his secretary had handed him on the eve of his departure Friday.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

Is the Electrified Bathing-Pool a Real "Fountain of Youth?"

A NEW METHOD of revitalizing and re-energizing tired and worn bodies has been found in an unusual manner of applying electricity. Scientists have long known that electricity has a direct effect on life. Since the early days of electrical development various forms of electric current have been applied to the human organism. Although in many cases the improvement observed was probably due to a psychological effect rather than the direct action of the electric current, it is now definitely known that some applications of electricity do increase the health and vitality of the human physique.

Various applications of electro-therapy are in use, such as subjecting the patient to powerful alternating electro-magnetic and electro-static fields, or to a combination of the two; applications of high frequency currents are also in vogue. However, the simple application of fairly high voltage giving a direct current or low frequency alternating current seems to be the most beneficial and produces the most marked physical effects, as is manifested by the somewhat unpleasant and stimulated feeling accompanied by vigorous muscular action, which action is sometimes beyond the control of the patient. The stimulating effect on the nerves and the muscles tends to increase the blood circulation, and this has been found very beneficial to health if the treatment is not taken excessively. As yet no serious harm has been known to result from comparatively slight electric shocks and many electricians can quote experiences of receiving severe electric shocks which knocked them unconscious, but they quickly recovered and are now apparently as well as ever.

In this newest method of applying electricity to the body, which Clyde B. Fitch describes in Practical Electrics as an "Electric Fountain of Youth," the electric current is passed from end to end of a large swimming pool so that the patients, who are swimming in the water, receive the benefit of healthful physical exercise as well as the stimulating effect of the electric current. The advantage of this method of applying the electric current over other methods is apparent. The limbs are free to move, so that the patients may kick and splash to their hearts' content without fear of overexertion or muscular strain. The effect is similar to that of diving into a pond of ice water, but without the danger of catching cold. The vigorous muscular action, under the influence of the electric current, will quickly increase the blood circulation and fill the body with health and vitality. Those who have been fortunate enough to be swimming in an outdoor pond during a local thunder storm and felt the electric discharge in the water from a nearby lightning stroke can well appreciate how quickly the electric current will wake up the muscles.

As shown in the illustration, the voltage is applied between two metal plates or metal screens, one at each end of the pool. By means of the electrical equipment the physician may apply direct current at any desired voltage, or alternating current at any desired voltage and frequency; however, for experimental purposes, a one-half or one-inch spark coil operated by a few dry cells may be used. A rheostat in the primary circuit serves to control the secondary voltage.

Mr. Fitch describes the effect of an experiment made with gold fish by passing an electric current from three dry cells through the water in the globe containing the fishes. The fishes behaved like as many compass needles, assuming a position perpendicular to the direction of the current flow.

Dynamite Now Made of Sawdust

A NEW explosive compound in which ordinary sawdust replaces the nitroglycerin used in most high explosives has been announced by the chemistry department of the University of Washington. According to Popular Mechanics, the discovery consists in the proper cooking of a mixture of sawdust and ammonium nitrate, which have long been known to form an explosive. It is estimated that the explosive can be made to sell at about one-third the cost of commercial dynamite, as neither the ammonium nitrate, which forms 80 per cent of the mixture, nor the sawdust making up the balance is an expensive material. The new explosive apparently has the strength and qualities desired in a high explosive. It is claimed to be practically smokeless and that the fumes from it do not cause headache or other physical inconvenience to the user; that it can only be exploded by detonation, that it does not require thawing, and does not burn readily. An effort is being made to make a State industry of the manufacture of the new explosive, which would be distributed at cost for the benefit of farmers and others who use explosives extensively for clearing land and increasing soil productivity.

A recent discovery of a new blasting explosive is a method of making cartridges of lamblack soaked in liquid oxygen. Trial tests which took place at a quarry near Martinsville, W. Va., were conducted by a German firm of manufacturers of liquid-oxygen apparatus under an arrangement with the United States Bureau of Mines.

How SEA FOOD Was Found to Be GOOD for GOITRE

DR. DONALD K. TEASLER, of the United States Bureau of Fisheries, has found that oysters, clams and lobsters are usually rich in iodine, containing approximately 200 times as much iodine as beefsteak or milk, according to an announcement issued by the bureau. Shrimp contain about 100 times as much iodine as beefsteak, it is reported, while crabs have about half of that amount. Marine fishes were also found rich in iodine, containing on the average about fifty times as much iodine as milk or beef muscle. Fresh water fishes were found to be very much poorer in iodine, the amount found being about the same as that of meat.

The importance of these results is emphasized by the bureau as indicating the value of marine fishes, mollusks and crustaceans in the diet of the inhabitants of regions where goitre is endemic. In the goiterous belts sea foods should be eaten at least two or three times each week, it is recommended, while ocean fish should never be omitted from the diet of young girls, who are particularly susceptible to thyroid disorders.

"In recent years," says the bureau's statement, "a lack of iodine in food and drinking water has been recognized as one of the most important causes of endemic goitre, cretinism, and other disorders of the thyroid gland. Thyroxin, the active principle of the thyroid, has been shown to be an iodine compound. Various observers have shown that it is necessary to have small amounts of iodine in the food or drinking water to enable the thyroid gland to function properly.

"There has been some disagreement among observers as to whether sea foods contained sufficient iodine to be of importance in human nutrition. For many centuries marine algae have been generally recognized as possessing valuable therapeutic properties in the treatment of disorders of the thyroid gland. In recent years it has been shown that this property is caused by the large amounts of iodine which these algae contain. However, fishes, mollusks and crustaceans do not contain such large amounts of iodine, and because of the lack of refined analytical methods suitable for the determination of minute quantities of iodine, many conflicting data have been published. Some chemists have published results which indicate that fish and shellfish contain large amounts of iodine, while others have failed to detect even small amounts in the most common sea foods.'

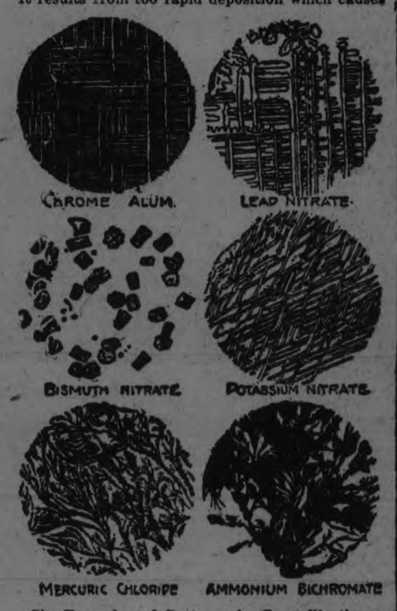
Special analytical methods recently perfected by a Swiss chemist named von Fellenberg make it possible to measure accurately the iodine content of foods even when this element is present in amounts as small as one-millionth of 1 per cent.

Why Crystals Are Formed by Pattern

ALL organic substances on solidifying tend to assume the form of crystals. The diamond, which is extremely hard, and is prized because of its beauty and rarity, is a crystalline form of carbon. Sugar, salt, water and a great many other things with which all are familiar are also crystalline in the solid state. There are thousands of forms of crystals or plane-surface solids. However, all may be classified under half a dozen systems. The study and classification of these bodies, many of them so minute that they can be seen only with the aid of the microscope, constitute an important, interesting branch of science known as crystallography.

Everything is pure about the crystal. All foreign materials have been rejected by it. All similar particles have joined together to produce a harmonic whole, mathematical in its regularity, and wherever the same substances may be found they will always be bound together in the same way. Such is the law of crystallization. Under it all substances not only must have all of their constituents but they must assume a definite shape as soon as they make their appearance in the solid state. The majority of minerals, however, consist of a mixture of various substances and hence possess no regular form.

As a rule crystals are gradually deposited from solution, either on cooling or on evaporation of some solvent, explains a writer in the Scientific American. The slower this process the more perfect will be the final product. All crystallizable substances tend to grow in all directions of their faces if the substance is continually and evenly deposited on them. Crystals have a definite shape which is always constant. Imperfect crystallization is by no means uncommon. It results from too rapid deposition which causes growth in one direction with excessive speed. In this way barred, crossed or star-shaped crystals are formed. Others develop into fence-like or netted crystals, while still others have certain axes parallel to each other.



Six Examples of Patterns in Crystallization as Revealed by the Microscope.

Each distinct crystallizable substance has a definite crystal shape and this shape is seldom if ever duplicated in any other substance as viewed under the microscope. This is due to the internal structure of the molecule, although there may be a few limiting forms possible with the same substance, such as the cube, the octahedron, etc. All, however, are built of similar particles and their arrangement is essentially the same.

With the microscope three separate types of crystallized substances can be distinguished. These are the crystals themselves, the barred or crossed forms with one axis parallel or nearly so and those which develop curving or spiral shapes like frost flowers on the window pane. Such forms will be produced if a drop of pure salt in a salution of water is placed on the slide of the microscope and allowed to evaporate slowly under natural conditions. No matter how often a substance may be taken and crystallized under given conditions the same characteristic shapes will always be obtained. A single drop of a dilute solution is all that is needed for microscopic analysis.

New TEST to Show PRESENCE of LIFE

By Hereward Carrington, Ph. D.

BY an ingenious device it is now possible to tell whether a patient, a leaf, a seed, or a piece of organic tissue is living or dead. A sure test for the presence of life is very desirable, since it at once informs the experimentalist whether or not the specimen before him can be made to respond and live again or not. It is possible that this method may be applied to human beings in the future.

There are two main tests or signs which all living things show and which are an index of life. One of these is an electrical disturbance. This was discovered more than a hundred years ago. The other is the chemical sign, which has only lately been discovered by Professor Shiro Tashiro, of the University of Chicago.

In a recently published work upon his researches and discoveries in this field, he says:

"It is a matter of very great interest that I have recently found that there is always and everywhere an accompanying chemical change of a particular kind, which is a sure sign of life, and as invariable an accompaniment of the vital reaction as the electrical change.

"This chemical sign is the sudden outburst of carbon dioxide which all living things show—plants as well as animals, dry seeds as well as the nerve tissues of the highest mammals—when they are stimulated in any way. The instrument which I have made to detect this carbon dioxide I have called a "Biometer," because it is an instrument for measuring or detecting the amount of life possessed by different things. . . . "

By means of this instrument it was shown that nerves breathe—that is to say, they take-in and give-off carbon dioxide, just as we do. Seeds do the same thing, when they are stimulated; every living thing does so! But the moment that thing is dead no more carbon dioxide is given off.

The nervous impulses within the body are closely allied to electricity, but they are also chemical in nature, to a great extent. Taking in oxygen and giving off carbon dioxide are essential for their life. The same sort of thing occurs in the human brain; accompanying all thought these transformations take place. Some of these are physical in nature, some vital and some psychical. Prof. Tashiro is careful to note this, for the last paragraph in his book is:

"Three kinds of nervous changes, then, occur in our brains, when the nerve impulses are passing—an electrical change, a chemical change, and a psychical change. Which is the fundamental change?"

That which makes up our mental life is the psychical change—the thought itself. For us this is the greatest reality!

How the Mind Operates Automatically to Forget Unpleasant Things

BASED on the authority of experiments psychologists assert that the mind automatically causes us to forget unpleasant things. Dr. Donald A. Laird, of the University of Iowa, describes in The Journal of Experimental Psychology (Chicago) an investigation of his own, from which he concludes that the memory of unpleasant or pleasant events or objects depends much upon personal temperament, and that there is no evidence that the pleasant is more generally remembered than the unpleasant. Dr. Laird's own study is concerned, he says, chiefly with the personal equation, as it might be called, which seems to facilitate recall of the pleasant or the unpleasant, as the case may be.

A group of sixty-two students were told to write as rapidly as possible the names of the first ten people they could think of. The only restriction was that they limit their recalls to persons with whom they were acquainted. At the close of the hour, and unexpectedly, they were told to write on another sheet the names of ten people, arranged in the order of likableness, the person whom they liked the most being numbered one.

If the emotional tone of past experiences does have any influence upon memories, one would expect to find a difference in the recall of these groups.

"Since the students did not arrange the ten spontaneous recalls in the order of decreased liking," Dr. Laird explains, "not all of the names arranged in order of liking appear on the recall lists. Exact coincidence would have given a correspondencetin 620 instances. In actuality, however, there were only 185 of the names on the recall lists appearing in the lists arranged according to liking. This is a per cent of coincidence of about 30.

"Examining the three temperamental groups we find minor but significant differences. We find that the most liked person was thought of on the spontaneous, free recall over five times as frequently as the most disliked persons were.

"The recalls of the group who designated themselves and were also classified by their fellows as characteristically optimistic are found lumped toward the liking end. The groups with a mixed temperament are scattered throughout the scale but more toward the liking end. Contrasted with these two groups are the pessimists with their recalls lumped toward the middle and low end of the scale.

"Assuming that the optimists have had more pleasant experiences than the pessimists or the mixed groups we find that these results do not necessarily indicate the oblivescence of the displeasing. Recall of pleasant or unpleasant seems to be largely a matter of temperament.

"About 72 per cent of the actual recalls of the group of optimists were distributed among the best-liked names. With this same group about only 15 per cent of the actual recalls were anfong the lower four points in the scale of likes. The mixed dispositions have 60 per cent of recalls among the higher four and eighteen among the lower four. The pessimists have 27 per cent of their recalls among the upper four points on the scale of liking and 45 per cent among the lower four."

LONGEST STORM Track On RECORD

A SINGLE storm has been traced for 16,000 miles, which is believed to be the world's record. It traveled through a score of different countries on three continents, and affected several hundred millions of people who lived in its path. The great storm, which originated in Asia, was set in motion by the difference between the cold of the land and the comparative warmth of the Pacific Ocean. It first started in a general northeasterly direction, following the general shore lines of Asia. On reaching the Arctic regions the storm was deflected to the east and passing across Behring Sea, reached Alaska. The extreme cold of this region seemed to turn it aside, and it passed rapidly down the western coast of North America. Long before it reached the boundary of the United States the storm was swept eastward across Canada.

The storm gained momentum as it crossed the continent and increased in violence. The main storm escaped the United States entirely, although part of it was deflected east of the Great Lakes and swept down the Atlantic seaboard as far as New York. The principal disturbance ran along the St. Lawrence Valley and swept out across the Atlantic Ocean over Newfoundland. In crossing the Atlantic it slowed up, but continued in northern latitudes, finally striking Europe. It passed over Norway and Sweden, finally reaching Russia. Here it was finally turned aside and swept southward into Central Europe. It finally went to pieces in the Balkans.

Map Shows the Route of the Storm Which Traveled a Distance of Sixteen Thousand Miles.

How Bursting of Fungus Bombs Causes Illness

THE bursting of a giant fungus at Valenciennes, France, is reported to have made two persons so ill that medical aid was required. The fungus was a huge puffball (Calvatia), a species which is often considerably larger than a man's head. It was growing in the wainscoting of a workman's cottage and suddenly burst open, releasing enormous numbers of spores.

An idea of the vast quantities of spores produced by these puffballs may be gathered from the fact that one specimen examined at the Birmingham University, England, was calculated, according to the Scientific American, to have produced no less than 7,000,000,000,000.

Many puffballs release their spores through a small opening at the top, but the Calvatia split right open more or less suddenly. The spores of these fungi have an intensely irritating effect on the lining of the nose and throat and it can be believed that the sudden bursting of a large Calvatia in a small apartment would have most unpleasant effects.

The Calvatia often turns up in most unexpected places and will grow where there is any damp material like rotting wood or suitable soil and moss.

Formerly the spores of puffballs were used in place of snuff, seeing that a small pinch would bring on the most violent sneezing.

A DANCING LEAP YEAR FOX TROT

At Last the Woman Has the Prerogative of Backing the Man Around the Dance Hall.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5. — Leap year has given woman the prerogative of backing man around dance halls—at last.

Arthur Murray, New York dancing instructor, has considered this year in which woman is supreme and devised a fox trot of which she is master. Besides assuming the right of filling out her own dance card, the girl of 1924 will, this year at least, lead her male companion out of the way of pillars and posts.

However, girls, before accepting the responsibility, listen to some good advice by the originator of this idea.

"To be a good leader," Murray warns, "it is absolutely necessary to know the steps. A woman can no longer depend on being merely an intelligent follower, with no particular form of style.

Up to Girls

"Using her right arm to hold the man firmly, her hand placed securely beneath his shoulder blades, and looking over his right shoulder, she is in the correct position to start the dance.

"She can no longer blame men for the strangle-hold and the cheek-to-cheek dancing which is supposed to be the flapper's contribution to terpsichorean history. She can bring about any innovations in the ball room she sees fit.

"But after a year in power, I warrant she will be glad to surrender her leadership to man again," he concludes.

Instructions

The woman begins with her left foot and walks four steps forward—1, 2, 3, 4. Then take a two-step to the left with the left foot, counting it 1, 2, 3, sliding the left foot to the left on one, drawing the right foot up to the left on two and sliding with the left foot to the left on three.

Meanwhile the man follows this course: He begins with the right foot and takes four long, slow, walking steps backward, then with the right foot takes a two-step to the right, counting it 1, 2, 3, sliding his right foot to the right on one, drawing the left foot to the right on two, and sliding right foot to the right on three. Then he walks backward one long step with the left foot.

THE UNDERGROUND RADIO IS LATEST.

The Inventor Predicts Better Communication With Antennae Stuck in the Ground.

By HAROLD B. MATSON.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Dig a hole in your back yard and place your radio "aerial" in it, if you would be up to date!

That is, of course, granting that Dr. James Harris Rogers, famous inventor, has proved his theory. Some time ago he started experimenting with underground antennae. Today Dr. Rogers, resuming his work after a short illness, freely predicts that underground transmission will supersede aerial transmission.

Dr. Rogers reveals that perfect communication was carried on with points 200 miles away, during experiments he conducted. Interference, he declares, is practically eliminated, difficulties of day reception are reduced to a minimum and the power required for transmission is considerably less than for aerial antennae.

One of Dr. Rogers' underground sets consists of a loop antenna let down into a metal-lined and metal-covered well. He has practically abandoned his high strung aerial on the roof of his laboratory, nightly hearing foreign stations on his submerged set.

Easier Broadcasting

Dr. Rogers believes underground transmission to be an important development in radio science, and predicts it will make possible the concentration of broadcasting at a group of powerful stations.

"These stations," he believes "will be located at strategic points over the country. Reception will be clear and strong in every set, interference from so many different wave-lengths being eliminated. The stations will operate something like a telephone switch board, tuning in for the programs they desire to rebroadcast in their vicinity.

"Communication with trans-Atlantic and trans-Pacific points will be among the usual things. But all of this will come only through underground and submarine transmission," Dr. Rogers says.

Aerial Problems

While Dr. Rogers thus would eliminate the weaknesses of radio communication, other inventors are continuing their attempts to perfect aerial transmission.

One of the tasks before the Radio Division, Bureau of Standards, is to eliminate "fading" and to devise means to confine broadcasting to its particular wave-length. Once this is done the aerial should enjoy as clear and strong reception as Dr. Rogers claims for the underground apparatus.

Radio fans will remember that Dr. Rogers' first experiment with underground antennae planed an important part during the war, when many enemy communications were heard on underground wireless network.

Can Stalin, the Veteran Communist, Hold the Rulership of Russia Very Long?

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. — Before Albert B. Fall, as secretary of the interior, leased (or, according to Senator Walsh, father of the investigation, virtually sold) the government oil lands at Teapot Dome, Wyo., to the H. F. Sinclair interests and at Elk Hills, Calif., to the E. L. Doheny interests, he seemed very hard up. Couldn't even pay his taxes. Anyway he didn't. Afterward, he had money enough to buy a big new ranch and make improvements costing altogether $180,000, Caraway estimates. Was there any connection between the oil leases and Fall's improved financial status? That's what the pending investigation is intended to find out.

* * *

Fall's Story

Fall first said he bought the ranch with $100,000 he borrowed from E. B. McLean, the newspaper owner. McLean said it was true he gave Fall a $100,000 cheque, but got it back again, uncashed.

* * *

Archie Roosevelt

The late Theodore Roosevelt's son, Archie, was an official of one of the Sinclair oil companies. He heard from G. D. Wahlberg, Sinclair's secretary, of a $68,000 payment to the foreman of Fall's ranch. This made him so suspicious that, mindful of his own reputation, he quit the Sinclair job and told his story to the senators who were investigating the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills cases.

* * *

Doheny Heard From

Then Doheny was heard from. Appearing before the investigators, he related it was he who loaned $100,000 to Fall to buy the ranch. He said he did it because he and Fall were very old friends. He did it some months before the Elk Hills lease was made and denied any connection between the loan and the lease. (Doheny had said, but this was before the investigation, that he hoped to make $100,000,000 on Elk Hills.)

* * *

Colonel J. W. Zevely

Next came Colonel J. W. Zevely, Washington lawyer for Sinclair. He told the senators of a $25,000 loan, in Liberty bonds, to Fall. He said the loan was made by Sinclair but through him, Zevely. This loan was made after the Teapot Dome lease. Like Doheny, he denied any connection between the loan and the lease.

* * *

More to Come?

This seems to leave a good deal still to be explained. Fall said he got $100,000 from McLean, but according to McLean the cheque wasn't cashed. Fall said he never got "one cent" either from Sinclair or Doheny "on account of any oil lease or upon any other account whatsoever." According to Zevely and Doheny he did, maybe not on account of any oil lease, but at any rate on some account. Also, what about the $68,000 Archie Roosevelt mentions, and the difference between the $125,000 Fall appears to have received from Sinclair and Doheny and the $180,000 that Caraway thinks he spent?

* * *

Others Blamed

Originally Teapot Dome and Elk Hills were the navy's. Secretary Denby turned them over to Fall, as secretary of the interior, to manage. Some senators say this was very careless of Denby. They blame Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Roosevelt Jr., too. Fault is found likewise with Attorney General Daugherty, on the ground that he wasn't alert enough, as the government's lawyer, to protect its interests.

* * *

What Next?

President Coolidge announces lawyers (both Republicans and Democrats) will be hired to sue for annulment of the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills leases and prosecute anybody guilty of corruption.

* * *

Russia's Fate

Within the death of Nicolai Lenin (his real name was Vladimir Ilyvitch Ulianov) the general guess is that the real rulership of Russia will pass to the veteran communist, Stalin—but can he hold it long? Much doubt is expressed. Recognized as a sincere and, in some respects, capable man, he isn't regarded as anywhere nearly Lenin's equal in real statesmanship. If he loses his grip, nobody ventures to predict what direction Russia may take. Trotsky is out of favor with the Bolsheviki.

* * *

Labor in Power

Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, resigned the British premiership, as expected. As was exspectd also, Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader, succeeded him. Under the English system, MacDonald has to have a majority in Parliament to remain as premier. There aren't enough Labor members for this. He must get the Liberals to help him. They're willing to do so, as long as routine governmental business is transacted, but will support no radical measures. So, though MacDonald and several of his ministers are Socialists, it can't but be a rather roueless government. MacDonald's first step was to propose putting the Ruhr under the League of Nations, saying frankly the French policy there worries and "exasperates" the English.

Nurse's Report

The following is the report of the nurse, Miss G. Peat, who does the general work of the association throughout the year:

To the Executive Committee of the Peterborough Health Association:

During the past year 2,121 visits have been made throughout the city, these visits including maternity, surgical, medical and tubercular cases.

In maternity cases, the nurse's care is given at time of confinement, and a visit made each day for ten days following, and longer if necessary.

In surgical cases dressings are done, and the nurse assists the doctor in minor operations performed in the homes.

In medical cases, various treatments are administered, such as irrigations, hypodermics, etc.

In tubercular cases, patients are instructed in hygienic care of self, and other members of the household in how to take precautions, such as burning of the sputum, proper ventilation, etc., so as to prevent the spread of the dread disease.

Sputum cups and refills, milk and eggs, and various sickroom necessities are supplied to these patients.

During the year 4,400 quarts of milk and 230 dozens of eggs have been distributed to those in need.

Many interesting cases are met with in the course of each day's work. One quite worthy of mention, the mother with a new-born babe at her side, and six other children in the home, the eldest fourteen, the husband being away meant that the responsibility of the home rested on the 14-year-old girl. Here the nurse was called upon to bathe the mother and baby each day, and assist in preparing proper nourishment.

Second, the nurse having called on an expectant mother, finding her unable to provide the clothing necessary for the child and herself, appealed to the different charitable organizations, such as George Street Co-Workers' Bible Class and the King's Daughters, who very generously responded. Our thanks goes out to these organizations.

Another case; a daily visit for nearly a year to a patient suffering from cancer. Here a dressing was done each day and the patient made as comfortable as possible.

In this way the nurse participates in the great work being carried on by the Peterborough Health Association, who, by their untiring efforts in promoting good health, will mean for the city of Peterborough a healthier and a happier community. (Signed.)

GWENDOLYN PEAT.

A Real Bear Story

(By URSUS)

Stretch your imagination and come with me to a lovely log cabin situated on the shore of Kakikawaganda Lake and allow me the honor of presenting to you the following members of the Rock Lake Hunt Club. R. C. McCamus and David Wallace, Keene, Ontario; Arthur Teney and Thos. Wallace, Toronto; H. Barnard, Hamilton; T. E. Butler Yeates, Port Hope, Ontario; Chas. Dracup, Brighton, Ontario; Hubert Lawrie, Campbellford, Ontario; Wm. McClelland, Cleveland, Onio; Chas. McClelland, Peterboro, Ont.; Dr. H. H. Alger, Thos. Solmes, John Morton, Wm. Fox, Rodger Meiklejohn, R. A. Elliott, Stirling, Ontario, and Chas. Cheverill, Chef.

On a certain morning in Camp, a casual observer would notice certain precautions were being taken by two members of the camp, namely, R. A. Elliott and Chas. McClelland as to the keen edge of their hunting knives, also with rifles cleaned and magazines full of high-power cartridges. A snack is being prepared by the Chef and quietly handed to the pair, who in turn as quietly stowed it away in a hunting pouch. All being now ready, a start is made and going down to the shore of the Lake, they are seen to glide away in their trusty canoe, with the rising sun glinting on the shining paddles, as they dip the silvery waters of the Lake. Reaching the mouth of Murdock Creek, they hug the north shore where gigantic rock formations reach upward towards the heavens. Each knowing the others' thoughts, no word is spoken as their light craft is sent swiftly over the water. Passing Moose Creek, a lonely porcupine is seen high up in a poplar tree taking his morning breakfast of bark, while ever and anon, the sound of the swift-winged duck is heard as it soars away to safer feeding ground. No attention, however, is paid to things so small, as with eagle eye and ears alert, the two men in the canoe paddle with strong and steady stroke, straight ahead with one object and aim in view, known only to themselves. Silently, resting their paddles for an instant, they hear, in the distance ahead, the sound of breakers on the rocks which tells them they are nearing the dangerous narrows where swift running water pass in shallow channels between jutting rocks, ready to tear their frail craft asunder if by any mishap they fail to guide their canoe aright, but, being canoe men as well as hunters, they pass through the raging surf and foam to find themselves once more on the smooth and shimmering river below. After the tense and labourious task was over, a feeling of relief was noticeable in both. Now they are seen stealing along the south shore, looking for a suitable landing place. As they wend their way around a projecting point of rock, a wily fox is seen to bound away and is lost to view. Beneath the drooping branches of a friendly spruce tree, on the opposite shore, the rats are having their morning frolic. Finally a sheltered cove is found where guiding their canoe around floating logs and dangerous rocks, they finally effect a landing. Drawing their canoe up to the safety mark with care and caution, they begin to take out their hunting effects, realizing that they have now reached the country where Mr. Bruin is supposed to be in hiding.

With stealthy tread and cat-like movements, the pair are seen to penetrate into the dense and closely wooded ravine. Crossing they emerge into the sunshine again and are facing a long ridge of bald rock. With careful step, they start to ascend the steep incline knowing that one misstep might mean broken bones, and by strenuous climbing, they reach the top. A general survey of the country is made when, in the distance, an object is discernible, which at once is taken for Mr. Bruin. A carefully laid plan is made of ravines and ridges and best method to pursue to waylay the enemy. A whispered consultation is held and McClelland (being an old bear hunter of wide spread fame and renown), the plan suggested by him was decided on, and heading the way with apparent bravado, they are seen to disappear into the dark and forbidding looking ravine, forcing their way through closely woven underbrush and crossing a densely wooded swale, they stop once more to listen. Something seems to tell them they are closing up on their quarry. Danger is close upon them and Elliott takes the lead with Indian like movements. Their light forms are seen to crouch below the drooping branches of hemlock trees or steal around a stately pine stub. Of a sudden, a mighty growl is heard as from behind a fallen tree, as a huge monster rears himself on his hind legs ready for the fray. With steady nerve and careful aim, the 30-high power speaks, as it spit forth its leaden message of death, but careful as the aim was, it failed to stop Mr. Bruin, who with blood in his eye and foaming mouth was making for his adversary with rapid strides; but another carefully directed shot rang out from the 30-high power and the monster dropped to earth a few feet from where the hero stood, elated with joy. Turning to look for his pal, he noticed his retreating form with rapid strides disappearing behind the ridge of rock. Left alone with his prize, which tipped the scales at 397 pounds, nothing more could be done but get back to Camp as speedily as possible. With rapid movements, he reached the landing, only to find canoe and pal both gone. Having unbounded faith in his comrade to make good he was not surprised to see him further up the stream quietly filling his pipe, after catching up to and procuring the two cubs, who unnoticed by Elliott had made their getaway.

A social smoke, etc. and chat ensured and the whole story was gone over again, after which their prize was loaded and a start was made for Camp, which was reached as the darkening shadows began to fall. Anxiety was rife as to our safety, but it was soon dispelled when our trophies were unloaded amid loud Hurrahs and hand shakes. Order was finally restored, only to break out afresh when the story was told that a huge bear was lying in the big ravine, waiting to be carried into Camp. Everything seemed to have reached the climax when the Manager of the Bank of Montreal, T. E. Butler Yeats, arose to the occasion and started to sing "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow" with Charley Dracup as accompanist. The unusual strain on the above gentlemen proved so strenuous that the doctor was called to administer a restorative, and so ended a perfect day.

P.S. Inquiries for bear grease are now coming in so fast that a stenographer has been employed to look after the correspondence.

POISON, ASHES OF DEATH AND LUST

Mrs. Elize Potegian Will Appear for Trial on a Charge of Murder.

FRESNO, Calif., Feb. 5.—A woman kneeling on a mound of ashes, symbolic of death, and chanting incessantly the death prayer of Armenian superstition, beseeching for 40 days and 40 nights that death take her stepchildren—

This is the picture to be given a jury here February 4, in the trial of Mrs. Elize Potegian, accused of murder.

The story of Mrs. Potegian is a story of mystery. Mystery surrounds her identity. Mystery has left the deaths of her husband, two stepchildren and her mother unsolved. The jury trying her will be told that:

She fled massacres in Armenia and came to America, bringing Choran, a boy whom she says is not her son.

Weds Widower

In California she met Sestrak Potegian, widower with three children, owner of vineyards valued at $125,000. She married him—for his money, charges the prosecutor.

In August, 1919, her stepson, 18 months old, was found dead in a shallow pool.

In June, 1923, her husband died after a brief illness. He willed the bulk of his estate to his two children, Margaret, 18, and Goorden, 21.

Then, the state contends, Mrs. Potegian called upon the power of Armenian mysticism to destroy the stepchildren. She built an altar on ashes and gave herself to prayer for 40 days and nights. But the children lived on.

Failing by this means, it is charged, she resorted to more certain means to accomplish her end.

Death is Mysterious

Late in October, 1923, Margaret died after a brief illness. At this time Goorden, too, was mysteriously stricken but he recovered. Autopsy of Margaret's body disclosed arsenic poison in her stomach.

Mrs. Potegian, under arrest, accused her mother, Mrs. A. Torosian. When the police went to arrest the aged woman they found her body dangling from a rafter in her home. She had hanged herself. On the same day Mrs. Potegian tried to kill herself in her jail cell, slashing her wrists.

Grape juice, candy and sweetcakes, containing arsenic poison, were found in the Potegian home.

Despite this evidence, Mrs. Potegian pleaded "not guilty."

Interest in the case, in which Goorden, the surviving son, will be the principal prosecution witness, is widespread throughout California. Mrs. Potegian has engaged able counsel and a bitter legal battle is expected.

SOLD CITY SCHOOL AND WAS ARRESTED.

Mexican Rented Village School to Compatriot Who Was Refused Possession.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 5 (United Press).—Inspired by the deals of real estate men who sold under water lots on the beach and imaginary lots on the side of the cliffs, Concepcion Estorga, formerly of Mexico, rented one of the city school houses to Francisco Martinez, a compatriot. When Martinez started to move into the school house, board of education authorities intervened.

Estorga was arrested and brought into police court. Here he was told that no one could deny that he had the real spirit of the realtor and that he deserved credit for the originality of his idea, but owing to the fact that the schools were going to be needed for a little time yet, he would be boarded at the city jail for about 18 dW—, rl until vacation time.

LI. (Continued)

He had always felt that the imagination, what is called for want of a better term, the "creative faculty," was there, but it was lethargic; it sometimes roused itself to spurts and flashes during wakeful nights, but slept like a boa-constrictor that had swallowed a pig when he tried to invoke it. No doubt, as Gora had told him, his life had been too easy and agreeable; he made a good deal of money with no particular effort, he was a favorite with the cleverest men and women in New York, and he had no one to think of but himself. His mother was dead and his sisters married. And there was no doubt that if you were on top, a personality, New York was the most enchanting place in the world to live in, just as it must be the most unsatisfactory for the poor and insignificant. To have conquered New York meant more—several thousand times more—than conquering all the rest of the United States put together, with New York left out. Moreover, it was the only place where you could have any real fun, if you wanted your fun with the sort of men who drifted to New York from all parts of the nation as naturally as pilgrims went to Mecca. If it was your fate to be a politician, Washington, of course, was the goal, but that, in his opinion, was merely moving from a little small-town to a big one, and he thanked his stars he did not have to live in a place where there was nothing but politics and society. In New York you had only to help yourself to any phase of life you wanted.

Mary smiled as she remembered the contemptuous remark of another New York convert: "Oh, Washington is merely an island outside of New York," and she fell to wondering what New York would have been like if it had not been fed so persistently by those streams of eager and ambitious brains debouching into it from every part of a by no means unambitious and negligible commonwealth. Another island, probably. Certainly it was the most exhiliarating place in the world today, with its atmosphere of invincible security and prosperity, its surging tides of life. No wonder it was impossible for the intensive New Yorker to realize that four thousand miles away a greater world was falling to ruin.

She told him something of the old political life of Vienna, continually agitated by some "Balkan Question," of the general dislike of the "Heir," whose violent death at Sarajevo had been the death knell of European peace; apprehensions of the day when he should ascend the throne, for he was intensely clerical and reactionary. If he had survived until the old Emperor's death, and there had been no war, it was doubtful if there would not have been a "palace revolution" within six months of his succession. It was also possible that the people would have had their revolution, for they were becoming enlightened and discontented, and powerful men in the highest offices of the Government were in sympathy with them.

"I suppose you mean this Prince Hohenhauer for one," said Clavering.

"Hohenhauer believed that every throne in Europe would be overturned before the middle of the twentieth century, and that it was the part of wise leaders to prepare not only themselves but the people for a republican form of government. He had the greatest admiration for the principles on which this republic was founded, and said that Europe was to be congratulated that we had made the mistakes for her to avoid. Much as the rest of the world congratulates itself that Bolshevism was tried out in Russia and made a ghastly mess of improving the condition of the underdog before the masses in other countries had time to lose their heads. I've no doubt that he will be the next Chancellor of Austria, and that when he gets the reins of power in his hands, he'll keep a firm hold on them, which is more than any one else has done."

"What do you suppose has brought him to this country?"

"I fancy he has come to obtain the moral support of the American Government in whatever plan he may have made for putting Austria on her feet again."

"Have you any idea of what that plan may be?" Clavering was watching her intently, his ear attuned to every inflection of her voice. But her tones were as impersonal as if reciting a page out of ancient history, and her gaze was frank and direct.

"I can only guess. Personally I should think his present plan would be an alliances with Bavaria and other South German States—a South German Confederacy. That would make a powerful combination, and as Bavaria has always hated Prussia, she would be the last to lend herself to any schemes of vengeance the north may cherish—particularly if she remains a republic. And, of course, she would assume her share of the Allied debt. . . . It would be a wonderful thing if it could be brought off. Vienna"—her eyes spark sparkled—"Vienna, of course, would be the capital—and again one of the great capitals of Europe. Perhaps the greatest."

"Were you ever closely associated with Hohenhauer in any of his schemes?"

"He had no immediate schemes then. He only awaited events. While the old Emperor lived no move was possible; he was most illogically adored by his people. But Hohenhauer told me more than once that he was only biding his time."

"And what of that preposterous estate of his in the old Galicia—sixteen million acres, wasn't it? Did he expect to hang on to that under a popular form of government?"

"He would have retained the castle and a few hundred acres, for he naturally had a great affection for his birthplace; and divided the rest among the people, whose natural inheritance it was. But he could do nothing until the proper time, for such an act would undoubtedly have resulted in confiscation and banishment. He would have accomplished no good, and lost his immediate power for usefulness besides. Like all those old-world statesmen, he knows how to play a waiting game."

"Sounds like a great man—if there are any such."

"I should certainly call him a great man," said Mary, but still with that note of complete personal indifference in her voice. "He not only has immense brain power and personality, but farsight and a thorough understanding of the people, and sympathy with them. Even the Social-Democrats liked and trusted him. And he has more than the the ordinary politician's astuteness in trimming his sails; but coming out, nevertheless, at the end of the course exactly at the point he had aimed for. If he captures the bridge, to change the simile, he'll steer Austria out of her deep waters. No doubt of that."

"Exactly what was the part you intended to play in Austria?" he asked. "You have never told me."

"I thought we were not to talk of that. It is impossible to make deliberate plans anyhow. Only, there is a part for any one who loves the country and has the brains and the wealth and the political knowledge to help her."

"I have never quite understood why it should be Austria. Why not Hungary? After all——"

"I never cared for anything in Hungary but the castle, which was wonderfully situated in the mountains of Transylvania. The surroundings were wild beyond description and, the peasants the most picturesque and interesting in Europe. But even it Buda Pesth had appealed to me socially, which it never did, there were deep personal reasons that made me dislike Hungary—I never spent a night in the Zattiany palace until I turned it into a hospital. But Vienna! I always lived in Vienna when I could, even during my first years in Europe, and later I made it my home. It is the most fascinating city, to me at least, in the world. Besides, Hungary is in the hands of Horthy and Bethlen, who have no more idea of making a republic of it than of permitting any one else to be king. There is no role for——"

"Hullo! Hullo! Hullo!"

Clavering sprang to his feet. "Shall we take the bull by the horns and go to meet them?" he asked. "Poor devils! They'll hate us for looking so fresh."

LII.

They were forced to submit to a vast amount of good-natured chaffing, for they had invited it, but it was the sort of chaffing with which this amiable company would have victimized any pair that had recently met, and found each other's society suddenly preferable to that of the crowd.

They were all very tired. Mr. Dinwiddie, after refreshing his guests and himself with highballs, went to his room and to bed. Rollo Todd announced that it was time to go back to New York to rest, and all fell down on the divans or floor for half an hour before going up to revive themselves with a hot and cold shower.

But fatigue passes away quickly in the mountains. They were as lively as ever the next morning, although they unanimously elected to spend the day on the lake or idling in the woods.

THIS LITTLE WORLD

By GEORGE BRITT

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Pretty waitresses as a lure to men, or homely ones as an invitation for wives to bring their husbands—that is the question for restaurateurs.

Instead of straddling the fence a restaurant man just off Michigan avenue has come out without reservations for the tired business man.

His waitresses wear knickers, white flannel with tan stockings.

Business has improved steadily. Not more than two customers out of a dozen are women.

A restaurant with knickered waitresses gave up the experiment as a failure a few years ago. But it sought a hunting touch by adding a red flannel riding coat to the uniform. And in the hot summer the girls struck.

* * *

"Tonic?" Of course, if you happen to lie beneath the glittering razor blade of a certain South Side barber. He has imitated the cover charge in restaurants by hanging up a sign, "Minimum Charge 50 Cents." The customer may have come in for a shave only. But he'll take the frills, too, if he is billed for them.

* * *

The cartooned rusticity of the "Old Home Town" never displayed a store sign to beat "Shooting Gallery, Mechanical Toys and Miscellaneous Reading Matter"; or "Calling Cards Printed, Photography and Penny Peep Shows." Such signs would be a faithful index of the wares offered inside a Loop store.

The Englewood police court is going in for oriental atmosphere.

Police court atmosphere, of course, is normally robust and distinctive. During zero weather there is less intake of fresh air than usual. Now there is a brazier on the bench, sending up a cloud of incense smoke.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

A SHARP RIDDLE

I love the cold and wind and snow.

What do you think of this riddle, my dears? Nancy and Nick guesses as hard as they could when the Riddle Lady read it. It's a riddle for a very cold day.

"I grow, not like sweet pears and plums
'Neath sunny skies when summer comes
But in the winter cold and drear,
Just overnight do I appear.

"Nor do I bloom on bush or tree!
Most any place will do for me.
Like birdie with the yellow bill,
I much prefer your window sill.

"But I take root with equal ease,
On shutters, chimneys, roofs or trees.
Then hang head downwards, holding tight,
And grow and grow with all my might.

"I love the cold and wind and snow.
The colder 'tis the more I grow,
The sun's the thing I mostly fear,
If he comes out I weep a tear.

"Like sour grapes I hang up high,
Where you can't reach me; please don't try!
It isn't that I fear you much,
But I shatter at the slightest touch.
"Although I'm hard and sharp and long,
I'm really not so very strong,
I only live a day or two,
So must be careful what I do.

"To guess my name can't be a task,
It's clear as crystal if you ask,
As to the point, why you must see
That it's as plain as plain can be!"

"Is it a snowball?" asked one of the Old Shoe Woman's children. They grow in winter!"

"How could it be?" said Nancy. "They don't grow upside down."

"No, but they get bigger and bigger if you push them along the ground. We children made one one time as big as a hundred watermelons."

"Yes, and besides snowballs don't like the sun," said another Shoe-Woman child. "They melt when the sun comes out!"

"The Riddle Lady said it was long and sharp and hard," said Nick. "And a snowball isn't. I think it's an icicle!"

"How stupid of us all!" cried Mother Goose. "Of course it's an icicle."

"An icicle it is," declared the Riddle Lady. "And as it is likely to be a cold winter, Nick gets this pair of red mittens."

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

It is sadly true that disease and death are far too often the result of ignorance. I do not mean lack of education, but lack of familiarity with common health practices that result in untold woe and misery.

If you can find some way of actually making the best possible health conditions a thing to be desired above all others, in fact to make health contagious you will become worth any amount of money to the community where you live and move and spread the propaganda of your health doctrine.

Personal asepsis or a clean, careful hygienic life is a wonderful means of elevating health standards if you don't hide your light under a bushel. There are so many people who do not know the real health rules of right living that you can be a great leader whose health influence may direct and aid thousands of your fellow citizens to a happy, healthy life of service.

To get rid of the germs, bacteria or microbes that spoil so much of your health happiness means a constant "on guard" against the faulty, unhygienic habits that so many people carry out, all unknowingly at times and again with almost criminal carelessness. You have no cause to be afraid of these almost countless germs if you keep your person healthy by proper diet and real habits of health. Although these germs are everywhere and on everything you touch, taste or take away with you, your natural bodily health defeats their attack.

You may greatly aid by keeping your mouth and teeth clean at all times. About 90 per cent. of all attacks and infection is through this gateway. Wash your hands carefully before eating or placing anything in your mouth. Be sure that your air supply at home, in the office or at the factory is not contaminated and unhealthy.

To Prevent Chapped Skin

—use warm water and Baby's Own Soap.

The warm water opens the pores of the skin and the minute particles of pure refined vegetable oils which form the creamy, fragrant lather of Baby's Own Soap are absorbed into the skin, keeping it soft, healthy, and preventing cracks and chaps.

A perfect rinsing, then smart rubbing when drying guarantees a fine smooth skin in any weather.

Best for Baby and best for you.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

(Unless otherwise specified, these recipes are planned for four persons.)

CROQUETTES

During these winter days when meat appears almost daily in some form or other left-overs have a way of accumulating.

These must be worked up in meat pies, hash, croquettes, creamed on toast or stews according to the kind and cut of meat.

Croquettes offer the most attractive way of using up left-overs. Lamb, veal, tender roast pork, poultry and fish are most appetizing used this way.

The meat must be carefully prepared. Every bit of skin, fat or gristle must be discarded. The meat is then minced and added to the sauce as it is removed from the fire. Do not overlook the meat.

Care must be taken in crumbing and egging. Every particle of the surface of a croquette must be covered with crumbs and egg. Carelessness in this may cause the croquette to break during frying.

A croquette should be soft and creamy inside after frying: The coating should be crisp but tender.

The meat is combined with a smooth cream sauce bound with egg, mashed potato or rice. The rice and potato combinations are easier to handle and require less skill in shaping.

Very often cheap cuts of meat can be boiled and used in croquettes for a formal luncheon to advantage. If lamb chops are beyond your pocketbook buy a cheap cut of lamb, boil it and carefully pick it over and mince it. Serve with green peas, fresh or canned, and the meal will be quite as acceptable as if an expensive cut of meat were served.

Lamb Croquettes

One cup finely chopped lamb, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 3 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 scant teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon celery pepper, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 cup milk or lamb stock, 1 egg, ½ cup boiled cold rice.

Use left-over meat from a roast or a cheap cut as suggested.

Chop the meat with a chopping knife and bowl rather than putting through the food chopper.

Melt butter, add onion and cook five minutes. Skim out onion. Add flour, salt, pepper, celery pepper and parsley to butter and stir until smooth. Slowly add milk or stock, stirring constantly. Add rice and egg slightly beaten. When hot and smooth, stir in meat. Remove from the fire and spread on a platter to cool. When cool shape, roll in crumbs, dip in egg, roll again in crumbs and fry in deep hot fat until a golden brown. Drain on brown paper and serve with green peas.

To shape croquettes take out a rounding tablespoon of the mixture, roll between the hands until a smooth ball is formed. If wanted cylindrical in shape roll lightly on a molding board dusted with bread until the desired length. Flatten ends. Roll in fine dried bread crumbs until the desired length. Flatten ends. Roll in fine dried bread curmbs, being careful to cover the entire surface. Dip in egg slightly beaten with one tablespoon cold water, roll again in crumbs and drop into a kettle of hot fat. The fat should be hot enough to brown an inch tube of bread from the soft part of the loaf in 40 seconds.

All croquettes are shaped, crumbed and edged in the same way. They can be made into any desired shape.

The combination of ham and chicken is piquant and good. Three-quarters cup chicken and one-quarter cup ham could be substituted in the preceding recipe. The onion should be reduced to one teaspoonful or omitted. A tiny pinch of mustard and a few gratings of nutmeg add to the savoriness.

Left-over fish of any description works up nicely into croquettes. Fresh or canned fish, dried or smoked fish is delicious in this form.

The flaked and seasoned fish is added to a thick white sauce.

Fish Croquettes

One and one-half cups flaked fish, 1 cup rich milk or thin cream, 1 slice onion, 3 tablespoons butter, 6 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 green pepper, few gratings nutmeg, 1 lemon.

Scald milk with onion. Melt butter, add pepper finely minced with the seeds and white fibers removed. Cook three minutes and stir in flour. When thoroughly blended strain milk slowly over flour and butter, stirring constantly. Add salt, paprika and pepper and nutmeg. Sprinkle fish with strained juice of lemon and add to sauce. Remove from the fire, spread on a platter and shape when cool. Roll in crumbs, dip in egg and roll again in crumbs and fry in deep hot fat.

DIED FROM KNOCK-OUT.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Frank Luby, an elevated railway conductor, died last night of injuries suffered when he was knocked out in an amateur boxing bout with Frank Sweeney, a fellow-employee, last Friday night. An autopsy revealed that "hemorrhage and laceration of the brains" was the direct cause of death. The District Attorney's office has begun an investigation.

About 41 per cent. of the world's developed water power is in the United States.

LIQUOR RAIDERS IN DOUBLE PLAY

Glass-to-Mouth-to-Glass the Method of Two Policemen Getting Evidence.

Policeman Michael J. Kelly was on trial before Deputy Commissioner Leach recently in Brooklyn on a charge of going on a hunt for rum-runners while absent from duty on sick leave.

Under police rules a policeman is supposed to stay home when ill. Instead he was found on December 12 on board a motorboat in Gravesend Bay with two men who described themselves as Federal prohibition agents. The boat ran into the police boat Blueboy.

Kelly told Sergeant Martin, the Blueboy's commander, that they were looking for a bootlegger's boat carrying $32,000 in liquor. Kelly made no report later of the result of his search. Decision was reserved.

By GENE FOWLER

A novel method of obtaining evidence was disclosed yesterday at the trial of Police Inspector Edwin H. West. He is one of thirteen inspectors charged with laxity in enforcing the Prohibition law.

Patrolmen Patrick O'Rourke and Antonio De Franco on November 3 arrested John Hahn, a West street bartender.

O'Rourke asked for whiskey and says he got it. De Franco requested beer and says he got that. Hahn, suspicious waited to see them drink. To hesitate would have been a confession.

So O'Rourke emptied his whiskey into his mouth. De Franco swallowed his beer and held the empty glass beneath O'Rourke's lips.

O'Rourke transferred the whiskey to the glass, completing, is baseball parlance, a double play, from glass to mouth to glass.

Not Before U. S. Court.

These and twenty other arresting officers gave testimony along the lines of the opening day of the trial. In many cases, it was said, they had not been called on to testify before a Federal court and many of the cases had been dismissed.

It was apparent that counsel for the inspectors, former Deputy Commissioner Godley, seeks to show that the special service officers who have superseded inspectors' forces in prohibition arrests have not made many arrests of importance.

Many defense witnesses only will tell of raids that netted large hauls of liquors, beers and apparatus for manufacturing alcoholic drinks, but will be able to back up these raids with numerous convictions.

All this, it is hoped by the defense, will show the inspectors were not guilty of laxity.

Late in the afternoon, Godley requested that complaints against all the accused inspectors be dismissed on the ground that no department rule had been broken.

He contended that arrests by officers outside the respective inspection districts did not prove violation of rules by the inspectors of those districts.

The request for a dismissal was denied.

Patrolman William Murphy testified he had arrested a waitress at No. 282 Eighth avenue, after she had served him and a companion with two cups of wine The girl, Murphy added, got a suspension of sentence.

Patrolman Samuel Rosenblatt made his arrests on the strength of his taste. If the beer "tasted good," that meant it was anti-Volstead fluid.

A wide variety of prices for beer and whiskey were mentioned by witnesses. Whiskey ran from twenty-five to seventy-five cents a drink.

AGED HAWAIIAN SORCERER DIES

HONOLULU, Feb. 5.—With the death recently of Kekoowai, an aged Hawaiian man, on the island of Molokai, there passed one of the few remaining "kahunas" or sorcerers of the old regime, men, who according to Hawaiian belief had the power of "anaana" or praying people to death.

But though the old kahunas are disappearing, the belief in their special powers is still strong. Few of the present day Hawaiians priding themselves on their belief in the Christian religion and their education in the American public schools but will admit, if pressed: "Oh, well, if a 'kahuna' should tart to pray you to death—there is no doubt of it—you will die! My grandmother has told me——" and then the listener will hear a tale of someone stricken down in the full blush of health because he had incurred the enmity of another and the enemy had secured a "kahuna" to recite the "anaana pule," or prayer of death, with the offending one named as the chief object of attention.

David Malo, Hawaiian historian, relates in his "Antiquities" that on the death of a rich or distinguished person or of one who was personally very popular, it would frequently be said that he had died because of "anaana," because such a person was envied for his property, distinction or popularity. Under such circumstances a ceremony known as "kuni" would be performed by "kahunas" who were friendly to the deceased in order to ascertain the guilty party.

A pig, brought before the "kahuna" by relatives or friends of the dead man, was released and special attention given to the animal's actions. If the pig went to the right of the "kahuna" the blame was fixed on the wife's relatives, if to the left it was placed on the relatives of a younger brother. If the pig stuck his snout in the air, this meant that an "alii" or chief, had prayed the man to death; if he stood directly in front of the "kahuna" it was a sign that a table companion had committed the sin.

Eventually, after incantations and ceremonies, the "kahuna kuni" who was hired to do this detective work would behold the spirit of the guilty one, "his head down, his eyes closed, as good as dead." After this the "kahuna anaana" took up the work of praying to death the individual that had been picked out and, according to the historian, was generally successful.

An interesting clash of ancient and modern detective methods occurred recently on the island of Molokai previous to the trial which resulted in the conviction of Edward Duvauchelle, a French-Hawaiian, some 65 years of age, and his two sons, for the murder of a Chinese fishpond keeper named Wai Bow. Duvauchelle had more or less reputation among the country folk of Molokai as a "kahuna."

THE COVERED WAGON

AT THE GRAND February 6, 7, 8 and 9

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Peterborough Examiner:

"When Governments during the war so lightly grasped the strange weapon of "propaganda" they little realized that it was a two edged sword. The millions are intellectually lazy and it has become the business of the newspaper proprietor to mould their opinions without giving them the trouble of exercising their wits."

The foregoing extract is taken from a periodical dealing with world wide politics and in its there is real food for thought. Since the first Imperial Conference which assembled in London in 1911 the colonies that now comprise the British Commonwealth of Nations have passed through a "fiery furnace" and have emerged upon an infinitely higher plane than that upon which they rested before the war. Heretofore representatives of the colonies were called to London annually to discuss and approve of policies already formulated by Great Britain. And it is a significant fact that at this last conference the colonies were called upon for the first time to assist with the formulation of policies. Recent political developments in Great Britain, however, appear to have to a great extent rendered the deliberations of the past conference impotent.

As we enter upon this new phase in the development of the British Empire a greater value attaches to our franchise. A greater responsibility therefore must be borne by the electorate and a more careful study of the larger political events of the world becomes necessary.

Before very long a meeting will be held in Peterborough addressed by some noted speakers on the League of Nations and it is with a hope of stimulating some interest in this world wide institution that this letter is written.

How many people are there who realize that there are now gathered at Geneva representatives of fifty four nations of the world to successfully settle the most contentious difficulties that have even been submitted to a war torn world?

How many people are there who realize that the League of Nations is the only instrument that has been offered and received practically universally for the purposes of establishing peace?

Even the very slightest study of the composition and operation of this world court will suffice to demonstrate the practicability of the scheme if it is given the intelligent and staunch support of the people who desire to live peacefully.

Canada will undoubtedly be one of the first dominions of the British Empire to feel the effects of a settlement of European disorders. Already the press in Canada is commencing an intensive campaign as a result of a seemingly spontaneous demand for economy—a very good sign that we are trying to put our house in order for any eventuality—which of course must preceed the re-commencement of a commercial activity upon the scale which this country merits.

It is the opinion of the writer that next to a participation in this campaign for national economy a sincere attempt to study and support the ideals behind the League of Nations is one of the best ways in which we can best serve our dominion.

This meeting merits the support of the people of Peterborough even to a greater extent than the efforts which it was found so necessary to concentrate upon the winning of the war. I am,

Yours truly,
C. H. ACKERMAN.

Fat That Shows Soon Disappears

Prominent fat that comes and stays where it is not needed is a burden, a hindrance to activity, a curb upon pleasure. You can take off the fat where it shows by taking after each meal and at bedtime, one Marmola Prescription Tablet. These little tablets are as effective and harmless as the famous prescription from which they take their name. Buy and try a box to-day. All druggists the world over sell them at one dollar for a box or you can order them direct from the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich. You can thus say good-bye to dieting, exercise and fat.

THE REFEREE

We come and go like swarming fies. About 1,300,000 Americans die in a year, according to the Government figures just announced. That's a number of funerals almost inconceivable. The procession is endless, a constant parade of hearses.

Heart diseases head the list of death causes. Next come flu and pneumonia, then, in the order named, tuberculosis, nephritis, and cancer. Take care of your lungs and heart, and you have good chances of living to a ripe old age.

Fatal.

Most of us die peacefully. Out of 1,300,000 deaths in America in a year the Government estimates that fewer than 60,000 are killed by accidents.

Thirteen thousand a year commit suicide.

Murders number at least 9,000 in a year, some police experts placing the figure 3,000 higher.

Accidental falls kill nearly as many as automobiles. Kismet.

Athletic.

At Princeton University, nine-tenths of the students are taking part in some form of competitive athletics. An unusually big figure. While the thing can be overdone, it is decidedly true that brain functions better when the physical body is healthy. There is such a decided connection between the two, that one is forced to wonder whether intellect after all, may not be a "material" or physical phenomenon.

Gone.

Alton Emerson Stevens died recently. Ever hear of him. He was the inventor of more than 700 useful devices, including the automatic telephone. If he had been a prize-fighter or a movie actor, he would have had considerable fame.

Stevens, however, will be remembered among the intellectuals and industrialists — probably the only ones whose opinion he really cared about. Quickly forgotten in the huge mob of humanity, yes. But his work will live on. Fame, after all, is the most futile pursuit.

Ancient.

About 6,500 years ago, a dynasty of mighty kings ruled in Mesopotamia. Scientists, digging in ruins under the sands, find traces of the former mighty, including the oldest dated document ever discovered anywhere on earth. This document, some pieces of clay pottery, bricks, and a few crude art objects fashioned from copper—these are all that remain of those ancient kings and their millions of toiling subjects.

The time will come when the World War will be entirely forgotten, or, at least, only a myth.

"Because that is my name, child."

"But mummy says your name is anathema to everybody who know you."

SMART DANCING FROCKS IN PARIS

By HEDDA HOYT.

PARIS, France, Feb. 2.—(United Press).—To really obtain an authentic idea of the smartest frocks that Paris turns out one must visit the rendezvous where the stage luminaries, fashion leaders and women of wealth rub elbows with the midinettes, tourists and women of the demi-monde.

The dancing palaces offer one of the most varied and exclusive selection of frocks in all Paris. In these smoke-filled rooms, resounding with American jazz, are assembled women of nationalities as varied as their personalities. In this mixed crowd one has a peculiar feeling of "homeiness," for English seems to be the Esperanto of the multitude. Even the little French girls sing, "Oui, we have no bananas," as they trip to our American tune.

But, of course here we see only the dance frocks. For the formal evening gown, with its scant and voluminous lines, one must go elsewhere. Paris decreed more fullness in frocks this year than last and the dance floor is where we see the best evidence of fullness.

Everything is made with a swinging movement. Gowns of luxurious brocade terminate in circular fur-bound hems, chiffon widen into sunburst pleats. Frocks of gold-cloth use pleated skirts of gauze with pointed hemlines and velvet gowns use circular godets to conform with the movement of the dance.

The Skirt the Thing.

It is the skirt, in every case, which distinguishes the dance frock from the more formal type of evening gown, for bodices remain much as they were last season on gowns of both types with simple basques, rounding necklines and armholes.

Waistlines continue below the normal in spite of attempts to heighten them and girdles are again being used to accentuate the joining of basque and skirt. In spite of the fullness concentrated on the dance frock, it still has the appearance of being slender rather than bouffant. Occasionally one sees a skirt composed of tiny ruffles posed over a satin foundation of the same shade, but even here the effect is not entirely bouffant.

Lanvin is still showing some of the slender heavily beaded frocks which seem never to leave us. One of dull orange velvet, beaded in bronze, is particularly lovely. Of the velvet frocks one sees far more black than colors, the black being unrelieved by color except when ermine-trimmed. One of the latter type shows a fringe of ermine tails, outlining the joining of the bodice to the circular skirt. Another uses round medallions of ermine here and there on the skirt, with tails of ermine forming the medallion centres.

At Zelli's I saw a remarkable velvet gown of the beltless princess type. Beginning at the neck is gold velvet, it gradually deepened in tone to a gorgeous shade of bronze and ended with a band of brown fox. Material for such a gown could be made by any Batik artist, although the effect was anything but Batik.

Hula Evening Frock.

Another gown worn by a French actress was made with a long cloth of gold basque and a HULA skirt effect formed by hundreds of loops of gold ribbon on the skirt. With this she wore a necklace of brilliant orange beads, assimulating the Hawaiian lei. The effect was quite startling.

Regardless of warmth, wraps of some sort are invariably worn into the room. Often they are Spanish shawls, or capes of shirred chiffon, which are worn under the fur coat in the taxi.

Headdresses, favored at present by the American women, are not being worn by the Parisian, who refuses to wear anything which will diminish the sleekness of her new coiffure.

Evening Accessories.

Huge single pearl rings are worn on the fourth finger of either hand.

Some of the younger women wear tiny colored handkerchiefs pinned to their waistlines with jeweled brooches—like we used to do in the "days that are gone forever."

Evening hosiery is invariably nude toned, the nuder the better.

Brocaded silver slippers rule in evening footgear. Plain silver pumps are quite as popular as are those with cutouts and many straps.

Even at the most formal evening function the Parisian remains gloveless. Instead of the bracelets of rows of pearls and the many colored bracelets that jangle, the Parisian prefers to wear but one or two bracelets of flexible diamonds or brilliants.

The wearing of artificial flowers, velvet orchids in particular, is quite the rage at present. Usually the orchid is placed on the right hip of the frock.

SENIOR BRANCH CIVIL SERVICE IS PROPOSED

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press). — The establishment of a senior branch in the Civil Service of Canada, admission to which would be open only to men qualified in a very special manner, was urged by Sir Arthur Currie, Principal of McGill University, in an address before the McGill Medical Society here last night.

Sir Arthur claimed that such a bench would constitute a political staff in the highest sense of the phrase. The successful conduct of the Government would thus be insured, consummation not to be otherwise expected.

INDIGESTION GAS ON STOMACH PAINS AFTER MEALS

Many people suffer terribly from gas and pains in the stomach after every meal, and are kept in constant misery.

For the past 44 years Burdock Blood Bitters has been bringing hope and joy to thousands suffering from various forms of stomach trouble, helping them to eat three square meals a day; helping them to eat anything they wish, without having to suffer for it after.

Mr. Fred. Nielson, Moose Jaw, Sask., writes: "All last summer I was troubled with stomach trouble and indigestion, and also gas on the stomach. I could not eat anything except some light food and even then I would be bothered with pains after each meal. I could not work a whole day without being done out. I had tried everything; doctors, medicines and pills, until I read about Burdock Blood Bitters. I have taken four bottles and it has nearly, if not completely, restored me to health again."

WOULD BE A RELIEF.

HE—Ah, your little dog has an enviable position!

SHE—Do you mean because he is always with me?

HE—Not exactly, but I was just thinking how happy I would be if I had some one to pay all my taxes for me.—Kasper (Stockholm.)

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation; then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids and gases, which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results.

A FAMOUS OLD BANK CHANGES OWNERSHIP

Drummond's Bank Was the Most Aristocratic of London's Private Banks

LONDON, Feb. 5. — (Associated Press).—Drummond's Bank, the most aristocratic of London's many aristocratic private banks, declared by legend to have lent money to the pretender in 1745 and reputed to handle the accounts of half the peers of Great Britain, has been absorbed by the Royal Bank of Scotland, a comparatively new bank in the city's financial circle.

The famous old bank building with its Jacobite appearance and traditions which hides under the splendor of the new Admiralty Arch will remain as the oldest banking house still functioning in London. The partners of the bank, all members of the Drummond family, will remain with the bank which will be a branch of the larger institution.

Drummond's had always been regarded as the "die hard" of English banks and it was only last year they published a statement of their liabilities and assets. The capital of the bank was $2,000,000 and the deposits $18,376,550. The Bank of Scotland has a capital of $10,000,000 with deposits of $189,402,590.

Only two of the many famous old private banks of London that were often known to finance a war or come to the aid of the throne in times of financial distress, remain in their original status. The oldest, Child and Company of Fleet Street was founded in 1599 and Hoare and Company was founded in 1673.

FIREMEN WERE HELPLESS WHILE CHILD BURNED

MONTREAL, Feb 5.—(Canadian Press)—Henry Baker, 2 1-2 years of age, was burned to death, three other children were slightly burned and their mother Mrs. S. Baker, suffered severe burns when their house in Greenfield Park suburbs was destroyed by fire late last night. The firemen could not obtain water and were forced to use snow with only one shovel among them.

LUNCH COUNTERS TO BE INSTALLED ON C.N.R. TRAINS

Which Run Between Winnipeg and Toronto—This is the First Attempt at This Scheme Outside of the Dining Car.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.—(Canadian Puress).—The C.N. Railways are now operating between Winnipeg and Toronto, colonist cars eqipped with lunch counters. As far as is known this is the first time that a serious endeavor has been made to provide hot food at reasonabe prices outside of the regular dining cars, to the second class passengers.

This service, the result of a plan conceived by Mr. Walter Pratt, general manager of sleeping and dining parlour cars, railway restaurants and hotels of the C. N. Railways, is designed to cater to the requirements of those passengers in the colonist cars who are unable to provide themselves with food prior to the commence ment of the journey, or who, for various reasons, are unable to cook their own food throughout the trip or to make use of the restaurants at stations along the line. Although all colonist cars on the National System are equipped with a kitchen where passengers may prepare their own food, cases of discomfort have been recorded of people who had not the necessary time to purchase food before the departure of the train, and in the cases of women whose time was so fully occupied in caring for their children that they were unable either to prepare food or to purchase it at the station restaurants. It has been observed also, that considerable inconvenience was sometimes caused when passengers were forced to alight in inclement weather at stations to procure food.

These onconveniences will be overcome, it is expected by the innovation now being given a trial. The lunch counter is built into the kitchen end of the colonist car and an attendant will be on duty, there all day Coffee and tea urns sufficient to keep on hand a supply of hot beverages are installed and a small refrigerator wil keep perishable food in good condition throughout the journey. In addition to hot drinks, sandwiches, pies, jams, there will also be available, milk, bread and butter, baked beans bovril, etc., with additional articles as requirement develop.

The new service was begun several days ago and it has already proved a success, on the first trip 177 passengers took advantage of the service and many favorable comments were passed by the travelling public. For the present, seven cars only are being equipped. These will be given a thorough trial between Toronto and Winnipeg and if the service proves as successful as expected consideration will be given to providing the service in colonist car equipment on all tran-continental routes of the system.

WATCHING THE PARADE NO QUARTER

By JOHN PILGRIM.

This morning Curt Holliday came down the street with his chest out like a two-year-old. The old-time fire was in his eye. He whacked away at things with his stick like the grim reaper himself.

"I've won," he said when we met. "Derned if I haven't. I'm boss at home."

Months ago Curt awakened to the fact that he didn't cut very much ice in his domestic millpond. A paragraph in the daily paper opened his eyes, it being to the effect that years ago Father always had a room of his own in the average family, in which he could keep his pipes and knick-knacks and mill around with his own fads. The girls might call it a den but that did not worry father so long as he had it.

"Nowadays," said this pessimistic journalist, "father has not even a den in most houses."

That fermented in Curtis' mind. He recalled that the girls had taken his room away from him years ago. They said he might fix up that place over the garage if he felt he had to have some place to himself. They spent more money each month than he felt he could afford, although he always managed to pay the bills;

"You owe it to your position," said Mrs. Holliday.

Young Holliday used the big car more than father did and the girls were forever kicking because they had to do the best they could with the little one. Mrs. Holliday dragged the old gentleman out to bridge and opera and other things in which he took no interest. They all talked at once when he protested and silenced him. But that paragraph about the den stirred the old fighting spirit in his withered breast and he went berserk. Or amuck.

"Rip that stuff out of that room," he ordered. "It's my den and I want it. I have cancelled all our charge accounts until you can learn discretion. Put your desires in writing. The one who asks me for money loses right there. I have put a lock on the garage and hereafter I will boss the cars. I will concede one night a week to my social duties, as you so feelingly call them. The other nights I'll do as I please."

The uproar at the Holliday home was terrific, but he won.

"After all," he said, with a snap to his jaw, "I'm the producer. If I have to pay the cheque I'll call the tune."

CONFERENCE TO AVOID WALK-OUT OF DOCKERS

LONDON, February 5 (British United Press). — Leaders representing 120,000 dock workers who threaten to strike on 16th February unless their demands for a two-shilling per day increase are satisfactorily met, opened an important conference with the employers today in an effort to effect a compromise and avoid a walk-out, which would paralyse every seaport in England.

There are nearly 350,000 telephones in Berlin now.

ERECT CLUBHOUSE FOR WHOLE TOWN

Women Raise Money for New Building by Own Efforts.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 5.—The much-abused "Cherchez la femme" is the explanation of the history of a handsome community and social centre building, used for educational, recreational and civic purposes in the rural town of Layton, near here.

The Women's Improvement Club decided it needed a permanent home and at the same time a building that would be of real service to the entire community. The decision was followed by a series of bazars, sales and dinners, a canvass for funds, and a loan of $2,500. Altogether $5,650 was obtained and with it a one-storey brick building was erected.

As well as housing the club itself, the building provides for the Union Sunday School and Church, farmers' co-operative meetings, gymnasium classes, dances and meetings of all kinds. The men have a luxurious club-room and on the grounds are two tennis courts. No charge is made for any function designed for the benfit of the community.

ESCAPED CONVICTS ARE DEAD AT GUARDS' HANDS

JEFFERSON, Mo. Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press). — Bullets from the guns of a posse of prison guards ended last night the lives of convicts, who earlier in the day escaped from Missouri Penitentiary after killing James Hart a guard. They made their last stand in a straw stack in the midst of one of the winter's fiercest blizzards.

Had a Waek Heart Was Very Nervous For Three Years

Miss Jessie Peterson, Zealandia, Sask., writes: "I wish to let you know how much good Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me.

"For nearly three years I was very badly run down, had a weak heart, and was so nervous that sometimes I would almost faint away.

"I heard of many people who had recommended your Heart and Nerve Pills, so I decided to give them a trial. After I had used two boxes I found they had done me good, and after having taken five boxes I was completely relieved.

"I cannot recommend your Pills enough, and I would advise anyone having a weak heart or troubled with nervousness to use them."

TUXIS SQUARE BOYS MADE PRESENTATION

The members of the "Bull Dog Tuxis Square" of George Street Church met last night at the home of Mr. C. B. Adair, for the purpose of making a presentation to their ex-mentor Mr. Reginald Cuffe

After a pleasant evening spent in games and music, Ross Lord, on behalf of the group read an address which told of the boys appreciation of Mr. Cuffe's services as their mentor and Jack Adair presented him with a beautiful leather-bound volume of Robert Browning's poetry.

Mr. Cuffe although taken completely by surprise, made a suitable reply, telling the group what a great pleasure it had been to him to be associated with them, and hoped that although the group had disbanded, as each boy had taken more definite work in the Sunday School that they might contine to meet together in a social way.

Vicks is The Thing For Asthma

ONTARIO MOTHER TELLS OF STUBBORN CASE RELIEVED.

Mrs. Wilbert E. Collier of Bowery street, Picton, Ont., says: "My little girl had a terrible case of asthma. I read about Vicks and sent out for a sample. I rubbed my child's chest and throat with it and put a flannel on. Vicks did her so much good that I bought two jars. She now sleeps well, and is a different child. I would not be without Vicks VapoRub in the house."

A good way to get relief from asthma is to rub Vicks over the spine from shoulders to hips; then melt a little Vicks in a spoon and inhale the healing vapors. Also insert some in the nostrils, snuffing well back. You will be delighted to see how it clears the head.

Vicks comes as a salve—the external direct treatment for all cold troubles—absorbed like a liniment and inhaled as a vapor.

Treatment with Vicks is especially desirable for children as it avoids so much internal dosing. Just as good, too, for cuts, burns, bruises, sores and skin itchings.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P. Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

A FULL HOUSE.

TORONTO, Feb. 5. —(Canadian Press.)—Not in years has the demand for seating accommodation at the Wednesday opening of the Legislature been so great. Speaker Thompson and House members have been besieged for weeks for coveted tickets and more have been issued, it is said, than can possibly be accommodated in the galleries and on the House floor.

Bisque—thick soup usually made from shell fish. Or, rich ice cream with finely chopped nuts.

THE REFEREE

The railroads recently have been moving less freight than a year ago. This isn't anything to worry about. The freight movement is at least a sixth greater than at this time in 1922. And it would be much larger now if it were not for the fact that freight movement in the latter months of 1923 was abnormally big.

Right now we have the logical reaction. Striking an average, the outlook is good.

BABY

Twenty-five years ago, Dr. Luther Emmet Holt wrote a book about the care and feeding of children. A publisher took a chance on it and, since then, the book has been translated into 12 languages. In all these years, it has out-sold any book of fiction.

It gives us great pleasure, to find that a useful best-seller has out-sold fiction books which at their best are mental narcotics or drugs. The most hopeful tendency of our generation is its intense care of the rising generation which will inherit the problems our generation has failed to solve.

COLDS

Medical scientists are concentrating now on "common colds." Ten thousand students are working on this matter. If they find a way to eliminate the "colds" that wreck people's efficiency, they will do more for humanity than a century of the medical vaudeville directed at such subjects as rejuvenating worn-out old men.

A "cold" is the most common "disease"—and the champion wrecker of efficiency and personal comfort.

TRADE

Final figures show that our country in 1923 sold to foreign nations nearly 376 million dollars worth of goods more than we bought from them. This is good news, provided we ever collect that "balance" in cash.

A nation, like an individual storekeeper, can sell unlimited amounts of merchandise "on credit."

AUTO

Buried in a country newspaper weekly we find this item: "The automobile is said to have had a greater influence on modern life, as a whole, than any invention since man discovered fire and cooked meat."

In a general way, this is true. The auto has released imprisoned man from his geographical boundaries. It puts the world at his door. Most important of all, it enables modern man to get out of the city into the country with its fresh, pure air. That is the real function of the auto, not speed.

The airplane will complete eth job.

WAR

Four-fifths of the possibilities of there being another Big War would be eliminated if the United States and Great Britain agreed not to furnish money or war munitions to other nations. This is the theory of Sir Charles F. Hingham, foremost advertising man of the British Empire.

Lasting peace, after all, is up to Wall Street and Lombard Street—and that's a sorry prospect.

Canada received 600,000 new inhabitants from the United States in the years 1910-14.

The average human life is 33 years; only about one person in every hundred lives to see 65.

ROUGH ELECTION

LONDON.—In the election just closed there was an unprecedented number of fights, broken up meetings and other evidences of rowdyism. Austen Chamberlain was one of several speakers who was shouted down at a meeting and absolutely prevented from speaking. One candidate and his wife were attacked by a mob after a meeting, the woman being severely injured.

CLOSER.

About 125 million Christians of the Eastern Orthodox church adopt the same calendar the rest of us have. They had used another, the Julian calendar, dated two weeks ahead of ours, since 1582.

Maybe this seems like a small matter, this simple readjustment of the conflicting calendar. But it has taken nearly three and a half centuries to bring the Julians into camp. They held out until last October, and 1924 will be their first full year under our calendar.

Maybe there's still hope for agreement on some of life's other ancient points of dispute.

SPENDING.

The public that made life enjoyable for P. T. Barnum spends 730 million dollars a year for movies, according to conservative estimates.

A big figure, but we mustn't forget that it's a big country. The movies appear to collect about $7 a year for every man, woman and child. That's letting us off cheaply, considering what they give in return. Most of the spending is in the neighborhood theater.

HOW HENRY FORD SPENDS HIS MONEY

By ERNEST . LYNN.

DEARBORN, Mich., Feb. 5.—How does Henry Ford spend his money?

How much of the world's largest fortune is lavished on its owner?

The truth is that Ford, with all his wealth, has never developed the luxurious taste and habits of a millionaire.

The man has a certain contempt for money. Most of it goes back in his business and creates jobs for thousands of men. Other millions go to charity. He recently gave another million and a half to his hospital in Detroit. Other charitable and welfare work he dare not let the world know about, for fear of being swamped with pleading letters.

Ford could easily "blow in" $5000 a day on himself and never miss it. Yet, with the exception of a few hobbies which serve as outlets for the sentimental vein in his character, his riches have made him more simple in his personal habits than ever before.

He likes plain food, a quiet home life and the least possible display.

"There is a Ford yacht—but it is for the family. Ford himself finds his sport not in yachting but in ice skating, walking, camping and tree chopping.

Goes Without Hat

He prefers not to wear a hat—hence his cheeks are well tanned. He wears plain clothes, usually a sack suit of blue or gray.

A suit costs Ford $90 or $100. It is tailor-made and loose-fitting and must answer two requirements: it must be plain and of good quality.

In fact, the man's philosophy may be summed up in these four words, "plain and good quality." They are traits he looks for in everything, whether it be a meal, an employe at his plant or a seat at a show.

Even Ford himself wouldn't know how much of his income he uses as "spending money." Recently he bought the little schoolhouse in Dearborn township where he studied as a boy. Ford hasn't said what he will do with it; probably he will restore it as a tangible memory of his boyhood—just as he has preserved his old homestead.

Befriends Birds

Henry Ford spends money fostering and preserving bird and animal life around his Dearborn home. He has installed drinking fountains for the wild creatures. These are kept from freezing in winter by electrically heated coils.

He spends money in collecting American antiques and is reconstructing through these the life of the people of America from earliest times. Ford also is making a collection to show the evolution of lighting.

Recently someone found Ford in the back yard of his birthplace, digging with a spade.

"My mother," explained Ford, "used to throw broken cups and saucers in the back yard and then bury them. I'm trying to unearth a sample so I can have the pattern duplicated."

Another outlet for Ford's reverence for the things his mother liked is to be found in his collection of old American songs. His collection of American music—mostly the songs and waltzes of his mother's day—is complete. He often has this music played to him at his home.

Likes Football

Ford is not a baseball fan. But he enjoys football and goes to theaters, symphony concerts and lectures. He never sits in a box seat.

Ford can be seen most any day driving around his Dearborn plant in a Ford coupe. He uses this exclusively for his business errands. Driving into town, or on long trips, he generally uses a Lincoln.

He pays $10 for a pair of shoes. His hats are cheaper than that, and last him a long time. He eats with equal enjoyment at expensive hotels or at little lunch counters. If the service is good, he gives a liberal tip.

He carries a plain gold watch, but wears no jewlery.

And he has never tasted tobacco and alcohol.

What Ford Reads

Want to know what kind of books Henry Ford reads?

Here is a list of the reading he has just finished:

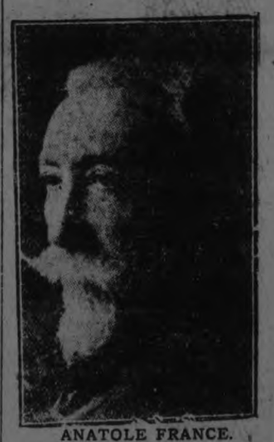
Wells' "Outline of History."

Knut Hamsum's "Growth of the Soil."

Arthur Train's "His Children's Children."

In addition, Ford is an ardent student of Emerson and spends many hours reading the famous essayist's works aloud. For Mr. and Mrs. Ford have the old-fashioned habit of reading to each other.

A NOTED FRENCH NOVELIST DYING



ANATOLE FRANCE.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—(British United Press.)—The famous French novelist, Anatole France, who has been ill for several weeks, became suddenly worse to-day.

Prof. Laubry, a heart specialist, was summoned urgently to the writer's bed.

Anatole France, noted French author, who in October, 1920, at the age of 76, married Mlle. Emma La Prevotte, more than 40 years his junior, declaring that he was "starting life anew," was an officer of the Legion of Honor and a member of the French Academy.

France's real name was Jacques Anatole Thibault. He was born in Paris on April 16, 1844, the son of a bookseller, and educated at Stanislaus College. For more than half a century he was famous as a critic, essayist and novelist, possessing a style "compounded of neologisms, rare epithets and startling forms of expression." He was a skeptic in religion, metaphysics, morals, politics, aesthetics and science, in doubt often even of his own negative conclusions.

In later years his ideals underwent a change. He became an advocate of Russian Bolshevism. France first became interested in politics at the time of the Dreyfus trial, due, it is said, to his love for a Jewess.

The veteran academician enlisted as a private in the French army at the outbreak of the world war. Ten years ago it was reported that he was engaged to marry Mlle. Brindeau, an actress, whom he met while returning to France from Buenos Aires. The name of Mme. Caillovet was mentioned in connection with the estrangment, it being reported that the author had been helped by her during his early struggles for recognition as a writer.

Glass with a silver inlay or deposit should be rubbed after washing with a chamois skin dipped in whiting.

OVERHEATED FAT.

If fat gets too hot before you are ready to use it, put in a handful of raw sliced potatoes. That will lower the temperature.

SPONGE CAKE.

The texture of angel or sponge cakes is improved if you divide them by pulling apart with two forks instead of using a knife.

WOODENWARE.

Woodenware absorbs odors and fats. Hence, articles made of it should be used carefully and cleaned often.

FAILING MEMORY.

LADY—But why is it you can't remember how long you've been out of work?

CITY COUNCIL VOTED AGAINST PAYING THE HEAD POLICE FORCE

Big Budget Was Cleaned Up Expeditiously by Council Last Evening.

THE DEPUTATIONS

With a degree of efficiency that was refreshing, the City Council last night waded through a fairly large budget and adjourned without having to extend the time past the eleven o'clock deadline. The only contentious question to come up before the Council was the question of paying Chief Newhall the unpaid portion of his salary for last year. This the aldermen declined to do when it came to a vote, in spite of Mayor J. J. Turner's appeal for immediate settlement of the issue in order that peace and harmony might once more prevail.

The discussion opened by Ald. Turner moving that the chief constable be paid the remainder of his salary for 1923. Mention was made of an understanding between the contending parties that this would be done. City Solicitor Wearing reminded the Council that he did not enter into any agreement, verbal or otherwise with Mr. R. R. Hall to pay the Chief his salary. Mr. Wearing said Mr. Hall had broadened the claim out considerably so as to get a better interpretation of the Act.

Mr. Wearing said that in view of the city's success in the suit he would have the right to collect court costs from the Chief, but he did not intned to do so. He said the Chief was neither a friend or enemy of his.

Ald. Meyers said he had always kept in mind the fact that the dispute was not between the Chief and the city, but between the commission and the city. Ald. Meyers seconded Ald. Turners' resolution.

Mayor Turner appealed to the Council to have the matter speedily settled in the interests of peace and harmony.

Ald. Phelan declined to support the motion, claiming that the commission had not had a meeting so far this year and the members of the commission were supporting the Chief in his expenditures.

"Where is this going to land us?" inquired Ald. Maher, who pointed out that the resolution provided for the payment of money which the city was not legally required to pay. "The same body of men were prepared to attach the property of the aldermen and city," said Ald. Maher.

"He sued for his salary and lost and why should we turn around and pay it?" asked Ald. Crowe.

"We accepted the Chief's work and the commission accepted it, and we should pay the Chiefs' salary?" said Ald. Jones.

As a representative of the people, Ald. Fife said he could not use the people's money to pay for a case that was won by the city. It was not such a love affair as the local press would have you believe, said Ald. Fife.

Ald. McIntyre thought it was not the proper time to pay it. He thought the commission should meet first.

The motion was lost.

Would Amend Act.

It was moved by Ald. Crowe and seconded by Ald. Turner:

Whereas the power of Municipal Councils over civic expenditures is being limited more and more by the creation of Boards and Commissions with authority to demand and expend moneys;

And whereas the Suburban Roads Commissions are given arbitrary powers to commit Councils to responsibilities and expenditures without the knowledge or consent of the elected representatives of the people;

And whereas City Councils have practically no voice in the amount to be expended on Suburban Roads and have no jurisdiction as to what levy shall be made on their constituetns for that purpose;

Resolved, that this Council is of the opinion that the present law providing for the adoption or setting apart of suburban roads for the construction and maintenance of which cities are taxed should be repealed.

And further, that if such law is not repealed City Councils should be given more control by an amendment providing that no road shall be adopted as a suburban road until its adoption as such has been approved of by the Councils which will be called upon to contribute toward its construction or maintenance and that such amendment should also provide that esimates for expenditures on such roads must be approved of by such Councils before they are acted upon;

Also that copies of this resolution be sent to the Hon. the Prime Minister of Ontario, the Hon. the Minister of Highways and Mr. W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., and to all the City Councils in Ontario, and that the other City Councils be asked to appoint delegates to join a deputation to wait upon the members of the Ontario Government to press for these amendments to the law.

The resolution carried.

Salary Increases

Arthur A. Ringer, assistant assessor, asked for an increase in salary, stating that he was the lowest paid employee on the civic payroll. The request was sent to the Finance Committee.

The G.W.V.A. want use of Riverside Park on May 24th next. The matter was referred to the Parks Committee.

Mr. Hutchinson notified the Council that he was putting in a claim for damages sustained by his daughter when she is said to have fallen over a loose board in the sidewalk. The Legal Committee will deal with the matter.

The Finance Committee will deal with the Peterboro Health Associations' request for the annual grant of $1,000.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., invited the Council by letter to a dinner at the Empress Hotel, on Wednesday evening, when an address on civic matters will be given. The invitation was accepted.

Mrs. John Gibson, Parnell street, through Mr. John Mackness, gave notice of a claim for damages sustained by falling on the sidewalk on Park street south. The matter was again referred to the Legal Committee for the second time.

George Grange, caretaker of the City Hall requested an increase in salary to $1,500. The Finance Committee will look into the matter.

The Nicholl's Hospital Board asked for a monthly grant of $600 a month, towards the cost of maintenance of that institution. This is a decrease of $200 a month. The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

"I hope there are many more like that," was Mayor Turner's comment on the reduction.

Wellar street and Dublin street were named by City Engineer R. H. Parsons as the only two streets in the city suitable for slides. The engineer also suggested that the question of the city's liability resulting from any accidents that might occur be referred to the city solicitor before any action is taken.

City Solicitor Wearing said he was afraid that the city would be inviting danger by opening up public roads for coasting. Mr. Wearing reviewed the legal aspects of the case. He said he was heartily in favour of providing coasting zones for children but it was a serious risk for the city to assume.

The Mayor thought the zones might be supervised by caretakers.

Ald. Fife was opposed to the use of any public street for toboggan slides on account of the liability and also for the reason that use of streets for coasting was a detriment to the residents on such streets.

It was moved by Ald. Fife and seconded by Ald. Crowe, that City Engineer Parsons be asked to see if some of the public parks and hills could not be used. The resolution carried.

Many Deputations

Before hearing the number of deputations present, regarding grants, Mayor Turner suggested that all requests for grants be referred to the Finance Committee. This was approved by the Council. The first deputation represented the Children's Aid Society and the speakers were Messrs. B. F. Ackerman, John Edgar and G. W. Powell.

Mr. Edgar, president of the Society, reviewed the progress made by the Society during the last year. The Shelter was moved to more commodious quarters and the property paid for out of monies conserved by the Society in the past. This year the Society is asking for $1,000.

If the practice followed in other places was followed here the Society would present both the City and County Council with maintenance bills," said Mr. Edgar. "If this was done the city would be liable for maintenance cost of $3,000 instead of the $1,000 asked for by the Society."

Since Mr. Powell took over the work as agent of the Society, the wards of the Society have accumulated bank accounts aggregating $10,000.

Mayor Turner thanked the Society's representatives for their efficient and careful administration of the Society's affairs and assumed them that their representations would receive the careful consideration of the Council.

Well Babies' Clinic

Dr. Jessie Birnie, representing the Well Babies' Clinic, said that over a thousand babies were examined in Peterboro last year by the clinic staff of eight doctors. Dr. Birnie produced figures to show that while the birth rate in the province decreased in the last four years, infant mortality also decreased through the instrumentality of Well Babies' Clinics and similar organizations. Dr. Birnie asked that the grant be increased from $700 to $1000.

Loyal Orange Lodge

Mr. E. Reid reminded the Council that this is leap year and that means that Peterboro will be the centre of the 12th of July celebration. For this purpose Mr. Reid asked for a grant of $100. This amount was granted to the Lodge when the celebration was held here four years ago.

Peterboro Fair Board

Mr. R. Denne, president of the Peterboro Fair Board, said he represented the fourth largest fair in Ontario. A few years ago the Fair Board handled four or five thousand dollars a year and last year the Board handled nineteen thousand dollars. A grant of three thousand dollars was asked for.

Mr. R. H. Turner, first vice-president, said the Fair Board was planning a bigger and better year. The labor was largely voluntary and the money well spent.

Mr. V. Eastwood said the situation in regard to agriculture in the district was a serious one.

The chief mission of the Fair Board was to improve this situation and create an interest in a better class of stock and other farm products.

"The money will not be wasted and will return a dividend every year," said Mr. Eastwood.

Mr. Denne said the Board would co-operate with the City in the erection of a toboggan slide at the Exhibition grounds. It was the desire of the Board to make the exhibition park a community centre. It would be safe and not have to be taken down each year, he said.

Poultry Association

Mr. T. Darrah, president of the Peterboro Poultry Association, asked for $300 for the work of his association.

Mr. J. T. C. Lang read a letter supporting the grant outlining the work of the association.

Surface Drainage

Mr. John Edgar representing the citizens on Sherbrooke street west, presented the need for better surface drainage on that street. Mr. Edgar submitted a petition in support of his contention.

Mr. J. Penrose also spoke in favor of better drainage facilities. The matter was referred to the Board of Works.

Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls

Mr. R. Denne reminded the Council that Peterboro once had a public-spirited woman, in the person of Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls, who left three parks and a hospital to the city and suggested that granite pillars be erected at the approaches to Jackson Park, Nicholl's Oval and Inverlea park to commemorate the memory of Peterboro's benefactor.

Mayor Turner replied that he had already given this matter some consideration and was pleased to receive Mr. Denne's suggestion as to the form the memorial should take.

Was Referred Back

The request of Mr. F. White for permission to raise a shed in the rear of 384 Water street by means of studding closed in with sheet iron in order to give a slant to the roof was referred back to the Property Committee for further consideration.

Ald. Fife, chairman of the Property Committee, was inclined to grant the request but Mayor Turner pointed out that the request was contrary to an existing by-law and that details as to the proposed construction of the building should first be submitted to the Council for consideration.

Garbage Collection

A by-law providing for the collection of garbage at a cost of $10,535 and defining the areas, was confirmed. The cost of garbage collection is slightly lower this year.

Ald. Maher put in a plea to include twenty-four houses in the north end in the garbage collection area, but it was pointed out that the cost of this work was excessive and it would have to be abandoned and included in next year's contract.

Was Re-elected

Mr. J. J. Northey was re-elected a member of the City Trust Commission.

The billiard table licenses of Garrett Spence and Louis Yeotes were renewed.

The Council decided to join the Good Roads Association by paying a membership fee of $25, and send a deputation to the convention to be held in Toronto the last three days in February.

In recognition of the long service of Mr. H. Rush on the Central Charity Board and his other municipal activities, Mr. Rush was made a permanent member of that Board.

Ald. Stocker was added to the Finance Committee.

To Revise Rules

The Legal Committee will be asked to revise the rules and regulations governing the City Council on suggestion of Mayor Turner.

The Property Committee will be given authority to sell the ashes for the year.

Ald. Crowe introduced a resolution to amend the Public Health Act so as to provide that members of the local Board of Health be elected for one year and that after the first year, one be elected for one year, one for two years and one for three years, similar to the Utilities Commission. The resolution was seconded by Ald. McIntyre, and carried.

Those present were Mayor J. J. Turner, Aldermen Maher, Morrison, Crowe, McIntyre, Stocker, Meyers, Fife, Turner, Jones and Phelan.

SICK-ROOM LIGHT.

For a sick-room a very adequate light is provided by putting a bit of camphor gum in a saucer of water, where it will float, and then lighting it. The camphor will burn slowly with a pleasant odor.

After cleaning an article with gasoline, to prevent circles and remove the odor put about one-third part vinegar in the water with which you dampen the cloth when pressing the garment.

ROBBER TAKES BUS, PASSENGER AND ALL

Drives Away While Operator is Telephoning

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 5.—A Michigan Electric Railway Co. bus filled with passengers was stolen last night while the operator was telephoning for a repair man to fix the lights.

The bus was stationed near the Durant Motor Co. plant and in the absence of the operator-conductor some one leaped aboard and started the car, driving it to the business section, pursued by the repair car.

Arriving downtown the thief jumped off and escaped.

The passengers took the extra ride calmly, regarding it as a joke on the company, against which complaints have been made because of service. The Council is now investigating these complaints. The operator says the new style highway robber stole the loose change in the cash box, amounting to about $5.

TRENT RIVER NEWS

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 5.—There was a large attendance at the church Sunday. Miss Pope, of Toronto, was present and gave a few words in interest of the Upper Canada Bible Tract Society, in aid of the Sailor's Funds.

The Ladies' Aid met Tuesday instead of Wednesday, at the church.

The ice on the back channel is thick enough to allow skating and hockey. There was a large skating party held Saturday afternoon and some who had not had skates on for many years, enjoyed themselves to the utmost.

Word reached here Saturday of the death of Mrs. Skene at Norwich, beloved wife of Rev. Jas. Skene, former pastor of Knox Presbyterian church, Havelock.

Mr. Bert Doupe arrived last week from Alberta to see his father, Mr. Sam Doupe, who has been seriously ill. Mr. Doupe continues to improve but is still in a very weak condition.

Lieut. A. J. Williams, formerly on the pitching staff of the New York Giants, won the Pulitzer Trophy Race in St. Louis, and set a new world's speed record. Unofficially, he has a record of driving a racing-plane at the tremendous speed of 266 miles an hour.

Hypnotism—or Wedding?

..Ruth Renwick, California Film and stage actress and (inset) Wellington N Belford, figures in "hypnotic wedding "

He is said to be a brilliant conversationalist on black and white magic, hypnotism and kindred subjects.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5—Men had never interested Ruth Renick, film and stage actress, until she met Wellington N. Belford, whom she believed to be a U. S. army major.

He was a brilliant conversationalist, and clever with magic tricks and claimed to possess hypnotic powers.

The romance was short and snappy. Marriage followed quickly. In fact, it all happened so mysteriously that relatives of Miss Renick investigated.

As a result, Belford was arrested by Oakland police on a charge of impersonating an army officer, and of having arranged a fake marriage ceremony.

He got out on bail and has not been seen since. In the meantime Miss Renick is trying to have the "marriage" annulled, but the courts tell her they can't annual something that never happened.

SHOULD THE PEOPLE PAY SCHOOL TRUSTEES' EXPENSES?

KINGSTON, Feb. 5.—The Ontario statutes do not provide for the payment of the expenses of rural high school trustees who have to travel miles to attend board meetings. Some county High School Boards vote their own expenses, and this action has been questioned by the auditors.

It is claimed to be only reasonable, however, that the county representatives should at least be paid travelling and board expenses when they live perhaps from 25 to 30 miles from the high school village. County Council members are paid their expenses and county high school representatives should receive the same consideration, trustees claim.

It is understood that the Minister of Education has the matter under consideration, and it is possible that the High School Act may in future provide for trustees' expenses.

ARREST PREDICTED—SHE TOOK HER LIFE.

Curious Case of Suicide by Suggestion Occurs in France.

PARIS, February 5. —A curious case of "suicide by suggestion" came to light here in the tragic death of an aged servant named Suzanne Gaubeau. She had served the same family for years, always satisfactorily. At times she appeared to be very sad, but when questioned she declined to give a reason.

One morning when she did not come down as usual, her employer went to her room, and, finding the door locked, summoned the police.

On forcing the door they found that the woman had hanged herself.

She had left a note saying that on the previous day she had visited a seeress who predicted that she would soon be arrested, and advised her to seek means of escape.

This worried her so that, although she had committed no offence, she hanged herself.

There is no law under which any one making such predictions can be punished.

COASTING ACCIDENT

A group of young people from Knox Presbyterian church formed a small tobogganing party of three or four toboggan loads, that came to grief while coasting down the slope at the rear of the Prince of Wales school last evening, about eight oclock. One load was coming down at quite a rate. The wind blowing snow in their eyes caused them to steer slightly out of the beaten track, and they crashed into the small shed at the rear of the school which is used as a protection for the scholars' bicycles. Hazel Jackson and Vera Foster were the injured girls, the former having her face bruised and her mouth and forehead, over one eye cut. It was also feared that her nose was broken but examination showed it to be only bruised. Miss Foster was badly shaken up and bruised. Both girls were removed to Nicholl's Hospital for attention, and brought back again to their homes last night. To-day, they are reported to be in fairly satisfactory condition.

She Could Not Do Her House Work

Mrs. E. Oullet Tells of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Sends a message of cheer to the thousands of Canadian women who carry a load of pain and weariness through their daily work.

St-Andre de Kamouraska, P.Q., Feb. 5.—(Sepcial).—"I have suffered terribly for several years from bad kidneys and indigestion. I was so weak that I was not able to do my housework. After taking some Dodd's Kidney Pills I felt better and the pains in my kidneys have disappeared. I recommend them to all weak women."

Mrs. E. Ouellet, who lives here, makes the above statement. She feels that she owes it to other sufferers to tell them how she found relief.

Of the many persons paying their tribute of praise to Dodd's Kidney Pills, it is noticeable that the great majority are women. The reason given for this is that the great majority of women's ills come from the kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. Healing and strengthening them, they enable the kidneys to strain all the impurities out of the blood.

Stole a Suit of Underwear At Peterboro County Jail

A departing guest this morning threw Gaoler Nesbitt and the staff of the Peterborough County Jail into a flutter when it was found that he had taken with him a suit of the jail's supply of underwear.

It was, in the opinion of the jail officials, a poor return for their hospitality during the past week, and they expressed their disapprobation by having the man taken in custody by the police.

He was detained at the Police Station to-day, and whether the County Jail will extend its hospitality to so ungracious a guest is in doubt.

James Doyle, who caused all the disturbance in the usually tranquil castle on the hill, was taken from a C.P.R. freight train last week by C.P.R. Constable John Evans. On Wednesday he was sentenced to a week's imprisonment on failure to pay the $5.00 fine imposed by Magistrate Langley.

Doyle was released this morning, and was taken to the Police Station to interview Chief Newhall. Five minutes after he had left the Chief's office a telephone message from the jail sent the police force out to again bring in the wanderer on a charge of stealing a suit of underwear.

He was remanded for a week.

Internal cleanliness protects against disease

IT is but a step from those immediate results of constipation—headache, heaviness, loss of appetite—to serious disease. Such minor ailments are a warning that poisons from food waste are flooding your body. Keep clean internally.

Your Bath Goes Only Skin Deep

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Lavatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless. Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

Do You Find Shopping a Pleasure?

SOME folks do. They're the modern shoppers—the ones who know just what they want—how much to pay—exactly where they will find the right goods at the right prices.

They're the ones who realize the value—to them—of advertising. They make a practice of reading the advertisements in the newspapers. Sitting at ease in their homes, they formulate their shopping programs. They note the things that interest them particularly and plan to cut out waste motion, unnecessary steps and lost time.

Planned in this fashion, shopping loses its terrors. It no longer leaves you jazzy and jaded. It starts you off with a definite objective and brings you home with a feeling of something accomplished.

If you haven't been reading the advertisments, try out the method. It's a good one.

Made Runaway Race In Final Ski Events and Wins First Place in the Olympic Winter Sports By Big Score — Were Supreme in Ski Events.

FINLAND SECOND.

CHAMONIX; Srance, February 5 (Canadian Press). — Norway made a runaway race of the last two ski events in the Olympic winter sports yesterday, winning rst place in the whole series with a total of 134 1-2 points, 58 points to spare over Finland, which finished second with 76 1-2 points.

Great Britain took third place with 30, and the United States was fourth with 29.

The Norwegians showed splendid form in all the events in which they competed. They were in admirable physical condition, and displayed great efficiency in all branches of winter sports, with absolute supremacy in the ski events.

U. S. Disappointment.

The ski jumping contest has aroused considerable dissension and there is keen disappointment among the United States enthusiasts over the decision of the jury in placing Anders Haugen, of Minneapolis, the United StatesStates national champion, fourth—behind Thams, Bonna, and Haug all of Norway.

Haugen led the field with a jump of 50 meters (164 feet), while Thams and Bonna each covered 49 meters (160.72 feet) and Haug 44 1-2 meters (142.68 feet). In reaching the decision the judges took into account style and action, whereby Thams was allotted 18.96 points, Bonna 18.68, Haug 18.00, and Haugen 17.91.

General disapproval of the decision was voiced by a large section of the sporting fraternity assembled here, and Mayor Leach, of Minneapolis, has declared his intention of filing a protest. It was expected that Haugen would be placed after Thams, whose jump was perfect.

The jury was composed of a Norwegian, a Frenchman and a Czecho-Slovak.

Knee Dislocated

Rigaar Omtvedt another member of the United tSates team, also had hard luck, suffering a dislocation of the knee in the contest after covering a distance of 46 meters (148 feet). Omtvedt was otherwise injured, but the attending physicians expect him to recover speedily.

Sports Were Big Success.

The Olympic winter sports just concluded are described by those who have taken part as a great success, the organisation of the games meeting with much praise.

The lesson to be derived from the contests is that the northern nations, Norway and Finland, will bear watching in the athletic events next July at Colombes, for it is understood that their representatives are training hard with a determination to win.

The official ranking for the ski jump, with style taken into account, jumy, with style taken into account, the closing event yesterday, was announced last evening as follows:

First—Thams, Norway, 18.96.
Second—Bonna, Norway, 18.68.
Third—Haug, Norway, 18.00.
Fourth—Haugen, United States, 17.91.
Fifth—Landvik, Norway, 17.52.
Sixth—Nilsson, Sweden, 17.14.

Final Standing.

The standing of the nations on the final accounting was:

Norway—134 1-2 points.
Finland—76 1-2 points.
Great Britain—30 points.
United States—29 points.
Sweden—26 points.
Austria—25 points.
Switzerland—24 points.
France—19 1-2 points.
Canada—11 points.
Czecho-Slovakia—8 1-2 points.
Belgium—6 points.
Italy—1 point.
Total points—391.

Withdrew Protest.

Later Mayor Leach withdrew his expressed intention of entering a protest against the decision of the judges in the ski jumping contest, remarking to a correspondent:

"I do not like the decision at all, but after consideration, I have decided not to file a protest. There are rules and regulations governing such contests. A protest on the question of the interpretation of these rules by experienced men would not get us anywhere. But it certainly is tough."

Albert Stenge, the Czecho-Slovak judge ,said regarding the competition:

"Haugen's form and style were very poor. He could not begin to compare with the three Norwegians placed ahead of him. He threw all style aside and bent all efforts only upon distance.

"You saw what happened a few minutes after the competition, when Thams, jumping alone, cleared 57 meters and a half, and likewise, Bonna. As far as Haug's jump of 44 1-2 meters was concerned it was perfection itself."

Omtvedt is resting quietly at the Chamonix Clinic. His wife is with him, and hisphysicians say that his knee will be immobilised for some weeks.

In eight different branches of sport Philadelphians have on 20 American championships this year. National titles are now held in tennis, golf, track, swimming, rowing, archery, soccer, and squash racquets.

Lewis Escaped Kiss From Siki

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Battling Siki, Senegalese boxer, caused Ed. (Strangler) Lewis, heavyweight wrestling champion, to jump out of a ring here the other night, it was revealed tonight.

Siki didn't challenge Lewis.

Instead, he tried to kiss the heavyweight champion, following the French custom.

The Senegalese refereed an exhibition match in which Lewis appeared. When the "Strangler" was declared the winner, Siki started to throw his arms around him to implant a kiss on the cheek. And Lewis took it on the run.

PLANKED STEAK IS FIRPO'S DIET

Argentine Plans to Return to United States Early in April For His 1924 Campaign.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4. — Luis Angel Firpo now plans a re-entry into this country on April 2 or 3, for his 1924 pugilistic campaign during which he hopes to "lick Wills and Dempsey."

Captain Thomas W. Sheridan, the skipper of the American Legion which arrived from Buenos Aires, said that was what the boxer told him just before sailing.

"When Firpo came down to the ship at Buenos Aires, he had about 5,000 fans trailing him," said Captain Sheridan. "We had to keep him inside as the stevedores stopped work when he walked out on deck. I fed him a plank steak, American style, and he told me that is what he intends to train on here. He was in training that day—he ate only about three pounds."

Sent Congratulations to the Canadian Team.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 4.—Congratulations to the Canadian team and praise for the American team were cabled to-night to the managers of the two hockey teams at Chamonix, France ,by Roy D. Schooley, on behalf of the United States Amateur Hockey Association on the outcome of the Olympic hockey game Sunday in which the Canadans triumphed.

"The United States' Amateur Association, every club and player therein, congratulates the Canadian team on its victory," Schooley cabled to W. A. Hewitt, manager of the Canadian team. "We ungrudgingly acknowlewge defeat at the hands of a worthy foe."

To W. S. Haddock, manager of the United States' team, Schooley cabled:

"Americans are proud of their hockey team, even in defeat. They went down before a worthy foe, but with honor to themselves and the nation they represent."

In the early .60's, after each game of baseball, sandwiches, beer, cakes, and other refreshments were by the home team. Th umpire always received the choicest cuts of foods and the largest glass of beer.

ST. PETER'S AND P.C.I. IN SECOND GAME TOMORROW

High School League Game at Brock Street Wednesday at 5—Collegiate Have One Goal Lead.

LOCAL SPORT NEWS.

St. Peter's School and the P.C.I. will cross sticks on Wednesday afternoon at five o'clock in the Brock Street Rink for their second game in the Central Ontario High School Hockey League.

The previous game was a "whiz," with the score 1 to 0 for the Central Park boys when the final gong rang, they having bulged the net behind Jack LeBarr in the last three minutes of the sixty.

Both teams will be out in full strength.

The P.C.I. have been getting in some valuable workouts on their rink while the S.P.S. lads have not been idle.

Norwood has gained admittance to this League, being a new recruit, and this now brings the Central group up to a four-team affair, comprising S.P.S., P.C.I., Norwood H. S., and Lindsay C.I.

Lindsay claim they have a snappy squad this year, having most of the town's junior outfit, and they will make a strong bid for honours this season when the local winners clash with them.

Public School League.

The Public School Hockey League is in full swing, and the hockey stars of the future show their "stuff" every Saturday morning on the P.C.I. Rink.

There is keen rivalry between the teams, and many snappy games are played. Each youngster cheers loudly for his school, and thinks them unbeatable, but it looks as if the honours will be battled for by Central, Queen Alexandra, and the Queen Mary hopefuls in the finals.

Open Basketball Season.

Basketball is paramount in the gossip around the Y.M.C.A. The local teams hope for a good season this year, and things certainly look promising. The Intermediates are in great hope for their first O.B.A.A. game of the season on Wednesday evening when the Belleville quintette will play here.

The locals have worked into a smooth machine, and have fully profited by their contests with the Chicago and Toronto star aggregations.

The "Y" have invested in some nice jerseys for the team, and they will make a snappy appearance when they step out with their blue and white colours flying.

Accept Challenge.

The P.C.I. basketball team are getting a flood of replies to their challenges, Cobourg and Lindsay both signifying their wish to take on the locals at almost any date.

Cobourg girls' and boys' teams will play the P.C.I. representatives here on the Y floor on Saturday afternoon.

Lindsay will likely play here some time later.

The P.C.I. are quite "cocky," having given the young men's team a close and hard game.

The P.C.I. may enter the Junior O.B.A.A. lists if they see their way clear; right now they are considering the matter seriously.

BOSTON RELEASE BOONE.

BOSTON, Feb. 4.— The release of pitcher J. A. Boone to the Mobile Club of the Southern Baseball League, was announced to-day by President Robert Quinn of the Boston American League Club.

Boone, a righ hand pitcher, was procured from the Cleveland Club last month in an exchange deal. Boone has been given to the Mobile Club, the announcement added, in return for a number of Red Sox men recruited from the club last fall.

Lakefield people, who regard the curlers as men who do not work hard, would have enjoyed the spectacle of two prominent members of the local club toiling around the platform of the Peterboro C.N.R. station with a heavy truck of curling stones which they personally loaded into the baggage car of the Lakefield flyer.

THREE HEROES OF GREATEST WORLD'S SERIES GAME EVER PLAYED PASS FROM THE SCENES OF STAR FEATS

BY BILLY EVANS

Heroes are made and fade quickly in baseball.

Harken back to the world series of 1920 for proof.

The fifth game of that series between Brooklyn and Cleveland was the most remarkable contests I have ever seen. It will go down in baseball history as one of the most unusual games ever played.

Cleveland won the game, 8 to 1. The score would make it seem that it lacked thrills, yet the contrary was true. It was a contest that fairly bristled with brilliant plays and record-breaking feats.

The three heroes of that game were Cleveland players, Pitcher Jim Bagby, Outfielder Elmer Smith and Second Baseman Bill Wambganns.

Pitcher Jim Bagby won that game by the lopsided score of 8 to 1, despite the fact that Brooklyn made 13 hits, one more than Cleveland. In reality, Bagby deserved a shutout, which would have been a fitting climax to a freak game.

Deserved a Shutout

Brooklyn's lone run of the game came with two down in the ninth. A dinky infield grounder that should have been an easy out took a bad bound at the last moment, causing First Baseman "Doc" Johnston to fumble it just long enough to permit the batsman to reach first and the runner to score.

In the fourth inning of the game, with two on the bases, Bagby hit a home run, a very unusual happening for a pitcher, particularly in a world series. That home run put the game on ice.

ELMER SMITH

In the very first inning Elmer Smith won undying fame by hitting the ball over the right field fence with the bases filled. It is the only time that such a feat has ever been performed in the world series.

In the fifth inning Second Baseman Bill Wambsganns of the Cleveland club made a triple play unassisted. It is one of the few unassisted triple plays that have been made in the majors, the only one in a world series.

A home run with the bases filled, a triple play unassisted, a near shutout, despite the fact the losing team made 13 hits, sure made a big day of it for Cleveland.

JIM BAGBY

BILL WAMBSGANNS

Remarkable Feats.

What about these three heroes, Cleveland's popular idols of 1920?

Bill Wambsganns was recently sent to Boston as the central figure in the deal that brought George Burns to Cleveland.

Jim Bagby was cast adrift a year ago. Taken on by Pittsburg for a trial he was given his unconditional release near the close of the season.

Elmer Smith was traded to Boston, later he became a member of the New York Yankees, only recently he was sent to the minors.

The three heroes passed out of the picture as far as Cleveland is concerned.

The career of the baseball star is brief. Heroes are made and fade quickly in the national pastime.

HAINES CAN FIELD HENDRICKS CAN HIT

Manager Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees is up against a rather peculiar position relative to his outfield material. Here it is:

In Hinkie Haines, former Penn State College football and baseball star, Huggins has a great prospect. Haines is a great outfielder right now. He can go as far as any man in either major league and get a fly ball in the most approved fashion. He has a might good arm, and on the bases is as fast as a breeze. The only trouble with Haines is getting on the bases. The old saying is you can't steal first base. While Haines is not that weak a batsman, he has yet to definitely prove that he can consistently hit major league pitching.

On the other hand in Hendricks, who by the way was a former Vanderbilt University star athlete, Huggins has one of the greatest natural hitters to break into the major leagues in years. A big husky left-hander, Hendricks, although used only as a pinch hitter, has already won the respect of the American League hurlers. But after you mention hitting ability, you must pass on Hendricks.

As a fielder Hendricks at present is simply impossible. Any time a fly ball is hit in his direction fears are expressed for his safety. Huggins, however, has great hopes for Hendricks. Harry Heilmann, when he joined Detroit, was no great shucks as a fielder, now few in the American League has a thing on him.

HAINES

HENDRICKS

If Hendricks could field like Haines, and Haines could hit like Hendricks, Huggins would have two of the greatest outfielders in the country.

BILL McCARNEY GETS BIG BID FOR A FIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Minneapolis interests yesterday offered Bill McCarney, United States representative of Luis Angel Firpo, a $100,000 purse for a ten-round, no decision match with Tommy Gibbons, of St. Paul, in an outdoor arena in Minneapolis, the first week in May. The offer came through Tommy Walsh, of Chicago, and was forwarded to Firpo.

This was believed to be the largest offer ever made for such a limited bout between heavyweights. The Minneapolis syndicate is headed by Frank McCormick, president of the Minneapolis Boxing Club.

PETES CONFIDENT OF WIN FROM THE LINDSAY MIDGETS

They Have Practiced Faithfully for the Battle and Will Be Seen in Pink of Condition To-night.

After a short, brisk work-out last night on the Brock Street Rink the local juniors are now in the pink of condition and are ready and confident of snatching the group honours from the Lindsay aggregation to-night. They realize that this is practically their last chance and they will be seen to-night, fighting with their backs to the wall in an attempt to overcome the two goal lead which Lindsay gained on them in the last battle at Lindsay. The Lindsay boys have been practising steadily and they will bring with them a special train carrying about two hundred of noisy Lindsay Rooters. A capacity crowd is expected and the fans are assured of seeing a game that they will long remember, as both teams will go to the limit. The Petes' regulars will line up as follows, while the substitutes will be picked from the following three: L. Collins, M. McDougal and H. McDougal.

Sport News

Hockey interest in Central Ontario will be focused on Belleville and Fort Hope to-morrow night, when important Intermediate O.H.A. contests will be played. The Petes invade the Quinte town for the first game in the second round, playing back here on Friday night, total goals in the two contests to decide the winner. Oshawa, after being trounced at home by Port Hope, will enter the ice palace of the Ontarios with the group championship theirs if a win is registered. A Port Hope victory will tie up the group.

Looks like an old-time crowd for the Lindsay-Petes junior classic here to-night. The local youngsters are down two goals, but have all kinds of enthusiasm and determination. With the ice hard and fast, the contest promises much. And as the youths from Ford Moynes' town are bringing a big crowd of rooters, there will be a lot of fun and excitement at the ice plant to-night.

A win for the Jackson-Lebarr squad to-night will give them a trip to Oshawa probably on Friday night, to meet the Lakeshore winners in the next round. A successful week-end for the Intermediates will give them a pair of games next week with the victor of the Port Hope-Oshawa game to-morrow night. The race is becoming decidedly interesting.

Poor old North Torontos have been refused permission to pick up Willard Box and Dalton Meeking in an effort to strengthen the team in the hope of getting in on some of the big gates. The O.H.A. frowned on the attempts of the club to gather an all-star team early in the season and it is probable that North Toronto will have to be satisfied with group honors, which they now hold.

A lot of very favorable comment was accorded the last boxing bill, and the boxing committee hope to keep up the good work with the card arranged for next Thursday night at the G.W.V.A. Hall. When you put Lorne Combe, Al. Williams, Leonard and Tony Minnicola, Jimmy Rex, Ray Millard and a couple of good boys from St. Helen's Club, Toronto, in a ring, the show is bound to be a hummer. As Art Johnson has gone to Detroit, Tony Minnicola will be given the bout with the 118 pounder from Toronto and will likely be one of the Peterborough contingent of three boxers who will go to London next week. With Combe and Minnicola opposing the Toronto boxers, Thursday night's bill looks good.

Ry Dullage, a lightweight, who has done well in Toronto tournaments, and O'Donnell, a bantamweight, will be the St. Helen's entries in Thursday night's boxing bouts, so the local boxing committee was advised this morning. St. Helen's club have always sent good boxers this way.

BABE RUTH IS STILL GETTING LONG GREEN

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Babe Ruth's contract with the New York Yankees has three years more to run at an annual figure of $52,000. This, it was said to-day, is the result of the club's decision to exercise a two-year option it received when the Home Run King signed a three-year agreement in 1922. In round figures, Babe's salary will be a quarter of a mill for a five-year period, but from a variety of sources, including barnstorming, his earnings may nearly double that amount. One clause of the contract is designed to keep Ruth on the straight and narrow path of good conduct. Under it the Yankees hold back the salary of every other month until the end of the season, when the slugger is handed a cheque for $26,000.

SIX ROUND BOUT.

ROCHESTER, Feb. 5. — Mike Dempsey, of Rochester, easily defeated Frankie Laureate, of Troy, here last night night in their six round fight. Dempsey weighed 152 and Laureate 154 1-2. In the semi-final Mike Conroy of Rochester, was knocked out in two rounds by Toney Stabeanu of Buffalo. The men are heavyweights.

RESERVE SEATS FOR BIG FIXTURE

Plan For Friday's Belleville Game Opens Thursday Morning.

Whether or not there will be a special train to Belleville for to-morrow night's game will not be known until this evening, depending upon the number of fans who have signified their intention of going.

The series with Belleville has the fans all agog with excitement, and a record crowd for the return game Friday night is indicated. The reserved seat plan will go on sale Thursday morning at Bond's Drug Store, and it should be noted that tickets will not be held after 5 o'clock on Friday unless paid for.

The Belleville outfit sent a weak team to Cornwall last night and were badly beaten. The game did not mean anything, as Belleville already had the group won, and they preferred to keep their team ready for the Petes on Wednesday rather than to risk the chances of getting somebody hurt by trying to win an unnecessary victory.

They will have their full line-up for to-morrow night's game, which should be a memorable engagement.

TANKARD SERIES TORONTO TODAY

Four Clubs Defaulted in the Finals

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press).—With four clubs, Kingston, Stratford, London Thistles and Sarnia, winners of their districts, defaulting in the finals for the Ontario Silver Tankard, play in which commenced on three city rinks this morning, only twelve clubs are left in to battle for the historic trophy. The preliminary and first rounds will be disposed of and the finals, which will be played on the ice of the Victoria Club, will be reached by Wednesday, weather conditions permitting. Lindsay, the present holders of the Tankard, meet Queen City, Toronto's representatives, today. Hamilton Thistles, who have not been able to get into the finals in over twnety-five years, are drawn against Grand Valley. Guelph Royal City, winners in 1918, play Orillia, while Galt is drawn against Stouffville. Thornhill is battling it out with Collingwood, Tankard winners four years ago. Shelburne, a newcomer in Tankard play, was drawn against Cobourg.

Lindsay, winner of the Ontario Tankard last year, was put out of running in Tankard Competition this morning in preliminary round losing to Queen City, "Toronto" by 3 shots, totals being Queen City 36, Lindsay 33.

Guelph Royal City also went down to defeat, Orillia finishing 13 shots to good. Scores, Guelph Royal City 25, Orillia 38.

Galt had littl, difficulty disposing of Stouffville in preliminary round at Queen City rink winning by 19 shots with final score Galt 38 Stouffville 19.

Collingwood with 49 had a margin of 29 shots over Thornhill in second of preliminary round matches at Queen City.

Hamilton Victoria, just managed to win out from Grand Valley by one shot with scores of Hamilton Vics 28, Grand Valley 27.

JACOBI WILL HANDLE BELL

Toronto Referee For To-night's Big Junior Game

The ice will be in the best of shape for to-night's Junior battle between Lindsay and Peterboro, and with the group championship hinging upon this fixture, there should be all kinds of excitement. The Petes are in good shape, despite the lay off, and they are confident of taking the decision fro mthe visitors, although they are not underestimating the prowess of the Lindsay team who, backed up by a special train load of fans, will be battling from the first face-off. H. H. Jacobi, of Toronto, will referee, and the game is billed to start at 8.15 o'clock sharp. The Petes' line-up is likely to be somewhat shifted, and the management expect a much better showing than in their previous games.

THE ITALIAN RUSSIAN TREATY RECONSIDERED

ROME, Feb. 5.— (British United Press.)—The probability of early recognition of Russia appeared somewhat remote to-day when dispatches from Moscow, quoting Italian sources there, said it was understood that all clauses of the Italian Russian Treaty must be reconsidered.

"It is likely that some of the concessions to Italy will have to be modified and possibly cancelled," the despatches said. "However, supporters of the Treaty will insist it be passed as a whole."

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

Discriminating 'movie' patrons of Peterboro will like "The Green Goddess." It is one of the best screen productions seen here in many moons, and it stars one of the screen's greatest actors, George Arliss. There is something about the art of this man that excels. He is far from being a handsome or spectacular figure, with his bony face and lank frame and peculiar, snake-like profile, but his acting, as the picture progresses, dominates everything else.

"The Green Goddess," set in Northern India, is one of those pleasantly exciting productions where the fate of the chief characters remains in doubt up to the last thrilling minute, and where the only real thing in life, at least while the audience watches the unfolding of the drama, is the question as to whether they are going to get out of the pickle in which they have embroiled themselves, or not. Alice Joyce makes a beautiful and amiable heroine a lady who catches the fancy of a vengeful East Indian ruler. She yearns spasmodically for her absent children and transfers her plastic affections to the doctor, on the death of her husband. The cast is a splendid one. Harry T. Morey makes a very fine Major Crespin, the husband of the heroine, Lucilla Crespin, a man who drinks to excess, treats his wife with scant courtesy, but dies with a lie on his lips, after a noble effort to save the three: himself, his wife and his friend, Dr. Basil Trelierna, played by David Powell, after they are caught by a smashed airplane in the kingdom of the Raja of Ruhk, a gentleman whose ironic sauvity has become embittered against the English by the execution of three of his brothers, rebel princes of the district.

George Arliss is the Raja, a consistently-played, memorable role. He is the ruler of the tiny kingdom of Ruhk, a graduate of Oxford University, and possesses a fondness for English ways and styles. Himself and his palace are a queer mixture of the old and the new. On the silk garments and heavy turban are finished by a monocle, waits a typical English valet, Watkins. The fanatical high priest of The Green Goddess, who is a double-armed lady of majestic proportions, comes to call, breathing fire against the English intruders. Within the palace is the zenana, where veiled beauties peer out from beautiful latticed screens, and there is also a wireless outfit and a strictly modern music machine. While the Raja and his guests sit at dinner, the populace in the narrow street yells for their blood.

Tense moments are provided in the wierd scene where the sacrifice to the Goddess is about to be consummated in torture of the man and woman, and here, oddly enough, are the most realistic moments of a realistic picture. The uncanny worship of the cruel Goddess seems, instead of being the production of a picture man's art, a very real and terrible happening. "Ridiculous, isn't it?" murmurs the Raja, as he disappears to don his priestly robes. This atmosphere of imperturbable good humor is maintained by the gentleman throughout, except for sudden, fierce moments of flashing temper.

If is an intriguing picture, one of the best of the Capitol's uniformly good productions, and the art of its main actor gives an unusual aspect of verisimilitude to an unusual story, whose interest is maintained to the end, where the Raja, with a characteristic remark, turns his bored back on the picture and the audience alike.

The music accompanying the 'Green Goddess' is of the Eastern type, descriptive and appropriate. From the moment that the curtain goes up on a surprising opening, with the big toe of the punkah-puller the main object of the foreground, to the retreating, silken-clad back of Arliss, it is a story of surprising situations and unexpected novelty, acted in unusual fashion.

The short reels preceding the feature picture include a presentation of views in "Camera Rambles," of forty-century old Nanking, a clever animated cartoon reel, picturing a fierce battle between the genii of the ink-bottle and their opposing forces, and a comedy entitled "Small Change, Change," with Billy Eugene and Virginia Vance in a quick-moving series of stunts, involving the rivalry of two men for a girl, a cabaret dinner, a black cat and a bull terrier.

AT THE GRAND

"THE COVERED WAGON"

Jesse L. Lasky's fine picturization of Emerson Hough's romance of the Oregon Trail, "The Covered Wagon" comes to the Grand Opera House for a four day engagement, commencing Wednesday.

She narrative of "The Covered Wagon" is without doubt the most perfectly suited to the art of the camera of any that has so far been filmed. Its fine love story is revealed in episodes ot extreme tenderness, loyalty and heroism; and in the back ground is the pictorial splendor of the movement of the great wagon train through perils of flood, prairie fire and attacks of hostile savages, bearing its company of heroic venturers on the valient mission of conquering and bringing civilization to the vast wilderness of the west.

There is, in the entire story of the development of America, no brighter page than that upon which is recorded the deeds of courage and fortitude of the men and women who journeyed in covered wagons to the far West in the middle years of the last century. Mr. Hough caught and revealed in his novel the fine spirit of the romance of that period, and it has been magnificently reflected by the producer, James Cruze, in the Paramount picture based upon the novel.

The chief characters in "The Covered Wagon" are impersonated on the screen by J. Warren Kerrigan, Lois Wilson, Alan Hale, Charles Ogle, Ethel Wales, Earnest Torrence, Tully Marshall, Guy Oliver and John Fox. The musical accompaniment to the picture, arranged by Hugo Reisenfeld, is played by an orchestra of twelve pieces.

AT THE REGENT

REMEMBER WHEN YOU PLAYED AT BEING A COWBOY?

Perhaps the greatest dream world to-day is the memroy world of western cattlemen, the great open range country whose period in the history of America has afforded the richest romance and most distinctive appeal of any era in the building of the empire.

There is hardly a youngster in the land who does not occasionally dress up in the nearest thing that he can get to an impersonation of the regalia of a cowboy. If he can't get anything nearer to a gun than a pipe case he'll stick that through his belt and imagine that he's "Two-gun Pete from Arizona" and a bad man.

"Don Quickshot of the Rio Grande," the Universal western photoplay starring Jack Hoxie, which comes to the Regent theatre to-night, portrays the West that is so loved by the American people, the great open country along the picturesque Rio Grande country.

The story is woven around the adventures of a romantic cowboy and is full of human interest appeal. It is a screen drama of the West's last stand. It was written as a magazine story by Stephen Chalmers and was adapted to the screen by George Hivly. The picture was directed by George E. Marshall.

In the supporting cast are Elinor Field, Emmett King, William Steele, Fred Jones and Bob McKenzie.

AT THE ROYAL

MORE GOOD VAUDEVILLE AT THE ROYAL

One of the fastest stepping dancing teams to make its appearance locally is now at the Royal for the first three days of this week. Stanley and Laurel have a clean, clever offering of songs talk and real old time hard shoe dancing. They have no trouble at all in getting enthusiastic applause and certainly got it last night. Dave Eveline billed as an acrobatic dancer lived up to his advance notices and also received his share of the applause. Three new acts are being advertised for Thursday.

POLA NEGRI AT HER BEST IN "SHADOWS OF PARIS" AT THE ROYAL

France before and after the war with its cafes, boulevards, Apaches and Society, has been the background for many film stories, but we doubt if a more suitable vehicle could have ebn chosen to star that rynamitic artist Pola Negri. As the Apache queen of the Parisian Under world she has a part that fits her like a glove. This is her newest production and the society settings are massive and impressive. While the underworld cafes with their dances and types are just what we can imagine they would be. It is also hard to believe that the picture was not produced in France but we are informed it was made in Los Angeles. Director Brennan has preserved the French atmosphere and the illusion is perfect. We cannot conceive of anyone not liking this photoplay or the work of this (comparatively) new star.

Baby Peggy supplies the laughs in her newest creation 'Miles of Smiles.' There may not be miles of them but there is a lot.

"THE HERO OF LADYSMITH AT THE ROYAL THURSDAY

The feature this week at the Royal, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, will be G. B. Samuelson's big dramatic spectacle, "The Hero of Ladysmith," with the famous London matinee idol, Owen Nares, supported by Lillian Hall-Davis and a big cast.

"The Hero of Ladysmith" is a big historical spectacle, the story of which begins at the Reindeer Hotel, Southampton, in 1898. Here is where the romance starts between Waverley, who later becomes "The Hero of Ladysmith," and a young English girl known as Blackie, daughter of the Innkeeper at Southampton. The setting of this romance, England in 1898, is colorful in the extreme and the exteriors help to round out the beauty of this love story back in Victorian Days.

Then the story takes strong dramatic twists and we see the black genius of Transvaal, Oom Paul Kruger, throw the gauntlet down to the British commissioners with the declaration, "Then it shall be war, and war that will stagger the British Empire," and then we find Great Britain plunged into the famous struggle in the veldts, and rapidly from England and her colonies come the responses of the volunteers to uphold Britain's prestige, and in Southampton, Waverley hears the call and embarks for South Africa.

And then we see on the screen staged wonderful spectacles of the South African war, Magersfontain, Stormberg and Colenso, and the English power trembles under the onslaught of the wild Africanders, and even then Ladysmith and Mafeking are hemmed in and subjected to the horrors of a siege lasting long and weary months.

And here, Britain calls upon her national heroes, Lord Roberts and Kitchener of Khartoum, to save the day, and with the arrival of these two great leaders on the scene, the tide of battle swiftly changes and we find the Boers giving way to advance after advance on the part of Roberts, till we finally see the great day of the surrender of General Cronje on the Modder River.

The story of "The Hero of Ladysmith" is based on the famous English play, "The Faithful Heart," which ran for years in London with that popular English matinee idol, Owen Nares, in the leading role of Corporal, the later Colonel Waverley, and now in the motion picture production. G. B. Samuelson has gone out and secured the same famous star of the legitimate stage to take the part of Waverley in the picture, and the part of Blackie Gattiscombe is taken by the talented English screen actress, Lillian Hall-Davis, who will be remembered for her stellar work in "A Royal Divorce," "The Game of Life," and other big attractions.

LIGHTS WENT OUT IN ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH

The congregation of St. George's Anglican church, South Peterboro, had a unique experience on Sunday evening, when they were compelled owing to trouble in a nearby transformer, to hold their service without help from the electric light fixtures of the church. Illumination was provided by several coal-oil lamps and a large number of wax candles. "In the dim, religious light" the choir and people joined in the singing of the processional, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," with a vim and vigor rendered more extreme, probably, by the fact that critical glances from those near at hand were not perceived.

Rev. Mr. Harrington was the special preacher for the occasion, speaking on behalf of the Bible Society, showing that the Bible is now published in 193 languages and dialects, and quoting from his own experience of two years in China to prove the urgent need of still further spreading the good news of Jesus Christ.

NAMES OMITTED

Names of performers inadvertently omitted from the account of those taking part in the Kiwanis Revue, staged under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. on two evenings of last week, were those of the charming octette of the instrumentalists who added much to the tunefulness of the opening chorus. Those playing ukuleles were the Misses Amy Beal, Geraldine Glover, Phyllis Hall Margaret Eastwood, Violet Davidson and Marguerite Mason, playing the guitar, the Misses Florence Thompson and Jeanne Girard.

BRUCE CHAMBERS IS IN HANDS OF POLICE

Bruce Chambers, who is wanted by the local police on charges of forgery and theft, has been captured in Buffalo, and Detective Sergeant Meagher left to-day to bring the prisoner to Peterboro.

CARD OF THANKS.

The Mother Superior and Sisters of St. Vincent's Orphanage unite in expressing their deep and sincere thanks to the management of the Turnbull Company, Limited, for a cheque just received for $150, result of a contest recently conducted by the company in which different charitable institutions of the city took part. The Orphanage provides a comofrtable and pleasant home for many a small Canadain citizen who might otherwise have a weary time of it in his junior years. The children are taught to remember in the only way possible for them, that is in their prayers, the kindness of those who lend them a helping hand, and the company itself, and all who helped to win first place in the contest for the Orphanage by placing their votes for that institution, are not forgotten. Last year the Orphanage reached second place, and received a cheque for $100.

PLOT TO ROB CAR CARRYING $75,000 UPSET BY POLICE?

Arrests Quickly But Quietly Made May Lead to Developments.

TORONTO, Feb. 5. — Plans for a daring hold-up of a pay car of a large local firm, it is believed, were frustrated by prompt action of the police on slender clues which they had picked up and the arrest of a gang which, the authorities believe, had the plot in hand—a hold up which might have rivalled the fierce assault upon bank messengers some time ago when daylight highwaymen got away clear with $90,000 in cash.

According to the information which the police picked up from one source and another, the stage for this hold up had been set for Friday afternoon, and the principles in it expected to get away with a haul in the neighborhood of $75,000. It is said that the suspects had plotted the coup out to the tiniest detail even to arranging for their railway tickets to take them away from the vicinity.

In this instance, however, the police were four hours ahead of the alleged would be robbers, and stationed themselves at the rendezvous chosen by the gang, the members of which, it is stated had sent the trunks on to the Union station, while two of the number looked after the purchase of railway tickets. The gang were to meet again on the following day at a rendezvous in another city.

The prompt arrest of the persons believed to be the ringleaders of the gang which planned the hold up was executed with such rapidity that none of the members were able to escape the dragnet. The police are now hard at work endeavoring to establish unassailable evidence against the suspects, and there may be startling developments within the next few days.

STORM BLOCKED LINDSAY TRACK

Morning C. N. R. Train Did Not Get Through -Flyer Held at Omemee by Derailed Snow Plough.

OMEMEE, Feb. 5.—(Special.) — A stinging blizzard that howled over the fields from the west all day yesterday and through the night effectively blocked traffic on the Canadian National Lindsay line, with the result that the morning train from Lindsay had not arrived this afternoon and the flyer from Peterborough was held in Omemee, where the forty or so passengers had lunch. To make the work of rescuing the trains more difficult, a snow plough was derailed in a drift at Cunningham's corners and the auxiliary was in action at noon in an attempt to clear the line. Sleet which fell in cutting sheets throughout the mida-fternoon rendered the work unpleasant and added to the discomfort of the storm-stayed passengers.

Lives Lost in U. S.

Reports from New York indicate that the weather to-day ran the gamut from a mild temperature in section of lower Michigan to drifted snows further north. Electric wires and rails brought a toll of at least three dead, damage that is roughly estimated at upwards of a million dollars and demoralized traffic and communication in many places. Telegraph and telephone companies report that havoc to their wires centred in an area of about forty miles, around Chicago, but the octopus arms of the storm extended in every direction from that centre. The worst blizzard in years, according to reports, damaged telephone and transportation lines in the vicinity of Milwaukee to the extent of $1,000,000. Several trains in the State were reported stalled in snow drifts. The banks of snow in some parts of Wisconsin were said to be ten feet deep.

Another radius of the storm extended south and southwest from Chicago through Illinois, Missouri and as far south as Texas. A tornado accompanied by rain and hail caused damaged placed at $1,000,000 at Haubstead, Ind. The storm reached gale proportions in Missouri.

Moving Eastward.

A Toronto report says the sleet storms which have prevailed in the central and western States during the past two days have moved eastward and this morning the southwestern Peninsula of Ontario is being given a bath of cold rain and sleet. Strong north-east winds and gales are also prevalent, but the effects of the sleet and high winds have caused little damage up to noon. Wire communictaion has been interrupted but slightly, while railway schedules are being fairly well maintained. Moderately cold weather prevails in the northern and eastern portions of the province.

OBJECT GRANTING OF LAKE CHARTER

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask., Feb. 5. —Many enquiries have been made at the headquarters of the western Deep Waterways Association here during the past week. Reference to the application made to parliament recently for incorporation of a $500,000,000 company to connect the lower St. Lawrence River by ship canals with the head of the lakes, the following statement was issued yesteray by the education committee of the Association.

"It is inconceivable that such a charter should be granted, and thus take this great project out of public ownership and probably public control. However, if it would be profiable for a private company to be given this privilege at a cost of half a billion dollars, how much more profitable would it be for navigation and power development to be proceeded with, as a joint arrangement between Canada and the United States, at an estimated total cost of a quarter of a billion dollars, especially when it is considered it is feasible for the whole enterprise to be paid for out of power revenues without adding a cent to the national taxation, or a dollar to the burden of national debt.

It would be an economic calamity to both the west and east were a private charter granted despite the fact that investment would probably pay its promoters golden returns.

FORMAL OPENING HOUSE TOMORROW

Some of the Members Arriving Today -- House Renovated.

TORONTO, February 5 (Canadian Press). — The members of the Legislature started to arrive this morning to get their bearings in the Parliament Buildings before the formal opening to-morrow.

The Government is very busy with the reception of deputations requesting changes in legislature.

The renovation of the Chamber has been completed, and the new Legislature will go into a much brighter home.

There has been no announcement so far as to the intended legislation.

To-night at Oshawa, it is said that W. E. N. Sinclair, the Liberal leader, will lay down the course to be pursued by the Liberals, in a speech to a party gathering there.

It is stated that he will emphasise six planks in the Liberal platform that is to guide the actions of himself as leader and of his Party.

With his speech to-night and the Speech from the Throne to-morrow, there will be indications of the attitude to be taken by both old Parties.

In the arrangement of the seats, seniority in service has been followed, and the remaining Ministers of the old Drury Cabinet are seated in a block. Two Labour members are not seated together, and M. M. MacBride (Brantford) sits with the Conservative overflow on the left of the Speaker.

Hon. George S. Henry, senior member of the Cabinet, Hon. W. F. Nickle, Hon. W. H. Price, Hon. J. S. Martin, Hon. Forbes Godfrey.

In the second row, immediately behind the Premier, sits Hon. Lincoln Goldie, and on his right Hon. Charles McCrea, Hon. James Lyons, Hon. Sir Adam Beck, Hon. J. R. Cooke ,and Hon. L. Carr. The latter two are Ministers without portfolio.

On the right of the Hon. Dr. Godfrey in the front bench sits Hon. Thomas Crawford, senior member of the House, and next to him Hon. D. Jamieson and the Hon. Findlay MacDiarmid, both of whom held office in previous Conservative Governments.

On the Liberal side, immediately on the left of the Speaker, S. Clarke, senior Liberal member, sits next to W. E. N. Sinclair, his leader, with M. Lang (Cochrane) and Z. Maguea (Sturgeon Falls) as the other members of the Liberal front line.

Liberals occupy all of this section, with the exception of four seats in the rear row occupied by the Farmers.

BATTLE WITH PATIENT ON HOSPITAL ROOF

Attendant Finally Overpowers Woman Intent on Taking Fatal Jump.

OVERBROOK, N. J., Feb. 5.—Battling with a woman patient on the edge of a sloping roof, 30 feet above the ground, at the Essex County Hospital here yesterday, Ernest Fischer, an attendant, finally overpowered the woman, and prevented her attempt at suicide, by lifting her bodily to other attendants who reached out from a roof extension above.

During the fight, which lasted for 15 minutes, the fire department of the institution spread mattresses on the groud to break the fall of the pair, seemingly inevitable.

The woman, who suffers from suicidal mania, was about to throw herself to the ground when Fischer seized her.

POND DROPPED INTO MINE DROWNING FORTY-TWO MEN

MINERS TRAPPED BY FLOOD FROM LAKE OVER THEM

Six Men Escaped From Shaft From Which Water Spouted Fifteen Minutes After Bed of Pond Caved in at Crosby, Minn.

FILLED QUICKLY.

SPOUTED FROM SHAFT.

DULUTH, Minn., February 6 (Canadian Press). — Two score miners are believed to have perished when a cave-in sent a flood of water through the workings of the Milford Manganese Ore Mine, three miles north-east of Crosby, Minn., late yesterday, according to meagre information received here.

A resident of Crosby said over long-distance telephone that the mine was located near a small lake, and the cave-in had sent a flood of water into the mine so rapidly that within fifteen minutes it was spouting out through the top of the shaft.

Six Men Escaped.

Information here was that forty-eight men were in the eastern end of the mine when a cave-in loosened a flood of water and sand, which completely filled that section in less than ten minutes.

Six persons reached the surface a few minutes after the cave-in.

The Milford Mine is owned by the Whitemarsh Mining Co., which has sent special equipment to the mine in an effort to rescue the men reported entombed.

The mine is of manganese ore and is on the Cuyuna Range.

34 WIDOWS MOURN.

A despatch from Crosby at noon to-day indicated that the final check-up of the men at work in Milford Iron Mines yesterday when the collapse of part of the bottom of the Swamp Lake sent a torrent of water into the workings 150 feet underground and snuffed out the lives of 41 miners, placed the number at 48.

The high powered electric pumps rushed here from Duluth were pumping water from muddy Swamp Lake and Mine today, and mining experts said the workings and lake-bed must be emptied before it would be possible to remove the bodies.

It is said that the drift of Milford Mine, which produces the Manganese ore, did not extend under the lake and that the water had worked a subterranean passage to the roof of the mine, and the pressure finally crushed in the roof. It will take weeks to free the imprisoned bodies.

Organizations of the village and the Red Cross have taken over the work of ministering to the needs of the widows and orphans of the victims, who ranged in years from 23 to 55. Thirty-four of them were married and had from one to nine children each. The grief-stricken relatives thronged around the mine shaft throughout the bitterly cold night until late this morning, when, realizing that all hope was gone, they returned sorrowfully to their homes.

French Radicals Again Defeated

PARIS, Feb. 6.—The Chamber of Deputies finally reached the end of general debates on the Government's measures to balance the extraordinary budget yesterday after nine days' discussion.

The Socialists, Communists and Radicals, pursuing their filibustering tactics to the end, caused a violent demonstration by endeavoring to prevent a vote on the closing of the general debate. The president of the Chamber, however, held his own against the obstructionists and the vote was ordered. The radicals and socialists abstained from voting but a quorum was reached and closure voted by 335 to 18. This indicates a clear government majority of from 70 to 100 had all the deputies present voted.

ARREST BRITISH TENNIS PLAYER

Separated From All-Star Squash Team at New York on Wife's Warrant Charging Desertion in Canada.

NEW YORK, February 6 (Canadian Press). — Colonel V. V. Harvey, a member of the All-Star British Squash Tennis team, which arrived yesterday aboard the Tyrrhenia for a series of international matches in this country and Canada, was arrested on a charge of deserting his wife in Canada, as he left the steamship pier in company with a welcoming party of New York club men.

Colonel Harvey was identified by his wife, Mrs. "Peggy" Harvey, and was taken to the Domestic Relations Court, while six other members of the British party proceeded to the Harvard Club, where they are to be entertained while here.

The squash team is scheduled to play in Toronto and Montreal.

Married in Toronto.

Mrs. Harvey said she married Col. Harvey, a retired Canadian Army officer, in Toronto on 4th June, 1914.

She appeared in Domestic Relations Court and asked for a warrant for the Colonel's arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct, alleging that he deserted her in Canada five years ago, and paid for her support up to three years ago.

Mrs. Harvey said she was a dramatic artist, and has not been employed since last year. She was 21 when she married, she said, and her husband is 39 years old now. She was Peggy Biggot before her marriage, she said.

Mrs. Harvey said she had been "tipped off" that Colonel Harvey was coming on the Tyrrhenia.

Colonel Harvey was taken to the Charles Street Station, and later to the Night Court, where he was held for the Domestic Relations Court to-day.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 5. Canadian Press. — The Grand Jury in the Circuit Court to-day returned "no bill" in the case against Harry Rabinovitch, who was indicted on two counts, first, receiving $50,000 alleged to have been stolen by Benjamin Friedman, knowing it to have been stolen; and second, acting with Friedman in stealing $50,000.

The charges were in connection with money paid for a liquor shipment from St. John to Providence, R. I.

LONDON, Feb. 5. — The Minister of Agriculture has decided to appoint a small committee to examine the circumstances of the recent outbreak of foot and mouth disease in the English herds and also to review and report upon the present policy of slaughtering diseased and exposed stock. The committee will also be asked to advise whether any further precautions should be taken to guard against a spread of the disease, and to consider whether any scheme of insurance can be devised as an alternative to the existing system of compensation from the government for slaughtered animals.

Hollinger, McIntyre, and the Wright-Hargreaves each established particularly high records, while substantial increases in output were attained by Vipond Consolidated, Kirkland Lake, and Night Hawk Peninsular.

Dominions No Voice In Labor Foreign Policy.

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 5. Canadian Press Cable. — Former Federal premier H. M. Hughes, in the course of a speech here to-day said the British foreign policy had changed in the last few months without the direct authority of the British electors. There was now a different policy towards France and Russia, and there probably would be another policy towards Italy and other countries. That policy would express the opinion of 4,500,000 out of 23,000,000 people. Australia was a part of the Empire but it had absolutely no voice in determining the new policy.

Child Dragged By Runaway Horses

NORTH BAY, Feb. 6.—Little Lois Knight, the three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Knight, narrowly escaped death Monday afternoon, when she was caught in the whiffletrees of a sleigh attached to a runaway team and dragged a considerable distance.

The little girl, with two other small children, was playing with a hand-sleigh when the horses came tearing at full speed along the sidewalk. Lois was being drawn on a child's sleigh and was caught from the sleigh and carried by the whiffletrees along First avenue.

Besides a bad fracture of the right leg, her left leg is broken in two places and the little body is severely bruised in several places. Injuries to her head and back are not supposed to be as severe as at first appeared, and yesterday she was quite bright, considering the terrible experience through which she passed.

USED RADIO IN WIRE TROUBLE

Air Carried Telegraph Message When Tuesday's Storm Crippled the Wire Services.

NEW YORK, February 6 (Canadian Press). — Storm-demoralized wire service cut off Wall Street commission houses from direct connection with Chicago and many other western cities yesterday.

All firms reported service interrupted generally throughout the West.

Substitution of the radio for telegraph wires brought many messages from points which were cut off.

A heavy increase in traffic was reported by the radio companies.

OTTAWA SUFFERED.

OTTAWA, February 6 (Canadian Press).— The blizzard which started to rage here late yesterday afternoon slowed up all services of a mechanical nature in and about Ottawa.

The telephone service suffered the least interruption, being only slightly affected.

Street cars were stalled on the main streets on several occasions when the power was cut off.

SOLUTION OF HOUSING PROBLEM IS ENGAGING MACDONALD MINISTERS

An Important Conference Held To-Day With the Employers of Labor and Building Trades' Delegates — "Dilution" of Unions Proposed—Government Will Fight the Combines Controlling Building Materials.

PREMIER AGGRESSIVE

LONDON, Feb. 6. — The new government is energetically working to be in readiness to meet Parliament next week. Cabinet meetings are held almost daily and a number of committees are studying the different problems.

It is clear that the ministers intend to concentrate on internal policy, especially housing, unemployment an agriculture. Housing has been a constant source of difficulty since the war and success in solving this problem will probably do more to reconcile the country to the new administration than success in any other direction.

An important conference will assemble today privately to discuss the question in all its bearings. It will be attended by the Ministers of Health and Labor and representatives of both employers and trades unions connected with the building industry. The Government aim is to induce the trades unions to allow some relaxation of the strict trade union rules, or "diluting," as it is called, in order to provide more skilled labor to the building trade.

Make Work Constant

In return for such relaxation the trades unions contend that the Government ought to guarantee a continuance of its housing policy over a period of fifteen or twenty years, that is, guarantee to the trades constant work. This is a diffiuclty requiring to be threshed out.

Another difficulty to be overcome is the hindrances placed in the way by rings or combines restricting supplies of building materials, and it is said that the Government is ready to fight these rings. It is understood that the financing schemes do not present great difficulties.

With regard to foreign affairs, it is reported that Premier MacDonald contemplates a visit to Paris in May afted the French elections, which it is hoped may bring together a chamber better disposed to meet the British views on the reparation question.

An interview with Ramsay MacDonald will appear today in the Manchester Daily Dispatch, in which the Prime Minister declares that the recognition of Russia is "absolute." With regard to the term "de jure recognition," Mr. MacDonald says he objects to language which cannot be understood by the man in the street, but as the Soviets attach importance to the phrase he willingly subscribed to it.

Aggressive Policy

..Affirming that Russia and Germany ought to enter the League of Nations, Premier MacDonald says that there will be difficulty in the case of Russia, but that Germany's inclusion must be insisted upon.

Discussing relation with France, he expressed the opinion that the hesitating and negative attitude of the British Governmnt has been mainly responsible for post misunderstandings, but adds: "All that is gone. Great Britain will no longer be content to sit and watch events, and the result of this new attitude seems to be succeeding beyond expectation."

The Premier ridicules the gloomy progostications of falling securities when Labor took power and asserts that securities are rising and that the business world is looking forward with relief to a period of stability.

D.S.C.R. Doctor Resigns Because of Changes.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5. — Dr. A. E. London, has severed his connections with the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment as medical director of the Unit which covers Quebec and the county of Glengarry in Ontario.

Dr. London gives several reasons for his action, the most important of them being that he believes the recent changes effected are not in the best interests of the department, and are he believes "fundamentally unsound."

House Wrecked By Exploding Tank

WINNIPEG, Feb. 6.—Thought to have been caused by the inability of the surplus steam to circulate owing to the tank having been frozen, a hot water tank in the home of G. V. Hastings of this city, exploded with such force yesterday that it was driven through two floors and the roof of the house and hurled 100 feet into the air. No one was injured. Damage is estimated at $4,000.

GRAIN FUTURES ACT IN COURT

Provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta Opposed the Manitoba Tax on Trading — Heard By Supreme Court.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 6.— (By Canadian Press.)—Constitutionality of the Grain Futures Act, (1923), of the Province of Manitoba was questioned in Supreme Court of Canada yesterday and oral argument for and against was concluded. Judgment was reserved and will be affected by additional written argument to be submitted to the court within two weeks.

The argument against the Act, presented by Eugene Lafleur, K.C., on behalf of the Attorney General of Saskatchewan and Alberta, hinged on the question of whether or not the application of a tax, which it imposes, of sixty cents per thousand bushels on grain futures transactions constitutes an indirect tax and thereby goes beyond the powers of a provincial legislature.

Hon. A. B. Hudson, M.P. for the Attorney General of Manitoba, urged that the tax affected only residents of Manitoba. It was so infinitismal that persons trading in grain futures would not take the trouble to pass it on to future purchasers by computing its exact proportion on any particular transaction. The Bench appeared to be of the opinion that the tax would, however, be passed on and thereby eventually affect citizens of another province. Mr. Justice Idintgon said that in this day it was natural to suppose that all expenses of a business were taken into consideration in the retail of a product. Another Justice suggested good-humoredly that the mere fact that the tax was too small to be computed in each separate transaction would probably impel the broker to allow a very generous provision for the tax, "probably charging it several times over." "It would amount to the same thing in the end," said Mr. Justice Duff.

COMPENSATION BOARD CHANGE

Foreshadowed in Speech From the Throne—Temperance Act Also To Be Mentioned—Legislature Opening.

TORONTO, Feb. 6—Outstanding in the legislation which it was under stood would be heralded in the Speech from the Throne, is the complete reorganization of the Workmen's Compensation Board.

In former sessions, H. H. Dewart K.C., Hon. G. H. Ferguson, now Premier, and other members opposing the Drury Government, have vigorously assailed the Board for what they termed its "autocratic administration," and now it is proposed to reconstitute the organization as a sort of judicial body with an official representative of claimants, paid by the Government.

Besides this official whose specific duty it is to assist claimants in presenting all the facts of their case, the legislation it is said, will also provide for the appointment of an official to represent the contributors to the Board funds. It is the Government's view that such reorganization will ensure the careful and adequate preparation of each case before it comes to the Board, and remove cause for such complaints as have previously been levelled against Workmen's Compensation Act administration.

It is understood that there will be a reference to the Ontario Temperance Act in which, according to reliable information, provision will eb made that Premier Ferguson's pledge given to the people will be carried out—that when public opinion is sufficient to demand a submission of the question of a change in the method of administration, the question will be submitted.

Quebec's Wolf Bounty Less Than Ontario's.

NORTH BAY, Feb. 5.— In connection with the proposal of Premier Ferguson to cut wolf bounties it is pointed out here that in the Province of Quebec the bounty on wolves is much less than in Ontario, and the fact has been commented upon that near the Inter-provincial line Quebec has been called upon to pay very few wolf bounties.

READY TO NAME ENGINEERS FOR POWER PROJECT

The Governor - General Forwards Canadian Government's Reply to the United States' Note on Preliminaries to the St. Lawrence Waterway Development — Enlarge Joint Board.

OUTLINE ITS SCOPE.

OTTAWA, February 6 (Canadian Press). — The Dominion Government has proposed to the United States that the technical aspects of the St. Lawrence waterway project be given further consideration by the joint Engineering Board, and a report covering the whole project, including its cost, be obtained.

The proposals of the United States Government for the immediate conclusion of a treaty looking to the development of the St. Lawrence waterway, or alternatively, the constitution of a joint committee of experts to make preliminary studies as a basis for the framing of a treaty are still under consideration.

Increase Board.

The reply of the Dominion Government to the proposals of the United States was made public last evening. It is in the form of a communication sent by the Governor-General to the British Ambassador at Washington.

It states that the Dominion Government is prepared to appoint additional engineers to the Joint Engineering Board with a view to having the final report prepared.

It also says that the Canadian Government "intends to constitute a committee which will, in consultation with the Canadian members of the Joint Engineering Board, inquire fully from a national standpoint into the wide questions involved, and hopes shortly to be able to take further action on the proposals made by the Secretary of State."

Technical Advisers.

"Upon the question of the number of additional engineers who should be appointed by each Government to the Joint Engineering Board, my Government," the communication reads, "would welcome a suggestion from the Government of the United States and would also be ready to nominate one or more technical officers to discuss with technical officers of the United States the terms in which they would recommend that the instructions to the enlarged Joint Engineering Board should be couched and the time within which it should be directed to report.

"My Government trusts that these proposals will receive the favourable consideration of the Government of the United States."

SINCLAIR ANNOUNCES A NO FUSION POLICY

Complimentary Banquet in His Home Town to Newly Selected Provincial Liberal Leader

OSHAWA, Feb. 6. — (Canadian Press).—Representative of every section of the Province and of every walk of life, hundreds of Liberals assembled here last night to honor W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., newly selected Provincial Liberal leader.

Warm and enthusiastic as were the appreciations of Mr. Sinclair's integrity and ability as expressed by outsiders who knew him in political affairs, these felicitations were surpassed by the expressions of high regard from Liberals of his home riding of South Ontario.

Mr. Sinclair promised a leadership which would hold high the Liberal banner and maintain the best Liberal traditions. No alliance, he said, and no deals involving the Liberal party with any other group would be countenanced under his leadership. In reply to veiled intimations which, he said, had been made in some quarters, he emphatically declared that the Liberal party under his leadership was not to be made a "donkey engine for the ambitions of E. C. Drury."

"The Liberals have never asked to be constituted the official Opposition in the Legislature," said Mr. Sinclair: "they have made no advances of any kind to any Government. But we are obliged to take the responsibility because, according to the decision of the official Farmers' convention, the U. F. O. is out of politics.

No Alliance Sought.

"I welcome to the Liberal group on the floor of the House," he proceeded, "all the members of this third group who have Liberal views and who think their aims and objects will be better served there than in any other part of the House. But I wish to make it clear that there will be no fusion between the Liberal party and any other group. The Liberal party must stand free from entanglements and alliances."

Dealing at some length with Hon. E. C. Drury's new Progressive party Mr. Sinclair compared its professed ideals with those of the Liberal party, declaring them to be, at best, no higher than those of that historic body. Both parties must necessarily be composed of advanced thinking people, who should be in one rank to oppose the forces of Conservatism.

"So far as my administration is concerned," he said, "it will not aim to hook up with any organization or party. My leadership will not break faith with the Liberals of the past. It will aim to hold the banner on high — to call to our support all those who are progressive and are Liberal."

As in former public addresses, however, the Liberal leader held out the olive branch to all who had temporarily allied themselves with other forces.

Beside Mr. Sinclair, there were as speakers, at the banquet, Hon. Charles Stewart and Hon. George P. Graham, members of the Federal Cabinet.

Mr. Graham declared that what the people of Canada needed to-day was that courage which had maintained the Canadian soldiers in the trenches.

"If the people of Canada," he said, "are to get ahead, then we must stop grouching about the present conditions of the country and see if we cannot better them."

CHAMBERS ARRESTED BY BUFFALO POLICE

Edith Dibble, Who Left Peterboro With Him Will Also Be Deported —Chambers Faces Forgery Charge.

BUFFALO, N.Y., February 6 (Special to The Examiner). — R. Bruce Chambers, 28 years old of Peterborough, Ont., who the police say is wanted in Peterborough on charges of forgery and desertion of his wife and child was arrested here late on Tuesday by Detective-Sergeant Truxes.

A nineteen-year-old girl Edith Dibble, of Peterborough, Ont., also was taken into custody by the detective.

The authorities charge that Chambers obtained more than $500.00 by forgeries from the Dominion Express Company, by whom he was employed.

He is also alleged to have deserted his wife and child to come here with the Dibble girl.

Detective Truxes said that the couple have been living in Buffalo at a downtown hotel since 11th of January.

Chambers and the girl were arrested on descriptions furnished the local police by the Canadian authorities.

The police here say that the man induced the girl to come to Buffalo by promising her that she would live in luxury.

CHARGE AGAINST MAYOR.

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 6.—Mayor W. H. Christie is to appear in the Police Court, charged with neglecting to affix an excise stamp upon a receipt he gave to a tenant acknowledging payment of rent. The case arose out of an action taken by the Mayor against George Karn for assault. Mayor Christie had been requesting payment for rent for a house of his occupied by Karn when the latter thrust him out. Karn paid a fine of $5 and costs for assault upon the complaint of Mayor Christie, and the action above came when Karn, to even matters up, laid a charge that he had been given a receipt without the excise stamp.

WEATHER MODERATE AFTER HEAVY SNOW

Western Ontario is Practically Recovered From Worst Storm of Year.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press.)— Western Ontario is rapidly recovering to-day from the effects of yesterday's sleet and snow storm, which was the worst of the present winter. Wire communication, which was somewhat crippled yesterday, is almost normal today, while railway schedules are well maintained. The big power transmission lines in Niagara Peninsula suffered little.

The heavy snow fall which followed the sleet storm of the morning, was fairly general throughout the province, with the heaviest fall reported from north and eastern sections. According to the observatory officials here the snow fall was fairly general throughout Eastern Canada, and particularly heavy in the district around Ottawa and through Southern Quebec and Southern New Brunswick. Stormy conditions will prevail in these districts to-day also, but an improvement is looked for after to-night.

Manitoba is in the grip of a moderate cold wave, with Winnipeg reporting 14 below at 8 a.m. In Alberta it is comparatively mild.

GREAT WEST COMPANY HAD A YEAR OF PROGRESS

The annual reports of Canada's large life insurance companies are always scanned with interest in the development of this most useful form of family protection and saving.

One of the most progressive and best known of these is The Great-West Life, whose report for 1923 appears in these columns.

The assets are now over $56,000,000 and the income nearly $15,000,000. The investments are conservatively valued and are found to be in a thoroughly sound condition. The reserves and other funds for the protection of policyholders have grown to impressive proportions, and from every point of view the company is to be congratulated on the splendid results of the year's operations.

DEATH AND DESTITUTION IN A CHEERLESS HOVEL

The Life of a Young Orland Mother Was Saved Only by Quick Arrival of Doctor Over Snow Blocked Roads--Child Was Dead.

TO INVESTIGATE

(By a Staff Reporter.)

ORLAND, February 6. — A case of sordid destitution was revealed when Dr. Rundle of Brighton was called at midnight on Monday to attend a young girl who was living in a hovel on the roadside a short distance from this place.

The child was dead, and the life of the unfortunate mother was probably saved by the prompt and charitable action of some of the neighbours who had her removed to more comfortable quarters in this village.

The girl's name is Mary O'Brien, and she was living in the shack with a young fellow named Gifford, not much older than herself. Her life story is a sad one, and those who are familiar with it believe that recent developments are the natural sequel to her upbringing and environment.

Some years ago Edward O'Brien and his wife, who were living in Trenton ,separated. The mother and her children, three daughters and four sons, continued to reside in that town, but as the boys grew up they left home, and all are said to be doing well. Two of the girls are being cared for in a home at Belleville.

Mary secured work in a hotel in Trenton and remained there until the early part of the winter, when she unexpectedly appeared here.

Her mother had preceded her to this place, and was living with Mike Ash, who owned an acre of land on the Brighton Road, not far from here, upon which there stands a shanty that is scarcely fit for human habitation. This shanty never fails to excite remarks from strangers travelling on he Brighton Road, and such travellers are slow to believe that such a hovel was occupied by human beings.

Mrs. O'Brien and Ash were living in that shack when the daughter reached here.

Mary went to work in the home of a local farmer, M. J. O'Halloran, but lefe there and took up her abode with her mother and Ash.

The two later left the neighbourhood a short time ago, and have now believed to be living in Corbyville.

The unfortunate girl, whose condition must have been known to the mother, was allowed to remain alone to shift for herself. It was then that young Gifford appeared as her companion.

The O'Brien girl was taken ill at noon Monday and Dr. Anderson of Wooler was called. He prescribed for her but at midnight. Dr. Rundle of Brighton, eight miles away, was summoned. For a doctor or anyone else to travel even a short distance through the storm and over the blocked roads, was a serious problem.

But the child was dead and the mother, too, was at the point of death. A kindly lady from Orland, who had heard of the case, went to the home and did what she could for the girl whose condition was pitiable in such a situation. Later she was removed to a house in Orland. When she has sufficiently recovered to give information to the authorities a thorough investigation of the case is likely to be made.

The Crow of Croup A Warning To All Mothers

Croup starts with a dry cough and rattling in the throat; after which the croup crow gives warning of the diseases. The child, after tossing restlessly about, will start up with a flushed face, protuding eyeballs, and a distressing look of terror and anxiety. There is a struggle for breath, and the expectoration of the mucous matter is so difficult to get rid of that the effort appears to threaten strangulation.

On the first sign of the "croupy crow" mothers should administer Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and thus give the child prompt and permament relief, and perhaps the life saved by taking this precaution.

Mrs. H. A. Langhorn, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"My little boy was very bad with the croup and I could not get anything to relieve him until I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I cannot praise it too highly for the relief it gave him."

SEYMOUR FUNDS ROAD BUILDING

Township Appropriates $6,000 For Construction and Another $6,000 For Maintenance—Will Buy Stone Crusher.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 6.—Seymour township council at the regular meeting Monday passed a by-law, fathered by Councillor Milne, setting aside the sum of $6000 for road construction this year, and a like amount for maintenance. Rev. Van Volkenburg, who acted as superintendent last year, did not care to take the position this year.

The Reeve and Deputy Reeve Nelson were appointed a committee to select a superintendent, and to report at a subsequent meeting.

James Wiliams asked for a grant for the Island road. This matter will be left to Councillor Peake, with power to act.

Roy Loucks complained that a fence encroaches on the road on concession five, but action was deferred until the April meeting.

T. H. Rowe, auditor, submitted his report, which was adopted.

H. Dunham, tax collector, reported that there is a balance outstanding of $316, and on motion of Deputy Reeve Nelson and Councillor Milne, the time for paying taxes for 1923 was extended until March 3rd.

Clerk Hay was instructed to bring suit against Miss Squires for her municipal income tax.

Buy Stone Crusher.

It has finally been decided to purchase a stone crusher for the township for road building, the machine selected being the one built by the Massey Harris Company.

Reeve Van Volkenburg and Councillor McKelvie were authorized to make the deal, their instructions as to price being to secure the best possible terms.

The following accounts were ordered paid:

S. Babcock, charity, $5; John Quinn, for sheep killed, $6; G. A. Kingston, printing, $16; Grant H. Dafoe, balance of account re Belmont boundary, $8.55; T. ORourke, road work, $1.50; G. W. Grills, work on road 5, $19; J. M. Arnold, salary as truant officer for December, $7; George Anderson, salary as truant officer for January, $5; T. H. Rowe, salary as auditor, $70; H. HOME MADE COUGH MIXTURE CONSIDERED BEST Spreads Over Membrane, Soothes, Heals and Stops Cough Almost Instantly.

COSTS BUT A TRIFLE

Make your own cough syrup in two minutes at home if you want the best.

Simple coughs, or stubborn coughs, it doesn't matter which, this home-made mixture will stop them quicker than any expensive cough syrup you can buy ready made.

It's fine for chest colds too and for acute nasal catarrh.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one-half pint—that's all there is to it, and children like it.

Like a sooching, healing poultice one costly substance in this home-made cough mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

And remember—any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

MIDDLE WEST WITNESSED WORST STORM IN YEARS

CHICAGO, February 6 (Canadian Press). — The Middle West is digging itself out of one of the worst snow and sleet storms in two decades, with prospects that the railroad transportation and wire communication facilities will be greatly improved today, unless the snow, promised in the weather forecasts, offsets the headway that has been made.

The railroads centering in Chicago many of which had stalled and lost trains somewhere in snow drifts of the Mississippi Valley region, reported last night that the conditions were much improved.

The damage done by the blizzard will total hundreds of thousands of dollars.

In Chicago it is estimated that it will cost about $40,000 to move the snow along.

EXPECT FERGUSON TO CHANGE BOARD

Workmen's Compensation Board is Considered by the Premier an Autocratic Administration.

TORONTO, February 6 (Canadian Press). — Outstanding among the legislation which, it is understood, will be heralded in the Speech from the Throne, which will be read by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor at the opening of the first session of the 16th Legislature of Ontario to-day, is a complete reorganisation of the Workmen's Compensation Board.

In former sessions, H. H. Dewart, K.C., Hon. G. H. Ferguson, now Premier, ignominiously assailed the Board for what they termed its "autocratic administration," and now it is proposed to reconstitute the organisation as a sort of judicial body with an official representative of the claimants, paid by the Government.

It is understood that there will be reference to the Ontario Temperance Act.

MURDER CHARGE WAS PROVEN AT SECOND TRIAL

Sydney Murrell Was Sole Witness in His Own Behalf -- Thirteen Witnesses Riveted the Crown's Case.

MUST STOP CRIME

LONDON, On., Feb. 6. (Canadian Press). — After deliberating 35 minutes the jury in the second trial of Sydney Murrell at the Assizes here last night found him guilty of murder of Russell Campbell, Melbourne garage man, who was shot down during the bandit raid on the Home Bank in that village in April village in April 1921.

The case moved forward with an awesome efficiency during the day as the story of the robbery and crime, unfolded by thirteen crown witnesses, was given its drastic climax in the appearance of the prisoner as the sole witness in his own behalf.

He admitted that the crime had been hatched in his own home on the previous night, and that revolvers had been passed out as he, "Slim" Williams, William Murrell and Pat bourne.

Norton drove in stolen car to Mel-

He struggled to establish a new contention as to the actual firing of the fatal shot.

Stuart Campbell, brother of the victim, Robert E. Campbel, who is not related and Manager Theaker of the Union Bank swore positively that they had seen Murrell and Campbel at death grips in the lane beside the bank that they had seen the shot fired and Campbell crumpled, then Murrell break loose from the dying man and plunge for the street still firing.

The mother, father, sisters and younger brother of Murrell sat in the front row of the spectators section. Mrs Murrell made no outburst and Murrell throwing his head back toward his friends forced a smile to prove his nerve when the verdict was announced.

Justice Lenox stated that Harry Williams, Murrell's co-partner, must face his trial for murder to-day, and then adjourned the court without stating when sentence is to be imposed.

On leaving court Murrell turned again to his family and friends, and kissed his manacled hands.

Mr. Justice Lennox in his charge declared that manslaughter was out of the question, that robbery and murder had become commonplace in the country and that responsibility rests upon decent people to stop the crime wave.

ORGANIZE BAND FOR LAKEFIELD

Allan H. Clarke Elected President of New Musical Organization — Trueman Jewell Appointed Bandmaster — Firemen to Co-operate.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 5.—A meeting was held in the Council Chamber to re-organize the Lakefield citizens band, and owing to numerous counter attractions and a wild northeaster, the attendance was slim but it was encouraging to note the proportion of young men who were enthusiastically in favor of re-organization.

The Reeve, J. C. Strickland, was in the chair and expressed his conviction that the village was anxious to have a band and if it was once organized that the ratepayers would stand behind it. A. H. Clarke is also optimistic and feels that a town of Lakefield's size without a band is rare in Ontario. It is rather a task to get one going and teach beginners but there are many ways of raising money and with co-operation between band members and the citizens it could be done.

Walter Madill spoke of the re-organization two years ago and owing to the lack of sufficient instruments it was difficult to keep things going.

Officers Elected

As a step toward re-organization these officers were elected:

Hon. Pres.—Theodore Crawford.
President—Allan H. Clarke.
Vice-President—Roland Payne.
Sec.-Treas.—Walter Madill.
Executive—R. H. Graham, A. Millar and W. L. Webster.
Citizens' Committee—Reeve J. C. Strickland, Councillors W. W. Leonard, N. A. Moore and E. A. Tanner, and village clerk, T. W. B. Marling.

Firemen Will Help

The co-operation of the fire brigade with the re-organized band is a splendid thing as it brings together two worthy organizations. The band will be a means of keeping the brigade together and these two worthy objects will be linked together with a common bond. The fire brigade is not only an asset to the village, but it is an actual necessity and has proved its worth over and over, while the band is a strong asset and gives added prestige to the village. We never really valued the band till the destruction of the Town Hall on December 27th, 1918, when most of the instruments and equipment were destroyed, then there was a regular hue and cry about the band. However, the village has been kept busy replacing the various pieces of property destroyed and the band has had only a few private donations to encourage those who have never ceased to hope for the restoration of the Citizens' Band, which is assuredly a citizen's asset.

SPEEDING UP THE MACHINE.

Mayor Turner is starting off well in the carrying out of his duties as presiding officer over the Council's deliberations by getting the first two regular meetings under his regime through before 11 o'clock.

His Worship does not see any necessity of the Council sitting until the wee sma' hours discussing business that could just as easily be cleaned up much earlier.

During recent years a good many rules and regulations in regard to Council procedure have been disregarded by the city's chief magistrates, and members of the Council have been allowed much latitude in the discussion of public business, some of them being given to speaking four or five times to the same question, with the result that much time has been wasted.

Mayor Turner is not only determined to keep the Council from straying away from the point at issue, but at his suggestion the rules are to be revised and brought up to date, and His Worship proposes that the Council sessions commence at 7.30 o'clock.

This is good business.

More can be accomplished in two hours of snappy work than can be done in twice that time if members of the Council are allowel to wander from the subject and introduce matters extraneous to the point under discussion.

Speeding up the civic machine is a move towards greater efficiency and better results generally.

SUBURBAN ROADS.

The local Council has decided to petition the Ontario Legislature to repeal the Suburban Road Act, or failing that to so amend the measure as to provide that no road shall be adopted as a suburban road until its adoption as such has been approved by the Councils which will be called upon to contribute towards its construction or maintenance, and to provide also that estimates for expenditures on such roads must be approved of by such Councils.

It is undoubtedly true, as the preamble to the Council's resolution sets forth, that the power of Municipal Councils over civic expenditures is being more and more limited by the creation of boards and commissions with authority to borrow and expend moneys.

The Suburban Road Commission is an example.

Such commissions are given wide powers that enable them to commit municipalities to expenditures without the consent and sometimes without the knowledge of the Council.

City Councils have little to do with such undertakings, except to pay for their share of the work—and a heavy share it is, too, in some cases.

If the Act is not repealed in its entirety it at least should be amended along the lines asked for by the local Council, giving the various Councils interested in any particular suburban road the power not only to approve or disapprove of the selection of that particular road, but also to have something to say about how much is to be expended before the work is undertaken.

WHAT ABOUT THE MORAL LIABILITY?

The moral obligation resting upon the City Council as representatives of the people to see that employees of the community are paid for services rendered to the community has been disregarded by a majority of the City Council in refusing to pay Chief Newhall's salary for the last two and a half months of 1923.

Their attitude is not a contribution towards harmony or co-operation.

The City Council is one civic body; the Police Commission another, and because these two organizations became involved in a controversy as to their respective powers and because a court decision declares that the Council's claim was correct and the commission was wrong in not seeing to it that the police estimates as laid down by the Council carried them through the year, the majority of the Aldermen persist in their stand that the Chief of Police, a servant of the city and under the orders of the commission, shall not be paid for two and a half months' services, although the other members of the police force whose status was identical have been paid in full for the same period.

The only defence offered for this course is that the city is not legally required to pay the Chief in view of the court's decision.

Yet every citizen who followed the development of the controversy last year knows that the whole point of the litigation was not whether or not the Chief and his force should be paid the wages that they had earned, but whether or not the Council had power to cut down the police estimates.

It was a fight for a principle, the people were given to understand, and there was no intention of doing an injustice to the members of the Police Department.

But now, the principle for which the Council fought having been established, it transpires that another principle, that of a fair day's wage for a fair day's work, is to be scrapped altogether, and Chief Newhall is to regard his weeks of work during the latter part of 1923 as without reward save the satisfaction that he stayed on the job.

It is safe to say that even among those who endorsed the stand of the Council in fighting for a decision as to their power to approve of the police estimates, there are few who do not think that now that the litigation is over and the Council's point has been made that Chief Newhall's salary should be paid and the episode closed.

TO THE RESCUE OF THE CIVIL SERVICE.

The announcement of the King Government that it proposes to use the axe on the Civil Service at Ottawa has resulted, as might have been expected, in an outburst of wrath from the capital.

The Ottawa papers have rushed at once to the defense of the much-abused Civil Service. The Ottawa Journal defends the increase in the number of civil servants and protests against it being made the "special meat of every half-baked economist and reformer who sets out with uninstructed zeal or mere demagogy to save us from extravagance." The Journal admits that there is 'some overlapping and overmanning and much work that could be dispensed with." However, the Journal thinks if the Government wants to economize there are other rich fields in which it might work, and instances "the pork barrel." Incidentally it was the chief editorial writer of the Journal, Grattan O'Leary, who in a recent article in Maclean's Magazine made a slashing attack on the waste and extravagance in the Civil Service at Ottawa.

The Ottawa Citizen comes to the rescue of the Civil Service, along with its contemporary, the Journal, and expresses the opinion that what is needed most is not a "spectacular swinging of the axe among the hundreds of underpaid employees, but a thorough overhauling of the management and organization of the service." The Citizen then proceeds to enumerate the following facts in regard to the overlapping and lack of co-ordination:

"Two departments carry establishments for precise leveling; three departments have establishments in connection with topographical maps; seven departments have photostat establishments; five departments also support establishment and equipment for the purpose of blue-printing and reproductions. One department has five distinct engineering branches, and it has been said that only one of these operates under the departmental chief engineer. Dredging, with its costly overhead engineering establishments, is carried on in three different departments. Surveying work is carried on in three different branches of one department. The height of duplications and overlapping is reached in one department which has seven distinct branches dealing with lands, each having its own expensive overhead establishment."

The general public is not interested in how the economy is effected, as long as there is retrenchment. Both in Great Britain and the United States, since the war, the Civil Service appropriations have been greatly reduced, while in this country there has been a steady increase in cost. If the much-needed reductions in taxation are to come there will have to be rigid economy. The Government will find that it will take real courage to carry into operation any Civil Service reorganization in the face of all the political and social pressure which will be exerted in the capital.—London Free Press.

THE POSTMEN'S SALARIES.

In contradiction to the statement that letter carriers who receive a yearly salary of $1,650 as a maximum after four years could be easily replaced by others at a similar salary of service, the Border Cities Star in a recent editorial states that, in addition to the postmen being the lowest paid branch in the Civil Service, they are also under-paid. It is pointed out that the postman has to be very early at his work, is out in all kinds of weather and has a greater responsibility than others receiving larger salaries.

THE BRITISH SPIRIT.

Nothing could be more splendid than Mr. J. H. Thomas' maiden speech as Colonial Secretary in the British Labor Cabinet. Speaking in the presence of the Prince of Wales, to whom he paid a graceful and moving tribute, Mr. Thomas declared that "this old country and this old Empire will go on," and added:

"They (the Royal Family) were wise because they knew their people better than others; because they had long recognized that patriotism, love of the Empire, service and duty were not the gift or monopoly of a class or creed, and because they recognized that there were men in more humble circumstances, denied the opportunities of a university education, whose sense of duty and whose love of country were equal to those of any other type of men."

An even finer passage, illustrative of the spirit of British public life, was that in which Mr. Thomas, speaking of his predecessor in the Colonial Office, the Duke of Devonshire, said:

"He has done his damnedest to unseat me in Derby, and he has always realized that it is impossible for me to unseat him. Notwithstanding our political differences and the social difference between us, with all those characteristics which make us proud of him, when I became his successor in office he unhesitatingly said: 'My service and experience and all that I know are placed at your disposal.'

"That was characteristic of that spirit which not only makes us proud of our country but which makes us feel that whatever changes or difficulties there may be, this old country will survive them all."

That, indeed, is the "cricket spirit" in which British political warfare is waged. It is the spirit that "plays up and plays the game," the spirit of fair play, which is the glory of Britons, the spirit which shuns the vicious idea that a difference of opinion is a cause for hatred. It is a spirit that is evidenced everywhere in British politics, and nowhere more than in Westminster itself. Lord Birkenhead is one of the doughtiest swordsmen that British Toryism knows. No politician in Britain, except possibly Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Winston Churchill, has been a more militant fighter, or has dealt harder blows to his political opponents. Yet in the latest issue of the London Sunday Times we find Birkenhead paying this moving tribute to his old Liberal antagonist, Mr. Asquith:

"Mr. Asquith's character is a national asset. He fights cleanly, wins without insolence and loses without rancour. In the rotund form of his oratory and the absolute integrity of motive and conduct he recalls to a perverse generation all that was best of a bygone age. And it will be said of him, when the last criticism is weighed, that here was a statesman, honorable, generous, and sagacious, who rendered great service to his country at a time when no other living Englishman could have done that which he did; and without which the state might have tottered to ruin."

Would to heaven we had more of the spirit of an utterance like this in the politics of this country!—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

They're off at Toronto—and may the session be short and businesslike.

What the Province really needs is the cutting down of political speeches and political expenditures.

At least one man believes in the Bok peace plan. That is Charles Herbert Levermer who won the $100,000 prize.

Apparently the City Council are likely to let the toboggan slide question slide.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—Sales for the day were 2,660, and this left less than 500 in the alleys for this morning's business. The exporters picked up one load at yesterday's price of $7.75 a cwt., and bought an odd heifer from 6 cents up. For a few choice short keeps for export as high as 7½ cents was paid on Monday.

Any butchers were selling at fully steady prices this morning. Fred Bailey paid from $7 to $7.25 a cwt. for a load of choice handyweight butchers on Monday. Harry McCrae paid ..6.30 a cwt. for a bunch of good butchers' heifers to-day and his estimate was that these were 30 cents a cwt. higher than Monday. The general run of butchers were anywhere from 15 to 30 cents a cwt. higher than last Thursday. A number of baby beeves sold this morning, but the quality was none too good. The top for these was 8 cents, and some poor ones sold at 7 cents. Salesmen were off the market at eleven o'clock, with practically evertyhing sold.

The Buffalo calf market has dropped from 17 cents to 14½ cents for top calves, and this is reflected in this market. Tops here are not now worth above 13 cents, and dealers think the trend will be seasonably downward. Good medium calves are selling at 10 cents and the coarse heavy not above 8 cents.

Lambs have fallen off in demand, and nothing but really choice decks will call for much over 13½ cents. A light offering of good handyweight sheep serves to keep this market at 7½ to 8 cents a pound. A bunch of stale lambs sold this morning at 13 cents.

Monday's hogs as the early market indicated went at $7.50 a cwt. f.o.b., and this was thought would prove the ruling price today, through the packers refused to make their firm bid at this level.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5. — Stimulated largely by advancing quotations at Liverpool, and by considerable purchasing of future deliveries here on foreign account, wheat to-day reached new high price records for the season. Profit taking sales eased the wheat market down later. Wheat was unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-8c higher, May $1.12½ to $1.12 1-2 and 5-8; and July $1.11¼ to $1.11 3-8. Corn finished 3-4c to 1c up; oats a shade to 1-4c advance, and provisions with gains of 5c to 15c.

Nearly complete lack of selling pressure until near the end of the day was partly responsible for the upturn in wheat values.

CHICAGO CATTLE.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5. — Cattle receipts 8,000; few desirable beef-steers and yearlings on shipping account strong; other kinds very uneven, around steady; one load 1600 pound steers, $11; general kind at $10 and above; scarce; best yearlings $10.25; bulk fed steers, $7.75 and $9.50; fat stock canners, cutters and bulls, around steady; bulk fat cows, $4 to $5.75; heifers mostly $5.25 to $7.50; bulk canners and cutters $2.60 to $3.40; bologna bulls mostly plain kind at 4.50 to 4.85; vealers to packers unevenly 50c higher; bulk 10.50 and 11.00, few at 11.00 and above; little done on stockers and feeders.

"Lakefield, Feb. 4, 1924.

"Dear Miss Gordon,—

"It gives us great pleasure to gather in your home this afternoon on the occasion of your 94th birthday to wish you the old, old wish of "Many happy returns of the day." Truly, God has blessed you, with long life and abundant health; and although you have seen many changes, of this thing we are confident, that you have found Him through all the years to be the "Never-Changing One" and the "Ever-Present One."

"Please accept these flowers with our prayers that in the coming years His continued blessing and health may rest upon you.

Coupled with you in our prayers, we name your sister, Miss Sarah Gordon.

"Yours lovingly,

"THE LADIES OF THE BAPTIST CHURCH."

Miss Gordon was taken by surprise, but responded in her usual pleasant manner. The ladies spent a social hour, during which Miss Nicholls sang a solo, and also a duet with Rev. T. L. White. Before leaving the house the ladies all joined in singing, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Miss Gordon is one of the oldest residents in the village and the oldest member of the Lakefield Baptist Church, and is held in the highest respect in the community, which unites in giving her good wishes on the happy occasion. Miss Gordon is active and accomplishes a great deal of work in spite of her advanced age. Several pieces of her needlework received prizes at the Fall Fair last September. She resides with her sister and a neice, Miss Shields. Mrs. James Hendren and Mrs. W. E. Gillman are also neices, and Miss Down of Douro a grand-neice.

FOX HUNTING IS A POPULAR SPORT.

English Pastime Remains Despite Changes of Government and Nations.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—(Associated Press).—Governments may come and Governments may go, but the old English pastime of fox-hunting will go on forever.

If this opinion is not shared by the majority of farmers in Britain over whose lands the hunters ride, it is by Lord Hillingdon, master of the Grafton Hunt, for speaking at the annual meeting of the Hunt, the noble lord said: "Whatever Government comes into power I have a feeling that we shall carry on fox-hunting somehow."

The present season of fox-hunting here has not gone at all smoothly from the point of view of the chassers, for they have been debarred from crossing lands on which the foot and mouth disease has broken out. Consequently sport has been greatly curtailed, and the number of hunting days considerably reduced.

PROPOSED NEW JEWISH STATE IN S. RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Feb. 6. — (United Press).—An autonomous Jewish state in southern Russia, with Odessa as its capitol is being agitated by the general committee of the Communist party. As planned, the state will cover half a million acres and will contain three cities aside from Odessa. Five million dollars is said to be available to start the experiment.

The plan is said to be strongly favored by Rakovsky, Chickerin and Lunacharsky. None of these are Jews. It is said that one of the three will be named president of the committee in charge of the foundation.

RED CROSS HELPED BELGIUM

BRUSSELS, Feb 6.—(Associated Press).—A total of 101,850 persons died in Belgium during 1923, or 13.7 deaths to each thousand inhabitants, as compared with 25.5 in 1830.

Official statistics say that hygienic measures inaugurated during and after the war, prominent in the application and of which were the members of the American Red Cross, have been largely responsible for bringing down the death rate.

The present authorized strength of the United States marine corps is 1,093 officers, 114 warrant officers and 27,400 enlisted men.

FAIRY SOAP

ANCIENT THEBES BARED AS RENO OF THE NILE

Divorces Easy in Days of Pharaohs--Even Alimony Arranged Before Wedding — Ancient Papyri Reveal Scandals.

Divorces were quite the thing way back in 283 B. C. Indeed ancient Thebes, through recent discoveries just revealed, stands out as the Reno of the Nile.

So far advanced were the women of the Nile in their ideas, these records reveal, that some even provided legally for alimony and divorce should their marriages prove a failure.

How the Theban women protected their rights and some of the scandal of the hectic life of the era before Christ is revealed in some 50 rolls of ancient papyri found buried in two large sealed jars under the debris in the corner of a room in one of the tombs near the city. These rolls contain the records of one family from 317 B. C. to 217 B. C.

These jars, apparently, served the ancients as a safe deposit box. They were found by Dr. Clarence S. Fisher, director of the University of Pennsylvania expedition to Thebes.

Scandals Hidden.

The divorce paper, written in ancient Egyptian demotic characters, was issued by a man named Amenhotep, who divorced his wife, Tahapy. Not a bit of the reason for the divorce is disclosed. If Tahapy was shrewish, Amenhotep kindly kept the fact from the world; if she had been guilty of indiscretions, he charitably hid the scandal from the prying eyes of Thebes; if he merely tired of her and wished to try another wife, the fact he prudently kept to himself. Here is the reading of the paper, as translated at the University of Pennsylvania Museums.

In the year of Tybi of the Pharaoh Ptolemy, son of Ptolemy. The shrine opener of Amenopi in the west of Ne (the ancient name for Thebes). Amenhotep, son of Pathot, his mother being Tamety, hath declared unto the woman Tahapy, daughter of Pekrur, her mother being Tausir:

I have abandoned thee as wife. I am removed from thee in the right of a wife. I have said unto thee "make for thyself a husband. I shall not be able to stand before thee in any house to which thou shalt go . . . I have not claim on earth against thee in account of a wife from today onwards; instantly, without delay and without a blow."

Written by (the notary) Tut, son of Esmin.

The names of four witnesses appear on the back of the divorce papyrus. Each was signed by a different person, as the chirography is plainly different, showing that in Egypt nearly everyone, except the lower class, could read and write.

An Alimony Pledge.

How the women provided against divorce in case of a marriage failure, is revealed in a marriage contract providing for alimony should the wife be abdoned by the husband. This document, writ dated 224 B. C., says in part:

Pekhot, son of Panefar, his mother being Tkalhib hath declared unto the woman Tybe, daughter of Zeho, her mother being Taamun:

"I have made thee wife.

"I have given unto thee one piece of silver, i. e., five staters, i. e., one piece of silver again, as thy bridal gift. And I will give to thee six measures of wheat, i. e., their half being three measures of wheat, i. e., six measures of wheat daily; twenty-four hin measures of oil each year and food and clothing yearly.

"Thou hast the right to take surety for the arrears of thy food and clothing which shall be owing from me, and I will give them to thee.

"Thy eldest son, who is my eldest son, amongst the children thou shalt bear to me, is the owner of all of everything that belongs to me, and that I shall acquire.

"If I abandon thee as wife, and hate thee, and love another woman than thee, I will give thee five pieces of silver, i. e., 25 staters, i. e., five pieces of silver again, besides this one piece of silver which is mentioned above, that I have given to thee as thy bridal gift, making in all six pieces of silver."

Father-in-law took a hand in cementing the marriage contract, as is shown in a sort of codicil as follows:

Receive the document from the hand of Pekhot, son of Panfer, my eldest son, who is mentioned above, to cause him to act according to each word which is written above. My heart agreeth to it.

The stating of the amount of money and grain in several different ways is the way in which the ancient Egyptian protected himself against any changing in the document, even as the modern business man puts his checks through a check protector. Describing this, Dr. Nathaniel Reich, expert in Egyptian at the museum, says:

"An interesting device was used by writers to make sure that sums of money in legal documents were not changed or obliterated. Instead of noting a sum first in writing and then in figures as is done today, Egyptians gave the amount in writing and then gave its equivalent in different denominations. For example, in modern language, they would say: The sum of $1, or four quarters or 20 nickels."

Women in ancient Egypt had equal rights with men, Dr. Reich explained. "Archeologists," he said, "have found marriage contracts drawn up by women instead of men. In them women state how financial matters are to be arranged after the wedding."

CLUB BAG GIFT OF LADIES' AID

Presented to Miss Lila Parsons of Omemee In Recognition of Her Faithful Services In Methodist Church Work

OMEMEE, Feb. 6.—In response to an invitation to the choir of the Methodist Church given by the Ladies 'Aid for Friday night last "to come and bring a friend", a jolly crowd of young people gathered in the church parlours where they were banquetted and entertained by this tireless body of church workers in a right royal fashion. Various games and competitions were heartily enjoyed. Games new and novel followed in quick succession so that when a number of young people were called forward, then blindfolded and given chairs on the platform, all wondered what was coming next. The blinds were removed and the following address was read by Mrs. J. Shields to Miss Lila Parsons:

Dear Miss Parsons—

We, the members of the Ladies' Aid, have assembled here this evening to show our appreciation of the splendid work which is being done by the choir. We do not realize until we stop to consider how valuable a contribution you and your associates make from Sabbath to Sabbath to the interest and inspiration of the services. Who can tabulate the number of souls that have been born into the kingdom through the instrumentality of song. It is still God's good messenger of reconciliation to men, where there is good singing the congregation is built up and held. How necessary then it is to have a choir in which there is harmony and where all the members take their work seriously, for on them depends largely the success or failure of the service. The church must be saved from a negative programme and it is felt strongly that a live interested band of singers behind the minister will save us from staleness.

If in view of what has bn said, many claims must be pressed as touching a wise and capable leader, we feel sincerely that you, Miss Parsons, answer the need. The church has watched with thankfulness your devotion and ability as choir leader and we feel that this great department is safe in your hands. Of course there have been times of discouragement and in the future difficulties will be in the way but that you may know that you are not alon we pledge you and the other members our support. We sincerely trust that members of the congregation who are talented in music will not hesitate to offer their services freely so that the organization of which you are the head may always be at full strength.

As a mark of appreciation the ladies aid beg you to accept this club bag and be assured that although empty it is full of good wishes from all.

Signed on behalf of the Ladies' Aid,

MRS. WM. HENDERSON
MRS. WM. EARLE.

The surprise to Miss Parsons was complete, but rising to the occasion she expressed her thanks for this practical tribute of appreciation, stating that without the co-operation of her co-workers in the choir, her efforts would be in vain.

Following the hearty singing of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow," all sat down to a sumptuous banquet.

Several short speeches of appreciation to the ladies followed, which were ably responded to by the President, Mrs. Henderson. Then all formed one huge circle and, with crossed hands, sang heartily "Auld Lang Syne," followed by the National Anthem, thus ending another memorable event in the annals of the choir and the Ladies' Aid.

A.Y.P.A. Debate.

The main feature of attraction at the A. Y. P. A. on Monday evening was a Cambridge debate. Sides were chosen, and the subject, "Resolved that reading is of more educational value than travel," was decided on. No preliminary preparation was allowed either side and much fun ensued. After careful consideration, the judges gave their decision in favor of the negative.

FORTUNE GONE, VAGRANT AGAIN.

But Aged Vagabond Feels More Natural As He Shuffles Into the Police Station.

DENVER, Feb. 6.—"Easy come—easy go!"

Desk Sergeant Barney Tierney looked up from his work at police headquarters as he heard the words. Before him stood an elderly man, short, and slight of build.

"William A. P. Skull, well I'll be—! What? You back again?"

"Yes, back again," the man replied. "Can I have a bed?"

A whimsical, discouraged smile played about the face of William A. P. Skull, for five years known as king of Denver's vagrants, pioneer resident of Colorado, ex-undertaker, ex-auctioneer. His eyes dropped, and his head lowered in chagrin under the gaze of the police sergeant, for just one year ago William A. P. Skull inherited $10,000 through the death of a sister, inherited it at a time when he was serving 30 days in the county jail in default of a $60 fine for vagrancy.

Another question from Sergeant Tierney—and the story come out.

Lawyers got Some

"It wasn't quite $10,000 I got after my sister, Fannie Fillmore, died back in Williamsport, Pa.," Skull related. "It wasn't quite all that, after the lawyers got their fees and the legalities were straightened out. I was in jail when my sons in Sterling Colo., told Jim Goodheart that I had inherited some money, and Jim paid the fine and got me out.

"I took the money and went back to Sterling—that was my old home you know. I thought I would go back in the undertaking business, but there is one undertaker already out there, and I decided the business wouldn't be any good. So I just lived along.

"I bought some new clothes an so on, but, well I—I just don't seem to know how to keep money—and I'm down and out again.'

Standing before the desk Sergeant Skull was dressed in a natty gray suit—but on his head was the same dilapidated derby hat he wore when City Chaplain Jim Goodheart manipulated the necessary law machinery to free him back in 1922 when he changed from a vagrant who had been jailed 50 times in five years to a man with a small fortune, his share of a $30,000 estate left by his sister.

Went through Fortunes

Skull is 69 years old. Born in Pennsylvania, he came to Colorado when a youth, and was one of the pioneers of Sterling. At one time he amassed a small fortune through his successful business enterprises but his wife died, he became indolent and drifted to Denver.

He has two sons, Delroy Skull and H. Eugene Skull, both well-to-do-business men of Sterling, both of them ever willing to care for their aged father—but he prefers to walk the streets of Denver, and when the last dime is gone, to wander down to police headquarters and give himself up as a "vag."

Sergeant Tierney gave Skull a sleeper's ticket for the municipal lodging house—and warned him that he will have to show some visible means of support in the next few days, or his name will again he entered on the police books and there will be another 30-day sentence

A BANDIT'S AID AT $4 A NIGHT.

Boy, Tired of Counting Bolts in Detroit Factory, Glad of Job As Robber's Helper.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 6.—William Carson, 19 years old, got tired of counting bolts in a Detroit automobile factory, so he came to Minneapolis and turned "burglar's helper" at $4 a night.

This was the amazing confession of William Carson, who was captured by police when four patrolmen caught him with Peter C. Johnson in a dark basement. Johnson was killed, his head being blown off by the discharge of a sawed-off shot gun in the hands of an officer.

Carson, an undersized, colorless boy, who is afraid of guns, accompanied police around town today in an effort to locate the 15 places he says he and Johnson burglarized.

In his cell at police station, the boy told how he had "hired out" to Johnson to be a robber at $4 a night, glad to do his part in the crimes for a place to eat and sleep.

Tired of Counting Bolts.

In the six weeks that he "worked" the boy admitted that he averaged only about $10 a week. In the six week she actually worked only 15 nights. Now he faces 10 years in prison.

"I was born in Detroit, I guess," he said in a dull monotone. "I never saw my father and my mother killed herself when I was 11 years old. I worked for an automobile company in Detroit once. I was going to learn a trade. I counted bolts until I got tired of it and quit.

"I came into Minneapolis from the West and I was wandering around down near the station someplace and I was broke and hungry. I saw a man and I asked him for some money to eat on, and he gave me a quarter. Then he asked me if I wanted to make some money, and I said, 'Sure.'

"We went up a hill and found a grocery store. This man kicked in the door, and we went in and got $2 in pennies from the till and some cigarettes and cookies. I ate the cookies.

"Well, after that I used to meet him and we would go out to some place he had picked out and get in. Sometimes he had me get in first and look it over before he came in.

"I didn't know his name. I told him my name was Carson, and he said, "That's funny; my name is Carson, too.' So I called him Bill and he called me Billy.

Afraid of Guns.

"I never had anything to do with guns, and he made fun of me because I was scared of them. I never did have a gun.

"But he said if there was anything doing with police to get out of the way and he would take care of them, although he said if a policeman met us I was to go ahead and if he stopped Bill to sneak up and hit him with the pinchbar. I said I wouldn't hit anybody in the back of the head.

"I guess we got into 12 or 15 places, but all I got was $4 or so every time. I didn't have anything to say about the money.

"I figured I was working for Bill and I was eating and sleeping, so I didn't worry much."

SITE OF ANCIENT CITY SURVEYED BY AVIATOR

PEKING, Feb. 6.—(Associated Press).—Following the example of investigators who recently added to their knowledge of Stonehenge, by viewing the stie from the air, Carl Bishop, of the Smithsonian Institution, has made an aerial survey of the remains of an ancient city located near the present town of I-Chow, 60 miles southwest of Peking.

This place, according to Bishop, was the stie of a city of considerable importance antedating authentic history, which later became known as Yen, capital of the kingdom of that name, and which was burned by Chin Shihwang in 222 B.C.

There are 30 mounds traceable which Bishop designates as burial places, while others of greater dimensions he believes to be sites of temples and public buildings.

98 OUT OF EVERY 100 WOMEN BENEFITED

An Absolutely Reliable Statement Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Canvass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. 50,000 Women Answer

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

Replies, to date, have been received from over 50,000 women answering that question.

98 per cent of which say YES. That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it.

Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100.

Did you ever hear anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit the large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing.

It only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure all—one that is made by the most scientific process; not from drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions.

You see, we have been making, improving and refining this medicine for over 50 years until it is so perfect and so well adapted to women's needs that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it.

Its reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in almost every country in the world—leading all others.

Such evidence should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98. The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario.

HATS HAVE SOULS SO HAVE WEARERS.

On This Basis the Women Are Building Up Unique Buying Business For the Milliners.

By MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Perhaps you didn't know a hat has a soul.

That may be because you never met Anne Rowell of New York, Paris, London and any old place where women have heads and keep hats on them.

She claims it was this discovery of hers that raised her within five years from shop girl in a San Francisco millinery store to buyer for more than 50 wholesale millinery houses.

She goes to Europe and follows up every trail that leads to a hat—the shops, streets, theatres, churches and even the little remote towns where the peasants make their own styles.

On her return she puts her hats on display in her hat salons and invites the wholesalers to call one at a time with their designers and their selling force. She gives them all a talk, and lets them copy ten of her hats. By the time 50 customers of her style syndicate have seen her ideas it is time to make another trip to Europe.

"It's a pleasure," she smiles, "and very easy to get these ideas—all because I see the soul of the hat. Most buyers see the price tag or the new trimming only.

"I keep my eyes open to the beauty in every form of adornment. I have no interest in flowers or quills except as they contribute to beauty. Besides, looking for the soul of the hat and the instinctive thing which makes it what is, I think of the American women who are to wear my hats and try to bring about a beautiful balance between them. This is the only talent I have and I am trying to make the most of it."

It is her fixed conviction that hats should be individual always, that since no two faces are ever exactly alike, neither should two hats ever be identical.

ARRESTED AS DESERTER AFTER NINE YEARS

PARIS, Feb. 6.—(United Press).—After hiding in his own home for nine years, Jules Raiset, aged 43, an army deserter, has been arrested. Raiset was mobilized in 1914 and served war a short time with the 37ist Infantry, and disappeared when his company was on the Alsacian front. He made his way to his home, which was isolated on the edge of the village [illegible] near Belfort, and lived there with his wife and two children. He kept indoors all day, and slipped out only at night to work in the fields. After the Armisitce Mme. Raiset obtained a pension as a widow. Raiset was denounced by neighbors, whose curiosity was aroused by the mystery man who worked only at night.

MOTHERS' DREAMS FOR SHOW CAREER.

In the Stories of Mothers Living Their Ambitions Over Again There Runs a Moving Parallel.

By GEORGE BRITT.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—The fate which snatched a thirsted-for cup from the lips of two women years ago now is serving it back to them—a sweeter draught—for their own daughters to drink.

So it has come about that whenever either Claudia Muzio or Florence Macbeth is singing in the opera here there stands in the wings the singer's dark-gowned, silent mother, listening joyfully to her voice.

Madame Muzio, one of the mothers, came of a musical family and gave promise of winning an operatic career as a girl in Italy. Then it became necessary to have an operation on her throat. She never sang again.

Mrs. Macbeth was a singer as a girl, too. It was in the harsh stern west of a generation ago, where her father had gone for his health, and the girl's voice received no advanced training. She appeared in village concerts and choirs, then "married and settled down."

In the stories of these mothers, living their ambitions over again in their daughters, there runs a moving parallel.

"Even before Florence was born, I hoped she would be a singer. She started singing just about as soon as she could talk," Mrs. Macbeth explains.

"She and I have worked and studied together all her life to develop that impulse. In all her life she has sung in public only once when I was not present.

"I am as busy in her dressing-room as her maid, and she knows I am beside her when she is on the stage. Yet I try to leave her free and to be only helpful."

Miss Muzio likewise has sung only once without her mother in the wings, and her mother then was in a dressing-room recovering from a fall.

The Italian star was brought up in the atmosphere of opera. Her mother was her first teacher. Her father was stage manager at Covent Garden, London; the Metropolitan in New York, and in Chicago. Madame Muzio still plays all accompaniments for her singing exercises.

FAKE BILLS UNLOADED ON MONEY BOOTLEGGERS

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—(Associated Press).—Bogus money has become very common in Germany since the decline of the mark and the passage of financial transactions out of regular banks into the hands of money-bootleggers.

A number of one-dollar bills which have been raised to $100-bills have turned up in Berlin. They are said to be similar to raised bills which have appeared in Russia. There are also many counterfeit one-pound notes in circulation.

It is relatively easy for forgers to float bad paper today, for the street corner bankers are not as yet very expert in detecting counterfeits.

THIS MAN TELLS YOU HOW TO KEEP FIT!

Bear River, N.S.—"My back was so bad I could hardly work. I was always tired out and had no ambition; was nervous and dizzy, and everything seemed to worry me. I also had terrible pains in my right side. I felt badly for about eighteen months, and could not do my work as is should have been done. I tried several doctors, and also bought about $25.00 worth of put up medicines, but I found no relief until I took Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Doctor Pierce's Anuric (anti-uric-acid) Tablets. I have taken two bottles of the Discovery and four of the Anuric Tablets, and can say that I feel as well as I have felt for the last ten years. I advise any sufferer to give Dr. Pierce's remedies a fair trial. JOB DEPARTMENT

COLLEGIATE IS AGAIN SUBJECT TO BAD REPORT

Inspector's Report to Department of Education Laments Policy of Procrastination -- Meeting Called.

GENERAL BUSINESS

The Board of Education last night disposed of a big slate of business, hearing several annual reports and disposing of many communications.

The question of Collegiate accommodation was brought before the board again in the report returned to the Department of Education in which Inspector J. A. Houston remarked on the P. C. I. as follows: "There has been no change since my last visit and conditions have not improved. There is need at the present moment for another teacher and another class in the commercial department and an increase will be needed in the academic school.

"The policy of procrastination will get nowhere. The board are perfectly aware of the conditions and I shall withhold grading at present pending action on the part of the board to provide what their school requires."

Mr. Houston congratulated the board on the fact that there has not been a change in the staff since his last visit. "Excellent work," he said, "is being done in all departments."

"Conditions are practically unchanged," the inspector writes under the heading of general remarks.

"There is no visible evidence of anything having been done to relieve the situation. The board have not even decided what their policy is to be regarding academic and vocational classes. I was shown sketches of a combined vocational-academic addition which seemed to meet the requirements but this was still in the committee stage."

"Should Get Busy"

Mr. McKone said the board should get busy and do something in the matter. He suggested calling a meeting this month to formulate a policy.

The chairman thought the first step should be taken by the advisory vocational committee, and Mrs. Morris agreed to call a meeting of that committee immediately.

The Board of Education will meet on February 26 to discuss the report of the inspector.

"Hazle Brae" Offered

An offer was received from the manager of the Barnardo Homes to sell "Hazle Brae" to the Board of Education for the purposes of extending collegiate accommodation.

National lictures

The National Chapter, I. O. D. E., expressed the desire to present to Peterboro' 36 national pictures, ten to the separate schools and 26 to the schools under the Board of Education. These are apportioned according to the number of class-rooms.

On motion of Mr. McKone the letter will be acknowledged and the offer accepted. The Board of Education will co-operate with the I. O. D. E. in placing the pictures.

School Rinks

A committee from Mayor J. J. Turner asked whether the Board of Education would co-operate with the Board of Works in providing open-air skating rinks on school grounds in the west and south wards.

On motion of Dr. Neal and J. A. McKone the property committee was given power to act with the Board of Works in carrying out the Mayor's suggestion.

Mr. McKone suggested it might not be too late this year to provide rinks at the school grounds.

Two children were absent because of having no boots and one had no clothes, but these have been supplied by the Home and School Association.

Committee Reports

Mrs. Kate Morris reported for the Advisory Vocational Committee that $2,200 will be required for conducting the work of the vocational classes in 1924.

Alfred Heather Recital

By JEANNETTE.

The initial appearance in Peterborough of Alfred Heather, the celebrated English tenor, who appeared in a song recital at the Conservatory of Music Hall last evening, under the auspices of the Conservatory of Music Teachers' Association, was marked by a splendid attendance of the music lovers of the city, who filled the big hall comfortably, and listened with intent appreciation to the music of the visiting singer.

Mr. Heather's voice is of the tenore robusto order, strong, powerful, clear, of massive golden quality, a liquid, sonorous resonance in its flowing melody. He has the beautiful, clear enunciation that marks most of the English vocalists, and sings with absolute ease and assurance, with an admirable style and delivery. The dignity that is an outstanding phase of his singing gives one the impression that he would be at his best in oratorio, singing under some vast dome, with an organ accompaniment. Mr. Heather's rigid adherence to technical rules and a certain lack of individuality in rendition are doubtless due to his long years of work in oratorio and church music, giving his music an allusion of mechanical perfection that subordinates sentiment and temperament to technique.

It is not a "heart" voice, as a tenor is supposed to be. It is more on the order of an intellectual organ, directed and tempered always by the trained mentality of the user. In the broad dignity of the "Narrator" in Lohengrin, he excelled, the recitative flowing forth with golden, majestic force, but the longing of the poet Burns in "Ae Fond Kiss" was descernible only in the words. The voice of the singer flowed from a calm mind, unattuned, evidently, to the temperamental sentiment of the remorseful lover.

Mr. Heather's programme was a difficult one, making many demands on the essentials of technique. He might have chosen songs that would have been more likeable, but none that would exploit more fully the breadth of his intelligent muse. His final number was one of his best. Coming back after a tumultuous encore to his group of traditional songs, he sang in Italian Canio's song from "I Pagliacci," the famous Caruso number, with a force and vigor and a wonderful forward resonance of tone that left a strong impression on the minds of his departing hearers.

Applause followed also the artistic "Narration" by Lohengrin, the impressive interlude in Wagner's opera where the lordly son of Parsifal relates the glories of his home, Monsalvat, and speaks of the Holy Grail.

Beautiful, too, was the dramatic singing in Italian of Beethoven's immortal love song from the cantata, "Adelaida," and two of Handel's songs were the melodious "Where'er You Walk" and "Rend'il Sereno," from the opera "Sosarme," one of the little-known of the great composer's works.

A habit that detracted slightly from the attraction of Mr. Heathers work was his occasional use of notes, and there was a monotony of melody in several of his numbers that brought into prominence the singer's use of "portamento," the gliding cadence that was noticeable in his treatment of many of his numbers, and that makes considerable demands on the technical equipment of a vocalist. The rendition of Henry Purcell's "I Attempt From Love's Sickness to Fly" was a noticeable example also, of the repetition of words and melody which marks much of the older music that formed the majority of Mr. Heather's offerings. The art of the singer is manifested to as great an extent in these songs, but their recurrent monody is apt to pall unless the programme is interspersed with a brighter type of song. The only occasion when the singer departed from a consistently uniform interpretation of somewhat declamatory music was in a brief interval, when he gave two little Irish songs, the jaunty "Trotting to the Fair" and the swift-tempo'd lament of the broguish, deserted lover in "Molly Brannigan."

Other folk songs that appealed were the Scotch "Green Grow the Rashes, O"; two old English numbers, "Sigh No More, Ladies" and "Sally In Our Alley," and the bracing music of the popular "Sonntag," in the Brahms suite. Other brief bits of the same composer were 'Like' the Vine," "To Thee My Love" and "A Sonnet," the latter a well-rendered short example of the somewhat ascetic music of Brahms.

As an encore to Lohengrin's "Narration," the singer gave "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes." Two descriptive pieces were in the odd, cameo-like music of Hugh Wolf, the ironic spirit of the composer echoing in his picturesque "Come Mary," with the tired voice of Joseph speaking to the Blessed Virgin on their way to Bethlehem, the accompaniment carried out in distinctive thirds in the right hand. The second Wolf number was "A Picture," which brought the singer back for a repetition of the peculiar brief etched bit, delineating the Divine Child at His mother's knee, playing in peace, while the tragic shadow of the cross looms in the background. The dramatic voice of the singer made these two songs weirdly impressive.

Mr. Richard Tattersall of Toronto, organist of Old St. Andrew's Church, at the piano, made a proficient and very satisfactory accompanist, giving to the singer the attention and sympathetic instrumental background suitable to the vocalist's cultured and dignified type of interpretation. The art of the accompanist was particularly noticeable in the music of "Adelaide," and the refrain for "A Picture," the quality of an elegy in the music making a fitting atmosphere for the mournful, distinctively tragic words.

At the conclusion of the programme last evening, Mr. Heather and Mr. Tattersall were entertained by the teachers of the Conservatory, Mrs. W. McKee-Bingham acting as hostess, assisted by Miss Cameron Edwards.

LONDON, Feb. 6. — A lady of the nobility was fined $50 in Marlebone Police Court here the other day for shoplifting.

A woman detective testified she had seen the lady slip three pieces of ribbon, a needle case and a bottle of perfume in her bag while in a department store.

The defendant declared she had picked up the articles and intended to pay for them later, but becoming hungry, went out to luncheon before she went to the cashier's desk.

But her alibi made no impression upon the magistrate.

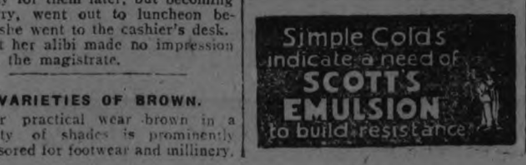
TROUSERS COME HIGH.

PORTLAND, Dorset, Eng., Feb. 6.—The urban district council here is trying to figure out whether it's cheaper to buy the lamp-lighters new trousers or new igniters.

Recently, it's had to foot the bills for several new pairs of pants. The men tore them in climbing the posts.

The new igniters would make it possible for them to light the wicks from the ground, the workers declare.



ANNUAL REPORTS TO THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

PUBLIC SCHOOL REPORT

Mr. Mowat's annual report showed the increase in attendance of pupils during 1923 was slight. The total enrolled attendance for the year was 3,533 as compared with 3,477 for 1922.

The regularity of attendance was seriously affected during the winter months but it was exceptionally good during the fall term.

The number of pupils enrolled at the different schools was as follows:

Prince of Wales	716
Central	646
King Edward	590
Queen Mary	565
King George	482
Queen Alexandra	448
South Central	86

The chief increase was at the King Edward School.

The chief increase was at the King Edward School.

Accomodation and Equipment

No new classrooms were opened during 1923 and the number of pupils per teacher is not excessive except in the King Edward School. Some modification of territory in this district will overcome the difficulty.

Repairs and improvements of the school buildings have received careful attention and everything possible has been done for the comfort of the pupils.

The Teaching Staff

The staff now consists of 78 regular class teachers, 2 special teachers and 2 supervisors. All are duly qualified.

During the year, the Board lost the services of Mr. Downey, Misses Welsh, Scott, Runnings and Thomlinson—the last three being released on leave of absence. Their places were filled by Misses Huffman, McNevan, Buckam, Nelson and Mr. Langford.

A good spirit pervades the different schools.

Progress of the Pupils

The most encouraging feature of school work is the progress made by the pupils.

The number of pupils in each grade shows that the brighter ones are being advanced according to their ability, and are not being seriously retarded by their slower companions. These numbers are:

The Kindergarten	362
The Primer	596
The First Book	480
The Second Book	618
The Third Book	677
The Fourth Book	800

The Entrance examination results were exceptionally gratifying. Out of 193 candidates from the public schools who tried, 187 were successful. The Entrance examination is not a satisfactory test of fitness to do High School work. Of those who passed, several were not recommended by their Principals.

Mental development and passing examinations is not the sole aim of our schools. First place is given to development of character and by training the boys and girls to live happily together and to respect one another as well as having respect for authority a good foundation is being laid for citizenship.

The Auxiliary Class

The Auxiliary Class has more than met all expectations. The varied programme of work and study appeals to all. A number of the pupils have made such progress that it was possible to have them return to their regular classes.

As was reported by the Provincial Inspector, the success of the work is largely due to Miss Bonnycastle, the teacher in charge.

The Adolescent Act

The complete enforcement of the Adolescent Act was not attempted but all adolescents between the ages of 14 and 16 are either at work or in attendance at school.

During the year the Attendance Officer granted 94 permits to adolescents. Of this number nine have attained the age of 16, so that at present 85 adolescents are working on permits. Of this number only ten entered upon apprenticeships in skilled labor.

The Cost of Education

The cost of public school education in Peterborough while high, compares favorably with the cost in other Ontario cities.

Not including any expenditures on capital account, I find that it cost $44.38 to educate each enrolled pupil in the schools for the year 1923.

Manual Training and Household Science

Sewing is taught the girls throughout the grades from the Junior 2nd to the Senior 3rd for one-half hour period each week. The teaching is done by the grade teachers, under the supervision of Miss Moffatt.

The girls of the Junior and Senior 4th grades have sewing for one and a half hours a week during four months of the year. Miss Ryley has charge of this work.

The girls of the Junior and Senior 4th grades have cooking lessons also. In these lessons the aim is to give a practical knowledge of the proper manipulation of tools, planning to save time, labor, etc., and the cooking of the most commonly used foods.

The boys of the Junior and Senior 4th grades receive instruction in Manual Training. The work trains the pupils' hands and eyes, gives them a knowledge of tools, and links up the activities of the home with the work of the school. It serves, too, to develop a sympathy with manual occupations.

During the year the boys erected a bicycle shed at the Prince of Wales school in addition to their regular work.

The Reading Habit

One of the most encouraging features of the school work during the year was the interest taken by the teachers in assisting the pupils to form the reading habit.

English is the foundation of all public school education and by means of Supplementary Readers, it is now possible for the intermediate and senior pupils to read each year from four to ten books under the direct supervision of the teacher.

The Board last year made a grant of $200.00 for supplementary readers. A similar grant this year will enable the junior pupils to enjoy the same privilege as the older ones. These readers last from five to ten years according to binding.

Reports from the special departments are attached hereto.

MUSIC AND ART

Miss M. R. Rannie reported that work in music is being carried on quite successfully by the majority of the teachers in the city. She remarked on the provision by the Board of gramaphones which she declares give pleasure to the children and are of educational value.

Miss Jessie C. McRae, supervisor of Art, reported encouraging progress in her work.

During the year an effort was made to correlate the work in Art with sewing, the girls making their own designs for the decoration of aprons, doilies, etc.

DENTAL REPORT

Dr. J. Green, school dental officer, presented his first annual report. He found that a large percentage of the pupils required dental attention and that an educational campaign was needed to get the pupils to take care of their teeth.

Since March 1, 1923, 2,855 pupils were examined, and of these 88.9 per cent needed dental attention. Defect slips were sent to the parents and during the summer holidays a fair percentage of the pupils received attention from their family dentists.

At the end of December Dr. Green had made the following fillings: Silver, 354; cement, 54; coff. am., 38; porcelain, 30; cleaning, 6. There were 19 permanent extractions and 272 temporary.

NOW YOU MAY TRY THIS VEGETABLE SYRUP FREE

Now is Your Chance to Prove That Toning Up Your Liver Will End That Tired, Run-Down Feeling. Build Yourself Up! Win Back Sound Digestion, Strength and Energy—Feel Your Very Best Again!

In his private practice Dr. H. S. Thatcher demonstrated that such symptoms as Indigestion, Gas on a Sour Stomach, Belching, Dizziness, Colds that Hang On, Sick-Headaches, Constipation, that Tired Feeling, and a general Run-Down condition of the System are often the result of a Sluggish Liver—and that relief in such cases comes quickly when the Liver is properly Cleansed and Toned and the System is working normally again.

Why This Gives Relief.

When working as Nature intended your Liver does three things necessary to keep you feeling your best. First, it purifies your BLOOD, every drop of which passes through the Liver every fifteen minutes. Second, your Liver furnishes the essences that are essential to perfect DIGESTION. Third, your Liver supplies the secretions Nature uses to lubricate your intestines so that your Bowels can move naturally, gently, and regularly every day. When your Liver becomes sluggish it cannot do these three things; consequently, you suffer from one or more of the symptoms described above.

Share It With Family!

Just to prove to you that you CAN get quick RELIEF, druggists are giving away FREE liberal trial size bottles of Dr. Thatcher's Liver and Blood Syrup. It is a Syrup of PURELY VEGETABLE ingredients known to Physicians for their CORRECTIVE and HEALTH-BUILDING properties. WANTS FAIR PLAY FOR THE FARMERS

M.P. For Bvome County Demands Equal Rights For Everyone — Flays Protection.

MONTREAL, Feb. 6.—(Canadian Press).—"Equal rights for everyone and special privileges for no one, that is my idea," said Andrew McMaster, M.P. for Brome County, in the course of an address before the United Farmers of Quebec at their sixth annual convention here last night. Mr. McMaster flayed protection in fiscal matters and urged that the farmer be given fair play, since the prosperity of the country, he declared, depended on agriculture. "I believe," he said, "that our manufacturers would be wise if they took into account the sentiments of the agricultural class throughout Canada. Perhaps if they do not do so, if they insist, with the powers they have—and they have great power, press and men of high social standing—we must remind them that special privileges cannot always last in a country like this."

Mr. McMaster said that it was useless to talk of protection for the formers of Canada, so long as they were producing three times the quantity of wheat that they consumed, and so long as they exported eigthy per cent of the cheese they made. He deprecated what he described as the disappearance of competition in industry in Canada, and said that although "Infant industries" which were to be protected only until they became strong, acording to early protectionists, had now grown up, they were still receiving subsidies in the form of a protective tariff.

Omemee Power Cheaper Surplus in the Treasury

Gratifying Financial Report at Annual Meeting of Village Hydro-Electric Commission—T. C. Ivory Elected Chairman--Lumber Camp in Cavan.

OMEMEE, Feb. 6.—The annual meeting of the Omemee Hydro-electric Commission was held on Friday evening, February 1st, in the office of the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. W. H. Kennedy.

The members present were: T. C. Ivory, Reeve W. D. Stinson, J. T. Beatty and H. Lamb. Bert Courtney was unavoidably absent.

The following were elected officers for 1924: T. C. Ivory, Chairman; W. H. Kennedy, Secretary-Treasurer; C. L. Morcombe, Superintendent.

The Secretary-Treasurer reported a substantial surplus on hand, notwithstanding the reduction that was made in 1923 in cost of light and power.

During the year a reduction from five cents to four cents was made in house lighting and from ten cents to eight cents in commercial lighting. The number of subscribers is now about 145.

Line Extended.

Superintendent Morcombe reported that the line had been extended during 1923 to almost the easterly limits of the village, and he was given instructions to make an extension to reach R. H. Johnston, who has made application for lights in house and barn.

A committee was appointed to draft a letter to the Canadian National Railways regarding the lighting of the station at the junction and the station and platform at Sturgeon street.

Bought Timber Lot.

Mr. Elliot of Markham, who operated a saw-mill at Reaboro last winter, has purchased forty acres of standing timber from Mr. George Wilson of Cavan and has many men from this vicinity and surrounding district engaged in cutting telegraph and Hydro poles, lumber and cordwood, which is being hauled to Franklin for shipment. There are nineteen teams employed, each receiving $5.50 per day for man and team. Between twenty and thirty men are employed who receive $2.00 a day and board at the camp, which has been established in Mr. Scott Rutherford's house, bunks having been arranged around the wall for sleeping quarters. Those boarding outside the camp receive $3.00 a day.

A man and his wife are in charge of the house, and have a rather busy time supplying provisions for about twenty men.

Rumors Silenced.

Since the inquest into the death of the Barnardo Home boy, John Payne, the air has now been cleared of all suspicion attached to Mr. and Mrs. Fee, with whom the lad resided, and the citizens in general, although touched by the sad death, can now rest assured that all false accusations have been cleared up and was nothing more than gossip. Among those from a distance who attended the inquest on Monday were: J. B. Smart of Ottawa, Inspector of Junior Immigration; John Hobbday, General Superintendent of the Barnardo Homes, Toronto; Inspector Stannde, Coroner Dr. Clarke and Crown Attorney Anderson of Lindsay; Miss English, court stenographer; Dr Archer of Port Perry, uncle of Mrs. W. Fee; Mrs. Miles of Lindsay, Mrs. Sharpe of Lindsay and some press reporters.

NAILS KEPT CLEAN.

Before doing dirty work around the house, such as oiling floors or cleaning the stove, rub the fingernails over a cake of wet soap and force the soap under the nails. It can be easily removed and will save the appearance of your nails immeasurably.

TROPICAL GRAIN MAY BE NEW SOURCE BREAD

MANILA, Feb. 6.—(Associated Press).—The production of flour out of a grain known as adlay, as a substitute for wheat flour in the tropics, is recommended by officials of the Department of Agriculture. The development of the adlay industry, it is declared, would in a large measure make the Philippines independent of outside sources of flour.

Director of Agriculture Hernandez, in a letter to the Director of Commerce and Industry, points out the possibilities of adlay as a substitute for wheat flour and requests his co-operation in producing adlay on a large scale in the Philippines. Director Hernandez suggests that the Government undertake the milling of adlay, which grows well here, as long as private capital hesitates to invest money in the erection of mills.

THE CROWN LIFE ANNUAL MEETING

Increase in Business During the Last Year.

The annual meeting of the Crown Life Insurance Company was held on Monday, February 4th, at the company's head office at 59 Yonge street. The President, Mr. G. T. Somers, presided and the financial statement was read by the General Manager, Mr. H. R. Stephenson.

Applications for new policies during 1923 totalled $15,123,290, an increase of nearly 50 per cent. over the previous year. Policies were issued to the amount of $13,840,920 and the total insurance in force at December 31st last was $42,175,180, being an increase of $7,715,136 (more than 22 per cent.) during the twelve months.

The assets totalled $5,472,666.94, of which first mortgages on real estate amounted to $2,527,695.21, and on this large amount only $7,311.94 of interest was outstanding. Government and municipal bonds amounted to $1,337,253.07.

The cash premium income was $1,362,378.31 and the cash interest income $337,462.02. The average rate of interest earned was 7.02 per cent.

The sum of $554,098 was added to the policyholders' reserve fund, which now amounts to $4,697,973, in addition to $76,381.90 of allotted surplus. Unallotted surplus stands at $470,277.43. Dividends paid to policyholders were $70,452.52.

The scale of policyholders' dividends has again been raised, the same advance being made as was made a year ago. Profits paid in 1924 will accordingly be 28 per cent. greater than were paid on corresponding policies in 1922.

In moving the adoption of the report, President G. T. Somers said in part: "Our company is growing very rapidly, the net increase of insurance placed on our books during the past five years exceeds by almost 50 per cent. that of the years 1901 to 1918 combined. Lest you should fear that this large amount of new business has been optained at an excessive cost, I hasten to assure you that our expense ratio, which in recent years has been quite low, has again declined and is, in fact, one of the lowest.

"Our assets are well distributed and in excellent condition, and our interest yield is certainly most satisfactory. The ever-increasing returns to policyholders by way of dividends cannot fail to be gratifying to them and helpful to our field force. We are confident of continuing during 1924 the splendid progress reflected in this report."

A PETERBORO BOY IS MAKING GOOD

Dr. R. J. Lang Completes Research on Helium Gas.

The Edmonton Journal of Edmonton, Alberta, in a recent issue, contains a cut of Dr. R. J. Lang of the University of Alberta staff, who has recently completed a research on the production of helium gas, said to exist in small quantities in the Province. Dr. Lang was born and spent much of his early life in Peterborough. He was a son of the late R. J. Lang and a nephew of Mr. Thomas Lang of 544 Elm street. The articles accompanying the cut says:

"Dr. R. J. Lang of the staff of the Physics Department of the University of Alberta has recently completed a course of study and research in he University of Toronto, leading to the degree of Ph.D.

"Part of the research which Dr. Lang has completed was on the production of helium gas. This gas exists in small amounts in most of the natural gas in this Province. During the war period, when the need for such a non-inflammable gas for airships became pressing, Dr. Lang was one of a number of scientists who were appointed by the British Admiralty through Dr. J. C. McLennan, F.R.S., Director of the Physical Laboratory at Toronto, to devise a means of separating the helium from the other gases coming from the natural gas wells. The final process was successfully applied in Calgary where Dr. Lang had charge of the operations during the winter of 1919-20.

"Dr. McLennan and his staff, it will be recalled, liquefied helium gas in Toronto a year ago. Dr. Lang was connected with this work also, having devised the means for the final purification of the helium before liquefaction. The production and liquefaction of helium is of very great scientific importance, for by this means exceedingly low temperatures are reached. The temperature of liquid helium is about 269 degrees below zero Centigrade, or about 452 degrees below zero on the ordinary scale. At such an extreme temperature as this many of the ordinary properties of matter are radically changed, an example of which is that conductors seem to lose practically all of their resistance to the passage of electric currents. These things are, of course, exceedingly important to all scientists.

"Dr. Lang would like to have Alberta's helium supply considered one of the Province's invaluable resources and steps taken to conserve it."

SAVE THE KIDDIES FOR CANADA.

Forty thousand Canadian children die each year under ten, largely due to material ignorance. The greatest ignorance exists in the matter of feeding. Most mothers consult only the child's desires, to their own sorrow and Canada's loss. Most children to-day live upon "Excess Acid" white flour, refined cereals, fats, meats, and white sugar sweets, all lacking in repair substances and alkaline salts. This lack lowers vitality and turns the blood acid. Children so fed are fit subjects for disease germs, always in the air, to fasten upon, multiply themselves by billions, and produce in the child diseases and death. This could not happen to a child fed upon natural alkaline opposite of acid) foods; whole grains, milk, eggs, nuts, beans, peas, leafy vegetables and fruits, honey, and brown sugar sweets. All are the unrefined products of nature and the most important are whole grains. Such a diet is all important in cold weather. It keeps the blood in its natural alkaline state and carries the child through the dangers of winter fortified against disease.

Roman Meal is the only alkaline cereal. It is 400 parts in each 1,000 parts "Excess Alkali;" alkaline enough to correct the acids of "Excess Acid" foods, if used some way once every day with milk. It can be made into delicious porridge, pancakes, pudding, bread and cakes, all of which increase the vital resistance of your child to disease. Your child needs Roman Meal, because it has four times as much bone-forming materials as even milk, essential to well-formed bones and good teeth. At grocers.

DEAF CAN HEAR THROUGH ELBOWS

LONDON, Feb. 6. — (United Press).—The wonder of the otophone have recently been exhibted at the Imperial College of Science here.

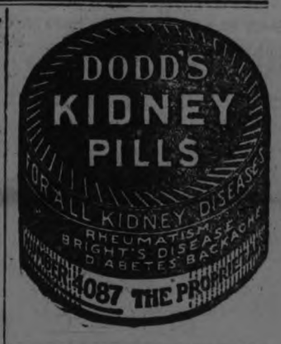
By means of the otophone a deaf person is enable to hear normal sounds transmitted not through the diaphragm of his ears but through the bones of his skull, his elbow joint or the knuckles of his hand straight to the brain.

Professor Low, lecturing at King's College, stated that the British Broadcasing company had said that within 20 days Americans would be able to listen to cocktails being shaken over here, but he prophesied that before 20 years had passed America would be able to see us drink them over here. Wireless vision was very badly wanted; it was not in many ways very far removed from ordinary wireless.

SHOE RETAILERS SELECT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—(Associated Press).—When the members of the National Shoe Retailers' Association meet in convention in Chicago Feb. 11-14, they purpose to stress a program of education.

The argument is advanced that badly shod feet spoil the appearance of a man or woman whose get-up otherwise may be perfect, and that the public should be instructed in what kind of shoes are most appropriate for various and sundry occasions.



WALES SMOKES A "GASPER"

LONDON, Feb. .— (Associated Press).—Attired in flannel trousers, navy blue blazer, soft collar and black tie, the Prince of Wales recently took the leading part in the eighth birthday festival of "Talbot House," opened at Poperinghe during the war for spiritual welfare of young soldiers.

The headquarters of the society is now in the church of All Hallows, Barking, and here is the carpenter's bench used as a communion table in Flanders, from which 30,000 soldiers partook of the sacrament during the war. The prince unveiled and lit the "lamp of remembrance," one of which burns in a shrine at every branch of the brotherhood.

The birthday party was partly informal. The prince and the Duke of Devonshire drank coffee at one of the stalls, smoked "gaspers," and chatted with the soldiers, and there was singing in which the prince joined heartily.

You Can Eat Anything You Like And Not Have HEARTBURN

In all cases of heartburn there is a gnawing and burning pain in the stomach attended by a disturbed appetite, as when too much food is taken into the stomach it is liable to ferment and become extremely sour, vomiting occurs, and what is thrown up is generally sour and bitter. When you are in this condition you will find that Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will give you relief right away.

Mr. Joseph H. MacDonald, Christmas Island, N.S., writes:—"Two years ago I suffered all the time from heartburn. I took one vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and have never been troubled since.

It is very nice to be able to eat anything you like and not have heart burn any more."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

NEW SCHEME TO SEND U.S. NEGROES TO AFRICA

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 6.—(United Press).—The steamer Nile, at one time famous on the Pacific Coast as a China trader, has been bought from a junk company for $80,000 by the Liberian Transportation Company and Church of God line.

The purchase was announced by Rev. J. Eliphalet Lewis, ebon-hued president general of the company, and also bishop of the Ethiopian Promoters of the World.

The Nile will be used in maintaining a direct passenger service between Monrovia, on the west coast of Africa and Los Angeles. She will carry blacks from this country to the negro republic, and return with a cargo of ivory, solid platinum and precious stones.

"The destiny of the black race lies in its people being returned to their homeland. Africa, and the salvation in America will be brought about the Nile and the Church of God line," he said.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

They come in out of the storm.

"Ho, Ho, Missez Cross Patch," said the Riddle Lady next day. "Here is a riddle for you to guess. It's the place where you like to sit and spin. But I never did think you were as selfish as the piece about you says."

"I'm glad you don't," answered Missez Cross Patch gratefully, "for really I just love to have company in to tea. I never drink it up and then ask in the neighbors. But what is the riddle?"

"Here it is!" said the Riddle Lady:

"Crackle! Crackle! What am I?
Winking with my cheery eye,
Beckoning you to come to tea,
And sup with pussy-cat and me.

"Pussy purrs the loveliest tunes
In the winter afternoons.
We don't bother with the weather,
We love so to be together.

"And the kettle—you should hear it!
I just love to be so near it.
Sings away down in his nose.
H'm! H'm! That's how he goes!

"If you come we'll have some toast.
I make that nicely (it's my boast).
As I hiss and spark and sputter,
Will you please spread on the butter?

'Old Jack Frost just cannot bear me,
But I never let him scare me,
As he roars along the street,
Nipping kiddies' hands and feet.

"They come in out of the storm
And run to me to keep them warm.
As I roar and flash and hiss,
They know that it's just a kiss.

"I'm the cook's most trusted friend.
I bake things for her without end.
But the stove's no place for me,
I love the hearth where folk have tea.

"Where pussy purrs and kettle sings,
And people talk of many things,
And kiddies come and warm their toes,
And shake the snowflakes off their clothes.

"I can guess what it is," whispere Humpty Dumpty to Nancy. "But it's a name I don't care to mention. Something that is just as bad for an egg as a stone-wall. In fact when the Riddle Lady mentioned toast I had to groan. For it can poach an egg and put it on toast and boast about it."

"Then it is a fire!" said Nancy. "I thought so."

But she said it loud enough for everybody to hear.

"I was just going to say the answer," spoke up Misesz Cross Patch tartly. "And now you've spoiled my chance for a prize."

But just then she caught the Riddle Lady's eye. "I mean," she corrected herself, "that I' am very glad you guessed the answer."

"That's right," smiled the Riddle Lady. "And I'm going to give you the prize instead of Nancy. It's a nice copper tea-kettle. Now you can have all the tea parties you want, and invite the Twins."

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

EARLY BODY BUILDING

As the twig is bent so is the tree inclined. If babyhood days have been wisely spent in storing up energy and strength, and one has been fortunate enough to have escaped wasting diseases, the baby will come into a childhood legacy of a healthy, properly nourished body.

At the age of six or seven, when the boy or girl begins school life, the regimen of diet is a real problem for the mother to consider it a wise and skilful manner. It is not only the diet itself which should be proper and fitting but the additional health problem is in getting the child to take what is necessary and best for school age strength and bodybuilding.

Eggs offer a wholesome food for children as early as the fourth year. While it is true, according to the best dieticians, that the albuminous elements are rather hard for the youngsters, if the diet is wisely selected, the normal child can safely assimimlate an egg every other day, from four or five, until the age of eight or nine years. Soft boiled or poached eggs are preferable. Fried eggs are easiest to cook but not as good for children's digestive powers. Avoid them and fried potatoes, also. At the age of nine, an egg a day is just as essential as an apple a day in good body building elements.

If a boy or girl of beginning school age is anaemic or finicky, you have a real problem on your hands. But where there's a will there's a way. Don't ever try to scold or drive a child to eat something it doesn't want. Always try to persuade by example and any other helpful method, but don't try to force the issue.

Milk three times a day, any way they like it. Its building qualities are strong, and bone and muscle are things to be sought in childhood. The cereals are body building foods and any normal child prefers them if properly offered and temptingly se rved.

Meats are much better for early body building if carefully served in connection with nutritious vegetables. There are many tempting dishes of such mixtures that children prefer rather than highly seasoned foods or over-indulgence in sweets.

AFTER A TIGER.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Hoping she may add a tiger to the wild animals she has shot, Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, authoress, has proceeded to India. She already has shot an elk, antelope, moose and a bear in her native America.

Clavering and Mary walked to another gorge he knew of and sat for hours among boulders and ferns on the brink of the stream, and surrounded by the maples with their quietly rustling leaves.

When they returned, Miss Darling, attired in ferns, was executing what she called the wood-nymph's dance, and Todd and Minor were capering about her making horrible faces and pretending to be satyrs. The rest were keeping time with hands and feet. All had agreed that not a letter nor a newspaper should be brought to the camp during their eight days' absence from civilization. Freedom should be complete. It seemed to Clavering that the expression of every fate had changed. They all wore the somewhat fixed and dreamy look one unconsciously assumes "in the woods." It was only a few moments before the onlookers had joined hands and were dancing around the central figures; chanting softly; closing in on them; retreating; turning suddenly to dance with one another . . . but with a curious restraint as if they were reviving some old classic of the forest and were afraid of abandonment. Only Mr. Dinwiddie, a smile half-puzzled, half-cynical, in his eyes, remained a spectator. They swayed rhythmically, like tides, the chanting was very low and measured, the faces rapt. Even Todd and Minor looked exalted. Impossible to imagine they had ever been Sophisticates. They were creatures of the woods, renegades for a time, perhaps, but the woods had claimed them.

Then Mr. Dinwiddie did an impish thing. He inserted a disk in the victrola, and at once they began to jazz, hardly conscious of the transition.

LIII.

At nine o'clock the moon was on the lake, and several couples, announcing their need of exercise, went out in boats.

Clavering rowed with long swift strokes until the others were far behind. Mary, muffled in a warm white coat and with a scarf twisted round her head like an Oriental turban, lay on a pile of cushions in the bottom of the boat, her head against the seat. She had the sensation of floating in space. From the middle of the lake the forest on every side was a mass of shadows, and nothing was visible but that high vast firmament sprinkled with silver—silver dust scattered by the arrogant moon. The great silver disk, which, Mary murmured, looked like the tomb of dead gods, seemed to challenge mortals as well as planets to deny that he was lord of all, and that every human emotions must dwindle under his splendor.

"The moon is so impersonal," she sighed. "I wonder why the poets have made so much of it? I'm sure it cares nothing about lovers—less about poets—and thinks the old days, when the world was a heaving splitting chaos, and glaciers were tearing what was already made of it to bits, were castly superior to the finished perfection of form today. Like all old things. If it has the gods in there, no doubt it wakes them up periodically to remind them how much better things were in their time. Myself, I prefer the sun. It is far more glamoring."

"That is because you don't look it in the eye," said Clavering, smiling down on her. "You really don't know it half as well, and endow it with all sorts of mysterious attributes. I think I prefer the moon, because it is inimitable. You can counterfeit the light and warmth and heat of the sun, and even its color. But silver is used to describe the complexion of the moon only for wont of a better word. It is neither silver nor white, but is the result of some mysterious alchemy known only to itself. And its temperature does not affect our bodies at all. You cannot deny that it has exercised a most beneficent effect on the spirits of lovers and poets for all the centuries we know of. Every pair of lovers has some cherished memories of moonlight, and poets would probably have starved without its aid. It is a most benevolent old god, and the one thing connected with Earth that doesn't mind working overtime."

"I'm sure it must be frayed at the edges and hollow at the core. And when it is in the three-quarters it looks exactly like a fish that has lost its platter."

"If you continue to insult the moon, I shall take you back to camp and ask Minor to teach you how to jazz."

"I love the moon," said Mary contentedly, and pushing a cushion between her head and the sharp edge of the seat, "I'd like to stay out all night."

They continued to talk nonsense for a while and then fell silent When the boat was almost at the head of the lake Clavering turned it into a long water lane where the maples met overhead and the low soft leaves kept up a continual whispering. It was as dark as a tunnel, but he knew every inch of the way and presently shot out into another lake, small enough for its shores to be sharply outlined under the full light of the moon, which appeared to have poised itself directly overhead.

Here it was less silent than on the larger lake. There was a chorus of frogs among the lily pads, an owl hooted wistfully in the forest, and they heard an angry snort from the underbrush, followed by a trampling retreat.

"I fancy if we had lingered quietly in that passage we should have seen deer drinking from that patch of sward over there," said Clavering. "But I was not thinking of deer."

"What were you thinking of?"

"Why—you—in a way, I suppose. If I was thinking at all. I was merely filled with a vast content. God! I have found more than I ever dreamed any man could imagine he wanted. Vastly more than any man's deserts. It is an astonishing thing for a man to be able to say."

Mary sat up suddenly. "Be careful. A little superstition is a good thing to keep in one's bag of precautions."
